On a corner of the Avenue Francisco Madero ,almost opposite the shell of what was to have been the National Theatre of Mexico, there stands nightly a boy in his early 'teens. He was born without eyes and is half idiot. From the moment the night crowds begin to parade until the capital goes to sleep, this child stands there, blowing into a tin fife ,and now and then a stranger drops a centavo into the little cup that hangs from his ragged jacket. At the same time, sometimes in the Alameda, and at other times in the square that faces the National Palace, a crowd is always seen grouped about another boy, who was born with withered feet and without arms. This boy has been taught to thread a needle with his teeth and to blow beans through a blowpipe at a little target a few feet away. All day long he does this, while his "manager" takes in the pennies that are now and then thrown to him by the people.

Beggars of the Capital.

These two incidents are cited because it is probabe that there is no person who has recently visited Mexico but who will recognize the cases. They stand out above all the others. But they are only two among countless other cases. Day and night the beggars, at least 50 per cent. of them, ragged little children, roam the streets. They enter the hotel lobbies, stand in front of the churches and theatres, and the cry of "Centavita!" never ends.

It is said that not one in a hundred of these unfortunates of Mexico can read or write a word. It is doubtful if a large portion of them know their own names. Under Carranza they were left to their fate. Nobody apparenty cared a whit whether they lived or died. General Obregon has said he intends to correct the horrible conditions and those who know him assert that he will keep his word. Mexicans of the highest standing have told the writer that these conditions developed during the graft-ridden regime of Carranza.

"Under Carranza," said a well-informed American resident of Mexico City, "the unfortunate were left to their fate, schools almost ceased to exist and sanitation became practically a lost art.

"Under Carranza not only were these tens of thousands of unfortunate peope neglected, but in numberless cases their very misfortunes were exploited. An illustration of this exploitation is supplied by the much advertised earthquake in Puebia last year."

This information came from an official American source. The Carranza Government caused it to be advertised far and near that a great disaster had happened in Puebia. It was asserted that the loss of life had been appalling and that the damage to property was in proportion. Thousands of dollars were contributed for the relief of sufferers. The truth was that there was very little loss of life and the property damaged was insignificant. This proved to be the case when a fund of $40,000 which had been contributed largely by Americans interested in Mexico was ready to be turned over to the survivors of the "great" earthquake. Word that conditions were not as paint ed came to the American authorities and a committee was sent to the scene of the disaster to investigate. Instead of finding that there had been great loss of life or damage to property, the committee found that very little damage had been done and that only a few persons had lost their lives.

But they did find Candido Aguilar, the son-in-aw of Carranza and afterward Governor of Vera Cruz, on the scene. Aguilar and some friends were there to supervise the relief work. The money was returned to the donors.

Carranza as Executioner.

Furthermore under Carranza there were more people executed in a little less than four years than were executed during all the years that Porfirio Diaz reigned in Chapultepec Palace. They were shot and when the firing squad was not available they were hung. An American in Mexico City, who is admittedly one of the best posted men in Mexico on conditions as they existed during the regime of Carranza, told the writer of scores of executions, a vast number of them for alleged political offenses.

"One of the strange things concerning recent events in Mexico," said the American, "is the fact that Carranza the 'killer' was unknown in the United States and yet he was the greatest 'killer' Mexico has ever known. Ask any man who has traveled much in Mexico these last four years about the bodies hanging from telegraph poles or by twos and threes and sometimes in much greater numbers from trees and you will readily appreciate what I mean when I say that Carranza killed more Mexicans than any other man ever did in all the history of the country. That is the real reason why he died unmourned and unregretted except by a few who had grown rich in his service."

A short time after this conversation the correspondent visited one of the Cabinet Ministers of the De La Huerta Government. He noted that among the pictures of famous Mexicans that adorned the beautiful reception room there was none of the late First Chief.

"Carranza's picture," said the Minister, "has been removed from all the Government offices and buildings and it shall never be rehung in any of them."

The portraits of Hidalgo, Morelos, Juarez, Matamoras, Madero and other national heroes remain in place in the Nationa Palace and at Chapultepec and everywhere else in official Mexico. Those of Carranza are in the scrap heap.

NEW CENT PIECES MAKE APPEARANCE

Are Much Smaller Than Present Canadian One-Cent Coins.

The new Canadian one-cent coin have made their initial appearance in Peterboro. They are much smaller than the cent pieces now in use, being only slightly larger and thicker than the United States cent and somewhat larger still than the Canadian ten-cent piece. The new coins are noticeably lighter than the old-fashioned cents due not only to the reduction in size but also to a fractional variation in the copper content in the alloy of which they are composed.

WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she would not be without them. They are the ideal home remedy for the baby; being guaranteed to be absolutely free from opiates or other harmful drugs. They are a gentle but thorough laxative and have been proved of the greatest aid in cases of constipation, indigestion, colic, colds and simple fevers. Concerning them Mrs. Ernest Gagne, Beausejour, Que., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for contipation and colic and have found them so successful that I would not be without them. I would strongly recommend every mother to keep a box in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Wiliams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PRESIDENT WILSON NOT AN INVALID

PHYSICALLY AND MENTALLY AS SOUND A MAN AS EVER HE WAS.

"During the three hours I spent with the President I saw him transact the important functions of his office with his old-time decisiveness, method and keeness of intellectual appraisement. I heard him dictate his decisions on matters of great Government importance with a facility of expression and directness of meaning that indicated no impairment of the efficient mental machine that has known only the hardest kind of work for forty years.

"I talked with him for upward of an hour in which we discussed a wide range of subjects and concerning which he expressed himself not only with characteristic Wilsonian vigorfi, but established the even more gratifying survival of the saving sense of humor.

"I saw him walk from on eapartment to another on Tuesday and on Wednesday, accompanied as he walked with no more help than a caue, none too stout, from the elevator of the White House to his motor car. The cane upon which his right hand found support was the sort of stick he used to thrash through the turnip patches when he was President of Princeton.

"His use of it on Wednesday accentuated the heritage of his long illness, yet the halting movement of the motor agencies of his left leg impressed me as being far less pronounced than that which accompanies the movements of General Leonard Wood. There was no dragging on the left foot, as there would be if the President's left leg were completely paralyzed. There was a tendency to lift it a trifle higher and in advance of the sturdy right limb. In appearance the President seemed much the same as on his return from Paris. He has gained more than 20 pounds in weight during the last two months."

LOW-PRICED STRAWBERRIES PREDICTED THIS SEASON

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., June 19. —More cheering news has come with reference to strawberry prices on the local market. It is said that berry boxes are so scarce that it will be impossible to ship many of the berries away this year, and the canning factories will not be taking the usual quantities because of the high price of sugar. Optimists here predict very low-priced berries for the local consumer. Pickers are very scarce, too.

"I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Isaac Benvenisto, 705 3d. Ave., Seattle, Wash., Jan. 28, 1919.

A SYMPATHETIC STRIKE?

There are rumors that the employees of the Hydro Electric Commission at the power houses at Niagara Falls propose to go out on strike in sympathy with the workers on the Chippewa development scheme. It is to be hoped that these reports are unfounded. Labour leaders would be badly advised to allow these workers to quit their jobs for undoubtedly public sympathy which is at best lukewarm towards the Chippewa strike would be completely alienated by a walkout of the power house employees. The effect of such a sympathetic strike would be wide spread and disastrous and no class in the community would resent the action of the power generation and transmission employees more bitterly than the thousands of workers in the industries of the province who would be thrown out of employment as a result. Hundreds of factories are dependent upon the Hydro Eelectric System for their power, and anything that threatens to interfere with the supply of electrical energy is a menace to a large section of the province. The public temper should not be too severely tried for the people are growing tired of strikes and walkouts with their resultant loss in production and increase in the cost of living.

GOVERNMENT RESPONSIBILITY.

There are unquestionably good reasons for the legislation introduced into the House of Commons the other day to authorize the Government to regulate by license the export of any commodity manufactured or produced in Canada. The newsprint situation is one reason that readily suggests itself. No fewer than twenty-seven Canadian newspapers are at present in danger of being driven out of business because they cannot secure enough newsprint for their needs although it is manufactured in this country from the pulpwood of the Canadian forests. The legislation referred to would give the Government the necessary authority to deal with the situation and to take action in other similar cases where Canadians are suffering through the export of articles the demand for which at home cannot be satisfied.

These powers are so unusual that the responsibility for their being carried out should be assumed by the Government which at present seems inclined to play its favourable game at "pasing the buck" by relegating the powers conferred by the bill to Government officials. There is too much involved in the principle of this legislation to allow its execution to be left in the hands of officials. The responsiblity should be fully assumed by the Government itself in order that Parliament may be able to exercise its jurisdiction over the carrying out of the measure.

THE WHITE COLLAR BOY.

One of the new political parties springing up on the other side of the line intends to make a special appeal to the "white collar boys." The white collar boy, we presume, is the salaried man employed at clerical work in banks, shops and offices, and, gen, erally speaking, the man who neither toils on the land nor hardens his hands by following some trade. This class might also include the clergymen, who find it so difficult to make ends meet, and the lawyers, who have so mismenaged their profession that litigation is drying up and the former functions of the courts are being assigned to administrative boards and tribunals of arbitration. It will not include the doctors, who have the most rigid trade union in the world.

The announcement that somebody is going to appeal to him for support must be gratifying to the white collar boys, who, in the national drama up to date has invariably been assigned to the role of the goat. He is sometimes jocosely referred to as the "plain citizen," or the "ultimate consumer," and he clings to the fiction that he belongs to the middle class. This fiction dies hard, but it becomes increasingly difficult for the dust-covered pedestrian on the sidewalk to look down upon the man in the passing automobile.

Just how a political party representing a farmers' league and organized labour expects to make an appeal to the white collar boy has not yet been explained. The farmer naturally wants a good price for what he produces, and the wage earner high wages for his toil. They may, of course, do something with the middle man, but it is largely the middle man to whom the white collar boy must look for employment. The white collar boy may be told to learn a trade, but he will find that many of the trades are close corporations and rigidly restrict the number of apprentices. He may be told to "go on the land," that favoured prescription for all our social ills; but he must not go upon anybody else's land, and he probably has none of his own.

Heretofore the politician has been able to get along by proclaiming himself the friend of the farmer and the friend of the labouring man. Now he may have to take in more territory and become the friend of the white collar boy.—Toronto World.

THE STAMP SYSTEM.

The announcement that the present method of collecting "luxury taxes" is to be scrapped and that, instead, the collection of the taxes by means of revenue stamps is to be substituted, will be received with much satisfaction by the merchants throughout Canada. The method first suggested is described as "difficult, cumbersome and costly," and, judging by their experience in the short time it has been in operation, the retailers will agree that this language is none too strong. To the Government officials too the change in the system will be a relief, for it will do away with the troublesome collection of vouchers and other red tape details that would have necessitated a much larger staff.

The stamp system will go into effect about the beginning of next month, by which time it is expected that the stamps will be available. In the meantime the merchants will have to carry on under the first instructions by issuing a bill of sale to each customer, showing the amount of the tax and by sending duplicates of such bills to the proper officials.

It is unfortunate that Sir Henry Drayton did not realize the superiority of the stamp method of collection before he brought down his Budget. Had he done so, much of the present annoyance and confusion would have been avoided.

NATURAL GAS STRUCK SEVEN MILES FROM OTTAWA

OTTAWA, June 19.—There is great excitment in the Ramsayville district, seven miles from Ottawa, over the discovery of natural gas, which was made on the farm of Mr. D. J. Wallace, who was sinking a well for water.

At a depth of 120 feet, a pocket or vein of gas was struck. The roar as it entered the four-inch pipe could be heard for almost a quarter of a mile. A light way set to the escaping gas and a flame shot up six feet. A wooden cap was put on the pipe, but the force of the gas blew it out and up about 40 feet, but later a cap was successfully paced. Whether the flow will be permanent, remains to be seen.

MITCHELL RETURNS FROM SMALL HUNT

He Has Nothing Tangible, Though Search Not Fruitless.

TORONTO, June 19.—Detective-Sergt. Austin Mitchell is back from New York, where he has been investigating information regarding the inexplicable disappearance of Ambrose J. Small. According to police authority, Mitchell's visit to Gotham has not been fruitless, but he has repudiated persistent rumor by returning without a prisoner.

Both Detective Mitchell and Inspector of Detectives Guthrie were very reticent regardin g the hunt through Gotham's haunts. Detective Mitchell praised the able assistance rendered him by the New York Police Department, under Inspector Croy. The department had given valuable aid and prosecuted every channel of information with the utmost diligence.

It is understood that the Small Estate Committee will again confer with Official Referee Cameron regarding further efforts to be made to find Small and John Doughty.

INSPECTOR WILL LEAVE PETERBORO

PLUMBING INSPECTOR THOMPSON GOING AWAY.

Mr. Peter Thompson, who for the past fifteen years has been plumbing inspector of the city, leaves with his family on the first of the month for Cleveland, to take up residence in the American city. Mr. Thompson has three sons in Cleveland, and several daughters, and he is looking forward eagerly to his removal to where his boys are. Both have been very successful. One of his sons, James, is connected with the motion picture industry, running a motion picture exchange, while the other one, Lewis, manages two of the largest theatres in the city. The youngest son is attending the Dental College at Cleveland. Stanley, better known as "Raffles," is in the States now—his father does not know just where.

Peter Thompson managed Adam Hall's store here for many years. He came to the city 29 years ago. He was severely injured in Ackerman's 15 years ago, his injuries resulting in the amputation of his left leg. Although incapacitated to this extent, he has always carried on his duties faithfully, and in his many years of public service he has made many friends, who, although they will regret to see him leave Peterborough, will be happy to know that he will be with his sons and daughters in Cleveland. Although he is 71 years of age, he is hale and hearty yet, and expects to do a good day's work for a long time to come.

ASHANTI BRAVES THOROUGHLY TAMED

BESIEGERS OF COOMASSIE NO LONGER RANK AS FRIGHTFUL,

LONDON.—Marjorie and Alan Letheridge, the special correspondents of the Daily Telegraph, in West Africa, write as follows from Moomassie, capital of the British Colony of Ashantiland:

At the present day Coomassie looks more like an Indian town than any other on the coast, and it is the pride of its residents that socially it is also like India. There are real grass tennis courts, a real regimental band, and, before the war the best polo team in the colony. Such it is to-day, and yet, only twenty years ago, the quaint little fort in the centre of the town was the scene of one of the grimmest sieges of Britain's many frontier wars.

Only the fact that all eyes were turned on South Africa at that time prevented the siege of Coomassie from taking its proper place in history. But we who have experienced the inconveniences and discomforts of trekking "de luxe," and who know how much is needful in this part of the world to make life even bearable, can appreciate somewhat the sufferings borne by the defenders of the fort and the agonizing suspense that they endured until they heard the first shots of the relieving force.

No Longer Rank Among Brave.

The chief commissioner of Ashanti now lives in the fort which gave its meager protection to Capt. Bishop, Lieutenant Ralph and Dr. Hay, with their 125 soldiers, during those interminable weeks. One now has an evening gin and bitters on the very spot from which those three officers could see the fires of burning villages and hear the wailing of starving women and children. The Ashantis themselves seem to have shot their last bolt in the way of "frightfulness," however, and no longer rank among the brave tribes of the colony. Only one trace of the romance of the past remains.

Where is the golden stool of Ashanti? It disappeared in 1896 and has never been seen since. On it the Ashanti chiefs had sat and dispensed their own peculiar form of justice from the earliest days and, as far as is known, it is still concealed in the innermost recesses of their land. But it would be a brave European who openly attempted to track it to its hiding place, and there is just a possibility that it has been privately told during a period of financial stress.

King Robbed Bodies of Ancestors.

Kofe Karikari, the King of Ashanti in 1873, behaved in an even more sacreligious manner. He secretly opened the mausoleum of his ancestors and robbed their bodies of the golden ornaments without which no Ashanti of any means is ever lowered into the tomb.

It would never have been discovered had not the lynx eyes of the queen-mother observed that the favourite wives of the King were inexplicably wearing rings and bracelets of antique workmanship. A little investigation, and she denounced him publicly.

An admission of his guilt was the only thing left for King Kofe. He had sold the major portion of his plunder, so he magniloquently informed his chiefs that he intended to blow himself and them up with gunpowder in order to obliterate his shame. "We are quite ready to die as you request," was their reply "but blow yourself up first." It is perhaps superfluous to add that King Kofe did nothing of the sort.

FORCED TO ATTIRE HERSELF AS MAN

NEW YORK, June 19—With her blonde hair closely croped and attired in male clothing, Mrs Ivy Nasur twenty-one-year mother of a five-year old boy, of Columbus, Ohio, defended herself before Magistrate Tobias in the Yorkville Court against a charge of masquerading.

She declared it was necessary for her to pose as a male in order to get any work. She told the police her husband lived in Detroit, and that she left in taking her child along with her. Sne found difficulty, she said, in obtaining work as a woman, so she was forced to attire herself as a man.

An entry in a diary found on the young woman said:

"I have traveled now 735 miles in twelve days in man's clothes, with only ten cents in my pocket."

Under date of February 26 she wrote: "I worked as a bell boy at Statler. Hotel, Buffalo."

The young wonan said she also worked as a waiter in a circus.

PARIS, June 19.—Walking on one's toes five minutes every day is the surest method of preserving one's health, according to Dr. Gautiez, member of the Academy of Science and expert on tuberculosis.

Dr. Gautiez asserted that when the weight of the body is borne by the toes pulmonary ventilation is increased 17 per cent, breathing is improved 14 per cent., and a far better distributio of the oxygen in the system is assured.

Dr. Gautiez has submitted radio photos to the Academy of Science in blonde hair closely cropped and attracting wide attention.

A Suggestion for Saving

CASH in the pocket encourages careless spending.

You will find it a much easier task to save if you keep your "Spending" money in a Savings Account with The Bank of Toronto. There it is safe and can be drawn upon when really needed.

A reluctance to draw from that account will grow upon you, and protect you from many needless expenditures.

Once the saving habit is acquired, the account, with its earnings of interest, will steadily grow to a substantial amount.

Many young men and women are working out this scheme with us to advantage.

ARE ARRESTED AT DEATH BED BY A MISTAKE

Number of Their Car Given to Police as That of Stolen One.

HAMILTON, June 17.—David Fonger, a member of Loma's Orchestra, and his nephew, while at the deathbed of Mr. Fonger's sister, were arrested by a constable and taken to the police cells, where they were held for a couple of hours. The officer saw their car standing outside the City Hospital, and as the number it bore had been given to the police as the number of a car used by auto bandits, the officer arrested the pair. It was afterwards discovered that a mistake had been made, and now Mr. Fonger threatens to sue the police for damages.

FRENCH WAR NURSE IS IN AMERICA TO SEE "HER BOYS"

NEW YORK, June 17.—Determined to see every one of the American soldiers—officers and privates—whom she nursed while a member of the French Red Cross, Mme. Henri Ragui, who wears a decoration bestowed by the French Government, arrived in New York today on the French liner Leopoldina.

"They are my boys—every one of them," she told newspaper men, "and I am going to see them all. I know that I shall have to travel all the way across the continent, and I know that America is a very large place, but I do not care."

"See," and here she displayed a notebook. "In here I have the names and addresses of more than 100. They were my boys over there and they are my boys here."

SERIOUS CROSSING ACCIDENT.

WOODSTOCK, June 17. — Mrs. Samuel Lemp, residing on the 10th concession of East Zorra, near Tavistock, received injuries which may prove fatal when the buggy in which she was driving was struck by a Grand Trunk passenger train at a level crossing just outside the village. The buggy was smashed, and the horse was so badly injured that it died shortly afterwards. Mrs. Lemp was thrown across the fence into a nearby field. She is suffering chiefly from shock.

VILLA'S EXCUSE IS THAT HE WAS ROBBED OF LAND

CITY OF MEXICO.—Many stories of the origin of Francisco Villa have been told. Each has offered an explanation for his taking up the life of a bandit and outlaw. They have ranged from a statement that his sister was offered violence by a young caballero of Chihuahua, which is Villa's native state, to the more prosaic suggestion that he was a natural-born tough. But I believe that the story which here follows is the only accurate one. It has never before been published.

That it shows Villa as a man who had been greatly wronged in his youth should not be permitted to divert the reader's attention from the fact that he is to-day a ruffian and murderer, from whom no woman is safe and who kills for no other cause than bad temper. He is feared and loathed by most Mexicans. Even in Chihuahua, where he once numbered his followers by the thousand, it is said that the series of crimes for which he is responsible has caused him to be hated. But the story likewise casts a lurid light upon the conditions in Mexico which brought about the Madero revolution, and the attitude which many of the leading families of Mexico held toward the poor devil of a peon.

"I knew Pablo Villa 12 or 14 years ago," said one of the largest mine owners in Mexico. "He worked for me at that time."

I am withholding this gentleman's name for reasons of my own. I can say, however, that he is of foreign birth and is of deservedly high standing in the foreign colony here. He has not seen Villa since the latter became a bandit, but he is certain that the robber of to-day and the guide and horseman of 14 years ago are the same. A number of minor details have convinced him.

He Was Honest, Then.

"I had a great deal of travelling to do in the back blocks," said he. "I frequently employed a man named Pablo or Francisco Villa as a guide and assistant. He was not only the most intelligent Mexican I have ever known, but he was absolutely honest. I have trusted him time after time with considerable sums of money. Because when we were out in the country I treated him as an equal he became very fond of me. I liked him, but I was puzzled by the hatred he showed for all wealthy men. When he spoke of the rich his expresssion became almost fiendish. Eventually I got on sufficiently good terms with him to learn his story."

I shall tell it just as the old mine owner told it to me.

"Villa's great-grandfather settled on a hacienda in the State of Chihuahua," said he. "It remained in the possession of the Villa family until after Francisco was a young man. The Villa family enjoyed a considerable measure of prosperity. None of them were educated, for there was even more illiteracy in Mexico then than there is now, but the clan was one of the leading families in their section of the state. They owned rather a large herd of cattle."

At the time the French invaded Mexico President Grant intervened. In the end he notified the intruders to leave, threatening to send the American army against them if they did not. They had already found their position untenable and agreed to go. Those in the State of Chihuahua began a slow march toward the sea.

"Then," according to Villa's story "Luis Terraza, who is still living in exile in California, at the age of ninety-odd, and who is head of the immensely wealthy Terraza family of Chihuahua, picked up a guerilla force and began to harry the retreating French. Every straggler was cut off and killed. The people of the country joined Terraza, and by the time the French reached a place of comparative safety he had about 2,000 under his nominal command. At no time did he give battle to the French, but contented himself with cutting off the small bodies left behind as a rearguard some thirty years later, however, after the country had reached a condition of comparative peace, he claimed a reward from the Republic of Mexico, contending that he had driven the French from Chihuahua. This was not true. He had merely hung upon their flanks with his irregulars after they obeyed the behest of President Grant."

Terraza Claimed a Reward.

Profirio Diaz was then president of Mexico. He granted Luis Terraza an immense quantity of land—the Terraza family now has title to 32,000,000 acres in Chihuahua, although they have not ben able to occupy it lately—and at Terraza's request permitted him to select the blocks he desired. Terraza knew the state like a book and took the best. At that time land was of no real value in Mexico. One of the blocks that Terraza selected contained in its centre the modest hacienda of the Villa family. Terraza set up his monuments and filed his deeds, but did not make this action public. The Vilas did not know that their possession of the home they had held for three generations was imperilled.

"After my father's death," said Villa to the gentleman quoted, "Terraza claimed the block in which our property was located and drove us off. I appealed to President Diaz, but he replied to me that unless I could produce the deeds to our estate he could do nothing to help me. I had never seen any deeds. I did not even know that deeds existed, but I returned to Chihuahua and went to the capital to search for them among the records. By one of the odd coincidences that sometimes favored Don Luis Terraza the hall containing the records was burned before I reached the state. By another odd coincidence Terraza had withdrawn his deeds and they were safe in the possession of his lawyer. I went back to Diaz, this time taking with me old men of the country, who knew of our possession of our land through three—now four—generations.

"I can do nothing for you unless you show me the deeds,' said Diaz."

Villa returned to his state, and his friends then suggested to him that he drive his own cattle off the range he had lost. "I had not even thought of the cattle," said Villa, "in my grief at losing my home." He hired twenty men and rounded up the cattle. But at the edge of the Terraza grant he was met by a force of Rurales and a body of Terraza's armed peons. The cattle were seized and Villa was arrested on the charge that he had stolen Terraza's stock. The twenty men he had hired were let go, for Villa assumed the whole responsibility.

"They knew nothing," said he. "I hired them."

Villa Sent to Prison.

Villa was sentenced to seven years in prison. In those days criminals might obtain a reduction of half their terms in prison by joining the army. Villa joined and only served three and one-half years, during which time he had certain privileges as a soldier, such as being out of barracks two nights a week and a certain liberty during the day. He thoroughly learned the trade of soldier, as the Terraza family was to learn later.

"I swore," said he, "that Don Luis Terraza should work for his bread as I did."

When the unsettlement of political conditions due to such treatment of the peons as Villa alleges the Terraza family had given him made it possible, Villa raised an outlaw band and began to harass Chihuahua landowners. He joined the Madero revolution and his subsequent career is fairly well known. He drove the Terrazas away from their 32,000,000 acres of land, and even to-day no Terrarza dare show his face in Chihuahua on pain of death, although his family has regained possession of some of their city properties. He held one son of the Terraza family for a huge ransom and the father paid it because he knew his son would be killed if the money were not produced. The death of at least one ot the Terraza sons is attributable to Villa. His ability to hide in the state of Chihuahua to-day is largely due to the sympathy the peons have for him, as a victim of the hated Terrazas.

Such is the story of Francisco Villa, as told years ago before he might have left the neeed to xcuse his crimes. It is borne out in some respects by the known facts, and it is certain that the Terraza family treated their peons in the unjust fashion that was the custom with large Mexican land owners until the Maderos freed their slaves and the revolution followed. I do not vouch for it. It is Francisco Villa's story.

GIRL SHOT THROUGH BODY, GUN WASN'T LOADED

QUEBEC, June 17.— Juliette Labonte, aged 17 years, of Levis, is lying at the Hotel Dieu Hospital in a critical condition as a result of having been shot through the body on Saturday afternoon.

The young girl was on her way to a circus with her sister and another girl friend, when they met Jean Charles Lacroix of Blenville. They stopped to chat for a while, and Lacroix exhibited a revolver. One of the girls remarked that it was dangerous, but the young man contended that the gun was not loaded, and he began pressing the trigger. There was a cartridge in the revolver and it went off, the bullet striking the young girl in the abdomen. Lacroix was arrested by Police Chief Marsan of Levis.

"Work hard and live safe and sane life.

"Early to bed and early to rise.

"Don't gossip. If you don't know anything good about a person, don't say anything at all."

WILL CARRY FREIGHT.

Canadian Government Will Place Seven Ships on Run.

Canadian Press:

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 19. — Official announcement that the Canadian Government will break into the freight-carrying trade between this port, the Far East and India within the next three months, September at the latest, is made by B. C. Keeley, general agent for the Canadian Government Merchant Marine on this coast. Seven ships will be placed on this run, and it is planned to maintain a monthly service out of this port.

"We are only waiting for the tonnage to open up this raw trade route," Mr. Keeley said. "Our plans are all laid and we expect to carry on an enormous trade with the Far East and India. With our line to Australia now fully established and the Oriental and Indian service in sight, we will be a big factor in the foreign trade out of this port."

LIFEBOAT RESCUES CANOEISTS

TORONTO, June 15. — Buffeted about by an ill wind which prevented it reaching the shore, a canoe containing G F. Sullivan, Joseph Robertson and F. The life saving crew was returning from an inspection trip around the bay when it came upon the canoe drifting aimlessly about.

437 GEORGE STREET

PETERBORO RESIDENT REACHES HIS NINETY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

MR. JOHN M'CAULEY CAME TO PETERBORO SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO—A PEEP INTO THE PAST.

"Temperance and lots of hard work never killed anyone," Mr. John McCauley, 39 London street, told The Examiner this morning when asked what means he had used in attaining his 97th birthday, which he celebrated recently.

Born in Keene, in 1823, Mr. McCauley came to Peterboro in 1835, when the city had not even attained the dignity of being called a hamlet but consisted of a few scattered log huts, when the inhabitants depended for spiritual comfort upon the occasional visit of a missionary who held service in a house, and when deer and bears were much more frequent visitors than neighobrs, and the nights were made hideous by the howling of not far distant wolves.

Harking back to the early days, Mr. McCauley recalled the happy times when whiskey of the best grade sold at 5 cents a pint. In those days all the settlers gathered periodically at Boswell's brewery and every one went home happy, very little behind in cash. "I," Mr. McCauley said, was one of the few who didn't care for liquor and I have outlived them all."

Mr. Dumble's Land.

Speaking of the rise in land values in the city within his memory, Mr. McCauley recalled the time when Magistrate D. W. Dumble, then a young lawyer, offered him three or four acres of land with a very good house which Mr. Dumble had built on the corner about where Mr. Vincent Eastwood's house now stands for $500. But I did not want it," Mr. McCauley said. "If I had taken it I would have been a rich man to-day."

He also recalled the days when the site of the Canadian General Electric Works was a swamp on which he and his friends used to sail for hours. George street was an almost impassable swamp until with the removal of the growth of cedars and drainage it became hardened up.

A Long Living Race.

To-day when within three years of being a centennarian Mr. McCauley still tends his garden, which is one of the best in the city, and he is justly proud of his attainments as a gardener. He stated that he comes of a long living Irish race, his grandfather having reached the age of 115 years, and his grandmother 105. His father had no chance of proving his ability to make a record in long life having been frozen to death on Rice Lake when a young man.

ON THE LEPER COLONY "KOENDOER"

NEAR PALEMBANG, SUMATRA, DUTCH EAST INDIES.

(By CAPTAIN J. BEFRING.)

The terrible disease known as Leprosy prevails to an alarming degree on the Island of Sumatra as well as on the other islands round about. It is touching and heart-rending beyond measure to hear of the various means resorted to by different races of natives in their endeavours to prevent the further spread of this loathsome sickness.

The Batakkers, that is the native people who occupy the Highlands of Central Sumatra, who until a few years ago were cannibals applied such drastic measures that the very thought of them makes one shudder.

As soon as a member of their race was discovered to be suffering from leprosy the unfortunate one was locked up in his own dwelling and then the house was set on fire so that the leper with all that he possessed was burnt to ashes.

Threw Them in Sea

On the island of Sanka which lies on the South East of Sumatra the natives took their lepers on board of one of their native prauws (boats) and rowed them well out to sea and then threw them overboard to perish neath the waves of the ocean.

In the district of Palembang in the South of Sumatra the natives show a little more human feeling, though there the treatment meted out to the people of thrir tribe who become lepers is far from being free from cruelty or suffering.

Here if one shows signs of leprosy he is driven from his hut in the native village and hunted into the vast margin forest which covers so much of this great island. There he must live as best he can on the wild fruits, herbs or roots which he can find. For a time until the disease has made him weak or has completely eaten away his hands and feet, he may be able to clear a small patch of the dense bush and grow such food as will keep him alive.

Slowly however, his strength must give way and the end which he saw from the first surely overtake him, and so he dies of starvation and in great loneliness.

The Government a few years ago found on enquiry into the condition of the lepers in this district that there were at least eight hundred poor wretstes suffering and hoping for a speedy end in the forests around Palembang.

A few of the leading Europeans of the little town which is the centre of the district moved with compassion towards the sufferers formed a committee to take up their cause and bring some relief to them.

Leper Colony.

A sum of money was raised and the Government granted a piece of ground on an island which lies in the midst of and near to the mouth of the River Mossi.

Then these gentlemen appealed to the Salvation Army to undertake the erection and management of a Leper Colony on this island.

Arrangements were completed and the Salvation Army sent in their officers to carry forward the work thus begun by this commitee of humane men.

When we (the writer had the honour to be one of the three officers) reached the Colony we found that already there were a few patients huddled together in a miserable hut. There was also a house for the Officers but besides this there was nothing to be seen but the great wild forest.

The river and the swamp round about were literally alive with crocodiles Wild boars came nightly prowling around our dwelling and more than once in the still early hours of the morning we were woke from our sleep by the howls of the tigers close by in the dense bush.

An interesting collection of snakes which I have were all captured quite near the house.

Hospital Built.

Now, however, after two years of labour and effort the place has become somwhat like a spot that is inhabited by man.

Hospital accommodation for one hundred and ninety patients was built —a nice house for the assistant officers; a room for the treatment of patients and their wounds and suitable accommodation for medicine and instruments have been erected Then store rooms, a kitchen where all the cooking is done; dwelling for native assistants; a general dining room for the patients, and a hall for meetings etc, have all sprung up, not by magic but as the result of hard work and devotion.

The grounds have been drained and levelled and in the place of the wild bush and dense creepers a garden has been laid out and made beautiful with all sorts of lovely tropical flowers and palms.

Now a plantation of cocoanut trees is being planted which in a few years will be yielding a rich harvest as the reward of industry and courage.

The crowd of patients which is now to be found on the colony form a truly happy community. Friends might readily and somewhat naturally ask how it is possible for such a people to be happy. Can people be happy who are always suffering and that from a disease which so far appears to be incurable, poor souls whose only earthly prospect is death and a place in the little grave-yard behind the colony.

Wild Fruits

To understand, you must remember that without exception everyone of these lepers had been banished from their homes and their fellows and driven into the forest to live or die like wild animals. A few branches and some handsful of grass formed all the shelter they had against storm and rain. Wild fruits and a few scratched out roots formed their only food

Now they have a comfortable house and home, good food, the necessary medicines and their bodily sufferings relieved as far as that can be done by the medical aid which is placed at their service.

Everything on the Colony is so arranged and equipped that not only have they found a hospital but in very truth a home.

The patients who are able to do anything are allowed to work as many or as few hours per day as they themseves desire to.

The work consists of cutting of grass, clearing of the bush, and planting, etc., etc. For every hour they labor they are paid a fixed scale and the amount which they earn is placed to their credit on their savings book.

Once per week they have the opportunity of ordering little extras and luxuries from the town. One of the officers takes the list or orders per motor boat up the river to Palenbang and returns with the parcels and packets nearly innumerable, and what an interesting and important affair his return is.

At the distribution of packages one hears an almost constant "tarima kassi banjak," or "thank you very much," as each poor face beams forth the gladness and gratitude of the recipient.

If it does happen that one has during the past week proved indolent or inclined to shirk work the sight of all the others receiving their parcels brings such a rebuke to his laziness and an inspiration to industry that the next day usually finds him at work.

Although practically all the lepers are Mohammedans our meetings are nevertheless well attended. There is much interest shown in the Bible lessons. After each meeting we usually devote an hour or so to talk frankly and freely with them over what had been said or sung and they are no longer afraid to ask about matters that they have not been able to understand.

We try to place ourselves in their position and to see things from their standpoint as well as to remember their superstitions and strange ideas. It is often very interesting and not seldom amusing to learn from them their somewhat original and queer conception of things pertaining to the service of God.

The Gospel is however surely winning!

Yesterday when I was trying to enjoy a few minutes rest from my work among and for the lepers and had sat down in my little garden hoping for quiet and pleasure among my few flowers, I was called from my day dream by one of the native assistant nurses.

He told me that the landing place on the river there was a small prauw (native dug out) with a leprous man in it and that he had asked to be taken in as a patient.

I went with the nurse and found the poor man who on seeing me clasped his hands and bowed himself as he beseeched in heart-rending desperation that I might have compassion on him and help him. He cried "Help me, sir, help me, Sir; there is no one else will help me." I asked him to stand up so that I could see just what was the matter, and what his condition was. He was, however, unable to rise and could only move his arm. The nurse who had called me carried the thin wasted body into one of the hospital wards.

After he had been given something to eat and felt a little stronger I tried to find out who he was, where he had come from and how he had arrived at the "oondeer" Leper Colony. He told me he had come from a native village far far in the interior, and three years ago he had developed leprosy and was driven into the bushes as an outcast.

He had managed on the banks of the river to make himself a little dugout and on this he lived, and catching with a string and a hook a few fish from the river and digging roots from the bush he had managed to keep body and soul together.

Slowly however he became worse and weaker and at last was no longer able to roam in the bush in search for roots or wild fruits. The few fish that he was able to hook were now all that kept him from dying of starvation.

One day another native boat going up the river contained a fellow native who told him that away down the river, many days rowing, where the waters widened and flowed slowly on their way into the sea there were some kind hearted peopel who had made a place for lepers like him and who would give him shelter and food.

It seemed too good to be true and after a few days he kept thinking about what he had heard.

Then he decided ike the ancient lepers that if he stayed wheer he was he must die, and to go even if it all turned out a disappointment could be no worse, he could but die.

So he untied his boat and rowed out into the current to drift down the river in hopes of falling in with these kind white people. Foating and rowing further and further by day and night the mountains were left behind, the highlands steadily passed, while the river was getting daily wider and the current less rapid. Thus the boat was carried on and on to what was to him the great unknown, and as the days went by he began to have serious doubts if the news he heard could really be true. He said to himself that he ought to have known that since his own people had turned him out to die, no white strangers would be likely to trouble themselves about such as he.

The Ninth Day.

On the ninth day when he was tired out and nearly dying of hunger, he saw on the further bank of the river a clearing in the great forest with beautiful houses, a landing place with a boat moored to it, and wondered what it could be. Other boats were here and there to be seen plying their way up and down the waters and from a native rowing past he asked what Kampong (village) that was. The reply was that it was an hospital for lepers. He was astounded and overjoyed for this surely must be the place he was in search of and yet could it be possible, for it looked so grand and beautiful to his poor mind, that he said it is far too fine for a poor miserable being such as he felt himself to be.

"But no I am here," he said, as he ended his story, and added "I want to stay here till I die. Oh I am so tired —so tired!"

Yes; poor fellow, after nine days and nights in that little canoe, and almost without food, was it a wonder that his weak hands could hardly hold the oars any longer, yet in this way he had travelled some three hundred miles to find friends, rest and hope.

As I left him to sleep off some of his exhaustion I could not refrain from raising my heartfelt praise and thanks to God that He found me worthy to labor for Him on behalf of such poor people who are by so many considered the outcasts of all society.

May God hasten the day when the terrible lot of the thousands of lepers still in the forest and living a life that is worse than death may be helped for this life and told of the Christ, the hope and Saviour for the life to come.

Shock-Absorbers For False Teeth

Cleveland, Mar. 8.—Non-Skid Shock Absorbers for false teeth are the latest thing. Heretofore the principle of shock absorbers has been limited in application but now a Cleveland chemical concern advertises a powder which sprinkled upon "store teeth," forms a smooth cushion, holds them firmly in pace ,and gives a "non-skid" effect while they romp over the toughest roasting ears of corn and chew the stickiest candy.

One who has lost his natural teeth can supply himself with this antiseptic, adhesive comfort powder—Corega—at a drug store, and proceed to laugh and sneeze, crack nuts and do other hazardous things without risk of shaking his prized false teeth from their upper and lower berths. 50c at Druggists.—Adv.

RED-HEADED NEGRO OFFERED BY MOTHER AS LIPTON'S MASCOT

Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of the Shamrock IV., which will try to lift the America's Cup in the coming yachting classic, arrived at New York on the steamship Celtic.

Sir Thomas brought with him a golden eagle, formerly part of the saloon decorations of the yacht America, which was presented to him by two friends. The eagle, as an emblem of "good luck," will be place on board the challenger.

"I now have the best outfit that I ever sailed," he said. "I feel that I should lift the cup, as I have now reached my majority—21 years—in yacht racing."

He said that he would give his immediate attention to his two yachts now here, and added that he had received an offer for a new mascot—a 15-year-old negro boy, described as being as black as the ace of spades and having red hair. The offer, he said, came from the mother of the boy, a resident of New Rochelle.

PARALYSIS!

Is loss of sensation, or, voluntary motion. This is due to the lack of normal quantity or quality of mental impulses "life currents" in the tissues involved. This lack of mental impulses is due to pressure upon nerves as they leave the spinal chord through openings between the bony segments of the spinal column. Chiropractic adjustments will relieve this pressure, allowing normal transmission of mental impulses and the affected tissues are restored to normal.

ONTARIO THE BANNER PROVINCE

(THOMAS TOOMS, M P P)

Do we as good citizens take sufficient interest in our Province of Ontario and ask ourselves why it is the Banner Province of Canada? The wealth of its natural resources is almost beyond conception. With an area of 407,262 square miles, three times as large as the British Isles, Ontario, our Ontario, includes over 230 million acres of land, with only 13,500,000 acres under cultivation. In 1918 the value of farm crops was $363,900,778; implements and live stock, $1,633,413,528.

Ontario's population is one-third of all Canada, 1917 estimate 2,750,000. We have in Ontario 14,581 industrial establishments, with a capital of $1,335,968,699. Products to the value of $1,533,738,655, were turned out. Wages paid, $229,191,908.

The Hydro-Electric is the most extensive public ownership enterprise of its kind in the world (489 miles of high tension lines), displacing annually 5 million tons of coal; develops and distributes 350,000 h.p. to 230 municipalities. The new Chippewa-Queenston undertaking will provide 400,000 h.p.. Aggregate capacity of all transformers, 675,000 h.p. The Hydro-Electric system includes 12 systems, using 29,190 h.p., serving a population of 1,419,220.

Ontario water power possibilities, 5,80,000 h.p.

Ontario leads in mineral production, with 194,084,420, or more than double the next largest producing Province, British Columbia. Ontario also leads the world in nickel production—85 per cent. of the world's supply. In 1918 it produced 1,643,043 tons; also silver, $74,810,521 value. Lumbering value 1918 at $33,165,137.

Half of Canada's entire manufactures are credited to Ontario.

New Ontario contains 85 per cent. of the Province, with 20 million acres of farm lands, and so I could continue with the good things of the Banner Province until one would almost tire of reading.

Peterborough is a well favoured city, whose population has increased 63 per cent. during last census, which now is 26,000, including suburbs. Has the world's largest lift lock, and has magnificent rural surroundings and summer resorts.

Do we stop to think that the Ontario Legislature has this enormous untold wealth within its jurisdiction, and that with wise and judicious management there should be no such thing as poverty, that Ontario should rank as one of the wealthiest spots in the world, that when we talk of going West, we are jumping over 20 million acres of farm land and untold mineral wealth in our own Province.

The Provincial Legislature is of the uttermost importance to all residents of this Province. It also controls your local governments, Education, Police, Municipal law generally, which brings its interest for consideration to the door of your home. It is interesting to note that the present Legislature has created a new portfolio—that of Minister of Mines, so relieving the other great revenue-producing department, Lands and Forests, in order to facilitate the efficient working of our natural resources for the benefit of the Province generally, whose present financial expenditure is limited to approximately 20 millions.

If we want better education for our children, better living or social conditions, which will indeed make Ontario the Banner Province of Canada, study the Prvincial Legislature.

DETROIT NOW FOURTH CITY

Has Population of 993,739 According to Census Bureau.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Detroit with a numerical increase and rate of growth larger than Chicago's and second only to New York's during the last ten years, is now fourth largest city in the United States, displacing St. Louis and outranking Boston, Cleveland, Baltimore and Pittsburgh, all of which were larger than the Michigan city ten years ago. Detroit's 1920 population announced to-day by the census bureau, is 993,739, an increase of 527,073, or 113.4 per cent. Detroit is the only United States city of 100,000 or more which has more than doubled its population in the last ten years.

Cleveland takes rank as fifth largest city in the United States. Its population is 796,836, an increase of 236,173, or 42.1 per cent. over 1910.

MUST STAY WITH WINES

Cellar Stock of Chicago Home Cannot be Sold With House or Moved.

CHICAGO, June 18.—In the cellars of the residence of the late George B. Griffin in the exclusive "Gold Coast" district of Chicago there is liquor worth $100,000. The house is for sale, but the law says the liquor must not be sold or removed. The owner's wife would like to keep the stuff, it is said, but if she does she cannot use it after the sale of her house.

To Remove First Signs of Old Age

"The infallible first sign of age is the sagging cheek muscles," says Mme. Cavalieri, whose fame as a beauty culturist is scarcely less than that as a songstress. "These are more difficult and serious to treat than wrinkles," she continues. "The sagging muscles indicate they have grown too weak to remain in place; they must be assisted, strengthened."

The best way to strengthen them is by bathing the face in a simple lotion made by dissolving an ounce of pure powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. This creates a freer circulation to the parts, besides causing the muscles and skin to contract. Saxolite, procurable at every drug store, has long been known by complexion specialists to possess remarkabe tonic and astringent properties, valuable in treating flabby tissue and wrinkles.

A floating mine which for three or four days was a cause of much anxiety to the fishing fleet operating on the Queentown coast, was at last located by one of H.M. destroyers and destroyed by gunfire.

BOWMANVILLE GETS TROPHIES.

BOWMANVILLE, June 18.—Council was notified some time ago that through the efforts of Lt.-Col. L. T. McLaughlin, Bowmanville was to receive three war trophies. The first of these arrived last week and has been placed on the town park. It is a 4.5 German field gun and was captured by an Eastern Ontario Battalion in 1918.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little Freezone on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. Yes, magic!

A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

COUNTY COUNCIL UPSETS ITS ASSESSMENT PROGRAM

REPENTED ITS LIBERALTY

Reversing their committee work of Thursday morning the County late yesterday afternoon rejected the recommendation to increase the equalized assessment by ten per cent. of the local assessments and led by the Monaghan representatives, who struggled strenuously to avoid the new load placed on their municipality, voted by a large majority in favour of retaining last year's equalized valuation except an increase of $50,000 which Monaghan voluntarily assumed.

Municipalities like Smith and some others were being carried into the new column with higher assessments snatched at the expedient Deputy-Reeve Wilson offered as a last hope, and strangely enough outher townships that were actually benefitting by reductions rallied to Monaghan's assistance and joined the majority for the belated amendment.

As previously stated the total equalized assessment of the county had recently outdistanced the aggregate of the local municipal assessment of the county had recently outdistanced the aggregate of the local municipal assessments, and according to the statute the Council was called upon to restore the required difference was $40,528, and in Thursday's liberal adjustment the increase was made sufficient to cover the local increments until 1922 when a five-year period would terminate and require a new equalization.

Jolted Monaghan.

In the proposed shuffle Monaghan's equalized assessment on which the county tax is levied was raised from $686,340 to $1,115,183. The objections of Reeve McIntosh and Deputy-Reeve Wilson were mere "duds" on Thursday, but "night brings counsel" and yesterday afternoon found most of the members, whose municipalities were affected, manifested an eagerness to revise their action.

Monaghan had pleaded that her local assessment was too high, that this condition cropped out of the suburban sections adjoining the city and that therefore a large part of her assessment should be considered as urban and should be exempted as were the villages of Norwood, Havelock and Lakefield, from the new increase in the equalized valuation.

A Remedial Motion.

Remembering these pleas, Reeve Griffith moved in Council on Friday that the report of the committee on equalization be adopted with an alteration providing for ten per cent. increases in the equalized assessments of Lakefield and Havelock, and that ten per cent. of Norwood's local assessment be added to her equalized. This discrimination was guided by the fact that Norwood's equalized and local assessments are almost the same, while the local assessments of the two other villages were greatly in excess of their equalized.

Mr. Griffith said he was actuated by a desire to do justice to Monaghan. The committee's report increased Belmont's equalized assessment fifteen per cent. instead of ten but Mr. Griffith said he hadn't objected because he realized that the township's local assessment was too low.

Opposition from Villages

The village reeves joined forces against the Griffith resolution. Reeve Squire threatened to appeal to Judge Huycke. Reeve Matheson of Havelock, cited the recent sale for $800 of a house in his village that was assessed for $1,600. This was evidence, he argued, that Havelock's local assessment was too high.

Mr. Griffith replied that when Havelock appointed two assessors some years ago their valuations were confirmed by the Council, which if it had considered them high should have objected.

"Both Havelock and Lakefield have high local assessments. That's what caused this adjustment" said Reeve Griffith.

Mr. Strickland said that a Lakefield house assessed at $1,800 was sold a short time ago for $750.

Mr. Wilson—Part of Monaghan is as much a village as Norwood or Lakefield.

Mr. Squire—You mean a city.

Mr. Wilson said that Monaghan's 12,000 were assessed at from $60 to $70 an acre. Few of the townships were anything as high as that. Besides Monaghan had not received any road grants from the county although most of the municipalities had received various sums.

The debate drifted on until Mr. Wilson made a bid for popular support by the successful amendment outlined above, retaining last year's equalized assessment with the increase of $50,000 on Monaghan's allotment.

MONEY INCREASED IN VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS---RURAL SCHOOL COMPETITIONS.

OTTAWA, June 19.—The prize list has been issued for the 1920 Ottawa Exhibition and a partial program of special features has been announced. Everything points to this year's fair being the best which the Central Canada Exhibition Association has ever held.

There are increases in all departments and a special feature of the Agricultural Department will be the competition open to schools taking part in rural school fairs. There will be nine prizes, gradiug from $150 for first to $40 for ninth. Each school will be allowed fifteen running feet to display their exhibits which shall be made up of grains, roots, garden produce, fruits, flowers, canned goods, etc.

As in previous years, in this department a feature will be the final judging for the Ontario Field Crop competitions under the direction of Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, superintendent of fairs. Egg laying contests, domestic science judging and other interesting events are also provided for.

Horse racing will be given on a more elaborate scale than in previous years. There will be $5,500 in purses and a very interesting card has been arranged for the various days.

Other outstanding attractions will be the Pure Food Show, the finest of its kind on the continent, which will have an entire building to itself; the automobile show which will this year occupy all the main portion of Howick Hall; the baby show, which appeals to all; the dog show, for which new benching has been secured and the prize money increased to $2,000; the horticultural and victory garden displays, the machinery, in the new building now being fitted up; women's work, school children's display, dairy exhibit and special demonstrations, poultry and pets, horses, cattle, sheep and swine, and many other departments. The government war trophies wil also be shown.

The object of the exhibition is to encourage more and better production. This aim is ever constantly before the directors but they also realize that visitors to the fair desire to combine pleasure with education. And for fun of the best kind, it would be difficult indeed to eclipse the midway and grandstand attractions. For the midway, the management this year will offer accombination of the Polack Bros. Amusement Company and the Henry Meyerhoff shows and riding devices. These will be on a scale and of a variety and entertainment never before equalled.

For the grandstand performance, the manager and members of the special attractions committee recently visited New York and arranged for the appearance of New York Hippodrome and other features which will combine high-class comedy, sensational feats and novel vaudeville acts. For the evenings a specially magnificent fireworks display has been arranged, with the Naval Battle of Dover as the spectacular event.

The Ottawa fair is of such magnitude that it is impossible to enumerate all the attractions, but the wise ones will make their arrangements to be in Ottawa for fair week, Sept. 10th to 20th. Those who intend to enter the competitions must make their entries by Sept. 3rd.

Prize lists and all information may be secured on application to Mr. J. K. Paisley, secretary and manager, City Hall, Ottawa.

LOOK FOR BONES.

Another Expedition is Being Framed Up to Undertake the Trip.

(Canadian Press.)

EDMONTON, Alta., June 19.—Another expedition to look for the bones of great prehistoric reptiles in the Red River Valley of Alberta is on its way here. This time it is under the direction of Dr. W. A. Parks, of the University of Toronto and the Royal Ontario Museum. For a number of years these expeditions have been an annual summer journey for three months. Two years ago the almost perfect specimen of the Kditosaurus Incurvimanus, which has just been finally chipped free from the rock and presented to the museum, was found, making a distinct addition to the records of science, and giving to Toronto the only specimen of this species yet discovered. Three incomplete skeletons of the Kditosaurus and a great horned head of a Brontosaurus, 4 feet 6 inches in length, were found by the professor, but have not yet been carved from the rock. It is the hope of Prof. Parks to collect ultimately for the Royal Ontario Museum one of the finest exhibits of dinosaurs in existence.

The locality and the method of finding the specimens are described by Prof. Parks. "The river cuts right through the flat prairie to a depth of 400 feet, forming a whole lot of broken buttes, and it is among these that the bones are discovered. One of the difficulties in obtaining complete specimens is that the bones cannot be obtained until they are partly exposed by the action of natural deroding causes. Sometimes you are disappointed then, for after exploring you may find only a single bone. You dig down as close as you can and pack the rock in plaster of paris for shipment.

The Red River Valley 3,000,000 years ago was near the coast of a great inland sea that stretched from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic Ocean. "The sand along the shallow brackish shores of this great body of water formed a splendid preservative for those huge reptiles which inhabited the world at that time. Our Kditosaurus was found in what we call the Belly Rover formation of the Upper Cretacean system," explains Professor Parks.

KING'S DECORATION FOR OAKWOOD BOY

Capt. H. S. Weldon, recently received two valuable decorations from King George, in recognition of valuable services at the front during the war. They were in the form of two oak sprays (in brooch style), to be worn on the victory ribbon, and is a new decoration created by the King since the war ceased, and are greatly prized by Captain Weldon. It is understood only two of these decorations have so far been allotted to the soldiers of this country, and congratulate Capt. Weldon (who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Weldon) on receiving these decorations.

MR. TOOMS' REPORT TO COUNTY COUNCIL

REVIEWED WORK IN RECENT SESSION—MINISTERS COMING HERE.

Reeve Eason, of Otonabee, was appointed temporary chairman if the County Council on Friday afternoon in the absence of Warden Nichols, who went home sick at the close of the morning session.

Stating that he wished to be kept in touch with the Council and to receive any instructions they might have to offer Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A., reviewed the work of the Legislature particularly mentioning some of the legislation passed in the interest of rural communities and agriculture.

"Mr. McDonald for East Peterboro and myself want to carry out your wishes in any legislation you may propose," said Mr. Tooms. "I believe the farm and labour coalition is here to stay. We found as we proceeded that we had plenty of things in common without raking up any subject in which there might be difference of opinion. Some persons say we are long-winded, but much of the time was consumed by the long debates on th speech from the throne and on the budget. The politicians entered into these to show their constituents they were in the House but the new members went there purely for business. They had bills and introduced them."

Mr. Tooms left with the Council ten bills he had picked at random from his files. All of them pertained to agriculture and rural conditions. The old parties had criticized the government frequently but had been helpful on the whole. Mr. Tooms paid a tribute to the abilities of Premier Drury and also spoke of the accesibilty of the members of the Cabiten. Hon. Mr. Doherty, Hon. Mr. Biggs and Hon. Mr. Bowman would separately visit Peterboro in the near future, and if the Council had any questions to refer to the government Mr. Tooms assured them that he would be glad to give his services, and also that such requests or other communications would receive prompt and attentive consideration from the Cabinet Ministers.

Mr. Tooms referred to the benefits of the Widows' Pension Legislation which was of special interest to urban centres. He himself had introduced five bills and succeeded in having them all passed. In regard to grants from the Government, he and Mr. McDonald had done as well as any other members.

Mr. Tooms was thanked for his address, and Mr. Eason agreed that the government's departments were more accessible than ever.

UTTERLY HELPLESS FROM ST. VITUS DANCE

St. Vitus dance is a disease of the nerves brought on by a morbid condition of the blood. It is a common disease with children, and attacks girls more frequently than boys. Irritability is frequently one of the first signs noted. The child frets, it is quarrelsome, and does not sleep well. The jerky movements that characterize the disease come a little later. The patient becomes pale, languid and often constipated. The limbs and sometimes the whole body jerks spasmodically, and in severe cases the power of speech is affected. Such a child should not be allowed to study, but should be kept quiet, given a nutritious diet, remain out of doors as much as possible, and above all things given a course of Dr. Williams Pink Pills to build up the blood and restore the shattered nerves. Without this treatment the trouble may become chronic and the patient a life-long sufferer. The value of Dr. Williams Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the following statement by Mr. Frank J. Scriven, Acton, Ont., who says: "In January, 1917, when I resided at Milton, Ont., my daughter, Gertrude, then aged fourteen, had a bad atack of rheumatic fever, which left as its after effects a severe attack of St. Vitus dance. For weeks she was confined to her bed under the doctor's care. She was entirely helpless, being unable to even hold a spoon to feed herself. For a time she lost the power of speech almost entirely, and only with great difficulty made herself understood. The twitching of her muscles was so bad it was painful to see her. After a long time and taking a lot of medicine, she seemed to improve. But she did not seem to get along as she ought to. In November, 1917, we removed to Acton, and in January, 1918, she was again confined to her bed with St. Vitus dance. She was again in a terrible state and quite helpless. She was under a doctor's care, and while there was an improvement, she was still very nervous, did not look well and was always tired. In May, 1918, we decided to try Dr. Wiliams Pink Pills, and see what they would do for her. She took them regularly according to instructions, and after taking several boxes there was a decided improvement. After a further use of the pills she is now as healthy a girl as you would wish to see. She is fat, with a fine, healthy color and is strong and lively. The neighbours to whom she is well known remark on the wonderful change in her appearance since taking Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Both her mother and myself are convinced that the pills have done her a world of good as she is now far healthier than we at one time thought she ever would be."

For all trouble due to poor blood and weak nerves there is no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams Pink Pills. You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DO YOU EXPECT TO LIVE LONG?

The facts are against you. In one Life Insurance Company during three months, Sixteen died of OLD AGE, 2,736 died at PREMATURE AGES, and each one was sound when the Insurance was issued.

Each one had just as good a right to expect to live to old age as you have.

Another Insurance Company shows that out of Claims paid last year, 6.8 per cent. died the FIRST YEAR, and 72.5 per cent. died INSIDE OF TWENTY YEARS.

Note well that the Men and Women who died the first year left approximately fifty times as much to their heirs as if they had "saved" the premium.

THE SUN LIFE OF CANADA, with over $105,000,000.00 of Assets, is the logical place to Insure.

DEATH OF HYDRO LINEMAN FOUND TO BE ACCIDENTAL

Yes, they generally have the running line about 600 or 700 feet long.

Had the pole have been guyed would it have broken? asked the Coroner.

Yes. The strain of the pull was too much.

If there were two guys on it would it have held?

He said he accounted for the fatality by the horses going ahead. He said they usually, but not always, put on guys before they were strung. He felt it was the proper time. The object, he said, was to take the strain off the poles when they were strung.

No Defect in Pole.

Witness said he saw McQuillan go over with the pole. He thought he was unconscious when picked up. He never spoke after wards. There was no defect in the pole as far as he knew.

Mr. Wearing cross-questioned witness again. Witness said he did not thing guying would have prevented it. In two years' experience he always saw the same system of stringing and had seen the running board catch and the man lift it over. He thought the accident was caused by the team going too quickly. "I've seen running boards put over worse corners than that," he said, and thought McQuillan could have lifted it over.

In reply to a question by George Giroux he estimated the weight of the cross bars and saucers at 75 or 80 lbs. each and the man's weight at 160 lbs..

With 250 lbs. on the top of the pole and the strain of the team pulling 600 or 700 feet away, would that not be a factor in the breaking of the pole

I wouldn't think so.

Don't you think it would be safer for him to wait till the running board came along and then climb the pole? asked one of the jurors.

No.

Produced Sketch.

Mr. George Giroux produced a rough sketch showing the position of the poles and line, and handed same to the Coroner.

The witness held that the pole fell towards the team. Mr. Giroux did not agree with him, pointing out that the conclusion knowing the strain to the south would be that the pole would fall that way, but it didn't, it fell east and a little south.

Doctor's Evidence.

Dr. H. M. Yelland stated that he was called about 11 o'clock that morning. He found him unconscious, bleeding from both ears and breathing very heavily. He looked as if he was going to die. At Nicholls Hospital we found he had a fractured skull, a broken collar bone and other injuries. I stayed with him till one o'clock. He grew worse and I called Dr. E. V. Frederick. They decided nothing could be done and he died about 4 o'clock, never regaining consciousness.

Albert Hamilton, hydro lineman, who was with the gang, said he saw the accident. "I was about 150 feet away. All I saw was the pole breaking and McQuilan going over with it." His experience extended over five years, he said. He had seen guying done, both before and after stringing. He admitted that guying before was safer.

Did you ever see an accident like this before? Mr. Wearing asked him.

No, I never did.

He stated to the Coroner that they broke one that was guyed the next day by a joint on the wire catching, word servant girl with trepidation, but no one was hurt.

The next witness was Robert McDougal, also a lineman. It was the first day they were engaged in stringing wire, witness said. He believed that it wouldn't have made any difference whether the pole was guyed or when when they were pulling that way.

Did you hear the signal? asked Mr. Wearing?

Yes. I was passing the signal. The team, he said, were 250 or 300 feet away. The team had always stopped before, but at the signal he did not stop. "Mr. Mitchell yelled when the board was about a foot from the post. I yelled, but he went on.

Percy Duckworth, who was on the pole ahead of McQuillan, corroborated the other evidence. Witness admitted that they stopped the board 12 feet from the pole as they had to be more careful at the corner pole. He never knew of an accident to happen like this before. Guying the pole would have helped, he thought.

In reply to George Giroux, he said the foreman had charge of putting up guys.

The foreman in question, James Mitchell, gave evidence. He said they picked up drivers wherever they could get them. They expected a team in from High Falls, but planned to use it for other work.

Crown Attorney—And the reason the pole was not guyed was that the stringing gang was ahead. Yes. They could always keep ahead of the gang he replied. Still, he thought if it could be done guying would tend to more safety. Guying in this case might have helped, he admitted. As the witness had given previous evidence, his was condensed.

Robert Reid— How many signal men were there?

One man up there and one going up. He heard McDougal pass on the signal to stop. It was not a difficult thing, he said, to lift it over. On a corner pole, though, they were always careful. It caught on the pin and on a bolt, he stated. If the team had stopped there would have been no accident.

Replying to a juryman, he said he thought the pole was strong enough. Sometimes they used a stronger pole at the corner. He estimated the weight of the cross bar and a man's body at 310 lbs., nothing out of the way.

E. O'Bright, a line man, in the box, said the pole was not in a dozy condition. He thought the running board caught between the pin and the pole.

Under ordinary circumstances, was there anything to prevent him lifting it over asked Mr. Wearing.

No.

Witness said it was very uncommon for it to catch. He could not see why McQuillan couldn't have lifted it over.

C. Beatty had nothing to add to the story.

James Trotter, the teamster, was put in the box. He is a farmer in Smith and was engaged by the Hydro to do the work. He had been farming all his life but he declared he was not a good teamster. "I told them I'd do the best I could. He couldn't see how many poles they had done. He did not know anything about the accident for 10 or 15 minutes. He stoped as soon as he got the word. They yelled at him to stop. He unhitched the team as soon as they told him. He didn't know how the accident happened. The team were not scary or balky.

Did you notice any extra pull?" asked Mr. Wearing.

There didn't seem to be.

Witness said they discharged him on the ground that his team was too fast.

Two sections of the pole, above and below where it snapped, were fitted together and the exact position of the pole determined by Mr. Latimer..

After hearing the case, Crown Attorner Greer remarked on the corroboration of the evidence. The question as he saw it revolved around the guying of the poles. Witnesses had agreed that guys might have averted the accident. The witnesses, he believed, were fair and unprejudiced, but if the jury wanted to secure more expert evidence he was prepared to adjourn the inquest.

CANADA'S COAL SUPPLY

During 1918 Canada consumed thirty-five million tons of coal.

Canada's outpue of coal for 1918 was fifteen million tons, exported two millions tons, imported twenty two million tons.

Canada has the only two coal regions on the sea coasts of North America.

Vancouver Island has been successfully operated since 1860.

Alberta coal is estimated to form 15 per cent. of the world's supply, more than three billion tons are semi anthracite or high carbon bituminous

An economic process of boycotting now within sight should open the market to the vast mass of lignite.

Other coal fields lie in British Columbia at Crow's Nest Pass near Hazelton. Also in New Brunswick, near Grand Lake. A Coal seam on Mackenize River N.W.T. is still burning as in 1789 when seen by Alexander Mackenzie.

Why shortage of coal for Canada?

CAUSE OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS' STRIKE.

Sir: Owing to labor wage being raised to 45c it brought ordinary labor on a level with skilled men, and allowing nothing for skill. Surely skilled labor is worth something more than ordinary labor. As the labor wage was raised from 32 1-2 cents to 45 cents, why should not the skilled men have been raised in the same proportions. The men asked a 12 1-2 cent raise from the 1st of May including the 5c received, practically another 7 1-2 cents, but they were willing to acept another 5c. This latter 5c would have given skilled men on an average of 50c to 52 1-2 cents per hour, which was not considered an exceptional demand as wages go today, but as Mr. Patterson had suggested a board at a meeting with the men's representatives, it was decided that if they would grant the rest of the electrical workers a board, the armature winders would acept the arbitration award of 15 per cent. plus 5c an hour on top of that with back pay from the 6th of January, but as the Toronto end of the company would not agree to a board, and declared they were losing money on transformers, and would not give another cent more to the rest of the electrical workers.

The armature winders could not accept their offer although satisfactory to them at the time, and if the company had granted a board to the rest of the electrical workers there would have been no strike.

As as we had agreed to stand by each other there was no other hope but to strike as it was considered the electrical workers had not got a square deal.

Because some men have gone back it is a mistake to say they are satisfied; if they were discontented when they came out they are more so now that they have been on strike. They are only waiting an opportunity to get a better job as they could not afford to stay out. They are striking in a different way—what is called the silent strike. Instead of turning out a 100% production they are only turning out practically a 75% production. In order to get a return to 100% production the firm must do something to remove the discontent which is still there.

Mr. Patterson says they have all returned to work and they no longer consider it a strike. The silent strike is a worse strike as far as the firm is concerned. Unless the men are contented and take an interest in their work, they cannot expect a full 100% production. It is also the height of folly to assume that because a man is representing the men that he is an agitator, or influencing them in any way. Especially is this so in my own case. The very last thing I desired was to strike as I am returning to England at the end of August to get married and may not return for two or three years, but I thought the men had a just cause. I took it up and tried to be as reasonable as possible; in fact I have got into serious arguments because of being too reasonable. I say again, I am no agitator. I believe in organized labor run by sensible men but I don't believe in organized labor run by madmen or agitators. But someone must represent a body of men, or how can you try reason first, before you take harsh methods to victimize a men's representative, is a mistake on any employer's part. W. P. Flynn.

THE BOARD ADJOURNED

CONCILIATION BOARD WILL MEET AGAIN ON THURSDAY.

The proceedings of the Conciliation Board at the Court House resumed Saturday morning at ten thirty o'clock, an hour and a half later than the time fixed by Chairman Judge Gunn.

Apart from those taking active part in the enquiries the attendance consisted of but seven men affected by the strike.

While wating the arrival of Judge McGillivray, His Honor Judge Gunn held a private conference with Arbitrator John Munro (for the men) Mr. Harry Harper, representing the Machinists and Mr. Alex. Morrison, the electrical workers' representative. Subsequently, on the arrival of Judge McGillivray, he also joined this conference, which lasted about three-quarters of an hour, in the course of which an effort was made to get the men to return to work on the old salary pending the Board's report. An agreement on this point, however, coud not be reached.

Board Adjourned.

The Board adjourned at eleven o'clock, to meet again Thursday morning, when the Board's report on its deliberations will be submitted.

Judge Gunn, in adjourning proceedings, hoped the men would get together this afternoon and agree to return to work pending the Board's award. Unfortunately, however, they are insisting that the company be bound to abide by whatever award is made. His Honor coud not see how such a condition could be entered into, as a question involving the expenditure of thousands of dollars would have to be submitted to the Company's Board of Directors.

Break the Union.

In the course of the proceedings, Mr. E. G. Patterson produced a telegram from Senator Nicholls, positively denying Mr. Harper's statement at a meeting of the strikers with the city council in May that the Senator had declared to Mr. Harper in Toronto that he (Senator Nicholls) was out to break the union.

This charge, which was repeated by Mr. Harper at the enquiry yesterday afternoon, Mr. Patterson thought a serious one to make against his president.

Mr. Harper replied that he was willing to substantiate that statement under oath.

Both Judge Gunn and Mr. McGillivray concluded that this question did not enter into the contentions before the board.

BOARD ISSUES A SUGAR ORDER

MAXIMUM PRICE FIXED FOR THE THE PUBLIC.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Ont., June 19.—"With reference to the Board's sugar order summarized in the morning newspapers, the Board of Commerce this morning suggests that the public should keep in mind three points, first that 23 cents per pound plus freight, if any, paid is the maximum price to be charged the public, it can only be charged by those whose total stock consist of sugar purchased at an average cost of 21 cents per pound.

Secondly—Other retailers must not charge more than 2 cents per pound over averaged cost of all stock on hand. In man ycases this averaged cost will be so low that the can sell at prices several cents below 23 cents per pound.

Third—The principle of averaging cost of all stocks on hand applies to wholesalers as well as retailers; so that considerable quantities of sugar now held by them must b released at prices which will enable retailers to continue to sell below the 23 cents maximum

CHIHUAHUA RICH MEXICAN STATE

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Chihuahua, Mexican border state reported to have gone over to the revolution, is described in the following bulletin from the Washington, D.C., headquarters of the National Geographical society:

"Largest of Mexican states and the richest in resources, Chihuahua has an area about twice that of Pennsylvania, but a population only two-thirds that of Pittsburgh. Were its lands allocated among its citizens every five persons might have more than a square mile.

"Such allotments would make many quintents of owners fabulously rich; for a Croesus might envy the wealth of some Chihuahua mines. Best known of these is the historic Santa Eulalia, 17 miles southeast of Chihuahua City, discovere in 1703, but not yet exhausted from which have come millions of dollars worth of silver. Many of the silver mines possess ores of 50, 60 and even 75 per cent. metal, and there came from one Chilhuahua mine a giant nugget of nearly 500 pounds of almost pure silver.

Gold and Iron Also.

"Gold, lead iron and copper also are mined. Farming is a major industry of Chilhuahua, and it has been stimulated by irrigation projects, though the agricutural output has been estimated, under normal conditions, to be only one-fourth as valuable as the minerals.

Cattle-raising is extensive. But the most recent, and potentially one of the most valuable industries of the state, is that connected with the vast forests. Resin and turpentine were derived from some of the mountain timber.

"Four-fifths of Chihuahua consists of undulating table-lands, for the most part thousands of feet above sea level, offering extremes of temperature from the bleak snow-clad peaks in winter to the oppressRich in resources as is the state, taken as a whole, there are broad arid, desert-like areas.

Agave, Snake-Bite Cure.

"In Chihuahua grows the agave, nature's own antidote for snake bites, deadly also to the reptile which tastes its juice. The curious Chihuahua dog, if his pedigree can be verified, is almost worth his weight in gold. These tiny, sickly, rat-sized canines have been compared to the sleeve dogs of China. A 'butterfly-dog' of highest degree should weigh less than two pounds.

"At Guanajuato is the Bastille of Mexico, the Alhondiga de Granaditas, once a grain market, later a prison, where the head of Hidalgo was placed on a spike for a decade as a warning to other revolutionists. Though Hidago was executed (two years before his trial was concluded, incidentally) and his army dispersed, he is known as the 'author of Mexican liberty.' He rang Mexico's 'liberty bell' on his church at Dolores in 1810, sounding the toscin of the future freedom and long era of prosperity, interrupted by disturbances of the last few years.

"Traces of the Apaches, once the 'cruelest and most treacherous race in the world,' are to be found in Chihuahua, as are many cliff dwellings, Aztec mounds and various other ruins, which have not been studied. The conquest of these Apaches was one of the most difficult toward peaceful development of Mexico.

"The poetically inclined may conclude that nature, as well as the natives helped make Chihuahua inhospitable. For many kinds of plants, especially in the deserts, are thorny and prickly. Especially is this true of the prolific cactus. Moreover, one writer comments, 'the mountain ridges present the most singular summits, terminting in pyramidal points, or resembling towers or minarets.'

"Near Santa Rosalia, famous for its mineral waters, renuted to be henful for treatment of rheumatism, are ruins of the fort taken by American troops which marched through Chihuahua in 1849 to join General Zachery Taylor."

WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR

In America we have no large number of show places such as the old-time Old World once boasted, though in our colonial days we made a good start by way of family estates and mansion houses. It was a beautiful life, that of the well to do American in early America. The traditions of such aristocracy as we have still cluster around the wide halls and spacious chambers of many an old time Southern or New England home. We like to think of the stateliness of those old days—their assuredness and ease.

Suppose you to-day were given one of the old mansion houses, even with its wide acres attached. You might not be able to keep it up. The old Virginian had slave labor about his house and in the fields. He made money easily out of tobacco and slaves, raising and selling both. The magnate of New England, rich out of rum or shipping or what you like, had household labor at the cost of a few shillings a week. All supplies in those days were cheap, and even among the rich people their wants were far simpler than they are to-day.

The colonial house may be seen to-day in our suburbs, perhaps on a 50-foot lot, with two trees and one snowball bush in front. If it can boast two servants they are sure to be expensive and apt to be transient. Its reminiscent Corinthian columns are more or less a mockery. Its owner, perhaps on a salary of $25,000 a year, sells it because he cannot afford it. He goes to California, and a facile architect devises him a bungalow which is almost different. His wife can make shifts between Japs. His daughter can eke out with the dust cloth. He himself can help sweep the floor. If he does not go to California his alternative is a flat or one of those groups of torture chambers known as apartment hotels. His wife now may occupy a rocking chair in the lobby, gossip 16 hours in the day, and perhaps keep a small dog.

No nobler ambition ever filled the heart of any ambitious American than to have wide acres of his own, a tall house with hospitable doors, a long table with friends, a wide fireplace with friends, large rooms with books and friends, ample stables with horses and dogs, noble halls with pictuers—ease and personal content over it all. That was the ambition of an earlier day. Usually to-day it is simmered down in alternative to a bungalow and a car or to a room in an apartment hotel and a car.

A chance communication calls up the picture of another sort of an earlier America, one as valuable in our history. We speak now of a time and a place when a young man worked for ten dollars a month, an able bodied man for nineteen dollars a month, yet none was given to complaint. There was no I.W.W., no International, of Communist party, no union of striking laboring men.

"The hired man was one of the family, and as the family usually rose at the hour of four o'clock in the morning, and worked for 16 hours a day; the hired hand, being one of the family, did the same. The hired girl worked for two dollars a week. She was also one of the family, and in addition to her household duties, she usually helped the boys with the chores. She married her employer's son, and became one of the family in fact.

"Then one fine day Bill, her husband, drove the covered wagon up in front of the homestead,and the family and the neighbors gathered around them to bid them good bye. The erstwhile hired man, now Bill's wife, kissed paw and maw and the girls good bye with many tears and then climbed over the wheel and took her place beside Bill, and they turned their faces resolutely toward the land of the setting sun. No one but Old Tige accompanied them on that trip from the homeland.

"When they arrived at their claim they were among the first settlers, and Bill built them a sod house with his own hands, and his young wife hung the motto, 'God Bless our Home,' on the wall. They had no piano in the soddy, but the song of birds and Bill's cheery whistle when he returned from work were a good substitute, and none of the neighbors had pianos.

"The young wife planted hollyhocks, pinks and bachelor's buttons in the front yard. They reminded her of the flowers in the garden back east, and Bill planted some cottonwoods, for there were many trees back east.

"When they went to town Bill declared that his wife looked fine in her new gingham dress, and when Bill put on his store clothes she frequently remarked that she had the best looking man in the whole county. Times were when the neighbors went with them. Then they put a board across the wagon box and got along real well.

"The divorce courts had very little to do in those days, and in those homes, for they were too busy to quarrel if they had wanted to, and they didn't want to. They had enlisted together to fight the battle of life, and neither one shirked. There were no slackers in those days. There were no apartment houses. There were no lap dogs—Old Tige was too big, and besides, he was too busy out in the real yard, where there were no potted palms.

"In after years when Christmas came, Bill, who had sold a hundred bushels of corn for ten dollars, bought his wife a new dress. She declared that God never made a better or more generous man. Meanwhile she had saved some butterand-egg money without letting on to Bill, and she got him a four dollar hat. Bill vowed that she would plumb spoil him, catering to his pride that way. Their little girls went frantic with joy over their china dolls, and Bill Junior strutted up and down the big road showing off his copper toed boots, just the same as daddy's only better, for daddy's didn't have the shiny copper toes.

"The old wagon has fallen into disuse. The garage that houses the limousine is much more commodious than the sod house grandpa built. Grandpa and grandma are hopelessly old-fashioned, so the granddaughters say. It is very unseemly for grandpa to call the attention of the guests to the plebeian ancestry of his ancestors, when the grandchildren are doing their level best to trace their patrician descent back to the days of William the Conqueror. They can trace their ancestry in direct line to William the Conqueror, but the neighbors call him Bill.—Saturday Evening Post.

MISSING PAPER IS WORTH $5,000

ST. PAUL.—A crucifix, symbol of hope eternal, that is hung bravely amon gthe tawdry trappings of a furnished room at 226 South Exchange street, is hearing a trite but terribly true lament.

"Women, too, suffer in war," the significant cross is being told. "The most exquisite, the lasting vengeance of the enemy is visited on her who works and waits, and for this forgotten soldier, who served and hoped at home, there are no proud citations or grateful bonuses."

Nov. 2, 1918, a fatally well directed German shell fell into an olive drab platoon that was squirming across a field on the Meuse. Two squads were annihilated, the commanding officer of B Company, 148th infantry, wrote, and among the 16 men was Louis F. Graff. Waiting in the room on South Exchange street was Mrs. Jessie Blakely Graff, and now there has arisen the grave question of whether she ever had a legal right to that name. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance is doubting, and in its doubts is withholding payments on the $5,000 which would do much to pay the doctor's bills and restore a faith that sometimes wavers in the comforting promises of the crucifix.

"He told me he was divorced from her," said Mrs. Graff listlessly. "I didn't know he ever had another wife until we had been married three months, but he said he was divorced and Louis spoke truthfully to me." But the word of the soldier now dead is the only record so far found, and unless a document that the bureau can read and understand is discovered Mrs. Graff will have no claim to the money or the name to which she clings.

In the application which the bureau has in its possession Graff directed that his mother, who lives with her son-in-law, H. A. Benner, be the beneficiary of $5,000 and that another $5,000 go to Mrs. Jessie Blakely Graff. The mother is receiving her payments, but the other item of the policy is being disputed.

There never was a divorce, Mr. Benner said, and he told the story of the second marriage. It was arranged in a St Paul cafe as the climax of a celebration that was to speed the boys of the National Guard to the Mexican bord he said. When the troops came back the young soldie became a deserter to join his second wife in Duluth. It was in Duluth, Mrs. Graff said, that she first met the soldier. Through her efforts, she declared, making a tired but feeling defense of her patriotism, Graff was persuaded to return to the army where he was returned honorably to duty.

While Mr. Benner served as sergeant in charge of the recruit depot at Fort Snelling he assisted in handling the applications for insurance. Graff's application here designated that the whole of the $10,000 was to go to his mother, although he may have altered these directions later.

"Why, from Camp Grant he wrote me that he had divided the award of the policy," Mrs. Graff said as she caught the strands of hair that her pillow had loosened. But she was tired of thinking so much of her weary subject that has made her nearly a nervous wreck, and she looked longingly to the bed.

Then she recalled what must be a pleasing thought to her. "It was only right that we should all serve, wasn't it?" she asked in a voice almost animated. "I coaxed Louis to go, even though I wasn't entirely well. I was able to work and it was right that I should. But when my hearing failed I coudn't be a stenographer any longer and it has been hard as a packer. The girls earn so little and with medical attention there is a pinch even if I cook right in this room. And I am an orphan."

The expression brought her attention to the one ornament beside the crucifix that adorns the room. "This is father and mother," she said, picking up the picture and expressing regret that the dust had gathered while she had been abed. "I wouldn't have to worry if I had them," she said pensively.

"OLD MASTERS" PROVE TO BE CLUMSY COPIES

NEW YORK.—At the outbreak of the war, John T Milliken a St. Louis millionaire, was advised by a friend in France that he had found a bargain in old masters. It was a collection of works of art gathered by a Lille merchant whose widow was almost ready "to give away" rather than let it fall into the hands of the Germans Mr. Milliken sent $100,000 to the friend who bought the collection. The pictures could not be shipped from France during the war, and Mr. Milliken had died in the meantime. At the Anderson galleries here the other day the collection was sold by the order of the executors. It brought exactly $6,233.00. It was discovered that mose of the alleged masterpieces were clumsy copies.

The cask is strongly made of inch and a half wooden staves strongly bound, measures 5 feet 9 inches in length and weighs half a ton.

100,000 BOY SCOUTS TO MOBILIZE IN LONDON

LONDON, June 17.—Boy Scouts from thirty different countries will mobilize here at the end of July for a great international Boy Scout exhibition, which opens on July 30. The "big show" will be staged in Olympia—London's Madison Square Garden.

Optimistic boosters of the affair prophesy 100,000 boy visitors will be congregated here the first week in August. Neither Russia nor the Central Powers will be represented. The former country started a Scout organization shortly before the war, but it, like so many other Russian institutions, disappeared during the revolution. Germany and Austria raised battalions of boys before and during the war, but these were really military cadets camouflaged as Scouts.

Among the announced objects of the exhibition is the promotion of "a spirit of brotherhood among the rising generation throughout the world." Educational work of various sorts will be undertaken during the gathering and there will be a stall at the exhibition for this purpose, where the League of Nations literature written for boys will be handed out.

Scout delegates from various cities of the British Isles are bringing to the exhibition representations of their principal local industries. Newcastle Scouts will show a model coal mine. It is also hoped that each troop and country team will bring a pet animal or bird to form a Boy Scout "zoo."

LOCKWORKS INFIELD ACCEPTED 22 CHANCES WITHOUT AN ERROR

TWILIGHT VICTORY OVER CRESSMAN'S BY SCORE OF 3 TO 1 IN FAST, SNAPPY GAME—BARTLEY NO PUZZLE TO THE LOCKSMITHS.

BOTH TEAMS GOOD

A game of forty-five minutes and a defeat for Cressmans was the outcome of the oCmmercial League fixture at the Oval last evening. Lockworks did the trick by the score of 3 to 1, and it was no mis.ke. The lock-makers showed remarkably good form and their fielding and hitting behind Connors' stellar pitching was immense. Black was used at first and Liddell was moved to second. Hill, at short, completed a trio whose defensive work Cressmans could not beat. These three took twenty-two chances without a slip.

Keith Bartley was not the puzzle of former games. He hit two and walked two and was not as effective as usual. All the runs developed from the bottom of the batting order, Burke practically cinching the game for Lockworks with his single to right in the fourth, when he drove in a brace of runs.

Hunter, at shortfield, was the star performer for Cressmans. He accepted four hard chances and hit hit in the first innings developed into the only run made by his team.

One for Cressmans.

Cobb, first up for Cressmans, drew a pass, only to be thrown out on a pretty peg by Jobbitt, Liddell handling the play nicely. Hill threw out Rayner by fast fielding. Hunter beat out a hit and stole second. Bartley also hit, and aided by a wide peg. Hunter reached home. Whitlow smote mightily, but in vain.

Batley started off by hitting Hill and the runner made second. Connors fanned, but Jobbitt missed the third strike and had to retire him at first. Huffman fanned and Rayner grabbed a liner from Black.

The teams were playing fast ball, and Lockworks' infielders kept up the good work. Wolff went out on strikes. Graham singled and was forced at second on smart work, Hill to Liddell, of Sage's grounder. These two also got Sage at second on Rutherford's smash at Hill.

Lockworks Even It.

Bartley hit Ward and passed Jobbitt. Liddell produced a hit, filling the bases. Guerin tapped to the pitcher who threw out Ward at the plate. On Burke's grounder to Hunter, Liddell was thrown out at second, Jobbitt getting home easily on the play. Hill fanned.

Cobb singled into centre. Smart work again by Hill on Rayner's grounder got Cobb at second. Hunter hit safely but was forced at second by Bartley. Hill and Liddell were working great and were getting everything. Whitlow flew out to Liddell.

Connors hit, but when Huffman flew out to Wolff, the latter, by a pretty peg, doubed Connors off first. Hunter threw out Black. Hunter was playing deep and his fielding and throw were perfect.

Burke Hits in Two.

Ward hit down first, but Rayner slipped the ball, going through. Jobbitt drew his second pass. Bartley struck out Liddell. Guerin hit and the bases were loaded. A tidy single to right by Burke scored Ward and Jobbitt. Bartley grabbed Hill's fly. On the throw off by Bartley off Connors' roller, Rayner dropped the ball and the runner was safe. Guerin tried to score on Huffman's clout but Bartley fielded the ball and threw him out at the plate.

Rutherford drew a hit and stole. Cobb flew out to Liddell, Rayner's fly was gathered in by Ward and Connors grabbed another from Hunter.

Black flew out to Sage, the pitcher stopped Ward, who grounded, and Hunter went back to make a pretty catch on Jobbitt's drive.

Cressmans went out fast. Bartley fanned and Connors threw out Whitlow and Wolff.

rCessmans game Lockworks the same dose. Hunter featured again by stabbing a hard drive from Liddell. Sage threw out Guerin, and Burke fanned.

Graham hit but was doubled when Sage sent a grounder to Hill. The latter threw to second to get Graham and Liddell completed the play by getting Sage. It looked to all over but Lockworks' supporters groaned when Huffman allowed Rutherford's grass-trimmer to go through. To make it worse Cobb hit a long double to right, Rutherford slowing up at third. One solid crack out of the infield would have tied the score, and although Rayner made a big effort, his drive went wrong, as Hill stood in the way. The Lockworks' short fielder handled the ball and got the runner at first by a foot.

CORRIN AT TOP OF OF THE CITY LEAGUE LIST

IS HITTING .600 IN THREE GAMES—HARRISON AND SWANSTON OF THISTLES HAVE BATTED .545 AND .536 RESPECTIVELY IN SIX TIMES—MURRAY THE LEADING RUN GETTER.

Harry Corrin, of the Canadian General team, is at the top of the City League batting list with a percentage of .600. Corrin has, however, only played three games so far, and the real leader is Hap Harrison of the Thistles, who is hitting at .545 clip for six games. Right on his heels is Max Swanston, the Thistle catcher, with a .536 percentage, making a .100 per cent. jump as a result of making five hits in Thursday's game. Bergoine, who was second last week, has dropped down to fourth and Cherrett, the third place man last week, is now eighth.

Swanston leads the League in the number of hits made, having connected safely fifteen times. "Micky" Murray, of the Thistles, has displaced his club mate Adams, as leading run getter, having crossed the plate eleven times. Swanston is second in this department with ten.

The Thistles still have a comfortable margin in the team batting, but have dropped to second place in team fielding, the C.G.E. passing them this week because of the eight errors piled up by the Thistles in Thursday's game.

The individual batting averages only include players who have participated in at least three games.

The official averages are as follows:

PLAN TO RE-ORGANIZE CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE

ALL CENTRAL LEAGUE PLAYERS WILL LIKELY BE BARRED FROM FURTHER CONNECTION IN THE LOCAL LEAGUE AND BATTLE WILL START OVER AGAIN.

A meeting of the City Baseball League has been called for Monday night at 7.30 o'clock a the Empress Hotel for the purpose of discussing a re-organization of the League. As it stands at present the Thistles, the majority of whom are members of the Peterborough Central League, have such a long lead with the schedule just half way through, that the race has degenerated into a procession, the Yeotes team being already 2 1-2 games ahead of the Canadian General outfit, who are in second place. The Thistles have yet to lose a game, and their superiority has been demonstrated so conclusively that interest in the League has steadily decreased.

It is now proposed to re-organize the League by barring all players who have participated in more than two Central League games. This, of course, would mean that the Thistles would be practically put out of business, and the De Laval team would likely take their place, although Millbrook is anxious to get a franchise. It is planned to play double headers on Saturday afternoons, which would be quite feasible if Central League players are barred, for there would be no conflict over players in that case. The entrance of the City League into the intermediate series of the O.B.A.A. is included in the re-organization plans which will be discussed on Monday night.

RACES IN MAJOR LEAGUES

One-third of the journey which major league clubs must cover in a season's play will be completed by most of the clubs during the coming week. Some of them already have reached or passed the half-century mark and others will go bounding over their fifty-first game before another Sunday dawns. Getting a clearly defined line on the pennant contenders has not been possible, but the first lap of the pennant journey has brought out some surprising features. Some teams which had been picked as certain contenders have failed dismally, while others have been playing far better than was expected.

The race in the National League is a much more open affair than that in the American. Less than nine games separte the leader and eight-place club in the Hevdler circuit, and with the teams so closely bunched any sort of a spurt will completely change the pennant prospects of a particular club within a short time. In the American League the gap between leader and tailender stretches to about eighteen games, with the sixth-place team further behind the leaders than is the last-place club in the National. The dividing line between the contenders and the also rans is clearly marked in the junior major league, but not in its older rival.

For New York fans the continued failure of the Giants to exert a real influence in the pennant fight has been a big disappointment. There is still hope that the Giants may come through, as they are not far behind the leaders, but there is the disadvantage that several other teams are as close up or closer. It is not a case of beating one or two teams. The Giants have several to excel before they can become a real factor, and up to date these other clubs have been stepping along a bit faster than the McGrawmen. The fans have not given up hope, but they are becoming a trifle lugubrious.

The Reds are performing up to advance dope, while the Robins and Cardinals are doing better than the critics expected of them. The failure of the Cubs to win more than half of their games, even with Alexander pitching up to his old-time brilliancy, is a knock to the chances of the Cubs. The Giants alone of the second division clubs had been rated as a pennant contender, though it was expected that the Pirates would string along in the first division.

American league teams are running closer to predictions. The Detroit debacle was wholly unexpected, but otherwise there has been no marked surprise. The Indians and Yanks were rated as the real contenders and they are now making the fight. The White Sox are finding it difficult to follow the pace with only fair pitching, and the Red Sox, after a brilliant start, are gradually dropping back from the leaders. The Washington club has shown surprising ability in hitting and run-getting, but the pitching has not been strong enough to put the team much above the .500 mark. It would not be surprising if the White Sox spurted and made it a three-cornered fight, but it is difficult to figure any of the five other clubs as likely to figure heavily in the big fight yet to come. —N. Y. Times.

AN ENGLISH MASTERPIECE

The unknown is always fascinating and the Western mind scan little fathom the Oriental and his ways of reasoning. It is to this element of the fascination of the unknown that we can trace the present day popularity of the drama with an Oriental setting. There have, of late, been many photoplays dealing with the inscrutability of the Chinese and Japanese as contracted with the American character, but there was no really great photoplay coming nearer home and dealing with the contact of the Briton with the Oriental until the production of "Mr. Wu," a remarkable photoplay dealing with Anglo-Chinese life. This is showing at the Allen Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

In this unusual story, we have all the elements of the life of British occupancy in Chinese territory.

"Mr. Wu" is Li Chang Wu, a Chinese trader, philosopher and aristocrat, upon whose unhappy contact with the Godfrey famiy, the story dwells.

Godfrey is a trader and his son, defying Western Traditions, carries on an intrigue with Nang Ping, Mr. Wu's charming daughter. It is from this point that the main action of the play starts, giving full scope to the wonderful character acting of Matheson Lang, the English actor, who created the speaking role in the stage presentation of the story, which ran in London for two years.

Matheson Lang's portrayal of the Chinese Merchants Prince is an absorbing one and he carries the screen by storm, just as he carried the stage.

This is a story of horror. It was a terrible revenge that Mr. Wu planned to execute upon the family of the man, who wronged him. The revenge is in keeping with the spirit which prompted him to slay his own erring daughter, but there are no crudities in the sequence of the story, no objectionable happenings, and the climax is worked out in a logical and totally unexpected manner.

With Matheson Lang is Miss Lillah McCarthy, in the role of the Englishwoman, upon whom Mr. Wu would wreak his vengeance. There is a very competent supporting cast. Miss McCarthy, of course, is almost equally as well-known in the theatrical world as Matheson Lang.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT THE PETERBORO GOLF AND COUNTRY CLUB

The season of 1920 opened with unusual eclat at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club on the afternoon of Monday, May the 31st. Due to the untiring efforts of a very efficient organization the club presented a charming picture of life and gayety. The natural beauty of the situation needs no description as all are familiar with the links—embracing, as they do, probably the choicest bit of country lying between the river and the canal, with a background suggestive of a landscape by Claude Lorraine. The little club house is so simple that one may well call it a bungalow and what it lacks in size is amply compensated for by its trim appearance, its cool, shady verandah encircling three sides of the house, equipped with close screening effectually shutting out flies, mosquitoes and other pests of the night.

Last year the various committees decided that, the war over, the membership constantly increasing and so forth, the matter of improvements must be taken up. So electricity was installed and a new bit of ground along the canal added to the course. Unfortunately, the problem of securing help is just as difficult at the Country Club as elsewhere, so last season many things had to be overlooked and much was left for the directors and committees who took up the good work this spring. To use a popular and expressive term, much "pep" has been introduced into the management, and while comments are heard on all sides—some complimentary and some otherwise—one must admit a decided change has occurred at the Country Club. A great many old members have dropper out—not thoroughly in support with the new order—some devoties of sport claiming that with the increase of the membership and the fees, the quality of golf is retrograding; others claiming that so many are coming in for the social privileges that the charming, exclusive atmosphere of other days is passing and so they retire from the lists and leave the course to the new order of things and progress. On the other hand, many are seeking admission, neither appalled by the large fees nor the fact that the place is with the new order—some devotees so the average remains about as usual, and for those who wish to remain the golf is still very good, the view from the verandah is delightful, one meets occasionally an old friend, welcomes a new member and arrives at the conclusion that much life and pleasure centre about the club house and its environs.

To give due credit to the efforts of the male directors of the club, I must mention besides the electricity and screened verandah, the fact that the men's lockers are nicely equipped and shower baths are available so that after several rounds of golf, the tired business man comes out on the verandah smiling, hungry and happy, fresh from the bath and quite prepared to motor home to his loving spouse and family. So well satisfied are the women with having their men folks happy that one hears very few complaints that the "showers" are not provided for the fair sex. However, when a feeble protest is made, the men retort that like voting—the women would scarcely take the trouble out there were the privilege given them.

The House Committee spent much time and thought on the living room and the improvement is marvellous. Three French windows now open on the verandah across the front of the club house where were an ordinary door and two windows. The effect when opened is charming. The room seems to have gained so much space and the interior is resplendent in its new paint, varnish and chintz. A brick fire-place occupies the centre of the long wall opposite the windows, sash curtains of net veil the two doors in the ends of the room, and long curtains of bright chintz on the French windows add a note of cheerfulness and comfort to the room. The walls are painted a very faint bisque shade, the ceiling and woodwork are white, the foor a deep mahogany colour and chintz-bordered runners on the old-fashioned walnut centre-table complete the "home" atmosphere. A piano has been put that a very good piano has been put in and one may expect from now on many little impromptu dances. It is rumoured that the new steward performs very cleverly on the piano, but modesty has so far prevented the guests from enjoying his efforts. Nevertheless, a good deal of entertaining has been done in these few weeks and last week there were no less than two large luncheons, several teas, one evening affair, consisting of bridge and dancing, while this week a number of guests enjoyed a verandah tea, which all voted a great success.

The number of guests remaining for supper (a better name than dinner for the menu served) is not so large as one might expect, but later one, as many households separate for the summer, there will likely be an increase, especially among the male members. A very pleasant feature of summer entertaining is a jolly little supper for a few congenial friends at the club and as the cuisine improves, there will be many such.

There are two very efficient captains, one for the men and one for the ladies, and each is stimulating interest in the game as much as possible. Last week a professional came down from Toronto and said the course was in better condition than he expected to find it—not very sporty or difficult but pretty well kept—the greens very fast. Every Friday afternoon is ladies' field day and two weeks ago the season was inaugurated by a very successful picnic luncheon. Many matches are being arranged and members urged to keep and give in their scores very regularly. All in all the season is off to a good start and it is up to the members to enjoy all the privileges of the club and to have some downright good sport.

WORD OF HOPE FROM GENEVA

Out of chaos is coming a new order; born of suffering and slaughter, there is a yearning desire to help forward the healing of the nations. This is the word of good cheer that has been brought back to Canada by a Canadian Red Cross worker from the centre of internationa Red Cross work in Geneva. It is a message that will be heard with gladness by many a Canadian soldier who saw the slaughter and the suffering and the chaos, and has been tempted to ask: "What has come of it all?"

Mrs. Waagen, who brings the inspiration, has been spending a day or so in Toronto on her way home to Calgary and to her work in the Provincial Red Cross of Alberta, of which she was practically the manager through the war, accomplishing great things and sending forth the many stores of necessities during that time. Now she is setting herself to the peace-time work of the organization, beginning it in a spirit of clear-eyed optimism that combines enthusiasm with that courage which is willing to wait patiently for resuts.

Many Departments.

"It is a happy colony that is ready at work in Geneva," said Mrs. Waagen when seen by the press on Tuesday. "There are about 150 people in the different departments, and they are established in a beautiful old building in the Court St. Pierre. It is close to the old church of St. Peter, and is very rich in memories of Calvin. As you know, the International Red Cross League was organized to give effect to Article 25 in the League of Nations, and has become the auxiliary to the League in time of peace as it was an auxiliary to national Governments in time of war.

"The Director-General is Sir David Henderson, and working with him is the General Secretary. Dr. Rappard, a marvellous man, a Swiss, with the gift of tongues, who before the war was a professor at Harvard, and during the war became intensely interested in the Red Cross. Of the various divisions, the Department of Administration concerns itself with building up Red Cross Societies in those parts of the world where the society is weak. It gets in touch with the National Society, sends a visitor on a commission of investigation, and sends along advice as to the way to form branches and to get membership.

"For instance, it was found that disease was rife in Poland. The Red Cross has gone in and is promoting all forms of medical service, standing at the back of doctors and nurses with supplies. It is doing the same in Czecho-Slovakia, in South America, where in one town the Red Cross has formed a branch with 400 members ready to fight disease.

"There is soon to be issued an international public health journal, which will contain information gathered from every quarter of the globe, assimilated by the Medical Department, and sent out again in four languages, English, French, Italian and Spanish. What this means in the way of careful translation one can only dimly imagine.

Dr. Osler's Pupils.

"It is interesting to us Canadians," said Mrs. Waagen, "to know that three of the doctors connected with the medical department of the work at Geneva were Dr. Oser's first pupils at John Hopkins. Miss Alice Fitzgerald, who is in charge of the Department of Nursing Service, is a delightful person, who speaks three languages and was in charge of the American Nursing Service in France. The department is working toward a standardization of the nursing service in European countries, and scholarships in nursing will shortly be founded which will be open to the countries which are members of the League. The Departments of Publicity and of Statistics are also doing a wonderful work.

Tragedy of The Children.

From the work at Geneva Mrs. Waagen went on to speak of conditions in Austria, especially among the children, where the hospitals are filled with little ones covered with sores and where tuberculosis and ricketts have so ravaged the little frames that it has been found necessary to amputate arms and legs to save the little life. Conditions in Vienna, which was no country behind her from which to draw supplies, are indescribabe. The Swedish Red Cross is doing noble work here. Five thousand children of the better classes, who were untainted by disease, have been taken to Sweden to be nourished. Fifty-nine relief stations have been opened and the Red Cross feeds 12,000 people daily. All supplies come from the farms of Sweden, the farmer when he brings his wares to market including a bag of wheat or corn for the starving children, who are too ill to be moved from the towns in Austria. Clothing is also sent in by trainloads

"I found a Swedish Red Cross representative in Berlin also. Things are not so bad here, but no child more than a year old is allowed milk, and babies under a year can only get a litre. There is no sugar; butter is scarce; coffee is made from beans, and all one can get on the bread ration ticket is nauseating black bread.

The Hate of Hate.

"Time and again," said Mrs. Waagen, turning to international conditions, "I was faced with the pathetic question, 'What can be done to lessen the spirit of hate between the nations Is there distrust and suspicion in your country as there is here in Europe?'" And Mrs. Waagen went on to say that more and more, as she saw what the Red Cross is doing for physical health, nationally and internationally, she has come to realize that it may become the agency to bring about greater harmony in national affairs.

"If you do a man a kindness you soon cease to hate him, don't you?" she asked smiling.

THE BIG SHOE.

(By Rell Frances in "Juvenile Fancies.")

Last night my nurse told me a story,
A woman who lived in a shoe.
It may be all right but I doubt it;
I just can't believe it, do you?
And then she had so many children
She didn't now where to begin:
Now, I don't care how big that shoe was,
I'm sure they could never get in.

No one ever heard of shoe houses;
Who ever had such great big feet?
I tell you I just can't believe it,
They never could walk on the street.
Why, how could they put in the windows,
And where is the place for the smoke,
The bathroom, upstairs, and no roof on;
I think the whole hting is a joke

It's just like that old Humpty-Dumpty:
You know he sat on a wall;
In some way, they don't really tell us,
He got such a terrible fall.
You know how the old story ran—
They could not—it's only a riddle,
Because he's an egg, not a man.

LEAN DAYS FOR THE PRINTER.

The Altario "Arrow," after a more or less precarious existence of four months, has been deleted from our exchange list. No issues have been received for several weeks and we now learn that publication is suspended. These are lean days for the rural journalist, and unless old H.C.L. takes a drop soon, various other similar communities will find themselves without a newspaper to chronicle their joys and sorrows and promote the best interests of their respective districts.—"Borderline Budget."

PRINTING Done Here

COMPARED WITH ELSEWHERE

You'd startle your tailor if, when you wanted a suit of clothes, you asked him to submit a bid in competition with a dozen other tailors.

"Why," he would say, "this is ridiculous. This man knows what kind of a suit of clothes I give him. He knows he can depend on the quality of the material, the make, the fit. He knows me, and has proved my work. Some ellow around the corner may underbid me—but what will he deliver?"

You don't buy tailoring that way. No man does. You know your tailor you rely on him, you trust him, you give him your work just as long as he turns out good work at prices that are fair.

Do you buy your printing as intelligently? Do you make it your business TO FIND A GOOD PRINTER as you do a good tailor, and then rely on his experience, his ability and his judgment?

Men who do, get good printing. Men who buy printing here and there, wherever the price is shaved closest, are the ones who have printing worries

OPPOSED VOTE FOR LINDSAY ARSENAL.

In discussing the Militia estimates in the House of Commons, a vote of $258,112 for the Dominion Arsenal of Lindsay, Hon. Mr. King thought, should be reduced by $150,000. He also moved an amendment to reduce the vote of $532,512 for the Dominion Arsenal at Quebec by $250,000.

The first amendment was defeated by 49 to 39, and the second was defeated by 50 to 39.

Mr. Guthrie contended that Canada was increasing her military expenditures at a less ratio than any other country that was in the war.

SATELLITE CITIES.

Much interest has been taken throughout England in a new plan for the building of a city about 20 miles from London on model lines. Under this Welwyn Garden City scheme it is intended that a town of ultimately about 50,000 inhabitants shall be gradually constructed as a compete unit, with its own factories, warehouses, shops and residences, in contrast to the many districts which are almost exclusively confined to dwelling houses for people who go into the metropolis daily in pursuit of their livelihood. Such places have come to be known as dormitory suburbs, and the new scheme is based on the theory that the only solution of the whole problem of comfortable housing and convenient transport is to set up instead what are described as satellite cities, in the sense that London itself is the centre of all things, but that within a radius of 20 to 25 miles there should be a ring of these almost self-contained communities. A interesting feature of the scheme is that the capital provided will only received a maximum interest of 7 per cent., and as the town is gradually built any increment of values arising from the settlement of the people will be conserved for their own social advantage.

WEDDING BELLS

REID—DUNFORD.

LAKEFIELD, June 19.—A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dunford in Douro (near Lakefield) on Wednesday evening, when their second daughter, Susan Margaret, was united in marriage to Mr. Oscar Harold Reid, of Young's Point, by Rev. S F. Dixon, pastor of the Lakefield Methodist Church.

The bride looked very charming in a costume of white silk crepe de chine, and carried a bouquet of orange blossoms. She was attended by her sister, Miss Celia Dunford, attired in palest pink silk crepe. Mr. Alvin Drain, of Dummer, was best man.

The ceremony was performed on the verandah, under an arch of evergreens and ferns, in the presence of a number of friends of the contracting parties. The house was prettily decorated with ferns and evergreens and flowers, of which marguerites predominated.

The bride travelled in a taupe Japanese serge suit, with a white hat. The young couple will spend a short honeymoon at Port Hope and Cobourg and will then take up their residence at Young's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid received many beautiful gifts and the good wishes of hosts of friends for their married life.

Blaney, 390 Walton Street, Peterborough, on Thursday evening, June 17, at 7 o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Mary Anne (Molly) was united in marriage to John Rohlig, of Bell Rapids. The ceremony was performed by Mr. Angus Kennedy, of Hamilton, in the presence of only the immediate relatives.

The bride looked dainty and charming in a gown of georgette over cream satin. Her corsage bouquet consisted of lovely Ophelia roses and white carnations.

The bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome and useful gifts. After a sumptuous dinner a pleasant evening was spent.

FORECASTS RISING IN INDIA.

London Star Believes That Plan is to Start it in the Autumn.

LONDON. — Alarming confidential reports of an intended uprising in India in the autumn are reaching the Government, according to The Star, which says that Bolshevist literature is known to be behind the movement. The India Office, when questioned with regard to The Star reports, declared that it had received no such information. The Star, however, makes the flat assertion and displays the news sensationally.

"It is considered by the authorities at home," The Star says, "to be more than probable that organization in Turkestan of a Red force to attack Persia and Afghanistan is but part of a big plot by which it is hoped to end our power in India. The opinion is expressed that should the whole Bolshevik plot mature our present forces in India would be insufficient to cope with the rising."

IN MEMORIAM.

A Birthday greeting of 19 years to-day—June 19th, 1901, to June, 1920, of Jack Watkiss, who was drowned at No. 7 Lock, two years ago, 5th June, 1918.

Our birth is but a sleep and a forgetting;
The soul that rises with us, our life's star
Hath elsewhere its setting,
And cometh from afar;
Not in entire forgetfulness,
And not in utter nakedness,
But trailing clouds of glory do we come
From God, who is our home:
Heaven lies about us in our infancy.

Thy Presence Sweet.

Still through long years of vigil I may share
For it from that enchanted spirit-land
Thy healthful thought into my soul may shine
E'en though thy voice be still and cold thy hand;
To lift my life and make it pure as thine.
Then, though thy place a void must be
Beloved friend, thou art not dead to me.

Flowers.

Yet no, not words, for they
But half can tell love's feeling,
Sweet flowers alone can say
What passion fears revealing,
A once bright rose without leaf
A towering lily paint a grief.
Oh, these may paint a grief
No words could e'er have spoken.

Allied Fleets Concentrated For The Defence of Constantinople

THE ALLIES PREPARE TO USE NAVIES

WILL MAKE AN EFFORT TO STOP ADVANCE OF NATIONALISTS IN TURKEY.

SITUATION GRAVE

(Canadian Press.)

BOULONGE, June 21. — Greece was given a free hand in military measures in Turkey, which were decided upon at the conference yesterday, acording to information received here to-day. The premiers and their advisers found that these measures were required immediately, because of the grave situation resulting from Mustapha's Kemal's Nationalist forces reaching the Dardanelles.

French and British troops and the British fleet will be concentrated for the defence of Constantinople and the Straits.

(Canadian Press.)

WELL SATISFIED.

BOULOGNE, June 21.—Premiers Lloyd-George and Millerand, accompanied by Marshal Foch and the French Finance Minister, arrived this morning by special boat from Folkestone.

Premier Venizelos of Greece was in the party, and he will participate in the sessions of the conference, at which the questions of Turkey and Armenia are discussed. He will formally offer, in the name of Greece, to take a mandate for Armenia.

Both the French Premier and his Finance Minister expressed upon their arrival perfect satisfaction with the results of the Hythe conference, contradicting the general rumours.

They said complete accord between France and Great Britain had been reached at the Hythe conference as to reparations and disarmament. They added that France had every reason to be satisfied.

ANYONE MAY WEAR SERVICE BADGE.

If He Does Not Seek to Obtain Benefits Therefrom, Rules Magistrate.

CALGARY, June 20.—In dismissing the charge against T. A. P. Frost, a member of the staff of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Department here, of unlawfully wearing a military button. Magistrate Saunders ruled that any person can wear a classifying service badge of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, providing such persons do not attempt to secure any benefits therefrom or obtain what is meant for those who have actually served with the army in France.

Frost, who served in the army and reached England only, claimed to have found the button, and was wearing it until he could locate the owner.

THE CITY ENGINEER HAS NOT RESIGNED

Mr. R. H. Parsons is Still on the Job.

"Is it true that you have resigned?" Mr. R. H. Parsons, City Engineer, was asked by The Examiner to-day.

"No, it is not true. I haven't reached any definite decision yet."

A rumour had been circulated that the City Engineer had resigned, but no foundation was found for it. The position which he is considering is that of deputy chief engineer at Hamilton, and from every viewpoint Mr. Parsons states that it is an excellent offer.

VANCOUVER, June 21.— An unknown number of persons, variously estimated at from four to ten, perished in a fire which late last night destroyed the Balmoral apartments. Known dead are Charles Dennehey, of Pacific Steamship Company, Miss McLennan and three unidentified men.

Rioting Renewed

ONE MORTALLY WOUNDED AND TWO BADLY INJURED IN RIOTS IN LONDONDERRY.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 21.—Civil war conditions prevail in Londonderry, and the authorities are powerless, it is declared in an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Londonderry this afternoon.

Several additional persons were killed this morning, according to a message from the same source.

Firing is being maintained with desperate intensity.

LONDONDERRY, June 21. — Rioting was renewed in this city this morning and resulted in one person being mortally wounded and two seriously hurt. Rifle and revolver firing was almost continuous and as the people feared to venture out to work business was virtually at a standstill.

The mob this morning openly fired on the troops, and at one o'clock this afternoon rioting was still in progress.

John Gallagher, who was wounded yesterday, died to-day, bringing the number of death for the present outbreak of party strife up to six.

Shops and schools were closed today and many houses were barricaded because of rioting. Streets were deserted by all except those fighting or protecting vantage points. The dock workers struck, declaring they would not handle freight until peace was restored. Rioting, which commenced at two a.m., is still in progress and troops have been withdrawn. Reports of additional casualties were received, but travel on streets was so dangerous that it was impossible to obtain accurate results.

IN FLANDERS FIELDS THE POPPIES THICKLY GROW

"The battlefields are a mass of poppies and cornflowers, a riot of color," writes a Canadian girl visiting the scenes of the great conflict. "The weather has so crumbled the old parapets and the vegetation covered them so thickly that the trenches are a scarcely noticeable feature of the landscape, and in many places they have been quite obliterated by the work of reconstruction. Were it not for the ruined villages, gaunt and grim, and the occupants struggling to rebuild their homes, one might imagine that the war had occurred a hundred years ago."

THERE IS GOOD TRAVEL.

Both To and From the United States.

Mr. Fowler, immigration officer for the port of Kingston, reports that there is a very heavy passenger traffic both ways over the border, but there has been no occasion for the detention of these travellers. Greatest care had to be exercised when the circus was in town, as it was an American circus and all of the company officails, performers and employees were under heavy bonds while in the country. The followers of such shows always require to be watched with vigilance and deported as they are usually undesirable citizens. The efficiency of the immigration service has practically eliminated the confidence man, shortchangers and pickpockets that used to ply their trade at all circuses up to about ten years ago.

BOLSHEVIKI ASSEMBLING LARGE ARMY

FIFTY DIVISIONS READY FOR THE MID-SUMMER DRIVE AGAINST THE POLES.

GERMAN SUPPLIES

(Canadian Press.)

WASAW, June 21. — The Bolsheviki are reported to have assembled fifty divisions for the midsummer drive against Poland, which military observers consider to be now in full swing, the Reds attacking at various points along a 200 kilometer front.

Owing to repeated shipping by the Germans of war materials and ammunition through the neck of Polish territory reaching the Baltic Sea, the Poles are holding up all shipments across the railroad corridor of East Prussia.

The question of what material Germany will be allowed to send will probably be referred to the Supreme Council for settlement.

CROSSED RIVER.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 21. — The Russian Bolshevik troops have crossed the Kneiper river in the region of Retchitsa, where a movement is strongly developing and the Poles are being driven back, in the region of Knorsten, according to wireless despatch quoting an official statement issued at Moscow yesterday.

A Polish attack southwest of Polosk has been repulsed the statement declared.

STRUCK SOLID ROCK FOR WESTERN PIER

CONTRACTOR OF BRIDGE BLASTED THROUGH THE HARDPAN.

Blasting through the hardpan in the excavation for the west pier of the long arch of the Hunter street bridge on Saturday afternoon workmen uncovered solid rock which is being cleared for the footing.

The series of loud explosions a few minutes before five o'clock sounded like a bombardment and were peculiarly familiar to many of the veterans of the war who were watching the lacrosse game at the Riverside Park.

The rock foundation toward which the contractor has been working of late should remove any doubt of the solidity of the west side footing of the long span's pier, the construction of which will be proceeded with at once.

LONGER SKIRTS APPEAR AT FRENCH DERBY

Longchamps Skirt Three Inches Longer Than Last Season.

PARIS.—The French Derby at Longchamps was the scene of smartly gowned parties, which flocked here to see, as well as to be seen.

Threatening weather, however, was responsible for the large number of suits and wraps worn. A striking rain cloak which stood out from the many distinctive rainy day wraps was of rubberized crepe de Chine trimmed with bands of black toile ciree.

Among the new style features introduced, there were skirts which averaged three inches longer than those of last season, and were only six and eight inches from the ground.

Pleatings are waning in favor, while the vogue for embroidery continues to grow apace, especially in the bright colors on dark suits.

Short sleeves were noted in large numbers on silk frocks.

There were many lace dresses worn, in black as well as in white, made in tunic style, wide flouncings being used in preference to narrow laces.

Large cloches, and velvet hats were new millinery notes, the velvets developed in victory blue, violet, and old gold. Simple trimmings were dominant in these, such as small flowers made of feathers and metal.

The toque trimmed with large fan shaped wing continues to be the popular millinery note, judging from the number of hats of this type worn on this occasion.

ALL PREPARED FOR THE 12TH

TWENTY THOUSAND VISITORS EXPECTED IN CITY ON THAT DATE.

The 230th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne will be fittingly observed in this city this year, and in the attendance, the parade, and the programme prepared, this year promises to beat all records. Over 20,000 visitors are expected to be in Peterborough on The Twelfth.

Four years ago the celebration was held here, and although it was a red letter day in Orangedom, this year will undoubtedly see more Orangemen in the city than ever walked here before. The war called many young Orangement to the Colours—just as it did from every other organisation, and now these men are back and once again will they march behind the fife and drum.

The committee in charge is composed of W. J. Hancock, chairman, and Rec. Secretary H. Dodds, while the Reception Committee is Brothers J. H. Spence, John Edgar, and Adjt. Buntin.

The grand parade will start from Central Park at 1 p.m., and will wind up at the Exhibition Grounds, where noted speakers, among whom are R. W. Bro. Dr. J. Edwards, D.G.M., Kingston, Bro. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, Bro. M. G. T. O'Brien, Ottawa, Bro. Bradford, will speak, and sports will be held.

To help defray the extra heavy expenses, 25 cents a head will be charged at the grounds.

Arrangements are being completed by the committee in charge for meals and accommodation for the Orangemen.

Sheesley Shows will open at the Exhibition Grounds the same day, and it is expected to prove an additional drawing card.

MOB RULE REIGNS TILLSONBURG RACES

TILLSONBURG, June 21.—Coincident with the races here Saturday afternoon mob rule reigned at the racing park and things assumed a very serious aspect at one time. Some nine or ten concession men, said to be members of a summer carnival at St. Thomas, were operating three games of the old three-card monte game. One member refused to pay a bet and blows were exchanged, while the concession men started the call of "Hey, rube," and by this time several hundred persons had gathered. After a hard tussle Chief Creighton managed to arrest the offender. In the meantime the rest of the crew helped themselves to a local car and beat it with the bankroll, but were pursued by other cars and finally ran into a ditch about five miles from town. They were brought back to town and placed under arrest.

They were given an immediate hearing before Magistrate Hare, and all bets were paid back as far as could be ascertained, aggregating some $600. In the meantime another member of the gang had broken into a house near the park and frightened the women folks, driving them out of doors, but as soon as the news reached the park the mob again surrounded the house and captured the culprit in the pantry. Later $200 in bills was found strewn around where he had thrown them to allay suspicion. The bets were repaid and the prisoners freed, but it is reported on good authority that the Attorney-General will make investigations locally, as the same crew had got into similar trouble in Woodstock and Ingersoll.

The population of New South Wales is 1,009,743 males and 990,430 females. The excess of births over the deaths during the past year was 22,142.

EQUALIZED ASSESSMENT DETERMINED

THE THIRD DISCUSSION

With their slate cleared of business and nothing remaining but to wind up the week's session the County Council on Saturday turned its attention once more to the equalized assessments, rescinded Deputy-Reeve Wilson resolution carried on Friday increasing the total assessment by only $50,000, which the township of North Monaghan voluntarily assumed, and instead wrote into the minutes Reeve Griffith's amendment adopting the first schedule of increases recommended by the equalized assessments committee with a slight alteration to bring the three villages into line. It was the unexpected happening at the last moment.

Had Approved Increases.

The assessment committee comprising the entire Council with Reeve Scott of Asphodel, chairman, had agreed to assessment increases aggregating approximately $300,000. County Clerk Elliot had called attention to the condition he had discovered showing that the total of the local assessments was slightly higher than the total equalized assessment. It was necessary according to statute that the equalized should be the higher, and the committee decided to make a sufficient increase to cover local increments in the next two years until a new and periodic revaluation would be made.

Deputy-Reeve Wilson had contended that the increase in Monaghan's equalized assessment from $686,340 to $1,015,183 was exorbitant and unfair for the reason that the suburban sections were virtually assessed as city properties thereby imposing a burden upon the rural district.

Followed Monaghan's Lead.

To preclude any criticism of discrimination Reeve Griffith had presented an amendment to the committee's report providing for increases in the equalized assessment of Havelock, Norwood and Lakefield which had been excluded with several of the remote townships, but the Council followed Mr. Wilson and accepted his amendment to keep the total assessment as low as possible with Monaghan accepting the increase required to satisfy the law.

The Council's majority was decisive when the division was taken on Friday afternoon, and apparently the question which had occupied parts of two days was disposed of.

Minutes Offered Last Chance

However, when the minutes were read on Saturday Reeve Bullied a resolution which substituted the committee's original report in the place of Mr. Wilson's minimum increase.

With the subject thrown open again Mr. Griffith moved an amendment seconded by Mr Coughrin embodying Mr. Griffith's former proposal which accepted the committee's increases but amplified them by including the three villages.

This latter amendment carried, providing for a new total equalized assessment more than $300,000 in excess of the total the Council set out to correct. The township increases prepared by the committee have already been published, but the statement did not include Reeve Griffith's amendment applying to the villages as follows:—Lakefield's equalized assessment raised from $287,600 to $316,360; Norwood's from $267,022 to $294,098; and Havelock's from $170,072 to $187,079.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ON THE CHURCH LAWN

Minature Flood in Basement of Trinity Chuch.

The Primary Department of Trinity Sunday School held their classes on the lawn south of the church yesterday afternoon when they found their quarters in the basement of the church had been flooded out earlier in the week by a break in a pipe.

Several inches of water covered the carpet and soaked the furniture, and choosing the only alternative the chairs and tables were moved out on the lawn and the lessons and singing went on as enthusiastically as ever.

Needless to say, the outdoor Sunday School delighted the kiddies, and doubtless they would welcome a miniature flood every week.

A Rough Session

THIS IS THE PROSPECT FOR THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 21.— Government this week is likely to sustain a somewhat rough handling in the House of Commons regarding expenditures. On Wednesday operations in Mesopotamia will be criticized, also the cost of the proposal to reclothe the army in scarlet. Lord Nirthcliffe's group of papers for some time has been making dead set against Austin Chamberlin, Chancellor of the Exchequer. They are now being joined by other anti-government journals who do not often find themselves a uch in agreement. It is asserted that coalitionists are averse to the scarlet uniform proposals and have been officially warned that a vote against the proposal will be interpreted as a vote for change of government.

Ex-Premier Asquith, speaking on Saturday, made a strong attack on the government's alleged extravagance.

THE WEATHER

Rain, and still more rain, to supply our present needs, and also to make up for the shortage of the spring. To-day is the longest day of the year. The sun rises and sets at its most northerly point, and from now on the days will be begin to shorten somewhat, and the sun to rise and set a little to the southward, until September 21st, when the days and nights will be of equal length, and the sun rise and set in the true east and west.—W. RACE RIOTS IN CHICAGO BLACK BELT

THREE NEGRO MINISTERS AT TACKED BY A MOB—POLICE RESERVES CALLED OUT.

NEGROES RESCUED

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, June 21. — Race troubles broke out here to-day in two places. Three negro ministers returning from Kananakee were attacked by a mob of 150 whites at a railroad station here shortly after midnight. Police reserves rescued them. They were taken to a hospital.

Another mob attacked Herbert Mitchell, a negro at a downtown railroad station. Mitchell was removed to a hospital.

Several hundred police reserves were patrolling the "black belt" today following the outbreaks.

DECORATION DAY IN LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, June 21.— Sunday was the Oddfellows' decoration day, and it was never more honored than this year. The weather was ideal and hundreds turned out to see the procession and many accompanied the brethren to the cemeteries. The route was fairly lined with motor cars filled with people and many were on foot. At precisely 2.30 p.m. the procession left the Oddefllows' hall headed by the Peterborough Salvation Army band of seveneen pieces, who played beautifully during the mach and at both the cemeteries.

The Oddfellows were about forty strong and were in charge of the following officers: Acting Noble Grand, Bro. Robert Webster, Vice Grand Bro. Stanley Higgins, Chaplain Bro. J. Roy Robinson, Marshall Bro. R. C. Murduff.

The line of march was up Queen street to the Hillside cemetery, where they had a beautiful and impressive service and where the grave of the late Bro. Milton Nelson was decorated. Afterwards the line of march was to the Lakefield cemetery, where the graves of four deceased brethren were decorated, viz.: Bros. Wm Hamilton, George McWilliams, W. S. Curry and W. Jory.

RAINFALL WORTH MILLIONS

According to Hon. Manning Doherty, Tuesday's and Wednesday's rains were worth milions to the Province, a statement which has been confirmed by farmers from all parts of the country. Nearly two-thirds of an inch of rain fell during the two days, or more than the total rainfall during the month of May. Tuesday's downpour was the heaviest of the season, with two-fifths of an inch, according to the records of the Toronto Observatory, while that of Wednesday reached one-fifth of an inch. The country was badly in need of rain. Every kind of crop, from hay and grain to vegetables and fruits, will benefit as a result of the two days' downpour.

JUDGE DEDUCTS ONE YEAR FOR EACH WOUND

Anthony Telensy Sentenced For Raising Bank Notes.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—An excellent record made by Anthony Telensy while serving overseas during the war, saved him from a long prison term for raising $10 notes to $50. The prisoner was wounded fourteen times, and in imposing sentence Judge Thompson deducted a year for each wound. He was given one year in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga.

CONCILIATION BOARD DEALT WITH STATISTICS SATURDAY

COST OF LIVING HERE AND ELSEWHERE DISCUSSED WITH THE WAGE ISSUE.

There was but little real business discussed before the Conciliation Board between the Canadian General Electric Company and their striking workmen, Saturday morning. Chairman Judge Gunn and his colleagues had in their hands statistics relating to wages and working conditions in dispute, previously prepared in documentary form by both sides, which, together with their investigations in Friday's open session, gave them sufficient material from which to prepare a report of their findings ready for Thursday next.

In following the proceedings, the impression conveyed to a neutral observer by Chairman Judge Gunn's criticisms and counsels was that he had not been favorably impressed by the men's position. More than once he regretted that the employees had not stayed at work, and asked for a Board of Conciliation under the industrial disputes act, and thus averted an unfortunate situation of hostility. In this sentiment his honor especially addressed himself to the Electrical workers. He also ruled emphatically that it was not within the power of any officer of the C.G.E. or other company to enter into an agreement committing their corporation to accept whatever award a Board of Conciliation might make For Senator Nicholls or Mr. E. G. Patterson to consent to the men returning to work under such conditions, without authority from their Board of Directors, was quite impossible.

Cost of Living.

Saturday morning, Mr. H. Harper, representing the machinists, opened up the question of wages paid elsewhere, together with the relation of the cost of living to wage schedules. He challenged figures in this connection submitted by the C. G. E. and cited London firms as paying 75c; Three Rivers Ship Yard 80c; Canada Cycle and Motor Co., Weston, 80c; Hamilton firms 75c and one Toronto industry 77 1-2c an hour.

... The Board Understood.

Here Judge McGillivary interposed that the Board quite understood the cost of living problem, its relation to wages and that money will not buy as much to-day as in years past. There was no use, His Honor contented in wasting time over such arguments. Generally speaking, he said, living is higher in large centre than in smaller communities. As to such staples like sugar, flour, cotton, there is but little difference in their prices throughout the province, while some items entering ito the cost of living are necessities in many districts and luxuries in others. Street cars, for instance, are indispensable in a city like Toronto, but might be ranked as a luxury in some localities He reiterated his contention thae living costs more in large cities than in smaller communities and declared that all the statistics in the world would not convince him to the contrary.

Not on Trial

Organizer Harper took exception to the report that the C.G.E. strike was due to outside interference. Personally, he had simply served in his official capacity in an attempt to adjust local differences, and he had never met any serious objection to his methods or attitude while in discharge of his duties here or elsewhere. He might differ with Mr. Layfield in this board's session on issues at stake, but their relations would be quite cordial outside.

Judge McGillivary here pointed out that Mr Harper was not on trial, and assured him that the board had no reason to assume that his services had not been offered and accepted in good faith by both contending parties.

FLOWER SUNDAY AT GEORGE ST.

The annual flower service at George street Methodist Church held under these auspices of the Sunday School forms one of the most interesting and impressive services held during the year. That of yesterday was no exception.

The pupils and teachers of the Sunday School entered the church by classes, bearing large bouquets of flowers. These were artistically arranged on three large arches, extending the width of the pulpit platform, and were also massed around the edge of the platform.

The service was in charge of the Superintendent Mr George Robertson, assisted by Messrs. S. R. Armstrong and A. Hagerman and Dr. J. Middleton. Rev. A. J. Thomas addressed the school on flowers and their relation to life.

In the afternoon a band of volunteer workers from the various classes distributed a large number of bouquets to the sick, aged and shut-ins.

The Fatherhood of God.

The pastor preached at the evening service on the Fatherhood of God taking his texts from Matthew 6-9 and 1 Corinthians 8-6. There are two primal ideas about worthy living, a righ idea about man and a right idea about God. If we mistake these, we are wrong on every other idea. We know little about ourselves, so how can we fathom God. The purpose of Jesus in coming to earth was to talk about God and man, and we owe him a great debt of gratitude. Jesus addresses God as Father signifying not only God as author of life but also as a Being of fatherly feeling. Jesus spoke of God as the Father 51 times The title was used solely by the Apostles in their writings. "In using the term" said Mr. Thomas, "they referred not only to those who are Christians, but also to those who are not. The scriptures lead to the conclusion the God is the Father of every one worthy or unworthy. All are his children, worthy or unworthy, though those who have come by faith are his own children."

God a Being of Love.

God is not only a being of power, but also of love directed by wisdom. Unlike some parents, God never fails to do his duty.

Greatness of Mankind.

The Fatherhood of God shows the greatness of mankind. Other forms of life cannot enter into the direct relationship like men. Since God is our Father, surely we are meant for a great and wondrous destiny.

Assurance of Care

The Fatherhood of God gives assurance of care We are in the keeping of on who has limitless resources and satisfies our needs with wisdom. The world is a palace which God has fitted for his children. It is folly to worry and unworthy for God to protect.

The Fatherhood of God throws light on human sorrow. As a parent punishes a child for its good, so God permits sorrows for man's welfare in order to discipline and refine his character. The greatest loss is to fail to have fellowship with God, and in order to prevent a falling away God often chastens one.

The same truth justifies prayer. God is a great burden bearer. When people come to God. He is anxious to help them. Just as a parent will help and sympathize with the child in sorrow, so God will hear us when we come to Him. God loves to have us come to Him and is waiting for us David mourned for Absalom and would have died for him. God died through Jesus Christ for the world. The greatest expression of the Fatherhood of God is the cross of Jesus Christ. God is willing to receive the prodigal children, as is shown in the parable of the Prodigal Son.

The Fatherhood of God is not a guarantee of Heaven. We can only reach there through the grace of God and Jesus Christ. The sinner must pay the price unless he recognizes this. Let us be sure we are real children of God born again in the spirit of Christ.

BULL ATTACKS AUTOMOBILE.

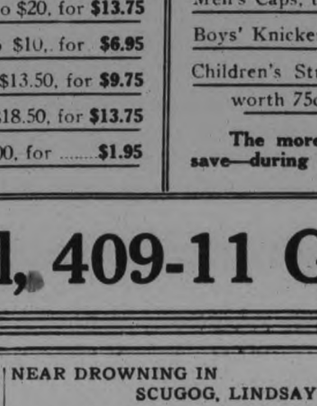
George Thibault, proprietor of the summer hotel at Outlet, a village a few miles from Picton, was driving his car toward home recently when he chanced to meet a herd of cattle. The owner of the car slowed down to allow the animals to pass, without undue excitement. All went well until he met the leader of this large bovine family, a splendid roan bull. The latter resented the presence of the mechanical contrivance bearing down through the herd on low gear. Lowering his massive head, he charged, resulting in ony a few bruises to himself, but a twisted axle, a badly bent fender and a smashed headlight to the unfortunate motor. As Mr. Thibault inspected the damage he remarked emphatically, "I certainly admired his pluck, but he showed poor judgment."

FELDSPAR OPERATION.

That the wonderful mineral deposits of Hastings County are becoming more widely known is being evidenced daily. This week a party of mineral experts are opening up a feldspar property on the farm of Mr. James McLean. One steam drill is already at work and the quality of the ore is considered the best. The property is only about 300 yards from the railway track, and if quantity can be found there is no doubt but that a thriving business will be carried on.—Bancroft Times.

NEAR DROWNING IN SCUGOG, LINDSAY

LINDSAY, June 19.—James McCausland, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James McCausland, had a narow escape from drowning in the upper Scugog last night. He was out in a canoe fishing, and when opposite the farm of Mr. P. Murphy, the boat capsized. The occupant was thrown out in the water, and immediately grabbed the canoe, shouting at the same time for help. The boat finally filled with water and sank. Young McCausland's position was a critical one. His shouts were heard by his father, and also at the home of Mr. Murphy, but no boat was available to go to his assistance. Fortunately a motor launch hove in sight and no time was lost by the occupants in rendering aid. The boy was rescued in the nick of time, as he was well nigh exhausted, and would have gone under. The Post was unable to secure the names of those in the launch who are deserving of every praise for what they accomplished.



HASTINGS IN EXCELLENT FINANCIAL CONDITION

At the opening of the June session of the Hastings County Council Tuesday afternoon, Warden Sills told the Reeves and Deputies that Hastings was in a n excellent condition, better than for five years past. The county has not been issuing debentures freely, but levying for expenditures. The warden stated that the condition of the crops was much better than they were last June.

A SERIOUS SETBACK.

The suspension of work on the thirty million dollar Hydro Chippewa canal project as a result of the strike of the fifteen hundred workers will be regarded by the people of Ontario as a most serious matter and it is surprising to find that the Hydro-Electric Commission did not even take the trouble of consulting with the government before deciding upon the suspension of the work. While there will be little sympathy with the strikers whose demands have not impressed the public as being justified, there will be general regret that this huge scheme has been abandoned at this stage. The 420,000 horse power which the Chippewa project was expected to develop, will be needed in the near future and the industrial progress of a large section of the province will be retarded if the delay in the carrying out of the Hydro plans is protracted. The time that is being lost as a result of the labour difficulties is a serious setback.

THE PRICE OF SUGAR.

The order just passed by the Board of Commerce making speculation in sugar an indictable offence, has a more business-like sound than some of the other measures adopted by the same body. It is doubtless the result of the recent evidence heard by the Board, through which it was discovered that one particular consignment of sugar passed through five hands before reaching the consumer, with the sult that although it was sold by the refiner for 19 cents a pound it cost the customer who bought it over the counter 30 cents. The new order eliminates some of the middlemen, the brokers and speculators, whose greedy hands have come between the consumer and the refiner. When this order comes into effect the sugar refiners can sell only to wholesalers, manufacturers and retailers; wholesalers are permitted to sell only to retailers and manufacturers and the retailers only to manufacturers and consumers and in no case must the quantity sold be greater than the need of trade or household. There are a number of price restrictions imposed as well which should serve to protect the public from being the victim of profiteering although the homely old adage that "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" should not be forgotten in considering the latest order of the Board of Commerce. Viewed in advance it looks to be in the interests of the consumer for the elimination of some of the middlemen cannot fail to have a beneficial effect upon the sugar situation.

SAFETY FIRST.

There is a tragic warning for all motorists in the accident near Guelph on Friday evening when two Fergus young men lost their lives in a level crossing accident, the motor car in which they were riding being struck by a C.P.R. passenger train. The unfortunate victims knew that the train was coming and attempted to get over the tracks before it arrived, with the result that both were killed. The anxiety to save a few seconds' time hurled both into eternity. They were on their way into Guelph to attend a theatre and a delay long enough to let the train go by would not have interfered with their plans, but they made a fatal mistake and paid for it with their lives.

There is a strange trait in human nature that leads people to take risks of this kind to avoid a momentary delay. Motorists race street cars to the corner to avoid having to stop until passengers alight. If they think there is no policeman in sight they shoot past a standing street car at the risk of running down people getting on or off the car. And many of them ignore the speed limit and the traffic regulations, regardless of the danger to themselves and to others. In most cases the people who take these chances are merely out for a drive, going nowhere in particular, and at all events in no desperate need of reaching their destination at a certain fixed time. Like the people who rush out of a theatre before the falling curtain has quite reached the stage, and after tramplingover others in their anxiety to reach the street, stand outside until the hall is emptied, these careless motorists have no particular reason for acting as they do. And sometimes their lack of judgment ends like the sad affair near Guelph—in a fatality. "Safety First" is a motto that they should have fastened to the wind shield of their cars.

THE PENSION CHANGES.

The report of the Special Parliamentary committee which for two months has been considering the revision of Canada's pension system, will doubtless be received with satisfaction not only by the pensioners who will directly benefit by the reforms suggested, but by the people of Canada generally who are a unit in wishing to see that the men who are incapacitated as a result of their war service and the widows and dependents of the soldiers who gave their lives, are adequately looked after by the country for which these sacrifices were made. The increase in the pension rate makes Canada's pension system the most generous in the world, and we believe that the Canadian people are proud that this should be the case. Only in one particular is the Canadian schedule for totally incapacitated soldiers not as generous as that of any other country and that is the case of the unmarried soldier who is one hundred p.c. disabled. His yearly pension allowance under the new Canadian scale will be $900 which, while much more generous than if he were an Australian, New Zealander or an Imperial soldier, is lower than the American pension in a similar case, Uncle Sam paying $1200 a year. But the United States makes no distinction in the status of the soldier. His allowance is $1200 whether he be single or married. He may have half a dozen children to support, but he receives only the $1200 just the same.

The Canadian schedule is far more satisfactory. If the disabled soldier is married but has no children he will be paid $1,200; if he has a wife and one child $1,380, a wife and two children $1,524, or a wife and three children $1,644, and for each additional child there is a yearly allowance of $120, so that while the totally incapacitated American soldier with a wife and a family of six children has to maintain his family on $1,200 a year, the Canadian veteran in the same circumstances will receive $2,024.

Many other important changes have been recommended by the committee and will doubtless be passed by Parliament. The suggestion that a state system of life insurance be established for those soldiers who are unable to secure policies from the regular companies has frequently been advocated in these columns and the Examiner is glad to find that this particular reform is strongly urged by the committee.

The additional outlay to the country as a result of the pension changes advocated, which include a bonus of 50 per cent., calculated on the standard rates of 1918 for all pensioners, will be about $8,000,000 a year, the pensions expenditure for 1920-21 being estimated at $33,000,000. It is a large sum, but will be readily approved by the people of Canada if it will place those who directly suffered by the war in a position in which they can comfortably maintain themselves and their families.

Faint and Dizzy Spells
Weakness and Shortness of Breath

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, sinking, all-gone feeling, choking sensation, etc.

Many men and women becomes rundown and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first sign of heart weakness.

No remedy will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate its beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. S. Drake, Paris, Ont., writes:—"I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, once in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much."

JUSTICE AT LAST.

One of the most pleasing features in connection with the report of the Special Parliamentary Committee on Pensions is the recommendation of the committee that the widows of men who were killed or who died on active service shall receive the same war gratuity as they would have had if their husbands had survived. It is to be hoped that the Government will see that this suggestion is put into effect. The failure to provide this gratuity for those whose husbands were killed has been a mystery to many people who were impressed by the injustice of a system that gave a $600 gratuity to a family, the head of which had safely returned from war, while in the case of another family the bread-winner of which was killed, perhaps after two or three years' service, there was only a gratuity of two months' pay and allowances given. The committee has recommended that regardless of how long the soldier may have served, his widow shall now be given a gratuity similar to that received by soldiers who came home, based on three years' service. This act of justice has been long delayed, but it will be welcome nevertheless to hundreds of soldiers' widows and dependents.

A USELESS ELECTION SYSTEM.

The result of the balloting for the presidential nomination at the Republican convention at Chicago has shown the utter uselessness of the present system adopted by our cousins across the border, in choosing their perference from among the canddiates in the field.

In the primaries held during the spring and early summer this year three men stood out above all others in the race for nomination. These were General Leonard Wood, Hiram Johnson and Governor Frank Lowden. In the number of votes cast Johnson was away ahead of the others and he claimed to be the choice of the people. Yet he was quite out of the running at the convention. For the number of delegates elected by the people with definite voting instructions, Wood led the race, yet he could not secure the nomination. Lowden came next to him in the number of instructed delegates, and he also had to go under in the balloting. In the primaries Wood secured 158 delegates, Lowden 118 and Johnson 103, while Harding, who eventually was nominated, secured a majority only in his own state of Ohio, leading Wood by a generous margin. His total of instructed delegates was only thirty, yet he secured enough votes to win out.

The will of the people, as expressed in the primary voting, was absolutely disregarded. Johnson, with the popular majority vote, at no time secured better than third place. Wood, with the largest number of districts voting definitely in his favor, was put in the discard. The whole business was arranged and put through by the "Old Guard" political bosses, who evidently have more weight than the electors.

We are at times inclined to point across the border for a lesson in politics from the United States. The much-vaunted democracy of the United States does not seem very real when two or three men can get together to thwart the desires of the electorate. The primary is a useless but very expensive appendage to the United States' election machinery, for it costs the country and the candidates millions of dollars only to be disregarded when the party leaders get their heads together to secure the nomination of their favorite.

Here in Canada, in spite of the many complaints heard against the electoral system, saner methods prevail. The voice of the people is really supreme, and any political "boss" who tried to run things in his own way and in opposition to popular vote would not hold his place very long. Canadians who have in the past lauded the political machinery in the United States would do well to think on this, and to be satisfied with the better plan on which Canadian elections are conducted.—Kingston Whig.

A man who sets aside only $200 each six months and allows it to compound at 5½% interest will have at the end of thirty years a total fund of—

Thirty Thousand Dollars

You know many people who could set aside $200 each six months. But—

Many a man who has had time to accumulate this moderate fortune, is still "drudging along" without it. For this reason:

Very few men will systematically "put by" a certain definite sum, and leave it untouched for any reasonable length of time. Human nature is seldom built that way.

The Canada Life Plan

Our insurance policies will provide any sum you name, to be delivered to you in cash at any age you desire, or to your Beneficiary should you die in the meantime.

You can thus anticipate the years, capitalize your present health and earning power, and make certain of many years' progress now.

Profits Will Hasten Maturity

A special clause in this Policy provides that if the profits be allowed to remain at your credit each year instead of being withdrawn, the face of the Policy will be payable to you some years before you reach age 65.

More-than-Average Mileage

Long service and accidents often cause hidden injuries, that develop into premature blowouts if neglected.

Many such injuries are inevitable, but not necessarily permanent. A Goodyear Reliner, applied before the break or injury spreads, will strengthen the tire for 25 per cent. to 50 per cent. extra mileage.

Try this plan and see how effectively it lowers tire bills

Goodyear Reliners can be easily and quickly applied by anyone. Any Goodyear Service Station dealer can supply you. Or, if you prefer, go to your repairman, who will apply the Reliner for a small service charge.

WOMAN'S BRAIN GROWS WITH WAIST

WASHINGTON.—It tries the patience of Mrs. Helen H. Gardener, the first woman to be appointed to the United States Civil Service Commission, when some one bursts out with a warning that men are being feminized by woman's new activities in business and politics.

"Rubbish, all this talk about the men becoming soft and feminine!" she said. "They're becoming more decent, that's all.

"And all that's happening to woman is that her brain is functioning normally. In the days when she was regarded merely as a ballroom ornament or a kitchen essential it was flabby from disuse."

The new "lady" civil service commissioner is a vice-president of the National Women's Suffrage Association and one of the leaders in the movement to have sex discriminations of every kind removed. The thousands of women who apply each year for positions in government departments may be assured that she will be "on the job" to guard their interests. She is a writer by profession.

There's nothing aggressive about this little, white haired person whom the president has honored with the highest office awarded a woman during his administration. She is thoroughly feminine, dresses charmingly and she looks at least 20 years younger than her 62 years, despite the whiteness of her hair.

She is famous for her tact. In the days when the women were fighting for the passage of the suffrage amendment, she was known as the "diplomatic corps" of the National Women's Suffrage Association, acting as the suffragists' "ambassador" to the White House. And, according to the suffragists, her influence more than any other factor brought the president round to their cause. She is now active in the League of Women Voters, serving in the office of counsellor.

Real-Fruit Desserts The Rarest Sort

The only gelatine dessert which has fruit-juice flavors sealed in glass is Jiffy-Jell.

No artificial flavor can take the place of fruit. For Jiffy-Jell the fruit is crushed, condensed and sealed in vials. A bottle of this liquid essence comes in the package. And sugar is used—not saccharine—to sweeten Jiffy-Jell.

Jiffy-Jell comes in ten flavors. Try loganberry and pineapple for desserts. Try lime-fruit flavor for tart salad jell. Try mint for a refreshing mint jell.

A REMARKABLE BRITISH GAS-ENGINE

British engineering firms are showing remarkable skill and enterprise in developing new types of internal combustion engine. One of the latest and most interesting of these types has been designed to meet the demand in steel works for large slow-speed gas engines. Continental practice has favoured the horizontal engine, which is huge enough to fill a church, but the new British engine referred to is of the vertical design, which takes up only a fraction of the space filled by the horizontal engine. Most vertical engines have previously been high-speed machines, but this one runs at only 125 revolutions per minute. This result is achieved by arranging the cylinders in pairs, one above the other, and placing a pair on each side of the crank. Thus four cylinders combine in driving a single crank. The mechanical arrangements are so admirable that although an engine of 1,000 horse power is about 20 feet high, hardly a tremor can be noticed at the extreme top even when the engine is running on an overload. An engine of this power is now working successfully in a leading British ironworks, being used for generating electricity.

BUILDING STEEL ROOFS BY ELECTRICITY

One of the most important developments of electric welding in Great Britain lies in its application to building construction. The steel roof of a large factory recently erected in London was entirely welded, not a single rivet being employed. Each truss was completed on the ground, the various sections being merely laid in position and welded with mild steel by the arc process. When a truss was completed it was hoisted into position and welded on to the steel supports. The whole process of erection can be carried out much quicker than when riveting is employed, and there is also a great saving in material.

BRITISH COLLIERY WARNINGS.

In the year 1881 an anonymous individual began to issue warnings to British collieries of the approach of conditions which increased the danger of explosions in the mines. These warnings were not taken very seriously at first, because they went against the prevailing belief that explosions were more likely to occur when the barometer was low. As time went on, however, it was discovered that when the warnings were disregarded the deaths from explosion increased and that the annual loss of life as much lower in later years when belief in the warnings became more common. It has now been made known that the author of these warnings is Mr. Henry Harries, who recently retired from the British Meteorological Office. His study of the subject convinced him that when the barometer was high the increased weight of the air on the earth forced the gas out of the fissures and pockets in coal seams and so augmented the risk of explosion.

LONDON DETECTIVE FORCE ENLARGED TO FIGHT CRIME

LONDON.—English criminals, who for several months have been indulging in profitable crime, ranging from murder to robbery with seeming exemption from capture, are now faced with the prospects of having 100 new, keen, young detectives on their trails.

Brigadier-General Horwood, the new Commissioner of Scotland Yard, is enlarging the Criminal Investigation Bureau—otherwise the detective force—with 100 men chosen from among the uniformed police. These new detectives are being given a special course at the "Yard" before being assigned to active duty in the pursuit of the idle rich of the underworld.

Of late London has awakened many mornings to read of rich hauls made by burglars in fashionable hotels, houses and apartments, criminal invasions into stores and warehouses and murders for money. A combination of skilful crooks and insufficient forces at the disposal of the police authorities has resulted in the escape of a great number of the criminals.

Many of the great jewel robberies are believed to have been done by swell cracksmen of the "Raffles" type who, by their prosperous and fashionable appearance, do not arouse suspicion if they are seen entering or leaving the scene of the burglary. Those operating against stores and warehouses are working a new dodge on the police. After forcing the doors outside confederates either lock them again or substitute new, duplicate locks for the broken ones, so that watchmen and policemen on their rounds think all is well within.

Another handicap which the police have been under is the lack of enough automobiles for pursuit purposes. Prosperous thieves often remove themselves and their loot far from the scene of the crime by the simple process of motoring to another city and sometimes avoid capture for weeks by keeping on the move. It is difficult to track them by train, as they keep to the roads away from the railway lines. So the "Yard" is now trying to get an appropriation for more automobiles.

BANKS ADVERTISE NOW FOR JUNIORS

DAYS OF THE WAITING LISTS AND GRATUITY HAVE GONE,

Think of it, our once-exclusive banks are hanging out cards asking for clerks, just as factories do when they want help. Neat little placards in this connection are hung up near the teller's cages. Hark to the contents of one of them:

"Employment on the staff of this bank offers an attractive future for young men. We are in a position to place a number of boys with High school education at our different branches throughout Canada."

"For particulars please refer to the manager."

Shock Old-Time Bankers.

Can't you imagine one of Toronto's bygone general managers, pompous of mien, revisiting old haunts and nearly having an apoplectic fit at the sight of such a placard. Advertising for clerks! The very idea! Twenty years ago or more such an expedient would never have been dreamed of. Why, there was keen competition to get jobs in banks. In those distant days of Canada's hard times banks had waiting lists just like modern golf clubs, and picked and chose the young men who were to have the privilege of working for them. Applicants for positions approached a manager in humility and awe.

Bank Clerks Aristocrats.

Not only good appearance, but social pull was necessary for admittance to one of the larger institutions. A boy's ancestry loomed larger with some general managers than did his penmanship. A bank job was the goal of most youths whose parents could not afford them a profession. For the post was a sure thing —banks never actually firing their clerks — and promotion, though slow, was regular up to a point, at least. Moreover—alas! that appeal to snobbishness —a bank clerk was some pumpkins socially in the city, and in the country towns he was absolutely IT. But that was twenty years ago.

Manager and T.S.R. "Cons."

Junior clerks started their career of finance in those days with as little as $150 a year. To-day bank juniors are hard to get at $600 and $700 a year. And they have adding machines, to do the dirty work. Twenty years ago—yes, less than fifteen years ago—branch managers with long service, several clerks under them and heavy resonpsibility, frequently received per annum no more than Toronto street car conductors and motormen are rejecting as insufficient to-day. Ask any senior bank man.

Import Clerks.

About fifteen years ago the native supply of bank clerks began to peter out in Canada. Better times had come with the opening up of the West, and opportunities offered in the professions and other occupations for young Canadians. The demand for clerks rose simultaneously with the shortage, as new branches were springing up on the prairie overnight, like mushrooms. One or two large banks began importing clerks from Scotland, which has since furnished Canada with hundreds of hard-head bankers.

The outbreak of war made the situation more stringent. Girls, whom banks had mostly employed as stenographers or at work which did not bring them into contact with the public, presently appeared at tasks hitherto considered unsuitable for feminine endurance. To-day they run the big deposit ledgers and in some country offices even that nerve-wracking post ,the cash, where she might have to use the loaded revolver lying ready at her side to defend the money from robbers. Some girls receive $1,200 and $1,500 a year in banks.

One Canadian bank has opened no less than 200 new branches within the past two years. Two or three of the larger institutions have from 400 to 500 branches each. All of which illustrates the growth of Canadian banking and the opportunities it offers.

THE DREAD PYORRHEA BEGINS WITH BLEEDING GUMS

Pyorrhea's infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proven this.

Diseased conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable to trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of Pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhea infection.

Don't let Pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection.

And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of poisons generated at their base.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy —the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

PRIZES FOR BRITISH RESEARCH.

Many industrial search associations have been formed in Great Britain and are working in conjunction with the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. The expenses of the research are met partly by the industries concerned and partly from State funds. Co-operative work of this kind has not, however, discouraged private enterprise in research. Many firms are extending their research laboratories and prizes are being offered for success in special directions. Sir Robert Hadfield, for example, has deposited £200 with the Institution of Mechanical Engineers to be awarded as a prize for a new and accurate method of measuring the hardness of metals. Present methods are not very satisfactory, especially with very hard metals.

An eminent doctor, Sir Kenday Franks, honorary consulting surgeon to the Johannesburg Hospital, one of the best known medical men in South Africa, died recently.

REV. ELLIOTT BAKER PREACHED ST. JOHN'S CHURCH YESTERDAY

A SPECIAL COMMUNION WILL BE HELD FOR THE SICK IN PETERBORO.

Yesterday morning Rev. Elliott Baker of Toronto, was the preacher at St. John's Church. His very interesting sermon was an explanation of the Parable of Dives and Lazarus from which striking light was thrown on the kind of life immediately following death.—The word "Hell" was explained as according to its original use as the 'covered" or unseen place with its two divisions, for one of which we are gradually prepared by the kind of life which we choose to live in this world. A thonghtful sermon was couched in well-chosen language and proved most interesting to the congregation. Mr. Baker was for five years Curate to Rev. A. P. Shatford in Montreal, before proceeding overseas where he was wounded and gassed while serving as a Chaplain. Afterwards he returned as adjutant of a Forestry Battalion returning only last summer.

At the evening service yesterday Archdeacon Davidson preached on "Divine Healing" in connection with the great "Mission of Healing" to be held in Toronto by Mr. James M. Hickson this week. Mr. Davidson briefly reviewed the methods of healing referred to in the New Testament and showed that while the healing mission of the church had been strangely neglected throughout hundreds of years yet in every age the wonderful cures of saintly men had been a witness to the reality of the gift of healing which the Saviour handed over to his church only in subordination to Her still more important work of preaching the Gospel and healing diseases of the soul.

The speaker then dealt with the modern revival of interest in the healing art contrasting Christian Science with methods more directly founded on the gospel and on reason as practiced within the Church. In these methods doctors are regarded as fellow ministers of God, their ministry being concentrated on the body for which they are trained. Their work should be assisted and supplemented by the healing work of specially trained Christian teachers. Mr. Hickson was one of these a specially trained expert and possessing the gift of healing in a very unusual degree. He was a Layman of the Church of England and performed his work in her cathedrals and churches as he would do it in St. James Cathedral, Toronto. He used prayer and the laying-on-of-hands applied to every individual case, the diseased person kneeling before the Altar as Mr. Hickson deals with his case after diagnosis solemnly laying on his hands in the name of the Lord with prayer.

Special Service.

Archdeaco Davidson gave notice that for the benefit of sick persons unable to go to Toronto that in connection with the Toronto Mission a special service of Holy Communion would be held in St. John's Church at 9 a.m. when each procedure laid down in the 5th chapter of the Epistle of St. James verses 14 and 15 would be observed. Several "elders" or presbyters of the Church would cooperate, oil would be consecrated and the sick persons brought there would be solemnly anointed and an earnest "prayer of faith" joined in by all would be offered over each—No one could tell what the Divine will might be in regard to each sick person but at least the Divine love and power would be invoked and brought to bear looking for the best possible result.

Even if in some cases there should be little apparent result they would have the satisfaction of knowing that the Church had fulfilled Her commission and they had done their best—The consecrated oil would, afterward be taken to certain sick persons who could not be brought to the church.

The present was a wonderful opportunity to avail ourselves in Peterborough of the tremendous tide of intercession which was being offered in all their churches on behalf of the Toronto Mission of Healing. The congregation would assemble here at the very time that the that the great work was being begun in St. James Cathedral and in close union with it. It was a strong venture of co-operative faith and prayer and it was impossible that some results should not be obtained visible or invisible. In this divine enterprise the sick of all communions are invited to participate both in Toronto and Peterborough. Due preparation beforehand is an essential factor and efforts have already begun with this in view.

MARK STREET CHURCH NOTES

REV G. E. ROSS PREACHED AT BOTH SERVICES.

Rev. G. E. Ross, pastor of Mark street church, occupied his own pulpit at both services yesterday. As usual the music was good and the congregations most encouraging. The morning subject was "Passing Through the Fire," and was based on the text found in Ex. iii:2, And the bush burned with fire and was not consumed." The following thoughts were developed:

First— Eighty years have passed away since the daughter of Pharaoh brushed the tears from the eyes of the infant Moses, and now this same Moses stands forth as the chosen leader of God's great people. Eighty years in preparation for forty years' work. This certainly implies that God's work demands experience. Why should the white hair be a crown of glory of the philosopher, the scientist, the navigator, the editor, the educator or the general, and mean superannuation to him who occupies the pulpit? Well, it is all wrong. If a man can deliver the goods, it matters little if his hair is white. The church has sorely suffered, and is suffering now from lamentable inexperience in her pulpits. Moses waited his time, and was a glorious success. Jesus remained in Nazareth until he was fitted for Jerusalem.

Second—Moses was truly called of God to be a leader. It is while in the solitudes of Midian that Moses sees the bush aflame, and hears the call to service. Moses sought solace in solitude and found God not far away. The quiet hour is God's time. The needs of the work did not prove a sufficient call for Moses, he wanted something definite and received what he waited for. God gives him the fullest equipment. The preacher who knows he is God's man with God's message, is ready for an emergency.

Third—What is the meaning of this bush in the wilderness? (1) It indicated the peculiar presence of God. (2) It was also a symbol of His people in Egyptian bondage and in conflict with the world in all ages. The bush was enveloped in flames, but it was not consumed, neither do the fires of fierce oppression consume the church of God. God himself was in the midst of that flaming bush, and wherever His people suffer, God is there with them. (3) It was a revelation of permanence, purity and personal power. Permanence, for the bush was not burned. Purity, for Moses must remove his shoes e'er he approaches. Personal power, the mighty God in the midst of the fire is with his servant. Wouldst thou see thy God in every common bush, then remove thy shoes. The pure in heart see God.

In the evening the subject was: "In the Grip of the Flood," and was founded on Gen. iii:1, 'And the Lord said come thou and all thy house into the ark."

First—All peoples have their story of the flood, especially those of Western Asia. We find the story of a great flood in Chaldean and Phoenician Mythology. There is a medal of Apamea in Phrygia, struck as late as the time of Septimus Severus, in which the Phyrgian deluge is commemorated. The deulge was not as wide as the world of nature, but it reached the whole world of humanity. It was as wide as the sin which it came to punish.

Second—The ark is a type of salvation. God planned the ark and Noah built it. God planned the salvation of the world, and Christ carried it through. The ark saved all who came in, so does Christ. There was room enough for all in the ark, so there is room for all in Christ.

Third—The ark had but one door, and Christ is the only way of salvation. All who were saved, entered by the door, and Christ is the open door for rich and poor, old and young, good and bad. Pity those who helped Noah to build, never went in themselves.

Fourth— Noah built the ark, but God shut the door. Man repents and believes, but God forgives and saves. The crowd laughed at Noah as he built the ark, but the storm came just the same. There is a mighty storm of death and judgment coming, we better go into safety.

HAD $100,000 WORTH LIQUOR IN CELLAR.

Man Who Died Recently Leaves Problem for Widow.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Disposition of liquor, said to be valued at $100,000, stored in the basement of the residence of the late George F. Griffin, in the exclusive "Gold Coast" district, to-day was puzzling Federal authorities. A buyer for the house is being sought, but the liquor, according to law, cannot enter into the deal. It cannot be removed because of the Illinois search and seizure law.

The widow, who desires to sell the property, it was stated, might retain ownership of the liquor, but she could not use it after the sale, it was said, because that would mean its removal.

One Federal official gave his opinion that the stock could be sold under a permit for medicinal purposes, while Major A. V. Dalrymple announced he would "demand the letter of law."

In the meantime, two men are guarding the entrances to the basement.

HOW THE NEW PENSION BILL OPERATES IN ACTUAL CASES

PROVISION FOR DEPENDENT PARENTS, WAR GRAUTITY FOR WIDOWS AND INSURANCE FOR SOLDIERS AMONG COMMENDABLE FEATURES.

FEATURES OF NEW PENSION BILL:—

No further gratuities for soldiers.

Government insurance for all soldiers.

Dependent parents of dead soldiers to get pension in addition to the dead soldier's wife. For example:

Widow of dead soldier received under 1918 act, $480 a year and dependent parents received nothing.

Widow of dead soldier receives under new act $720 a year and each parent may receive $180 a year, making a total of $1,080 payable to the widow and two parents.

Widow under new law is entitled to gratuity based on three years' service, less what she has already received in pension bonus.

For example, Mrs. Smith, wife of Pte. Smith, killed in action after three years' service, would under the old law receive no gratuity.

If her husband had survived he would have received $420 gratuity.

Uder the new law Mrs. Smith will receive that amount, less whatever pension bonuses she has already received.

Limits Opportunities.

"The refusal of further grafuity or any extension of the very limited oportunities for obtaining loans, has caused keen disappointment among many men who were hoping that the Parliamentary Committee would recommend the loaning of money for the purposes laid down in the G. W. V. A. re-establishment plan submitted to the government last fall, and renewed this year," said W. E.Turley.

But appreciation has been expressed at recognition of our request for higher pensions for widows, orphans and disabled comrades of the lower ranks."

The retention of the "bonus" plan of pension increase indicates that M. P.'s have greater faith in a reduction of the present H.C.L. than most other people, including the members of the Court of Commerce. We hoped to have the 20 per cent. bonus obtained in 1918 made permanent and fully expected a 30 per cent. increase on top of that, so the recommendation made is no surprise to us. The plan of commuting pensions up to 14 per cent is not in the best interest of the pensnnioner or the state. It appears that the pensioner would acept an inadequate amount in final settlement of claim, and the state would frequently find itself forced to reopen and recognize further claims on behalf of men whose original award had been cancelled by the payment of the two or three hundred dollars now offered. The experience of Imperial veterans, who have commuted their pensions, indicates the pensioners may expect to be the loser if any such clam is made available in Canada.

The recommendations are an admission of the fact that the cost of living is higher in Canada than elsewhere for no increase is recommended for pensioners residing outside of this country. If that recommendation is accepted it may result in very considerable hardship to many pensioners who desire to live in Canada, but are forced to reside elsewhere in order to obtain suitable employment or for the benefit of their health. The B.P.C. should be permitted to exercise discretion whereby they might award the maximum pension to persons living outside Canada for reasons such as the above. Increase in pensions for the higher ranks does not appear to have been necessary or advisable and the men who are to benefit are among the first to admit that."

Gratitude for further assistance to disabled veterans and disappointment for the lack of consideration to the 100 per cent. of demobilized soldiers trying to get re-established, characterized the observations of First Vice-President S. Stalford, Dominion G. W. V. A., in his committee's recommendations to the government.

It is difficult for anyone outside of the committee members and possibly the parliamentary reporters to deduct the actual benefits to returned men proposed by the committee.

Almost every despatch conflicts with the terms of the existing pensions act, and even the G.V.V.A. Secretary, C. G. MacNeil, has in his wire of congratulations, somewhat mixed the Pensions Act and the supplementary bonus measure with complicated results.

The new pension increases are a 50 per cent. bonus on the 1918 rate of pensions. Or in other words, a 30 per cent. increase on it over and above the 20 per cent. bonus revision which went into effect Sept. 1st, 1919, and does not expire until Sept, 1920.

"We are glad to see the extra help for disabled men and widows," the vice-president stated, "but in the whole report I fail to find a measure for any concrete form of re-establishment."

"There should be no need of a parliamentary committee's deliberations before the government decides to help the helpless," he went on. "That is the country's obligation, but with the abundance of data supplied to the government at both committees, I can not understand why there is no added provision to assist in soldiers' re-establishment. There is grave injustice done to the Canadian soldier's widow who may have been forced to return with her children to her father's home overseas" Mr Stalford contended. "This widow will get only the 20 per cent. increase, instead of 50 per cent.

Mr. Stalford also criticized the idea of increasing the vocational students' allowance after September 1, when he claims the students will have declined to a mere fraction of what they were, or are now.

"It is the graduate vocational student needing help," he emphasized, and further failed to see the wisdom of leaving the question of handicap cases for a year. "The State insurance provision will be fine providing the government make a 20-year paid-up endowment policy," he said. Then the veterar could borrow money on the policy to help him in his business or to purchase a house or trade equipment.

The amendment will prove of the greatest benefit to the private soldier, there being very little increase for non-commissioned officer, and none at all for the commissioned officer below the rank of captain.

The ex-lientenants are said to be a class suffering badly from failure to get back into suitable employment. A captain's pension is $1000 a year and will be $1500 with $180 a year for each child.

Lt.-Colonel's pension total disability under the 1918 rate is $1560 a year, with $120 allowance for each child, with the 50 per cent. bonus the officer's pension stands at $2340, with $180 a year for each child.

Brigadier-general receives $2700 under the act and will get after Sept 1, $4050 annually.

DEDICATION IN LAKEFIELD CHURCH

SEVERAL PRIESTS OF DIOCESE TOOK PART IN CEREMONY.

At St. Paul's Church, Lakefield, last evening, a statue of St. Patrick, recently donated to the church by the parish, and placed upon the new altar to St. Patrick on the epistle side of the church, was blessed and dedicated by Father Peter Maguire of Peterborough, assisted by Father John O'Brien, Father McAuley, Father Cote, Father D. Casey, of Kingston, and Father Meagher, of Lakefield.

Eloquent Sermon.

In an eloquent sermon upon Ireland's fidelity to the Faith, Father Maguire referred to the recent revival of the faith in Ireland, and paid a warm tribute to those responsible.

The benediction was pronounced by Father O'Brien, assisted by the clergy present.

STATUS OF THE LUXURY TAX

The amended luxury and sales taxes came into force on 17th June. Mr. W. H. Buller, has received word to that effect. It means that the returns made by manufacturers, jobbers, and wholesalers and retailers on 1st July must be based on one day, 16th June, on the old schedule, (and commencing 17th June with the new.

Mr. Buller intimates that any of the sections that are not clear to those required to make returns will be explained at the office.

One clause regarding less expensive jewellery has caused considerable confusion. On all jewellery for personal use or adornment of the person, except wedding rings on which the purchase price is $5.00 or under, a tax of 10 per cent. is levied, while if the value is over $5.00, the tax is 20 per cent.

The tax now covers many goods that were not formerly taxed, while in many cases the tax has been changed to tax only the excess above a certain price, and in others the tax has been materially lightened.

C.G.E.—J. Naples, goal; B. Mason and J. McDonald, backs; A. Parkins, H. Turner and J. Mann, half-backs; J. Bills, C. Hotson, A. Gash, R. Leach and Ed. Bartley, forwards.

Gamble Lost the Toss.

Amid great excitement the game opened up at a fast pace with the Vets making a desperate raid on C.G.E. goal for McDonald to clear easily. Ryan returned the ball to Norman, who passed out to Sharman to have a try at goal to go over touch. A solo run by J. Bills ended up with a beautiful cross for Griffine to pick up the ball in the corner of the goal post. The outside right came back again to swing the ball across to Leach, who headed over the bar. No less than 6 "throw-ins" from touch down in J. J. Bills' corner went back again to repeat for 4 more until Bishop punted up to Sharman who was tackled by Parkins to push the Veteran off play with his hands, which was let go by the referee to Vets' disadvantage. Effective play by Turner rewarded the C.G.E. forwards an opportunity to score. Gash beat Ryan on play and passed to Hotson who shot wildly over the bar.

Naples Saved From Curtiss.

Play was transferred to the other end by Curtiss and after drawing out the defence tested Naples with a fast hard drive. The ball went to Parkins who was called up for pushing. From the foul kick Peel had a try at goal. At this point of the game Bills hurt his ankle in a rut that compelled him to get attention, but he returned in a few minutes. The Vets kept up the pressure on the C.G.E. goal for a long time but could not penetrate the defence put up by McDonald and Mason. A break away by Gash carried the play into Vets' goal where Turner put past from a 20 yard drive. Two successive corners by Bills were unproductive. Ryan slipped the ball to Curtiss who had McDonald guessing and in his endeavour to clear the full-back kicked to touch. From the throw in Norman put past.

Naples' Lucky Saves.

A raid by Sharman made Naples give a corner. The outside left passed to Ryan who drove hard for goal. Three times did Naples kick out in front of goal when a little pressure by the Vets' forwards could have scored.

Ball Dropped on Cross Bar.

From about 25 yards out Ryan lifted the ball down into the C.G.E. goal with a beautiful try and amid great excitement the ball bounced twice on top of the cross bar, with Naples in a quandry, to drop over the bar out of play. A foul against Mann looked dangerous for the C.G.E.— Burrows mised the far upright by inches. A break-away by Hotson made Gamble look smart to clear from Leach at a critical time, but Gash returned again and in good play by Gamble the Vets' goalkeeper run out of goal to clear. A marvellous save by Naples from the foot of Burrows enlivened the game. Both teams were beginning to feel the effects of the fast going, with both goal-keepers being called upon to clear. Play was in mid-field when half time arirved—no scoring.

Half Time.

In the opening exchanges Sharman missed an open goal after he had outwitted the C.G.E. defence. Four players in mid-field made mis-kicks that ultimately went to Bishop, who punted up to Monks. The inside right twice in succession kicked the ball too far ahead in a nice position to score. Curtiss on the Vets' right had McDonald in queer street on many occasions. He drew the defence out and tested Naples with a low ground shot, the ball came back to Curtiss for the latter to work a corner off McDonald. From the corner kick taken by Curtiss, Burrows headed into Naples' hands.

Norman Scored.

Nice combination on the Vets' right by the two wing men ended with Curtiss lashing the ball across the goals to Sharman, who headed into Naples' hands, with Edwards up against him. Monks tried to lift the ball through for Norman to slightly head it past Naples for the only goal. Edwards had a good share in the play. The Vets were all over the C.G.E. during the first 20 minutes of second half. After meeting with success the Vets took things too easy and the C.G.E. making desperate attempts to even up the score. During a raid on the Vets' goal, Gamble was injured by running up agains tthe referee that stopped the game a little. From the throw-in Bishop cleared easily.

Griffine Saved From Hotson.

An individual effort by Hotson bewildered three of the Vets in the corner. He got hold of the ball and with a fast ground shot had Griffine beat, but the goal-keeper put out his foot and diverted it into play amid great cheering from the spectators. At the other end all the Vets missed the ball with only Naples to beat. McDonald cleared to Hotson and carrying the ball down into the corner shot across for Leach to put over the bar. Harry Gamble and Bishop were playing a great defence game and in the corner Bishop defeated three C.G.E. players on play and kicked up to Peel who put across to Curtiss. The outside right was stoped 5 yards from goal by McDonald. During the last five minutes the C.G.E. added pressure and were down at centre field and were taken completely by surprise when Norman broke through in an open field. The centre forward shot the ball forward and was making straigit for gaol when Edwards (who was lying offside at start of play) touched the ball for offsides. Play deteriorated near the finish with Vets practicing kicking to touch to put off time, an art they have acquired from another team. G.W.V.A. 1, C.G.E. 0.

Notes on the Game.

This was the first evening game that was played the full 90 minutes. When the captains of the teams were tossing for choice of goals the Vets lost, and brought the remark from the Vets' captain, "Did you ever see an Irishman win the toss."

The beautiful drive by Ryan from midfield that landed on the cross-bar was lucky for the C.G.E. and unlucky for the Vets.

During the first half J. Bills twisted his ankle in a hole that compelled him to retire from the game with twenty minutes to go. Jim has been playing a good game of late.

Great credit is due Hotson, who worked like a trojan to even up the score for the C.G.E. His elusive play to score when Griffine stopped the ball with his foot would have disheartened any player. Practically speaking "Wag" has won all the games for the C.G.E.

Griffine was the better goal-keeper, although Naples put in a hard days' work. Gamble and Bishop better balanced pair. At half-back the Vets were far superior, and Henry Turner the outstanding player for C.G.E. The Vets' forwards showed better understanding and nice combination. The C.G.E. left wing was ineffective. Gash and Hotson worked hard.

Mr. Hughes, the Australian Prime Minister, declares that if the building employees insist on a 40-hour week the Repatriation Department will be compelled to discontinue soldier's homes.

DE LAVAL DEFEAT GUNNERS IN KICK-AND-RUSH FOOTBALL MATCH

BOTH TEAMS VERY EVENLY MATCHED—FLOWERS AND PERRY ABSENT FROM GUNNERS—3-3 AT HALF-LIME—DE LAVAL DID ALL THE PRESSING IN THE SECOND HALF—RAMM GOT THE WINNING GOAL—DE LAVAL 5, GUNNERS 4

A badly arranged football game between the Machine Gunners and the DeLavals took place at the exhibition grounds on Saturday afternoon.

According to the schedule the Separator team should have played at the Oval but the Gunners requested the game for next week and after considering the situation the two teams agreed to play at the south end pitch.

Referee Bates had notified the Association he would be unable to handle the game, so secretary McKinley took up the whistle.

The Teams.

Machine Gunners: A. Metcalfe, goal; N. E. Crowe and J. White, backs; A. Dodd's R. G. McLeish, and Harold Darling, half backs, R. Payne, A. Newman, W. Bell, E. Bell and Hilliard, Darling, forwards.

DeLaval: W. Jones, goal, B. Hartshorn and E. Humphage, backs; W. Brown, G. McDonald and R. Lindsay, half backs; G. Hartshorn, J. Long, J. Ramm, J. Cutmore and J. Lindsay, forwards.

Hartshorn Opened Scoring.

The Machine Gunners won the toss and decided to play with the sun on their backs. Opening exchanges were even and uneventful. An individual effort by Hartshorn on the right wing penetrated the defence to test Metcafe. White made a poor clearance with the De Laval outside right lying close in on a questionable offside position opened the scoring. Raid after raid by the Gunners was repulsed by Jones and two defence men. On a tackle in mid-field play between Harold Darling and Hartshorn the ball went up the field for the benefit of the DeLavals, who made the score 2 to nothing through Hartshorn.

Gunners Added 3 Goals.

Just afterwards, Hilliard Darling broke away on the wing and took the full measure of Jones for the Gunners. The Gunners kept up the pressure on the DeLaval goal and in one of the raids the ball hit McDonald, either on the face or on the hand that was in the same place protecting the face; at any rate, according to the referee who was standing near him at the time he considered the player hit the ball with his hand and immediately awarded a penalty. The right back of the Gunners (Crowe) took the kick, who made no mistake with a hard fast drive that no goal keeper could stop. Not long afterwards E. E. Bell assisted by his brother put the Gunners ahead.

Immediately thereafter the DeLavals came to life again and on a nice field play the DeLaval forwards outwitted the defence to let Ramm even up the score. Half time, Gunners 3: DeLaval 3.

Half Time.

Right on re-starting the DeLaval pressed continually to be always checked at the crucial moment by White of the Gunners. On one occasion Ramm had an open goal in front of him but he put the ball across the goals to go past. The combination of E. Bell and Hilliard Darling kept the DeLavals busy for a little while with W. Bell being blocked in the nick of time by G. McDonald.

Cutmore Scored.

The centre half slashed the ball down to the right wing for Long and Hartshorn to complete nice passing to outwit the defence. In the corner Hartshorn sent a rocket ball across the goal for Cutmore to score easily. From a throw in Hilliard Darling forced a corner of Humpage. The corner taken by Hilliard Darling landed in front of the goal and in the melee the whole forward line missed an open goal. Humpage cleared to R. Lindsay, who in turn passed it on to his brother. The left-winger tested Metcalfe with a fast one from about 15 yards out. He returned again the next few minutes and was more successful with his effort, but for the daring clearing in goals by [illegible] was confined to the Gunners' area for most of this period. A break away by W. Bell carried the play right on top of Jones who punted out to Payne, and wasting no time tried to run the ball through. The outside right forced himself right into the upright and the goal keeper trying to score. An illegal charge against Jones by Payne relieved the pressure. At the other end Ramm was called up for being offside.

Payne Equalized.

Crowe slipped the ball down to Payne, who lashed it across to the left wing. E. Bell carried the ball into goal and in the scramble Jones missed his kick from the parting shot of the Gunners' outside right. Play ran from end to end with both sides missing great opportunities to score.

Ramm's Winning Goal.

With 5 minutes to go both of the teams worked hard for the deciding goal and from an unfortunate clearance by Metcalfe in front of the goal, the centre forwards had no difficulty in scoring the winning goal.

Summary.

In the first half the teams were evenly matched as the score indicated at half time. Although minus their [illegible] full back (Perry) the Gunners did well. During the second half it was a kick-and-rush throughout with neither side showing any football. The game was lost and won repeatedly.

Typical football weather prevailed on Saturday evening and one was glad to see the conditions improve somewhat from what they have been during the last two Saturday evenings. This game attracted a large number of spectators, who made themselves heard by their rootin'.

The two teams played as selected. Prompt to time Referee F. Keller called the two captains together and straightened out a few technical points in regard to the playing pitch, also agreeing to play the full 45 minutes either way.

The Teams.

G. W. V. A.—C. Griffne, goal; H. Gamble and A. Bishop, backs; A. Burrows, P. D. Ryan and J. Peel, halfbacks; S. Curtiss, T. Monks, H. Norman, A. Edwards and J. Sharman, forwards.

ROSE'S GREAT PITCHING FEATURES PETERBORO'S VICTORY AT PORT HOPE

PETES BEAT ONTARIOS BY 15 TO 2 IN SATURDAY'S FIXTURE, ROSE ALLOWING ONLY FOUR HITS AND STRIKING OUT 14—GAME WAS PUT ON ICE IN THE SECOND.

EIGHT RUNS WERE SHOVED ACROSS

The Peterborough Central League team hung up their third straight victory on Saturday when they invaded Port Hope and administered a 15 to 2 trimming to the Ontarios, winning as they pleased.

So many glowing reports had been received of the prowess of McDonald, Port Hope's box artist, and of the improvement in the Ontario line-up, that the Petes expected a hard battle, but it failed to materialise. Port Hope confidently expected to win. They had McDonald all primed and ready, induced Alex. Hills to get out and play first base, and had everything set for a massacre, in which the Petes were to have played the important but unpleasant role of victims.

The second innings of Saturday's game put an end to the Port Hope dream. In that session, by mixing four hits with a base on balls, a passed ball, and six weird errors by the losers, the Petes crossed the home play eight times and broke up the game then and there. It was simply a case of playing out the string from that stage on, and the balance of the contest only furnished a good practice for the Solomon crew—although it was rather disagreeable medicine for the fans of President Sandy Lockington's bailiewick.

Port Hope never had a chance to win on Saturday. Manager Solomon designated Lornie Rose as gunner for the day, and the little pitcher had the Ontarios completely baffled. Fourteen of them hit nothing but the June breezes, Rose mixing a hopping fast ball with a sharp breaking curve that puzzled the losers from start to finish. Four hits were the sum total of their batting efforts, and two of these were slow grounders to the infield. In the first five innings a double by Fred Chalk was the only Port Hope hit. They managed to bunch two singles and a hit by pitcher in the sixth for one run, and in the eighth Guy beat out a slow one to third and that was the extent of their clouting. It was a great exhibition of pitching.

McDonald, the much-touted Port Hope twirler, did not live up to his advance notices, although to give him credit, his support especially in the second innings, was enough to break any pitcher's heart. In the seven innings he worked, the Petes got to him for thirteen hits, while he gave six bases on balls. Bird, a raw-looking youngster, with a jerky delivery, pitched the last two innings, and held the Petes scoreless and hitless, although at that stage of the game the Solomon crew were worrying more about getting down town for supper than they were about piling up any more runs. Nearly all the reserves were thrown into the game in the last two sessions—Corrin, Morse, Jackson, and Ross going in in place of Shaughnessy, Adams, Lowe, and Harrison. The Petes looked like a big league club with sixteen men in uniform.

A big crowd of Peterborough fans motored down to Port Hope for the game, and although they did not see much of a battle, they had a lot of fun out of the contest. The game was listless and draggy, the big second innings taking all the ginger out of the losers. There were few outstanding fielding features, a couple of pretty stops by Holyman and a fast double play engineered by Rose, Harrison, and Swanston being the most notable stunts. So thoroughly were the Ontarios sewed up by Rose's pitching that the Peterborough outfield did not have a put out.

Lowe, Swanston, Murray, and Rose were the Petes' leading swatsmiths. Lowe had a triple and two singles, Swanston came through with three singles, Murray had two doubles that figured prominently in the run-getting, and Rose helped himself to two singles in three times up, driving in a pair of runs with the first one. Guy and Fred Chalk were the only Ontarios to hit safely, the latter getting a double and a clean single, while Guy's pair were both scratchy.

E. Thomas, of Belleville, was umpire-in-chief, while the veteran Dick Turpin, of Cobourg, gave the decisions on the runways. The officials were impartial in their rulings, and got through without much trouble.

BASEBALL COMMENT.

The Petes only made one fielding error until the ninth, and then bunched three in the getaway innings to give the Ontarios their second run. But nobody worried very much.

Murray scored twice in the second innings in which twelve men batted for the Petes, Murray, Lowe, and Shaughnessy making two appearances at the plate.

Max Swanston had twenty fielding chances on Saturday, and his only slip-up was a low throw to third in the last innings.

The Peterborough Central League will practice to-night, Wednesday, and Friday nights, and every player is expected out at these work-outs. The Petes play in Cobourg on Saturday, and cannot afford to take any chances, as the Lakeshore crew are playing great ball these days.

The next home game is on the morning of 1st July, when Belleville will play here. In the afternoon it is expected that either the Hillcrests or Oslers of Toronto will meet the Petes at Riverside Park. It will be a great holiday bill of fare for the fans.

Lindsay gave Oshawa an unexpectedly hard battle on Saturday, the game going ten innings before the Patten gang finally slipped over the winning counter. The final score was 7 to 6. Oshawa and Peterborough are still tied for second place.

PETERBORO WON LACROSSE MATCH

DEFEATED HASTINGS IN EXHIBITION GAME BY 10 TO 6.

Peterboro defeated Hastings by a score of 10 goals to 6 in the exhibition lacrosse match at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon. For the local team it provided an opportunity of trying out the younger material most of whom played only a part of the Oshawa game as substitutes a week ago. On Saturday Manager Johnnie Sutherland worked a general shift at every quarter. The only man who probably went the whole route was Al Scriver in goal, although Mein and Goodfellow on the defence were through the most of it.

Hastings had just a complete team without substitutes. Five of their ten men were Scrivers, and Peterboro had two others of the same stock. Gone were the Dodds and Clapers of the pre-war days when the tanning town almost won the intermediate provincial championship.

Some of the camp followers decared that the team have had little practice this season. Unable to put a team in the O.A.L.A., they had left their sticks hanging in the attic to play in the town baseball league. As a result they were without team uniforms and lacked condition but they provided a game that seldom dragged. It offered the fairly large crowd of spectators a foretaste of the fare for next Saturday, when Oshawa's intermediate team plays here.

The Hastings line-up was: Goal, L. Scrive; point, W. Scriver; cover point N. Scriver; 1st defence, O. Scriver; 2nd defence, R. McConnel; centre, P. Lemoir; 1st home, B. Richardson; 2nd home, D. Lemoir; outside home, W. Tait; inside home, L. (Stubby) Scriver.

The "General Post" changes staged by Johnny Sutherland need not be detailed. The players included Al. Scriver, Mein, Goodfellow, Haight, Jim McCoy, H. Scriver, Thirtheck, Tudhope, Lawson, Creighton, Dunford, Gene Donovan, Lowes. Ed. Dillon as referee had little to do. The only penalty was five minutes rest for Lowes and D. Lemoir, and if Dillon had sent Lowes alone to the side line the crowd would have been quite satisfied. Lowes took a punch at Lemoir for what appeared to be a legitimate check and both of them clinched. It was only a petty incident, but if lacrosse is to be restored to its old popularity every player should realize that the crowd is more censorious than ever of seeming rougth stuff.

The first quarter ended a tie two all, and half way Peterboro led by 6 to 5.

Lowes made it seven after Goodfellow's long run, and he tallied the next from close inside. Lawson scored the ninth. Richardson made it six for Hastings, and Lowes scored Peterboro's tenth.

With ten days' practice and a change or two in the line, Hastings should give Peterboro a good game in the return match on Dominion day afernoon.

PHYSICIANS MUST NOW OBTAIN 'PER' BLANKS, TORONTO

Procedure in Line With New Policy of O.T.A. Official.

New orders issued by the Government respecting the issue by Ontario physicians of liquor prescriptions took effect last week, whereby no more prescription blanks can be obtained from local Government dispensaries, but will have to be procured by each doctor upon application for same by each doctor at the head office in Toronto.

This procedure is in line with the new policy of strict checking up which the authorities have determined upon with regard to those medical men specializing in the issue of "pers." A receipt in the front of the new book must be returned to Toronto ackowledging the issue, and a careful check will be kept on every sheet, with forgery reduced to a minimum by the change.

It is also announced that a new form of prescription book, containing blanks to be filled in by the medico when he issues scripts to patients, has been printed, the druggists of the provinces being instructed to honor and fil these. These forms are to be used when the prescription is for a small quantity. Local physicians have already received both new types of forms, and their use has been sanctioned.

A NEW THEME IN A THRILLING DRAMA

There have been many screen stories of Japanese and American life and many impersonations of the Oriental.

Of late American directors have achieved great success in presenting Japanese and American artists in the main rows of their feature films. The reason for this has been that it is almost impossible to find a white man capable of interpreting the Oriental role.

However that may be, in "Mr. Wu" showing at the Allen Theatre to-day Matheson Lang, the well known English character actor has achieved the impossible. His impersonation of the suave Chinese merchant prince, who is the central figure of the story, was a revelation in the great stage success, which ran in London for two years but it was never dreamed at that time that he would be able to stand the strain of the camera's penetrating eye and sustain the character without the accompaniment of speech.

"Mr. Wu," which met with great success at its initial American showing in Toronto is in every way a remarkable photoplay. It is rich in scenery and powerful in expression, while the horrors of the story, which are dispelled by the ending, are conveyed, not by melodramatic action, but by the wonderful character work of the central figure. "Mr. Wu" has been brought to Canada to answer the photoplay patrons' demands for British productions, and it sets a high standard.

WEDDING BELLS

WEBSTER--CLARK.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at "Mapledale," the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark, Ennismore, when their daughter, Ethel Margaret, became the bride of Mr. Roy Webster, of Otonabee, on Wednesday, June 16th.

At the hour of 6:30 p.m., to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding March played by Miss Mildred Clark, the bride, wearing a gown of georgette and silk crepe de chine, trimmed with seed pearls, entered the drawing-room leaning on the arm of her father, and took her place under a prettily decorated arch of evergreens and orange blossoms. From the centre of the arch hung a large bridal bell, with smaller bells hanging on either side. Miss Olve Webster, niece of the bride, and dressed in pink georgette, performed the duties of flower girl. Rev. E. R. James, Rector of Omemee, officiated. During the signing of the register Miss Myrtle Klinck sang, "O Promise me."

After the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the dining room, where a very dainty repast awaited them.

The remainder of the evening passed very pleasantly with music and social entertainment after which the bride and groom left for their future home in Otonabee amid showers of rice and confetti.

COOKE—RICHARDSON.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's church on Saturday afternoon, June 19th, when Adelaide Louise (Ada), younger daughter of Mr. Thomas Mowbray Richardson, 313 Frederick avenue, Peterborough, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry Worrell Cooke, of Toronto. The Rev. James Rollins officiated. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a becoming suit of brown tricotine with picture hat to match, and carried an armful of roses and sweet peas. There were no attendants. Mr. John Crane played during the service, and while the register was being signed, "Because" was beautifully sung by Miss Helen McLaren. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Cooke left for a boat trip via the Great Lakes, and on their return will reside in Toronto.

LAVOIE—FISHER.

On Saturday afternoon at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. A. B. Cote officiating, William A. Lavoie was united in matrimony to Louise Edith Fisher. They were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Lavoie left for Montreal to spend a few days and will reside in East City.

Mr. J. E. T. Andrews, D.D.G.M. who was laid at rest in the Norwood cemetery yesterday afternoon, the funeral having been conducted under Masonic auspices.

Deceased, who was practically a life-long resident of Norwood, had been teaching school in Owen Sound for the past four years up to the time of his death last week.

Service was conducted at the residence of Mr. Andrew's father, Mr. James Andrews, from where the funeral was held.

GASOLINE SHORTAGE.

The local station of the Imperial Oil Co. was cleaned right out of 'gas' yesterday afternoon, but this morning a car arrived from Toronto. This will tide them over a day or two, but Mr. B. R. Wilson, the district manager, says if the shortage continues, the company will sell only to industrial concerns, who absolutely have to have it. All other driving must be cut to the bone.

800,000 gallons of Imperial gasoline were burned up in this city last year. Questioned on the lubricating oil lookout, he stated that they were not worrying over that, as he bought considerable supplies ahead, foreseeing a shortage, at the same time saving considerable sums for his customers.

DENTIST TARRED AND LEAVED IN INITIATION

He Has Taken Out Warrants Against Nine Members of the Order.

WEST ORANGE, N.J., June 21.—Warrants charging asasult and battery were issued for nine members of the Beta Sigma fraternity of the West Orange high school, as a result of allegations of Dr. Howard Applegate, a dentist of this city, that he was "tarred and leaved" in the woods near here Tuesday night during his "initiation."

Dr. Applegath declares he was blindfolded, stripped, his body greased, tarred and covered with leaves, beaten in the face, that molasses was poured in his shoes, and he was threatened with stoning if he moved. He said he remained in the woods for three hours and then made his way to a pharmacy here.

One of the defendants named in the warrants denied that Dr. Applegate was "tarred and leaved."

"The whole thing seems like more or less a joke," he said, "Dr. Applegate was not dealt with any more severely than any of the other members who previously were initiated.

RECORD FOR PROPOSALS.

French Bluebeard Promised Marriage to 283 Women.

PARIS, June 21. — The world's record for proposals belongs to "Bluebeard" Landru, who according to the examining magistrate's figuring, promised marriage to 283 women and coresponded regularly with 169 of them. He never gave more than $5 to any one of them.

"Bluebird," while apparently crushed by the magistrate's mathematics, persists in his refusal to talk. Despite the chain of circumstantial evidence, the belief is gaining ground that his silence may save him from the scaffold, for thus far not sufficient proof has been found to charge him with a murder.

HEAD OF GIMBEL BROTHERS ARRESTED AS PROFITEER

NEW YORK, June 21.—Frederick Gimbel, first vice-president of Gimbel Brothers' department store, with branches in many cities throughout the United States, was arrested Saturday by Department of Justice agents on a charge of profiteering in clothing. Gimbel is head of the New York store.

J. J. Dowdell, general merchandise manager of the store, and C. D. Slawter, clothing buyer, also were arrested on similar charges. All three are charged with making profits in clothing from 90 to 275 per cent.

A critic of J. M. Barrie and his works once declared that he kept on using the same witticisms in "The Admiral 'Crichton,'" "What Every Woman Knows," "sentimental Tommy," and other plays and books; and Sir James retorted that, if this was so, his nationality, and not himself, was to blame. "I am a Scot," he said, "and we Scots abhor waste."

Voice Of The People

Sir,—I for one have been delighted with the way the game of football has won the support of the men, not forgetting the women, of the city. While there has been errors on the part of some players and referees, I think there has been an error on the part of the committee who drew up the schedule of games. It will be noticed that the Canadian Woollens have not been treated right. Why? Playing on Thursday and then on Saturday. The following list will show: Can. Woollens 3, De Laval 2, Caledonians 2, Machine Gun 1, G.W.V.A. 1, C.G.E. 1. It is also noticeable too, that if you turn the list top to bottom, that you will have the standing of th league. The Woollens, who are all good sports, have had to stand the brunt of this imposing on good nature. Committee in future take note. Thanking you for your valuable space in your paper.—I remain, Bystander.

REV. SALEM BLAND ESCHEWS POLITICS.

Declines Nomination of Labour Party in North-East Toronto.

TORONTO, June 21.—Rev. Salem Bland, D.D., has declined to accept the invitation of the Independent Labour Party to become its candidate at the forthcoming Provincial by-election in North-East Toronto. Dr. Bland's decision was communicated in a letter to Labour Representation Committee, read at a meeting of the latter body at the Labour Temple yesterday.

After consulting representatives of returned soldiers' organisations it was decided to submit two names; those of Major Stoddart and Delegate J. Higgins to the Grand Army of United Veterans at a meeting on Wednesday next, and whichever receives the endorsation of the Veterans will be chosen as the party standard-bearer. The peculiar feature of the situation is that the rank and file of the Labour Party will have no voice in the selection of the candidate.

CAN COLLECT FROM ALL MOTOR OWNERS.

To clear up any doubt that may exist in the minds of the citizens as to the powers of Mr. F. H. Mahood, the market clerk, to collect from automobiles and other vehicles left on Water and Charlotte streets along the curb at the square, Mr. Mahood states that according to the by-law he has power to collect from any vehicle left on any street within one hundred yards of the market. This is not carried out to the letter, but vehicles left along the square on Water and Charlotte Streets are included, and he is only carrying out his duties in taxing them. Although he is within his rights if he charged every day in the week, he does not, and only on Wednesday and Saturday are motorists and others asked to pay their dime.

When asked to pay their toll, many feel insulted, and Mr. Mahood states that it is hard to get some of them to come across. Considerable fuss was made last week by a well-known citizen over paying the 10 cent toll.

ATTACKS ON CONSTABLES IN IRELAND

DISTURBANCES CONTINUE IN MANY PARTS OF IRELAND

SEVERAL KILLED

(Canadian Press.)

DUBLIN, June 22.—Motor car carrying Assistant Director General of Royal Constabulary and four constables was attacked with revolvers and bombs when en route from Amiens street station to Dublin Castle to-day. Assistant Director General Roberts was severely wounded in the head by a revolver bullet, but is expected to live and the driver of the car was shot in both legs. No arrests have been made. The motor was met with a fusillade of bullets when passing under a railway bridge, but the badly wounded driver continued at the wheel, while his uninjured companion returned the fire. After shooting had gone on some time the assailants threw two bombs. Nothing is known as to casualties among those who made the attack.

Several Killed.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDONDERRY, June 22.—Firing was resumed in several parts of this city early to-day after a comparatively quiet night. Several persons killed in rioting here yesterday and scores were more or less seriously injured. Military forces patrolled the streets during the night.

Troops to-day were patrolling the danger points in the centre of the city. Additional troops are being sent here from Belfast. There were no deliveries of milk or bread in Londerry this this morning.

CIVIL WAR.

LONDONDERRY, June 22. — Civil war continued throughout the day, with one more death, bringing the total list to 8. Troops were protecting some of the principal streets this afternoon, but enough firing was going on to terrify the people and keep them indoors, resulting in the stoppage of all the usual activities.

General suffering is expected if deliveries of foodstuffs are not resumed soon.

The mail from the morning train was taken to the post office by a military escort but was permitted to remain there undelivered as the postmen feared to venture on the streets. Cross channel sailings have been suspended. The promised military reinforcements had not arrived up to a late hour this afternoon.

During the night sand bags and other barricades weer thrown up by the Unionists and the Nationalists.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

(By Owen Johnson)

The significance of war is primarily in the effect it will have on our social life. Abroad there has been a revolution worked already in the status of woman. The society which Mr. Johnson depicts in this novel and the type which he has created of the Virtuous Wife is a changing society. It has not yet entirely changed, but already we are seeing the healthful and invigorating effects of a great soul-test of war. No book can be more pertinent to the new period of self - examination through which we are passing than this novel which takes up and analyses the causes—bad education, over - sentimentalisation, freedom from responsibility—which produces the type of Virtuous Wife brought up on sensation and knowing no other aim in life than the pursuit of pleasure in contradistinction to the pursuit of happiness. His heroine, Amy Forrester, the young wife of a New York business man, has wealth, beauty, sensibility, and—at first—ideals, but the growing need of mental excitement and emotional stimulus which her life of idle luxury creates, leads her farther and farther into a world where the one aim is to seek amusement. Little by little, Amy's sensibilities are dulled, her ideals fade and vanish, and it needs the shock of tragedy to open her eyes to her own real status and that of her friends, Virtuous Wives though they deem themselves. A highly interesting and truthful story of married life in a well-known social environment.

This story will appear in The Examiner, commencing Saturday next.

CRISIS IN CONFERENCE WITH REDS

RELATIONS MAY BE BROKEN OFF AND MINISTER MAY DEPART.

AN ULTIMATUM

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 22. — A crisis has arisen in the negotiations between Premier Lloyd George and Gregory Krassin, Russia Minister of Trade and Commerce, which may result in the definite breaking off of conversations and the departure of M. Krassin from London according to the Herald, the organ of Labour.

The newspaper adds the crisis was precipitated by the premier insisting that before the negotiations go any further the Soviet government must promise compensation to British financiers who have vested interests in Russia.

M. Krassin, it is said, offered to discuss this matter at the peace conference, but was met by what is declared to have been a virtual ultimatum.

THE NEW ACKERMAN CATALOGUE

A COMPREHENSIVE EXHIBIT OF THE OLD ESTABLISHED BUSINESS OF B. F. ACKERMAN & SONS.

The credit for having established the Ackerman business belongs to Mr. B. F. Ackerman. He began the wholesale manufacture of harness in a small way in the village of Norwood, and not many years after, the expansion of the business became so rapid that the then factory plant was removed to Peterboro, in order to afford a wider scope for increased production. This move was followed by the erection soon afterwards of the present imposing and commodious factory building, offices and warerooms on the corner of George and Dalhousie streets. All the latest ideas were incorporated in the buildings and equipment comprising the extensive plant. Since then the growth of the business has been somewhat phenomenal, because of the high standard of the goods.

There has been added to the original harness manufacturing plant, a large boot and shoe factory, and several other important lines of an allied nature, including saddles, horse clothing, saddlery, hardware and sundries, trunks, bags and suit cases, leather and shoe findings.

This firm has just isued to the trade a large and comprehensive catalogue profusely illustrated with well executed half tone cuts and descriptions of the leading and diversified lines. Looking back over the history and development of the Ackerman business this exhaustive catalogue is one of the interesting chapters in its growth and standing. The catalogue is printed on heavy coated 100 pound book paper, ea h copy weighing 24 ounces. The character of the letterpress and printing indicate the practical good sense of the compiler, in which clearness, uniformity and harmony of arrangement have been the predominating idea. The artistically executed half tone cuts are splendidly reproduced, and the presswork throughout bears evidence of the modern development of the "Art Preservative of All Arts." The cover is of a rich double tone brown, of heavy Sunburst quality, which is distinctly beautiful in design; the title, "Harness and Saddlery," and name of firm being printed and embossed with a clear and striking two colored letter of English art, in red with black outline, the centre of the page showing an antique embossed wreath surrounding the company's "Quality A Service" trade mark. The entire page is surrounded with an antique embossed border enclosing a slender black line which aids in giving the entire cover a most pleasing effect.

This new catalogue has just been issued from The Examiner presses.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is is that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. We have helped a large number of children. See W. H. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George street.

Minister of Labour Gives His Views of Chippawa Situation

BELIEVES SIR ADAM BECK WELCOMES THE EXCUSE TO SHUT THE WORK DOWN—DO NOT CONSIDER HIGH COST OF MATERIALS IN SAME LIGHT.

TORONTO, June 22.—"Sir Adam Beck actually welcomes, in my opinion, this opportunity of closing down the work on the Hydro at Chippewa," stated Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labour, to the Examiner to-day, in commenting on the situation. "I don't believe that anyone, outside the Hydro offices, believes that the job could be completed within the time it was expected to have been done."

"What is more," continued the Minsiter, "I believe that one of the main reasons why the proposed Hydro auxiliary steam plant which is being rushed in Hamilton, is to meet the Toronto situation, when the time comes for the city to take over the Toronto Railway Company's street car system, knowing that the Chippewa plant won't be prepared to furnish power by that time."

"Even at the rates of wages which were paid and the working conditions which prevailed last year, I don't believe that Sir Adam would want to continue the work. The Commission was complaining last year that it was not getting enough for the money it was spending, so it is doubtful whether it would be willing to carry on. The Commission knows well that it can't finish the job in time."

"The Commission is whimpering about the high labour costs, and says that it will mean a big jump in the cost of power to the people. How about the higher costs of materials and machinery? They are not complaining about them. It would certainly be interesting to align the estimated cost of machinery and materials and their actual present cost, with the original estimate of labour costs and the present labour costs. The firms selling the machinery and other materials are able to get the market prices, in fact, anything they ask. They are not asked to bear the burden of giving cheap power to the people of Ontario. Why, then, should 2,000 workmen at Niagara Falls be asked to sacrifice wages and working conditions to give cheap power to the peopl of the Province?"

The Municipalities.

Asked what should be done, and who should intervene to straighten out the present situation at Chippewa, Hon. Mr. Rollo said: "Why, it's the municipalities who should step in. All the Government has to do with the Hydro is to guarantee the bonds of municipalities. But it is the municipalities that have to pay off these bonds. They are the ones vitally interested. If there is a profit, who gets it? If, on the other hand, there is a loss, who bears it—is it the Government, the Hydro-Electric Commission, or the municipalities? Why," and the Minister answered his own question, "it's the municipalities. I don't think Sir Adam Beck should decide alone, nor should the Commission. They are the trustees for the municipalities, but it is the individual municipalities who should settle whether or not they will pay higher wages. In any case, I understand there is a daily loss of about $4,000.00 for interest charges for every day the work remains idle."

"The Government, I don't believe, would see any great obstacle in guaranteeing a slightly higher amount of bonds, if these were necessary to pay the additional wages."

The Minister then charged Sir Adam with having had full knowledge that the present situation would develop. "While I was down at the Hydro Committee rooms with Sir Adam," said Hon. Mr. Rollo, "just before the Legislature Commission went to Niagara Falls, Beck said that unless the men would work a ten-hour day, on a flat rate, the job would not be carried on, but that the Hydro would shut it down and then reorganise the whole thing on a ten-hour day basis.

"I told him, then that he would have a strike on his hands if he attempted to put his scheme over. He had granted the men a basic eight-hour day the year before, giving them time and one-half for the two hours each day, and to ask these men to give up the eight-hour day now was one thing labour would fight. He has now come forward with an offer to slightly increase the wages but he takes away the eight-hour day."

OPTIMISTIC REPORTS ON CANADA'S CROP PROSPECTS

THERE IS STILL DANGER FROM FROST AND THE HELP PROBLEM IS EVER IN SIGHT.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 22.—Crop prospects in Canada, in regard to grains, fruits and vegetables, according to reports gathered by Canadian Press, today give reasonable ground for optimism as to Canada's agricultural and horticultural production for the year nineteen twenty.

In fruit growing districts of Eastern Canada prospects are for bumper crops and there is already great anxiety as to securing help for harvesting. Strawberries are already coming in and other smaller fruits may be glut on market in some districts. Apple crops promise well.

Western Canadian wheat reports are optimistic. In some parts of Ontario record crops of wheat and oats are promised, while other grains are also doing well. Some is true generally speaking of reports from Quebec and Maritime provinces. Potatoes are doing well in practically all centres, although area seeded was restricted owing to high cost of seed.

Various pests are making themselves felt, cut-worms and grasshoppers are being fought with every weapon known to agricultural science. There is still danger from frosts and the help problem is ever in sight, but so far, as actual growth is concerned, Canada's crops, according to reports received generally today, are in remarkably favorable position.

GOVERNMENT HAD CAUCUS

TWO PROPOSALS UNDER DISCUSSION, INCLUDING WHEAT CONTROL.

OTTAWA, June 22. — Sir Robert Borden announced at the close of the Government causus to-day that two government proposals were under discussion: wheat control and aid to shipbuilding under authority to the Minister of Finance to endorse promisory notes of purchasers.

To both proposals, the premier said, caucus had given its approval. There was no discussion of the government's naval estimates nor of the leadership of the party.

The caucus, he added, had taken no action on the question of increased indemnity for members.

Question of leadership and re-organization of the Unionist party, it is stated, is to be discussed at a further caucus likely to be held on Saturday.

TWO CARS IN A COLLISION TO-DAY

ONE CAR WAS BADLY DAMAGED—THE DRIVERS ESCAPED

Mr. Louis Florence, of D. Florence & Son, with his maroon Overland Country Club, and A. Cole, general merchant, of Bailieboro, with a light Ford truck were the principals in an automobile smash-up at the corner of Park and Charlotte Streets at 11.15 this morning. As a result of the collision Florence's car came out much the worse, and a repair bill of one or two hundred dollars is not improbable, while Cole escaped with only a cracked windshield, a broken steering rod, a broken spoke in the right front wheel, and a damaged radiator.

Archie Cole is a general merchant at Bailieboro, and came into town this morning with Henry Clemens of Bailieboro to buy some goods. The car is a roadster, with a convertible back for a small truck body. In the back he carried four or five heavy bags of salt, some clothes boilers, and some other goods. He was on his way home by the Gravel Road.

At the corner of Downie Street, he slacked up his speed, he claims, to allow a woman to cross the street, and tooted his horn. He estimated his speed at 10 or 12 miles an hour. Florence, he says, was coming down Park Street, and was on them before they knew what happened. He did not use his horn, the occupants state, and swung in front of them to go down Charlotte Street, but there was not room for him to turn, and Cole's car struck him on the left running board.

Cole alleges that Florence was travelling so fast that he could not help striking him, although he clamped on his brakes the minute he saw Florence turning around on him. The impact Florence received caused him to skid broadside on right across the road, over the curb, in front of A. Brown's house on Park Street. A hydrant stopped its further progress southward, and here it rested for the crowd that soon gathered to inspect.

It presented a sorry spectacle—the front axle was twisted with the blow, and the right front wheel caved inwards in a bow-legged fashion. The back right wheel, after the skid, bore a slight resemblance to a wheel, but was bent like a spring. The left running board, body, and doors where it was struck were torn and bent. Other slight damage was done to the car as well.

Mr. Florence would not state how much insurance he carried on the car.

Would you say $200.00?

About that.

It was not his fault, he maintains. The other car was travelling fast as well, and he could do nothing. Cole's allegation that he turned and cut the corner right into him is not true, he states. "I was going right down Park Street. I could do nothing. He would have struck me anyway."

Florence admitted he was a little excited.

Were you travelling fast?

Less than 20 miles an hour.

Cole's car was pushed on to the side of the road on Park Street, but will be repaired to-day.

The other car was dragged down Charlotte Street at noon by one of Florence's drays. In spite of much wobbling and a refusal to budge on several occasions, the decrepit-looking vehicle arrived on Bethune Street, where it found a temporary resting-place.

REVEALED.

Now, on a sudden I know it, the secret of life.
Why the very green of the grass in the fields with betrayal is rife,
The whirr of the grasshoper by the wayside proclaims it to all;
'Tis unrolled as a scroll to all eyes in the curve of the waterfall.
But, for me, I can only wonder at mortals—the secret out!
For they see, hear, taste, smell, feel not what heaven reveals all about.

(Canadian Press.)

There will be a general discussion of the matter in the Commons to-night.

OMISSION IN GEORGE STREET REPORT.

Through an inadvertency, the musical features in connection with the floral service in George street church Sunday morning were omitted from the report of yesterday.

The Sunday school orchestra led in the service of song, which was conducted by Mr. J. H. Renwick. The orchestra also rendered several selections very creditably. Through the efforts of Mr. W. H. Cunningham, the leader, it was augmented to some 20 pieces.

A chorus by the members of the Sunday school was a pleasing feature, as was also an appropriate solo by Miss Doris Rathbone.

MONTREAL, June 22.—On giving up his ministry at St. James' Methodist church here, where he has been assistant pastor for the past four years, the Rev. W. Harold Young, who is leaving to become minister of George street church, Peterborough, was the guest of honour last night at a farewell congregational meeting. Not only were various addresses made in reference to the ministry of Rev. Mr. Young highly appreciative, but he was the recipient of a purse of $400 and Mrs. Young was presented with a large bouquet of American Beauty roses. In the unavoidable absence of the superintendent minister, Rev. Dr. Henderson, the gathering was presided over by Mr. J. H. Carson as retiring steward. Rev. Robert Smith, president of the Montreal conference, was preesnt, as was also Rev. A. G. Burgoine, who is to act as supply before the new pastor, Rev. Amos J. Thomas arrives. The sentiments of the congregation towards the departing guests were expressed by the Rev. Robert Smith, who referred to his successful ministry and the way in which he had gained the esteem not only of church members, but of many citizens and of the ministers of the whole conference. These remarks were echoed in various forms by C. W. Baker, Supt. of the Sunday school, C. R. Tousaw, chairman of the Finance committee, J. Armitage Ewing, K.C., Dr. W. S. Hamilton, F. A. Matthews, Wm. Geraghty, also by Miss Moffitt on behalf of the deaconess, the hope being expressed that a subsequent date St. James' church might welcome Rev. Mr. Young back to the pastorate.

FRANCHISE BILL IS UNDER DISCUSSION

OTTAWA, —June 22.—At the opening of yesterday afternoon sitting of the House, a number of queries were put to the Government.

Mr. Dennis desired to know if before prorogation there would be a Indian conference.

Sir George Foster answered that by agreement no details would be announced until 4th August, but a statement would be made probably somewhat fuller than that given to the press.

No Appointment Made.

Hon. Mackenzie King inquired when the arbitrators in connection with the Grand Trunk would be appointed.

"As for the Grand Trunk arbitrator, I cannot say," replied the Premier. "The Government has not made any appointment, and, of course, no announcement can be made."

"he Government was anxious to get through the legislation hurriedly last year, so the arbitrators could be appointed," added Mr. King.

Sir Robert Borden answered that both the Government and the company were preparing "actively" for the arbitration.

Replying to Mr. King, the Premier said final touches were being put today to the supplementary estimates.

Franchise Act.

Discussion of the Franchise Act was then resumed. Most of the bill had been disposed of before the budget speech, but it had not been before the House since that day.

When the bill was called the Solicitor-General proposed a new clause to provide for votes under the Canada Temperance Act.

May Vary Procedure.

The new clause, which is a substitute for Section 101, contemplates the use for such votes of the ordinary election machinery as far as applicable, but leaves to the chief election officer the right to vary the procedure so far as necessary.

A mild objection was made by the Hon. Jacques Bureau, who said this provision gave very wide powers to the chief election officer.

Mr. Guthrie said he was limited to such changes as were necessary to adopt the Act to the special circumstances, and it was though wise to leave the deiion to an officer as free as possible from parliamentary or Government control.

The new section then carried.

Fees of Officers.

An amendment was also proposed to the section regarding fees and expenses for elections officers. Mr. Guthrie suggested that the expenses should vary as between organied and unorganiaed ridings, and he proposed therefore to leave the fixing of fees and expenses in the hands of the chief electoral officer.

There were comments from several members that there had been much dissatisfaction among electoral officers in the past on the ground that the fees and allowances were too low.

Mr. Guthrie then announced that he would later move a resolution along the lines he had indiated.

MURDER NOOSE GRABS SOCIETY

Police View Picture Gallery of Beautiful Women to Trail Elwell's Slayer.

NEW YORK, June 22.—A picture gallery of beautiful women found in the west side residence of Jos. B. Elwell, wealthy sportsman and authority on whist, was being investigated by the police for a clue to his mysterious murder Friday morning.

Detectives who have expressed belief that Elwell had been shot to death by a man, possibly one provoked to jealousy—turned to this picture gallery for the original whose intimacy with the dead sportsman may have aroused this blood lust.

The gallery is said to include pictures of many women widely known in society. Rumor has even included the name of a Russian beauty who in the reign of the czar bore the title of princess.

The report of the medical examiner made yesterday that Elwell met his death from a large calibre revolver inclined the police to believe that a man had fired the shot. They pointed out that it would have been difficult for a woman to have handled effectively so heavy an instrument.

No powder burns were found about the wound on Elwell's head, according to the findings of the medical examiner, which rejected the suicide theory. No weapon was found in Elwell's room.

WAITED 22 YEARS ONLY TO BE JILTED.

Nowa a Jury has awarded Miss Fellers Damages at the Rate of $1000 a YEAR.

FALLS CITY, Neb., June 22. — A Richardson County Jury has awarded $1000 a year to Miss Jennie Fellers for each of the 22 years she waited for Louis H. Howe, now of Lincoln, to make good his promise to marry her.

Miss Fellers is a school teacher. Her story was that when she was a high school girl in 1896, she met Howe who was several years her senior and of a family possessed of large holdings of land. Howe was the manager of the estate for his mother. Miss Fellers agreed to marry him but he said ttat he must stay with his mother as long as she lived. Meanwhile he showered gifts and attentions upon the young woman.

Howe's mother is still living. In 1918 Howe broke off the engagement. He said his mother and sisters did not think Miss Felers would make him the kind of a wife he needed. He also said his fiancee had grown "touchy" and "sharp" in her conversations with him. She sued for $50,000. The jury gave her $22,000.

DO YOU EXPECT TO LIVE LONG?

The facts are against you. In one Life Insurance Company during three months, Sixteen died of OLD AGE, 2,736 died at PREMATURE AGES, and each one was sound when the Insurance was issued.

Each one had just as good a right to expect to live to old age as you have.

Another Insurance Company shows that out of Claims paid last year, 6.8 per cent. died the FIRST YEAR, and 72.5 per cent. died INSIDE OF TWENTY YEARS.

Note well that the Men and Women who died the first year left approximately fifty times as much to their heirs as if they had "saved" the premium.

THE SUN LIFE OF CANADA, with over $105,000,000.00 of Assets, is the logical place to Insure.

JUDGMENT IN THE BOWLER CASE

Following is a complete copy of the judgment of the Appellate Court in the Bowler versus Redman and Vass case:—

R. R. Hall, (Peterborough) for the defendant Vass, Appellant.

G. W. Hatton, (Peterborough), for the defendant Redman, Appeliant.

G. N. Gordon, (Peterborough), for the plaintiff respondent.

Ferguson, J. A.—This is an appeal by the defendants from a judgment of E. C. S. Huycke, Judge of the County Court of Peterborough, dated 19th January, 1920, whereby he adjudged that the plaintiff recover against the defendant Redman the sum of $448.00, and against the defendant Vass $ .00.00.

The plaintiff is a returned soldier. The defendant Redman is a married woman residing at Peterborough, but who, for a number of years, has been separated from her husband. The defendant Vass is a mechanic residing at Peterborough.

Before entering upon active service, the plaintiff transferred to the defendant Redman all his money and property being a Ford Automobile and $223.00 on deposit in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Peterborough Branch.

On his return from overseas, the plaintiff asked the defendant Redman to return him the car and money, also the part of his pay which he had directed the authorities to pay to Mrs. Redman while he was overseas. She refused, claiming that the transfers to her were gifts and that she had sold the automobile to the defendant Vass for $300.00. The plaintiff's claim is to recover the car and money on the ground that they had been transferred to the defendant Redman to keep for and be returned to plaitiff if he returned from the war, or to set aside the transfers on the ground that they had been obtained by the undue influence, fraud, and misrepresentation of the defendants Redman and Vass.

The learned Trial Judge found that the transfers were obtained by undue influence, were improvident and should be set aside; also that the transfers wers made on the representations of the defendant Redman that she would keep the moneys and the car for the plaintiff, and return them to him if and when he returned from the war (p. 11). Had the plaintiff been more astute or had he had less confidence in the defendant Redman, he would have obtained documentary evidence of the real agreement between them, but he had implicit confidence in Mrs. Redman. He never suspected that she would abuse his confidence or seek to keep his property and money in case he survived and returned from the war.

It is clear, on the evidence, that the defendant Vass had full knowledge of the inducements and representations of Redman; according to the plaintiff's story, the transfers were made on his suggestion. Under those circumstances it is not necessary to set aside the transfers as being improvident or induced by undue influence. It is, I think, sufficient to find and declare that the property and moneys in the hands of the defendant Redman were impressed with a trust in favor of the plaintiff, and that the defendant Redman, in spending the money and in selling the motor car to Vass, did so in breach of a trust of which the defendant Vass, at the time of his alleged purchase of the car had full notice and knowledge. That such a finding and declaration can be made, although the Bill of Sale and transfers are absolute in form, is, I think, clear. See in re Duke of Marlborough (1894) 2 Chy. 133; Rochefoucauld v. Boustead, (1897) 1 ch. 196 ,and other cases collected in Phipson on Evidence, 5th ed. p. 549.

I would dismiss the appeals with costs.

FREE CHURCHMEN AND THE LAMBETH CONFERENCE

(The following correspondence has passed between the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Rev. F. B. Meyer.)

Lambeth Palace, S.E.
May 15th, 1920.

Dear Mr. Meyer,—It occurs to me that it might be not unwelcome to members of the Free Churches of England that I should, President of forth-coming Lambeth Conference of Bishops, invite the prayers of fellow Christians outside the Church of England on behalf of the deliberations of the Conference.

Such a gathering of Bishops from all parts of the world cannot be a matter indifferent to those who have at heart the religious well-being of the whole Empire at home and overseas.

The Conference, which will sit at Lambeth throughout July and until August 8, will, so far as we can at present tell, include 107 Bishops from the dioceses in the Dominions and the mission field, 72 Bishops from the United States of America, and about 100 Bishops whose work lies in the British Isles.

Among the subjects to be discussed are the great questions of "Christianity and International Relations, especially the League of Nations"; the Christian Faith in Relation to Spiritualism, Christian Science, Theosophy; and a whole series of missionary problems. The position of women in the councils and ministrations of the Church will also be before us, as well as the opportunity and duty in regard to industrial and social questions.

We have also to deal with the very large question of the Church of England's delation to, and possible reunion with other Churches, episcopal and non-episcopal; and we shall also have before us problems of marriage and sexual morality. You will see, therefore, that we have a broad basis on which to invite the prayers and sympathy of fellow Christians of all denominations.

If you can, in some way, make known in Free Church circles generally that we should attach great value to the knowledge of such fellowship in thought and prayer outside our own borders, I shall myself be exceedingly grateful, and I am sure that what I say is in accordance with the feeling of the whole body of the Episcopate.—I am, Yours, very truly.

RANDALL CANTAUR.

May 19th, 1920.

My Dear Archbishop,—Your letter of the 15th inst., in which you invite the prayers of your fellow-Christians, outside the Church of England, in behalf of the deliberations of the forthcoming Lambeth Conference of Bishops, will, I am sure, be welcomed with warm unanimity throughout the Free Churches.

Even if you had not expressed your own desire in this matter, there should have been throughout our Churches a spontaneous expression of profound sympathy and interest in this gathering of so many illustrious and devout servants of our Lord; but these feelings will find a new impulse and incentive in your courteous and cordial invitation.

Most of the questions you are considering are of common concern to us all, touching as they do the attitude of the Church to the outstanding problems of the age. Your discussions and conclusions, therefore, will be followed by our alert attention and interest; but probably to us the most vital part of your deliberations will be that in which you will consider the essential unity of the Church.

There is, your grace, as we know you believe, a unity more profound than of outward circumstance and condition, the unity of mutual love and sympathy and goodwill. In that spirit you have approached us, and in that spirit we shall respond.—With much regard and respect, yours very sincerely, F. B. MEYER.

Hair Kept Beautifully Wavy, Indoors or Out!

If you will apply a little liquid silmerine before doing up your hair it will have a prettier wave and curl than probably it has ever had. The waviness will look perfectly natural and the hair will be sleek and glossy like plush. It will remain in curl the longest time, regardless of heat, wind or moisture, and you won't have to be continually fussing with loose strands or flying ends.

Liquid silmerine is, of course, entirely harmless. It leaves no sticky greasy or streaky trace. It is also an excellent dressing for the hair, keeping it delightfully soft and silky. A few ounces from your druggist will last for weeks. It is best applied with a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair.

SPEEDING IN LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, June 22.—The pavement on Lindsay street to Riverside cemetery is now termed the speedway, owing to the practice of reckless automobilists wh ospeed over the roads with a recklessness which is positively criminal. It is dangerous for people to walk on the road while visiting the cemetery and many narrow escapes have been reported.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair

(Toilet Talks.)

A stiff paste made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on a hairy surface for about 2 minutes will when removed take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. No harm can result from this treatment but be sure it is delatone you get and you will not be disappointed.

MAYOR DISAPPEARS IN MYSTERIOUS WAY

CHIEF MAGISTRATE OF IROQUOIS FALLS MISSING SINCE TRIP TO TORONTO.

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont., June 22.—The citizens of Iroquois Falls are anxious as to the whereabouts of Samuel G. McCoubrey, who has been mayor of the town for the past six years. He left here on May 12 to go to Toronto on business for the town. He left the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, on May 14th, to take the train for Montreal. Since then nothing has been heard of him and his friends here are at a loss to explain his failure to communicate with his family.

In addition to being mayor he was a member of the Orange and Masonic orders. He was 50, years of age, weighs 160 lbs., tattoo marks on both forearms (on one R.I.R., and on the other, "Never forget a mother's love"). He wore on the third finger of the left hand a ring with Orange and Masonic emblems. He was five feet seven inches in height, was of medium build and wore a blue reefer suit and grey overcoat with velvet collar. His hair was turning grey.

Any information as to his whereabouts will be gladly received by A. J. Hodgson, Town Clerk. He was much esteemed in the community and his absence is causing great anxiety.

JURY BLAMES WORKMEN FOR INCREASED BUILDING COSTS

CLEVELAND, O., June19.—Chief blame for trenmendous increases in building costs is placed o labor's refusal to do "a day's work for a day's pay" in the report of the county grand jury on its investigation of the housi gsituation, delevered to-day to Judge Kennery in Criminal Court.

The report followed a three months' ivestigation in which members of the jury heard testimony of more than one hundred witnesses, including builders, dealers in material and supplies and representatives of labor organizations.

The report declares no evidence to indicate the existence of a combination or trust to keep up building prices had been found.

Workmen employed in bliuding operations are doing less than one-half the work they did in prewar time, the jury charged and receiving twice the wages.

ELECTRICAL PURIFICATION OF CLAY

The most novel application of electricity to industry is the purification of clay. A machine designed for this purpose was recently exhibited before the Royal Society, London, England. It consists of a trough with a cylinder which slowly revolves over a grating through which the "slip"—a mixture of clay and water—is forced. When the cylinder is connected to one pole of an electrical circuit and the grating to another, the electrical effect separates the fine particles of clay from the water and deposits them on the cylinder, whence they are removed by a scraper. By this simple and ingenious process, known by the name of "electrical osmosis," low grade and dirty china clays can be used to produce pure fine clays for pottery and for the manufacture of "art" paper. The clays used for fire-clay are made more plastic and also more fire-resisting as a result of the electrical treatment. The same process can be applied in tanning leather and in the preparation of glue and gelatine.

MR. TAYLOR'S CHARGE.

There is widespread interest in the statements made by U.F.O. members of the Legislature in connection with alleged attempts at bribery and the feeling is general that having given public utterance to these charges the members in question should either lay before the the Attorney General the facts in their possession or else should publicly deny the statements and apologize for having made them. Mr. D. J. Taylor, M.P.P. for North Grey, one of the two members who have been in the centre of the agitation, however, has chosen a third alternative. Although he admits he was offered $1,000 for his influence in a certain matter before the Legislature, he announces that he has no further information to give the Attorney-General and declines to divulge the name of the man who offered him the bribe. Mr. Taylor will have difficulty in justifying his position. Having come out in the open and made the definite statement that an attempt was instituted to corrupt him, the member for North Grey should go further, and give the Attorney-General the name of the individual who endeavoured to influence him. He will be derelict in his duty to the riding he represents and to the province in general if he fails to divulge this information, and his constituents should lose no time letting him know that they expect him to expose the guilty party. Mr. Taylor should remember that he himself is not the only one involved in the matter and that it concerns the whole people. The Attorney-General should have all the facts and the member for North Grey has a peculiar conception of his duty as a member of the Legislature if he thinks that he is justified in withholding information that should be, in the public interest, revealed.

THE CHIPPEWA SITUATION.

There is in the labour troubles arising out of the Chippewa development scheme something more than the usual dispute between employer and employee. The question of the eight-hour day is not the main issue, although the leaders of the men who have gone on strike, are endeavoring to convince the public that such is the case. But bigger than the matter of how many hours a day a man should be asked to work is the cause of public ownership in Ontario which is being threatened by the present deadlock in this gigantic scheme. Delay will be fatal to the plans of the Hydro-Electric Commission for unless the Chippewa scheme is completed by September 1st, 1921, and power is available from that source a very disastrous situation will be created. The city of Toronto, which takes over the system of the Toronto Street Railway Company in August of next year, expects to secure the electrical energy necessary to operate the system from the Chippewa plant. If that is not ready, Toronto will have to depend upon the Electrical Development Company, an offshoot of the Toronto Street Railway, for its power, and may have to face an exorbitant price for electrical energy or even worse find itself without any power if the Development Company prefers to enter into contracts with private companies and thus dispose of the 30,000 horse power now used in the operation of the Toronto Street Railway. In that event Toronto' stransportation system would be tied up with results that would be felt by every citizen of Toronto.

In the face of these facts, the attitude of the men on the Chippewa work is hard to understand. They ignore the dire results that will follow a protracted delay in the scheme and profess to see in the dispute a capitalistic plan to fight the principle of the eight hour day. Such an argument is childish, for the crux of the situation is that it is necessary to have a ten hour day upon this work if the canal and plant are to be completed in time to save the day for public ownership. And labour by throwing the strike money-wrench into the machinery is playing the game of the private interests.

SHOULD BE AMENDED.

The decision of Police Magistrate Saunders of Calgary in regard to the wearing of active service buttons by persons who are not enitled to this decoration may be sound in law, but in the opinion of many people, returned soldiers and others, is a ruling that tends to deprive the lawful wearer of the Class A service badge of the prestige that is due him. Magistrate Saunders declares that any person may wear the Class A badge of the Canadian expeditionary force as long as he does not attempt to secure any benefits therefrom or to obtain what is meant for those who have actually served with the army in France. In other words there is nothing in the regulations as interpreted by the Calgary magistrate to prevent a man who never donned khaki from posing as a veteran of the war provided he does not try to obtain some financial benefit from his masquerade. If he can secure possession of the military service badge he can wear it with impunity, deceiving those who see it into thinking that he is one of the men who fought for Canada overseas and taking away from the real veterans some of the credit that is their right by reason of their service. If the regulations in regard to these badges are such as Magistrate Saunders' ruling declares them to be, they should be amended at once, so as to protect those who are legally enitled to wearing these honour badges. No civilian who has never been in the army should be given a chance to pose as h war veteran, even if he is not seeking to secure any material benefit from his deception.

CHURCHES AND SALARIES.

A delegate at the Alberta Baptist convention the other day in discussing the question of ministers' salaries, declared that the church has no right to engage a man to preach the Gospel and then to subject the minister and his family to semi-starvation. He added that it did not believe it possible for a man to live on the present minimum of $1,000 a year. Other delegates agreed with him and the convention passed a resolution calling for the introduction of a minimum of $1,600 a year and a parsonage.

Undoubtedly not only in the Baptist church, but in other churches of Canada, many of the ministers have been ill paid, and the present movement to increase the stipends of the preachers comes not a moment too soon for a large number of them have been at their wits end to keep body and soul togethes and to properly raise a family on the pittance they have received. And the ministers are not the only church officials who are poorly recompensed for their services. In many churches, and Peterborough is unfortunately no exception to the rule, the sexton is usually paid a wage that is utterly inconsistent with the cost of living. In one city church the duties of looking after which are by no means light, the caretaker receives less than six hundred dollars a year, although his work days are seven a week and he is kept busy from one week end to the next. And his is not an isolated case. As a rule the wages are such as would earn for a private employer or a business corporation the reputation of being niggardly and soulless. The congregations of many churches in Canada would do well, when the question of ministers' salaries is rightly receiving their consideration, to also allow their attention to be directed to the allowances of other employees of the church.

NIGHT RAIN IN THE CITY.

"I blend with the soft shadows
Of the young maple leaves,
And mingle in the raindrops
That shine along the eaves."

It would seem that "someone had suddenly wrapped the world in a protecting mantle of perfumed dreams" when it rains at night in the city. The trees are silent with a reverent stillness as there fall on them the quiet showers for which they have waited. The flowers send up their worship in a thousand different mingling fragrances, and the aroma of rain-awakened earth is as wonderful and elusive as a breath of the woodland on a day of summer heat. The grateful leaves of shrubs and trees, the needles of spruce and pine, the lifting blades of grass, and the trembling leaves of vines clinging to silent walls each have a perfume "that haunts the mist-blue showers."

Long dancing paths of soft brilliance steal quickly before the glowing motor lights as they flit silently through the streets. Street lamps like mist-wreathed opals send out steady, gleaming, golden reflections over the wet pavement and throw enfolding mists up into the leaf-shadowed tree branches as if to shield the leaves in their sacred worship of the hour. The whole world is a-gleam with rainbuds and silver threads of falling showers dance between us and the great corner lights.

But the enthralling marvel of the hour is the mystic music of the "little laughing patterings" of the raindrops as they fall. Theirs is a melody of happy sounds

"Musical and glad! And we have listened to that lost flute strain,
"Whose long sweet and sobbing minor is the record of the rain—"

There is optimism and triumph in every little low liquid "wood-note of the rain," and loveliest of all these is the steady cadence in the drip of the eaves "blurring remembrance and quieting pain," and shedding a dear possibility over dreams. Rain music "rhythmed to joy and untarnished of pain" lulls us to rest in sweet content as though benediction had fallen upon our lives with a promise of radiance over all our to-morrows.—London Advertiser.

Constipation or Costiveness

Constipation, although generally described as a disease, can never exist unless some of the organs are deranged, which is generally found to be the liver.

There is nothing more productive of general ill health than constipation of the bowels, and a regular action is absolutely essential to general health. One of the most common, painful and troublesome troubles caused by constipation is piles, and unless the bowels are kept open by the use of a good laxative such as Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills the whole system will be poisoned and many different complications of diseases arise, so if you would be well, keep your bowels regular.

Mr. A. Roder, Hastings St. E., Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"I desire to express my thanks for what Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have done for me. I had been suffering from constipation for two years and also had a bad cough and headaches. I tried all sorts of cures and remedies, but got no relief until I was advised to try your pills. I got great relief after the first few doses."

Get Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills when you ask for them or send 25c. and they will be sent by return of mail by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

AMERICAN AIRMEN ESCAPE CAPTURE

COOPER AND CRAWFORD, THEIR PLANES DISABLED, FIGHT COSSACKS WITH MACHINE GUNS.

WARSAW — The Americans who were in the Kiev region, over which the Bolsheviki have swept in their westward drive have all safely emerged from that sector, according to word from the front, but several of them had narrow escapes.

Two aviators of the Kosciuszko Squadron, the air force of American volunteers which operates with the Poles, were chased by the Bolsheviki after their airplanes had been lost. The airmen were Lieut. George Crawford of Wilmington, Del., and Capt. Merion Cooper of Jacksonville, Fla. They made an emergency attack on General Budenny's raiding Soviet cavalry. The airmen used their machine guns on the approaching Cossacks but finally realizing that their fight was a hopeless one they set fire to their airplanes, ran for the woods, and escaped.

Colonel Moffat of the Red Cross, who was on his way to Jitomir for the purpose of obtaining some documents deposited there, arrived in the town the day after the Budenny raid. The burned depot was still smouldering when he reached the edge of the town. He reports seeing the bodies of four Poles swinging from ropes. They had been hanged by Budenny's men. Nearby were Bolsheviki who had been strung up when the Cossacks were ousted.

It was on this same day that the evacuation of Kiev by the Poles was begun. There was great confusion, the railroads all having been cut at various places by Budenny raiders. Colonel Moffat made an attempt to return to Kiev but the Budenny raiders, it was found, had penetrated both west and noth of Jitomir, causing the Poles to bring up infantry and armoured trains to deal with them. Several British observers arrived at this time and the Poles undertook to protect the party. The armoured trains which they eventually succeeded in getting through rescued Colonel Moffat and the British observers.

The party was shot at from all sides as the train passed through the wooded districts where the Poles and the Bolsheviki were fighting, the Polish engineers repairing the roads, while the infantry fought off the enemy.

An unconfirmed report has been received by the Poles here that the Bolsheviki captured four Polish Red Cross young women workers in the Kiev region and are holding them as hostages.

Picturesque warfare, strikingly similar to that of the days when the cavalier was supreme, is being carried on in the wild districts southwest of Kiev. It is chiefly a combat between Polish lancers and Bolshevist Cossacks.

Raids by the troops of Genereaf Budenny to break the right wing of the Poles protecting the Kiev communications began several weeks ago. Budenny, who was a general in the old Russian forces, has been using old and new tactics in everlasting wearing and hammering drives. His cavalry is well reinforced by infantry.

Kiev is not in Bolshevist hands but the Poles say it is perhaps not lost forever and the front swings back and forth from day to day.

This front, if it may be called such, is partly unsettled wooded country and partly devastated farmland, where sometimes a single company tries to hold a line from one to two miles long. Budenny's cavalry consists entirely of crack men and it is said that each must have served at least two years in the old Russian mounted forces. Against the Cossacks are Polish lancers, well known in history and Polish cavalry that covered 70 miles in two days during the drive against Kiev. Carbines are used chiefly by Budenny's men, but in the frequent close up fighting of horsemen against horsemen the Cossacks bring their sabres into play and the lancers use their sidearms.

Returning Americans say that the leader or Captain of Budenny's detachments wear a red shirt and leads the cavalry charge, followed closely by the lieutenants wearing white shirts. Then come the drove of Budenny's men wearing shirts of all colors with the exception of red or white. As far as is known Budenny himself is close by.

SOLDIERS THE LEADERS OF FASHION IN WHISKERS

There are signs that whiskers are being cultivated again. It is a remarkable thing that, although both King George and his father, King Edward, were bearded, very few of their subjects followed their lead.

In fact, from the days of the later Stuarts to the Crimean War, all Europe was clean-shaven as well as bewigged. The bearded warriors of the Crimea brought home the fashion, and for forty year society occupied itself in devising new fashions in whiskers.

Sothern, the actor, made the Dundreary style the rage, and a dude of the sixties was hardly complete without side-tassels. From France and Napoleon the Third came the Imperial, a little tuft on the chin. The same period also saw the rise of the mutton chop side whiskers, which were worn with and without the moustache, while Hodge compromised between beard and no beard by shaving his chin and jaw and upper lip and leaving a fringe round the throat as a sort of natural muffler.

The twentith century had largely returned to the clean shave, but the war brought back the military moustache, reduced, in most cases, to the smallest dimensions.—Answers.

MISSOURIAN, TIED TO TRACK BY ROBBERS, SAVES LIFE BUT LOSES HAND AND FOOT

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., June 22.—George M. Underwood, whose left hand and leg were cut off last night by a train after bandits had tied him to a railroad track, today told the story of his experience and denied that the men had any motive that he knew of except robbery. Underwood is expected to recover.

"An hour or so after dark," he said, "as I was walking to the station to catch a train for Carrollton, Mo., my home, two men in a touring car forced me into the car and took my watch and $70. They drove south, and one of the men said, 'Let's kill the —.'

"'No,' returned the other, 'we will tie him to the railroad track.'

"We stopped once at a pile of barbed wire, and one of the men got several long strands of it. We stopped again, and I was forced to get down on the track. A few minutes later, while I was struggling to escape, I heard the rumble of an approaching train. I tried to scream, but rags in my mouth throttled my voice. As the engine came within a few rods of me I threw all my strength into another attempt to escape. My right hand was free at last, and I tore the gag from my mouth, screaming. Then I loosened my right leg and swung partly free from the track, but my left foot and hand were too tightly bound to be released.

"Something seemed to sting my entire body. I suppose I fainted for a moment, but soon I was screaming again. A farmer came from somewhere and helped untie the barbed wire, which was still partly strung around my body."

Posses are hunting the robbers.

Voice Of The People

Peterboro, June 21st.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I am sending you herewith a letter that appeared in The Christian Science Monitor, entitled, "Peace Work and Labour Troubles," which I think would make interesting reading for both employee and employer, and would be glad if you would publish it. READER.

Piece Work and Labor Troubles.

To the Editor of The Christian Science Monitor:

As a laborer I would like to answer the letter in The Christian Science Monitor of February 3, in which Mr. Baglis said the laborer should work longer hours. Many writers have spent much time discussing what is best for the laborer to do. Would it not be reasonable to suppose that the laborer might be able to solve the problem? It might be admitted that the laborer cannot solve the capitalist's problem, and it is a fact that the capitalist has not solved the labor problem. The thoughts of a laborer are only known to the laborer. One of the things a laborer knows is that longer hours would not increase but would decrease production. Why? Because a man who is overworked and underfed will do less in 10 hours than he would under normal conditions in less time.

It is a fact that the average laborer is not working up to 50 per cent. of his capacity or efficiency.

I worked in a lumber yard over 25 years ago. A boy would do more work then for $5 a week than two men do now in the same place, for over eight times its wages. The reason is this, the laborer is tired of oppression, and that very oppression has caused creation of a secret union among many mills (this another thing that the employer does not know) that is continually working to keep down production; there are no written laws, no by-laws, but it is seeming to work along in its deceitful way, causing many, many failures.

A few days ago the writer asked his employer, if, when they had made improvements and planned for better, that things did not turn out as they expected. He answered "yes" with a depressed look. How or what caused this secret union, why, another union which was formed by the employers some years ago. It had a nicer name (Association). In this, the owners figured together to keep the men's wages down. They succeeded, they watched each other. If one's neighbor paid over the maximum he would be reported and subjected to fine. The laborers watch each other and are criticized if they overdo the limit. It is a fight that brings no good to anyone, for what is good for one is good for all, else it would not be good.

There is a way to break this sort of thing up and bring success to both employer and employee. The way is piecework, or pay each man for what he has done; in this way, a man is practically in business for himself, he is selling his labor, he at once becomes interested. However, piecework will not solve the problem, it is only a fairer way to do business or exchange labor for money. There is one way to solve the problem and that is to follow Principle, to use the Golden Rule. The laborer must not wait for his employer to use it, he must begin right now, and vice versa.

An employee said to his employer one day, "If the capitalist would use the Golden Rule 'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you,' it would settle matters." The capitalist said, "But we can't do that." Piece-work without the Golden Rule is a failure. The hand of oppression seems harder than ever on the laborer when he commences to make more than enough for a bare existence. Piece-work has been tried out many times in the past 30 years, and with honest dealing marvelous success has resulted.

The average employer cannot understand how a man can make so much by piecework and he thinks he does right in cutting him down. It is a fact that men are doing right now four to six times as much work on piece work as others are doing by the hour. It would be worth one's while to visit some mills and see this done. Many of those pieceworkers are only receiving 1918 pay or equivalent, yet they make from $6.00 to $15.00 a day each. It is efficiency with them, eight hours a day and trying to improve each day.

There is not a job about the sawmill, planing mill or lumber yard that cannot be done by contract or piece work. There are men who some months ago thought it impracticable, like it now. Any man can try this out at any place right now. Try it on an errand boy and then educate yourselves up, it is a deep study.

There are enough men in the United States to double production even with a six hour day, and have better homes and prevent their wives from working out.

I have seen laborers walking home dragging their feet believing they were tired out, and if talking of their work at all it was how little they had done. I have walked home with pieceworkers, they would talk on how much they had done, their step was light, they seemed happy. I ask you, Mr. Reader, which is the more welcome man to greet his family? That man will get three square meals a day, too, without hurting his conscience. Have you ever had the feeling, Mr. Employer, that if you ate a square meal that some of the rest of the family were sacrificing? It's a poor way to start the day and results in a poor finish.

I have worked in mills in the north, east, south and west, and I feel safe in saying that planning machinery as well as sawing machinery, although said to be equipped in the highest state of efficiency, is fanning the wind twenty minutes to every hour. In other words they are only producing about two-thirds of the time.....The efficiency is in the operator, not in the machine.

A BRITISH COTTON SUBSTITUTE

Great interest has been aroused in Great Britain by announcements concerning a textile material called "cotton substitute." It is not, however, a new thing, but its revival at the present time is due to the advancing price of raw cotton. It was invented ten years ago by a British engineer and is a result of a special process of treating "china grass." By steeping the grass in certain chemicals the inventor obtains a fibre which can be spun in ordinary cotton spinning machinery. The resulting material takes dye readily, has a good lustre, and when mixed with cotton yarn produces a hard-wearing fabric. Apparently the only objection to it is its hairiness and harshness, but for certain purposes these qualities would not prove a serious drawback. Experts consider that its main value will be as a union fibre with cotton and wool.

REASONS FOR THE HIGH TEA PRICES

EXCHANGE RATE IS LARGELY RESPONSIBLE.

Contrary to general opinion around the city, a local grocer told the Examiner to-day, tea prices are not being artificially maintained. Reviewing the actual causes for increased price of tea he said there is the increased cost of production which has gone up not less than 150 per cent. since 1914. Half of the increase is due to the adverse rate of exchange, before the war the pound sterling being interchangeable in India and in Ceylon for 15 rupees, while now, owing to the scarcity of silver, its exchange value is 8 1-2 rupees. As the tea growing industry in India and Ceylon is mainly financed from England, the cost of production is very largely dependent upon the rate of exchange.

Again there is the enormous increase of sea transport, freight having advanced 500 per cent. since pre-war days.

On arrival there follows the heavily increased cost of landing, warehousing and carriage to destination. All these items have doubled and more than doubled since 1914. Much of the tea now in this country has been saddled with demurrage expenses owing to the congestion on the docks, through which the vessels conveying it was delayed in unloading. Again the additional war duty must not be forgotten.

All these forces have militated against any lowering in price of tea and the dealers handling it claim great credit for the advance in retail price having been confined to 92 per cent. above the pre-war figure. Scarcely any other commodity has advanced so little against such odds.

Tell Your Cobbler You Want Cat's Paw Heels and Rinex Soles

You should insist on this combination, because it means greater economy and they are Dominion Rubber System Products.

You want Cat's Paw Heels because they are real live rubber cushions and have the non-slip, fabric plug. You want Rinex Soles because they will not crack, even when worn thin; because they are tough, resilient, and maintain their shape until worn out.

The first pair of shoes that you have soled with Cat's Paw and Rinex will give you the full realization of the real benefits of this wonderful combination for walking, for they eliminate the cause of tired feet and limbs; they enable you to walk further with greater ease and comfort than you have ever experienced with leather heels and soles, and they are far more economical, because they out-wear leather two-to-one.

You can purchase new shoes with this combination at all good shoe stores, and do away with the agony of breaking them in, for they are comfortable and easy from the first wearing until worn out.

Tell your cobbler to heel and sole all your old shoes with Cat's Paw and Rinex.

The Committees in charge especially appreciated the untiring efforts of Inspector Mowat who was one of the first on the grounds and amongst the last to leave and also those who so generously donated prizes The Ice Cream Booth proved a great attraction, a thousand ice cream cones having been disposed of.

DEER AND BEAR ROAM STREETS OF BANCROFT

An unusual sight was witnessed by residents on Sherbourne street on Friday morning last. Shortly after seven o'clock a fine large deer came running down the road. After being scared by a dog it jumped a fence close by and scampered into the near by woods. Just a few days ago a resident living on Bridge street east walked into the presence of a big black bear. Bruin didn't care to make an acquaintance, so made for the jungle.—Bancroft Times.

Lew Saret is a writer of Indian stories, who is called by the Chippewas Pay-Shig-ar-deck, or "Lone Cari-bou." When he reads one of his stories to the old chief those parts they understand they exclaim, "Nisheen" (beautiful! Good!) When the meaning is vague or not understood by them they say, "By Gosh! She's great!"

FARMERS' PICNIC GORE'S LANDING

INCLEMENT WEATHER REIGNED BUT PICNIC WAS AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR NEVERTHELESS.

Braving the decidedly threatening weather, about one hundred of the members of the local branch of the United Farmers' Club and the United Farm Women of Ontario attended the second annual picnic held yesterday. Some delay was caused in starting due to the stormy appearance of the skies, but at 11 o'clock the Steamer "Stoney Lake" got off and before long the weather cleared, enabling the party to have picnic lunch on the shores of the river.

Arriving at Gore's Landing at about 2 o'clock after a most pleasant journey down, enlivened by splendid music provided by Tucker's orchestra, two scratch teams, captained by Mr. J. T. O'Connel and Mr. John Gillespie, had a lively game of baseball, which ended in a draw, when one enterprising player sent the ball into the river. The balance of the time was spent in strolling about Gore's Landing exploring the country. On account of the weather conditions and lack of time, speeches planned for the picnic were dispensed with.

Courteous Act.

The committee in charge of the picnic are indebted to the captain of the Rainbow, who released them practically from any obligation when it was found the crowd assembled, due to the weather, only justified the taking of one boat.

AN OLD COIN

A merchant of Kingston on Saturday had handed to him over the counter a United States one cent piece bearing the date 1854. The coin, which was very much tarnished, was the size of a Canadian cent and was one of a series which had long since passed out of general circulation.

BIGGEST ISSUE OF CITY DEBENTURES

LAST LOCAL RECORD WAS FOR THE WATERWORKS PURCHASE.

Of the half million dollar issue of debentures, the sale of which is approved by the Finance committee, $260,000 is for the Hunter street bridge and $240,000 for the Prince of Wales' Public school. This is the biggest block of debentures ever offered the market by this city. The next largest issued, according to City Treasurer Adams, was the $230,000 debentures with which the waterworks were purchased by the municipality eighteen years ago.

The bridge and school debentures for a thirty year term yield 6.29 per cent. as compared with 6.20 per cent. borne by the Ontario Government's ten year bonds issued a few weeks ago to the amount of three million dollars.

Paying for the Bridge.

Expenditure for the Hunter street bridge has been made through bank loans up to the present. The ratepayers had authorized the issue of $280,000 for bridge purposes, but of that sum $20,000 was for a bridge at London street. With this project indefinitely deferred its debentures are withheld. Thus, for the Hunter street bridge there will be available the $260,000 plus $50,000 from the Dominion government and $5,000 from the Railway Board, a total of $315,000. However, deducting the discount on the debentures, the city will have only a little more than $300,000 to meet the cost of the bridge. And when the cost begins to draw dangerously near to that limit the City Treasurer will have to hold up cheques until the ratepayers vote enough cash to complete the work, providing of course that it actually exceeds the present appropriation.

SPECIAL EXAMINATION BY MEDICAL BOARD

Secretary Whatley of the local Banch of the G.W.V.A., has received word from the Board of Pensions Commissioners, that any returned soldiers who desire a special examination by the Commissioners' Medical Board during the visit to Peterboro from July 5th to July 17th, should leave their names and regimental numbers with Secretary Whatley in order that he may communicate with the board.

A deputation from the Letter Carriers was composed of Robert Reid, C. Stevens, A. Moscrop and E. E. Lee.

CLOTHING STORES WILL BE CLOSED THURSDAY

HOME.

Through the wide window of this sunless room
I see the long street where they buy and sell;
Behind me shrils a never ceasing bell,
And typists tap-tap in the dust-gray gloom;
But a lost woodland wind has brought perfume
From quiet far-off places, and the spell
Of Spring is on me, for I know so well
The blue hills of my homeland are in bloom.

I feel the grass beneath my feet again—
Damp meadow grass, all matted with my weight;
I hear, above the dull town's empty roar,
The song of robins and the sound of rain;
I smell wet lilacs by a little gate
That never opens to me any more!

AT THE ALLEN

An English picture Mr. Wu is showing at the Allen to-day. Last night a well filled house saw this production and while no great impression of the English producers or plays resulted the picture was enjoyed by the audience. The plot is perhaps a little wobbly but involves love and intrigue in a digestible mixture and the Chinese atmosphere so necessary to the play is obtained some excellent settings and the musical score of the orchestra. The characters are well portrayed by prominent English screen idols.

A laughable comedy was much enjoyed and provided a hilarious half hour.

BULLETIN FROM REVENUE OFFICE

TAX ON PATENT MEDICINES AND "CURE-ALLS" HAS BEEN REPEALED.

The Department at Ottawa has notified the local Inland Revenue office that the four per cent stamp tax on patent medicines has been repealed coming into effect on the 17th. This tax has been in force since 1915 and the inland Revenue have sold the stamps to the druggists ad others who handle these medicines. This however does not mean that the tax on toilet articles such as talcum, tooth paste etc., is repealed. These will be taxed the same as ever, and Mr. Buller wants the public to clearly understand this.

COUNTY SUED FOR PRINTING ACCOUNT

The claim of Jos. Doust, of Toronto, against the County was heard before Judge Ruddy most of the members of the Council in attendance. Several years ago a man went through the county representing that the Division Court clerks and others could purchase stationery from him at the county's expense. They, therefore, thinking that they were getting something for nothing, stocked up for years, and when the bills came to them they referred them to the Council. The Council, however, knew nothing about them. Thus the case resulted as the bills were not paid. The judge said that the forms were still good, and since printing has increased so much in price since the purchases, awarded $60.—Whitby Gazette

GATHERING SPEED IN WILD RUSH TO PROROGUE HOUSE THIS WEEK

RUMOUR THAT PREMIER BORDEN WILL RESIGN AGAIN RIFE—NO GOVERNWENT ANNOUNCEMENT REGARDING WHEAT BOARD.

OTTAWA, June 21.—Parliament spent Friday gathering speed for a wild rush to prorogation. Some few gallant statesmen who have not exhausted their fifteen days of absence allowance are already on the way home; others are packing their trunks, and Hon. J. D. Reid is getting his railway estimates ready. All these are unmistakeable signs that the parting of the ways is at hand. The optimistic talk of getting away a week from to-day. Most of them won't be disappointed at that. They'll go whether or not His Excellency has pronounced the benediction.

Matters of Moment.

Other wear melancholy smiles as they point out the supplementary estimates have not been brought down; there is no Government announcement in regard to the Wheat Board, and no statement as to the future of the Board of Commerce, or explanation as to why its chairman resigned. This latter matter came up in the House yesterday, by the way, and Sir Robert very graciously consented to consult Sir George Foster about it. He did not even hint, however, when the consultation would take place. It may be postponed till after prorogation.

As to the Wheat Board, the report comes from apparently reliable sources that the open market will be restored, though the Government will ask Parliament for power to resurrect the Board, should complications arise that would make such resurrection necessary.

Borden Still "On the Go."

And while the House is working its way through estimates with ever-increasing speed, vague whispers of Government reorganisation again fill the air. They are very vague. The only one to take any concrete form is that Hon. J. D. Reid may retire, and that John Stewart, of Lanark, may take his place. That hardly sounds likely. As for the others, they are perhaps best described in the words of Senator Rufus Pope: "I can hear the music, but I fail to see the musicians." Still persons credited with being well on th inside are making bets that Borden will be out and a new man will reign in his place before another month has passed. They won't name the new man, but hint at a "dark horse."

Any way, it looks a safe bet that the new leader won't be either Sir Thomas White or the Hon. Arthur Meighen. If the latter, he would have to enlist an entirely new Cabinet, and even he knows that he might name them, but they could never be re-elected. The calls for that long-promised caucus are anxiously awaited in some quarters, but they appear to have got lost in the mails. The Premier meanwhile doesn't appear to be worrying about anything. Some of his followers declare he is more human since his return, but he doesn't look a bit more intelligent. Also his dignity remains intact.

Indemnities.

Talk of increased indemnities have died to a whisper and as yet there is no hint of an extra indemnity to be earned by an extra session. But how those members did roar when the post office bill threatened to cut into their "franking" privileges. A lioness being parted from her cubs could not have shown greater fierceness. There are a lot of stories told about "franking," not all of which are true. For instance, no one believes that certain honourable members "frank" their laundry home in order that it may take part in the family wash, nor is it likely that a former Cabinet Minister got a couple of bulls from the Agricultural Department and "franked" them to his constituency. Still, a lot of little things can be done with those mystic initials that take the place of postage stamps, and the proposition to curb their usefulness brought the nearest thing to open rebellion this Union Government has yet known.

The Post Office Department may run at a loss, but the deficit will never be made up by the minor statesmen's sacrifice of their franking privileges. That is one thing the Government has had duly impressed on it.

Let the Public Know.

Anyway, the bill fixing the luxury taxes slid through committee and was reported for third reading. A few minor changes were made and Mc. Master, of Brome, may not have intended to be sarcastic when he proposed that they be issued in book form for the enlightenment of the public. The Minister took it seriously, anyway, and promised that cards would be posted to let the dear people know just what were luxuries and what were not.

Youthful, Beautiful Skin Easy to Have

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexio, the natural thing is to remove the spoil by external means. Ordinary mercolized wax will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-soiled film-skin, a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand new complexion, a new skin. The exquisitely beautiful and youthful complexion this acquired, comes so easily without harm or discomfort, there's no reason why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Just get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will not fail in any case. It is the best thing known for freckles, moth patches, liver spots and pimples.

YOUNG BOY LEFT FARM AND GOT INTO TROUBLE

A fourteen-year-old boy was recently sent from St. John's Industrial School in Toronto to an Ops farm. For some time the lad worked quietly in his new home, but a few days ago became restless and disappeared. In company with some other boys of his own age, he attempted to steal some money from the box office of a local theatre. Saturday afternoon he was caught and placed in the lock-up. The farmer was notified, and in a few hours the boy was removed to the farm again.

LLOYD GEORGE AND MINISTERS HAND OUT PLAIN TALK TO THE "ABOLISH WAR" DEPUTATION

LONDON, June 22.—The official report of the interview which Mr. Lloyd George had with delegates of the "League to Abolish War," shows the deputation received cold comfort. The Premier, assisted by Arthur J Balfour, president of the council, and Earl Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, subjected the deputation, individually and collectively, to a severe questioning. He endeavored to learn from them down to the smallest detail, what they desired done, with a view to showing its impossibility.

Too Many Entanglements Already.

Mr. Lloyd George's argument was that the great powers, except the United States, already had too many entanglements to be able to supply forces to the league to create an international police force large enough to coerce, for instance, Russia or Poland. He admitted the ideas of Viscount Grey and President Wilson for an international force were impracticable at the present time. They might, he added, become more practicable if the United States later decided to enter, but it is idle to go into discussion with the United States now.

Had no Effect.

A controversy arose between George Nicoll Barnes, former minister without portfolio, and the Premier, the former complaining that no presure had been applied to Poland. Mr. Lloyd George retorted with the assertion that three great powers, from the very table at which they were seated, made representations to Poland before her attack on Russia was started, but without effect.

Asked why economic pressure was not applied, the Premier replied:

"Such pressure has already been applied to a point where the Russian people are starving; it is impossible to apply it more."

A Pertinent Question.

"It is impossible," he stated, "for the league to call into being any forces not already existing. What would happen if you asked America or France to supply troops and they refused?"

Questioned why the league had not established control over the Dardanelles, Lloyd George pointed out that France and Italy had been unable to spare the forces which they engaged to supply to control the waterway.

"Must we go to war with France and Italy to compel them to keep their obligation?" he asked.

If the members of the deputation, the premier observed, had worked the engine from the inside, as he and Mr. Balfour had done for the last eighteen months, they would better realize the difficulties encountered in bringing the league into full operation.

Keeping of the Force.

Mr. Balfour then asked the deputation where the league's international force was to be kept—should it be Saint Helena or, perhaps, Labrador. Certainly, he declared, if it were kept in France it would not fight France, and if kept in England it would not fight England.

Premier Lloyd George confessed he was not quite convinced that an international army was the best method of preserving peace, but emphasized it as his belief that any attempt to force peace would only destroy the league.

FASHION HINT; MEN BUY FRENCH HEELS

MOBILE, Ala.,—French heels for milady's dancing pumps have gone up in price, also in height.

Artificial fruit for the adornment of the chapeaux for the fair sex are much sought by men.

Why? Thereby hangs the tale of the latest efforts of whiskey runners to evade the prohibition blockade.

It all became known when a group of loungers in the park became hilarious. Investigation showed they had two large paper sacks—one filed with metal heels for women's shoes and the other with artificial cherries.

The heels were fully three inches in height and the cherries were large enough to furnish about half a swallow each. Six cherries or one heel—that's how they sold.

"Where did you get these cigars?"

"Your friends certainly knows the routes down there."

Biliousness and Liver Diseases

May be the result of Constipation or may exist when the bowels are regular. The Liver is congested often, giving rise to pain under the right shoulder, the complexion is yellow, headache, nausea, loss of appetite, slight fever, distress after eating, sometimes vomiting. Bile does not enter the bowels to digest the fats which decompose, forming gas, irritating the intestinal tract, often producing diarrhoea. A natural Liver Stimulant is required and DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS taken according to directions not only stimulates, but tones that organ.

TWO SECTIONS ARRANGED IN THE CITY LEAGUE RACE

WINNERS OF EACH WILL PLAY OFF AT END OF SEASON—THISTLES HAVE WON FIRST SECTION AND SECOND STARTS WITH A GAME TO-NIGHT.

C.G.E. VS. VETERANS

At a meeting of the Executive of the Peterboro City Baseball League last evening at the Empress Hotel with President Gordon Matthews in the chair, it was decided to divide the championship race into two sections, the winners of which unless one team happens to win both, to play off for the title at the end of the season.

Louis Yeotes Thistles who have not lost a game were declared the winners of the first section. The second section opens to-night with a game at 6.15 o'clock at Riverside Park between C.G.E. and the G.W.V.A. and promises to be an interesting exhibition. The Vets showed great form in their game with Thistles last week making them go two extra innings before finally losing out by one run. Both teams will be at full strength to-night anxious to get away to a good start in the second section of the race.

The Thistle-Canadian Woollen game scheduled for Thursday night of this week will be played on Friday night on account of Father Phelan's picnic.

There was some discussion over the question of barring members of the Central League team from competition in the City League but it was finally decided that such action would not be advisable.

The Peterboro Central League team will practice at Riverside Park to-morrow night at 6 o'clock and every player is expected out. This will be the last practice this week as there is a City League game scheduled for Friday night.

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

CANADIAN WOOLENS VS. C.G.E. TO-MORROW EVENING—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The Peterborough Football Association executive will meet Wednesday evening at 7.30 prompt in Mr. Fred Sutcliffe's barber shop, Charlotte street. A full atendance requested because of special important business to be considered.

The Caledonians will practice to-night at the Exhibition grounds at 6.30 prompt.

An interested Toronto football spectator at the C.G.E. and G.W.V.A. game declared that the Vets were the better balanced team, and the C.G.E. had a few clever individuals.

For clever cartoon work, Edwards of the Vets produces originality in every picture and are attracting a great amount of attention by passing pedestrians in Fred Sutcliffe's barber shop window. Don't forget to have a look this week.

The schedule game between the G. W.V.A. and the Machine Gunners will be played on Wednesday evening, June 30th, instead of the holiday, July 1st .This arrangement will be most satisfactory to the football fans.

According to the reports in football circles Toronto and Hamilton scouts are busy amongst the Peterborough players. What will be other cities' gain will be Peterborough's loss.

Wilirid Jones' team plays the Canadian Woollens at the Exhibition grounds on Thursday evening at 6.30 prompt. Geo. McDonald thinks they can get another two points.

Over 500 football enthusiasts travelled with Willys Overland team of Toronto to Niagara Falls last Saturday. Peterborough requires to get into the Cup ties and then the enthusiasm will go high.

While the C. G. E. and G.W.V.A. were playing last Saturday evening McMillan (Caledonians) and Mortimer (C.G.E.) in a heated discussion and were having a great time. McMillan to Mortimer—"You know that the C. G. E. team must have been sleeping in a synagogue during the last few weeks. How do you make that out" asked Mortimer. The crowd around burst into laughter.

The All-Scots team of Oshawa have won the Football League championship and are trying to make arrangements to play home and home games with the Caledonians.

The G.W.V.A. and C.G.E. have the same number of points, with the Electric boys having a better goal average. The C.G.E. have the Canadian Woollens to play yet on Wednesday evening, June 23rd, and the Vets play the Machine Gunners on Wednesday evening, June 30th. Who will win the League?

Owing to the Canadian Woollens closing down for their annual vacation ,the football team will be unable to play the schedule game of June 26th, and with the consent of the two teams' executives they have decided to play the final game on Wednesday (to-morrow) evening at the Oval. The Football Association executive will appoint the referee.

Wyllis-Overland (Toronto) defeated Colonials (Niagara Falls) at the latter's ground by the small margin of 3-2. Sudbury overshadowed Guelph to the tune of 3 to 0. Poor Brantford (G.W.V.A.) were down to heavy defeat by Ottawa in Brantford by 5 to 1. Now it looks like that Toronto will have to travel to Sudbury now for next Ontario Cup tie.

An interesting game of football between the Comrades and Machine Gunners will be played to-night at the Oval. Comrades team—E. Houghton, goal; R. Leach and A. Nicholls, backs; V. Hopkins, R. Jolliffe and R. Moore, half-backs; A. Lee, M. Dunkley, B. Martin, H. Knowles and W. Warman, forwards. Reserves, J. Haw and H. Watkins.

The C.G.E. team will practice to-night at 6.30 prompt at the Exhibition Grounds.

A special meeting of all players and executive committee of the C.G.E. will meet to-night in the Montreal House to pick the team for Wednesday evening.

BIG BALL PROGRAMME FOR DOMINION DAY HERE

There is a great programme of baseball for Peterboro fans on July 1st and lovers of the game will not have to do any worrying about how to spend Dominion Day.

In the morning at Riverside Park the Petes will clash with Belleville in the biggest Central League game of the season, the fixture upon which the championship of the League practically depends The Petes will have to beat Freddy Goyer and company on this occasion or give up all hope of the honours for Belleville has the edge on them by winning the first game and a Peterboro victory is necessary on July 1st to ensure a tie.

In the afternoon the famous Hillcrests leaders of the Toronto Western City League, winners of the Ontario title two years ago and one of the strongest contenders this year will meet the Petes at Riverside Park Canon ball Scott who couldn't beat the Petes in three tries last year pitching for Landsay and Port Hope will try to turn the trick on this occasion with his old outfit the Hillcrests. The fans will thus have the unique opportunity of seeing Peterboro in action against two Ontario championship winners in one day.

BIG AMUSEMENT PARK IN CENTRE OF OSHAWA

TORONTO MEN WILL ERECT MODERN PLEASURE ENCLOSURE ON THE "FLATS"—PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL TO BE PLAYED.

OSHAWA, June 22.— Oshawa will shortly have a 30 acre amusement park that will combine all the attractions of Hanlan's Point, at Toronto, and Oshawa-on-the-Lake, into one, as well as provide a baseball diamond on which an Oshawa team will play in the professional league that a Toronto baseball magnate is promoting in Eastern Ontario, if the plans of this Toronto baseball man and another promoter go through. The park will be on what is commonly known as the ,'Flats," on both sides of the Oshawa creek, behind the Bishop Bethune College and will extend above the C.P.R. tracks to above Ontario street.

The whole park will be enclosed, and an admission fee charged. That the park will be constructed is now beyond a doubt. Last week ex-Alderman J. Enock Thompson, of Toronto and Mr. Frederick Diver, also of the Queen City, were in Oshawa in connection with the scheme. The place has been given the once over by Surveyor Gibson, of Whitby, also.

At the southern end of the park the creek will be dammed up and throughout the length of the stream as it runs through the park, walls will be erected at those points where the water is liable to overflow and interfere with the grounds. At the dam there will be a swimming pool 60 feet wide and 200 or 300 yards long, which will have a wall on one side and a sandy beach on the other. One will be able to canoe on the upper reaches of the stream.

The whole place will be levelled off and seeded down, and will be one of the prettiest spots in Oshawa when completed. A baseball diamond will be constructed that will be used by the team that the promoters are going to place in the Eastern Ontario professional league. This league will play the same class of ball as the old Canadian League used to display, and the same as the Michigan-Ontario does to-day. "There is quite a sporting element in Oshawa," said Mr. Thompson, "and this point is the centre of 50,000 people. This league and team ought to be a success as far as Oshawa is concerned."

Then a quarter mile race track will be constructed. This will encircle the pool and will cross the creek twice on two solid bridges. Hydraulic rams will also be put in, and pretty fountains will play continuously. Then, above all, and a plan that will delight the many who now go to Oshawa-on-the-Lake and Whitby-on-the-Lake to dance, is the proposed erection of a dancing pavilion that willl have a floor second to none in Oshawa or district. This will be in the centre of the town.

The Toronto promotors have not as yet decided whether this will be run as a joint stock company or by a syndicate of financial men from that city. The two men may perhaps run it themselves. An Oshawa joint stock company may also be organized to take up the task, but this is a problem on which the promotors are now working.

"THE BEAUTY MARKET," WITH KATHERINE MACDONALD, IS DRAMA OF SOCIETY SHAMS

Story Depicts the Barter of Feminine Charm for Gold, Golden Marriages That Buy Social Position.

Katherine MacDonald, generally conceded to be the world's most beautiful woman, will appear in her second picture for First National Exhibitors' Circuit, when "The Beauty Market", is shown on the screen of the Allen Theatre, beginning Wednesday.

As Amelie Thornwike she is given a remarkable part in this production, depicting a girl whose beauty made it possible for her to mingle in the expensive society set but whose finances were such that she was compelled to pawn her gifts from suitors to meet her debts.

The picture is replete with strong human interest situations centered about the effort of a society scandal sheet reporter to win for herself a wealthy man who was engaged to Amelie. Her efforts are successful, in that they lead to the breaking of Amelie's loveless engagement and find her a mate in Captain Kenneth Laird, United States Marines, who determines to make her pay for deceiving him, and does.

PETERBORO COULD HAVE WON BY BIGGER SCORE, SAYS SANDY LOCKINGTON

CENTRE LEAGUE PRESIDENT HAS SOME SAD THINGS TO SAY ABOUT THE ONTARIOS—THEY COULDN'T CATCH, COULDN'T THROW, AND LORNIE ROSE DID AS HE LIKED WITH THEM.

The Port Hope Guide says: Peterboro played a league match here on Saturday afternoon and the exhibition was long and painful. Port Hope introduced everything in the error line and the game grew so tiresome that many of the spectators left before it was half over. The score was 15 to 2 and might have been more had the Peterboro players wanted to exert themselves. It was in the third innings that Frank Guy demonstrated that it was possible for Port Hope to handle a fly. This was Guy's first chance and he acecpted it O. K. But up to that time every other player who had anything to do with the sphere handled it like a hot potato and finally muffed it. They could not catch, they could not throw, and when they stepped up to the plate Lornie Rose did just as he liked with them. And the chief reason for the showing is that a certain rivalry exists among the players.

There is no cooperation; it is a real pleasure for some of the players to see the other fellow make an error, and so long as this exists the ball team will not win games. McDonald pitched good ball and worked hard to win but any pitcher would lose heart if given the same support as he was. Port Hope is a good ball town and the team will receive the support of the citizens (win or lose) provided the players do their best. Exhibitions like Saturday's, however, will not be tolerated. The baseball team must realize this.

Last year Port Hope lost only one game at home and the material this year is just as good, if not better, than last. A little "pull together" campaign with the ball players should have a wonderful effect.

LOCAL BASEBALL COMMENT

A win for Westclox in this evening's Commercial League game with Cressmans, will place the clock-makers on even footing with the big store team, and will also give the Lock Works a fighting chance for an upper berth. To-night's game will be a hummer with Herb. Wolff and Leith Bartley on the firing line for Westclox and Cressmans respectively.

East Peterborough League ball clubs have been notified to send representatives to the meeting at the Windsor Hotel on Wednesday night, to pass on the protest entered by Keene against Lush, who pitched for Lakefield when the northerners defeated the Otonabee team. Other league business will be discussed, including a continuance of the playing schedule during July. Lakefield will ask permission to have the game at Nassau scheduled for July 1st played at Lakefield.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, Ont., June 22nd, 1920.

The Editor of The Examiner:

I notice that "Bystander" (who is evidently a strong supporter of the Can. Woollens Football Club) is not satisfied with the arrangement of the games as made by the Executive of the League.

Perhaps if "Bystander' takes up the matter with Mr. Baldwin, who is the League representaive for the Woollens, he might get more satisfaction than by airing the sporting qualities of his club, which should not need advertising.

A glance at the season schedule will show that the same conditions have met and survived by the following teams:

G.W.V.A.—3 games, May 27th, May 29th, June 3.

C.G.E.—3 games, June 12, June 17, June 19.

De Laval—3 games, May 8, May 13, May 15.

No kick has been registered by the above equally unfortunate teams or their supporters.

If "Bystander" wishes his team to stand at the top of the League on a sporting basis he had better look for more valid reasons than the one he brings forward.

To my mind a real sport is one who takes the hard luck as it comes and makes the best of it without unnecessary advertising.

Yours truly,
"Another Bystander.'

GAME TO-MORROW.

PAPER FROM COTTON FIBRE.

Virginia Company Finds New Process of Making Pulp

It was stated that manufacture of the pulp in quantities would be started soon.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries uickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

FINDS OLD VIOLIN IS REAL STRADIVARIUS

OLD PARCHMENT WILL REVEALS HISTORY OF INSTRUMENT.

CODY, Wyo., June 21.—Music connoisseurs throughout the country will be thrilled at the reported discovery here of a genuine Stradivarius.

This instrument is owned by E. A. McNeil of Cody and its accidental discovery was made when McNeil undertook to repair an old fiddle that had been in his possession over a score of years.

The fiddle was presented to McNeil by George Blue, now deceased, who declared at the time that the fiddle had been in the Blue family for many generations.

When McNeil started to tinker with the fiddle recently he found tucked inside the old instrument a roll of rabbit skin which crumbled in his hands. Inside the roll was a parchment bearing the copy of a will, dated August 6, 1706, at Philadelphia, bequeathing the instrument to Geo. Blue, great-grandfather of the donor of the fiddle. The will is signed by "Sam Blue of Jamestown Colony" as the benefactor, with the signatures of two witnesses. It states that the instrument "was made by my dear friend, Antonio Stradivari," and requests that it be retained in the Blue family "to be handed down from generation to generation."

The violin measures 32 inches in length. Although somewhat battered, it is not seriously damaged. The famous Cremonese artist is said to have done his best work in manufacturing violins in the period between 1700 and 1725.

CLINIC SURPRISE TO THE SURGEONS

SERUM AS CANCER CURE—MARKED IMPROVEMENT IN THE ADVANCED CASES UNDER OBSERVATION HAS FOLLOWED SECOND TREATMENT.

TORONTO, June 22.—Should Dr. Thos. J. Glover's cancer serum prove a specific cure a priceless boon will have conferred upon mankind. Governmental statistics show that in 1915, a normal year in which there was no epidemic to produce unusual mortality, 35,580 deaths occurred in Ontario. Of these, no less than 2,012 were due to cancer. That is to say, that there were 72 deaths per thousand from this dread malady. Heart disease and the wearing down of the vital organs through age caused the majority of the 35,580 deaths. Next came tuberculosis, and fourthly, cancer.

A Mystery.

Despite hospitals and institutions the world over, devoted to cancer research, it baffles science. The origin of cancer remains a mystery. Frequently it arises from an irritation but just as often comes apparently unprovoked. Examination of cultures under bacteriological microscopes fails to reveal the presence of a cancer germ, which, if existent, is too small to be visible. Analysis shows the cancer to be formed of apparently ordinary cells which seem to have grown wild and run uncontrolled—why, no one knows—until the cancer spreads into neighboring organs, causing presure and inflammation, and throwing off a poison.

Still Experimental.

Dr. Glover has been carrying on his researches at St. Michael's Hospital with all the antipathy to sensationalism and publicity which characterizes the good medical man. He uters a word of caution. It would be cruel to raise false hopes. Dr. Glover is most insistent that his serum is yet an experiment and that despite the excellent results so far obtained nothing is proven unless the remedy has been thoroughly tried out, passes the test and receives the endorsement of the medical authorities.

Medical Men Optimistic.

Physicians and surgeons present in St. Michael's Hospital on Saturday, frankly expresed themselves optimistic regarding the results of the serum treatment.

"It is only too well-known that no advances have been made, despite all research work regarding cancer. It seems too astounding to believe; yet we have the results before our very eyes" declared a Toronto surgeon.

Said another well known medical man: "Surgery has reached its peak, and it is the concensus of opinion of some of the most eminent medical men in the world, that, in many cases, it is an abomination. Frankly, there is too much of it."

Treatment of Serum.

The treatment consists, it is understood, of four or five doses of the serum, given three to four days apart, covering in all a period of two weeks or a little more. Injections are made both at the seat of the disease, and in the arm, mostly in the arm.

The first treatment in every case causes much discomfort and increases the suffering of the patient. This fades away, and after the second treatment marked improvement follows. The size of the dose varies, being one or two cubic centimetres.

Treatment at St. Michael's.

It is understood that all treatments, of rich and poor alike, will be made at the outdoor department of St. Michael's Hospital only. So far as fees are concerned, these have never been even considered, they are the last thing in Dr. Glover's mind.

His research work, which has covered a period of many months, has been conducted at the hospital by himself, the hospital lending him all possible facilities.

To carry on this work he has had to engage assistance to look after his large east-end practise.

Dr. Glover states that his repeated success in his experiments in producing, and then curing, cancer in animals convinced him that he would also be able to sucessfully treat human beings.

"At any rate," said Dr. Glover, "I knew my treatment could not harm them."

Selected Advanced Cases.

"I selected the most advanced cases which were beyond operation or any other treatment. These patients were handed over to me by the different physicians and surgeons of St. Michael's Haspital staff for treatment, and consisted of every known type of advanced and inoperable cancer.

"After the second treatment each and every case showed improvement and has continued to do so up to the present time. I then demonstrated and explained my work to the staff of St. Michael's Hospital. A cancer clinic has since been opened under the direction of the staff, where only the most advanced and inoperable cases of cancer are undergoing treatment."

Young, but Hard Worker.

Dr. Glover graduated from the University of Toronto in 1911, and is in his thirty-third year. After graduation he opened his office in the east end of the city, and soon built up a large practise, in spite of which he continued exhaustive research work. Dr. Glover is married, and resides at 142 Broadview ave.

LONDON IS CROWDED.

Majority Are Tourists — Sightseers Not So Numerous.

LONDON, June 21.—Many journals are featuring stories about the alleged over-crowded state of London hotels for the present season. London is certainly full, but the information of the Canadian Associated Press is that, with the exception of the swagger places, there is room for the less ambitious visitors, while flats are rentable for a period and are actually slumping. A well-known Canadian traffic manager informs the Canadian Associated Press that real tourists are not as numerous as expected, the majority of the visitors having dennite business, others than mere sightseeing.

The New Achievement of Simmons Limited

LOOKING at these beautiful new Simmons Bed designs in her accustomed store—a woman might perhaps be justified in wondering why no one has ever thought before to follow the accepted design principles in metal beds.

There is a very good reason—and it explains, too, why even today only Simmons Limited is able to produce designs along these lines.

The trouble lies in the limitations imposed by the old-style tubing. It has a seam running the full length of the tube. It cannot be worked into the shapes. It is apt to be rough—does not take the enamel smoothly.

For years, Simmons Limited has been working on this problem of bettering metal bed design.

To accomplish what it was after—such charming models as the "Florentine," illustrated above in Twin Pair—it had to invent a tubing that is truly seamless.

All these new designs are made with the Simmons Seamless Steel Tubing—a new invention of the greatest practical importance.

Square and trim—free from joint, seam and roughness. Beautifully smooth, so that the enamel lies tight and evenly all over—does not scratch, check or chip.

* * *

YOU will find these fine new Simmons designs in Beds Built for Sleep in the leading stores. Quiet beds, with the Simmons Pressed Steel Corner Locks—free from squeak or rattle.

Your choice of many different patterns—and of Twin Pairs and Double Width in each pattern. Enameled in the accepted Decorative Colors, and in Mahogany, Oak and Circassian Walnut.

Simmons Springs, too—

"Waldorf" Box Springs—Composed of finest oil-tempered double-cone spirals, mounted on a frame of seasoned hardwood and upholstered with heavy layers of white cotton felt. Covered with attractive ticking. Finished with roll edge. A spring that really does give freely to all the contours of the body, yet supports the spine in any sleeping position.

And some very charming Brass Beds and Children's Cribs, together with Simmons Mattresses and Pillows—all built for sleep by Simmons Limited.

* * *

Simmons Beds, Springs, Mattresses and Pillows cost little if any more than the ordinary merchandise of the average store.

A post card tous will bring you the names of Simmons merchants near your home.

DARK-HAIRED RACE COMING.

French Statistician Says Blondes Will be Extinct in 300 Years.

PARIS.—The future, in France at least, is for a dark haired people. An industrious statistician has been proving it and upsetting all the poets and romantic writers who marry off their fair-haired heroines by scores for every black or brown haired beauty. The statistician says it is the other way about in life. Out of every hundred dark haired girls eighty marry, while of the fair haired 57 per cent fail to win husbands.

Whether his figures are entirely accurate is doubted, but the fact that dark haired girls marry in greater numbers than those with golden locks is not disputed. In that case, the outlook for the future is very dark.

Three hundred years, it is stated, will suffice for the total extinction of fair haired heroines, and the poet who writes of them will be guilty of historical inaccuracy.

New Success," points the following rules for getting the right sort of a job. They are, in brief: Get in touch with your former employer. Study the "want ads." Let everybody know that you want a job. Make up your mind what you prefer to do and who for. Go after a job hard. In other words, make as good a job of going after a job as you expect to do at the job when you get it.

Extra Years of Easy Riding

Many a bright, shiny-looking bicycle is a gay deceiver! It is merely built to sell. In a few short months it becomes a chipped, rusty-looking object that runs as hard as it looks.

On the other hand, C. C. M. Bicycles retain their looks and continue to run easily for years and years. Many in use for 10 to 20 years are still running well.

C. C. M. Bicycles depreciate more slowly than ordinary bicycles because they are made of better materials.

For example, C. C. M. case-hardened bearings are so hard a file cannot cut them. That is an assurance of extra long years of easy running.

C. C. M. smooth, highly-polished nickelling over rust-proof copper and C. C. M. brilliant, waterproof, triple enamelling mean a sparkling, bright finish with years of durability.

When you decide to buy a new model you can always obtain a good allowance for your used C. C. M.

This year's models have the new Hercules Positive Drive Brake—the Coaster Brake without a side arm. See them at your local dealer's.

EMMA GOLDMAN SEES TYRANNY IN RUSSIA

SAYS BOLSHEVIST GOVERNMENT HAS TAKEN AWAY FREEDOM OF PEOPLE.

PARIS, June 22.—On the bureau of Emma Goldman's room in the Hotel Astoria at Petfograd, draped over the corner of a picture of her niece, is the American flag. Emma Goldman, deported from America as an anarchist, makes no apologies for this flag.

"That's the flag of my niece's country. I'm going back there some day, for I love America as I love no other land."

She is sick of Bolshevik Russia. When I called on her in Petrograd she asked:

"What do you think of it? You have been here six weeks? How do you feel about it?"

"It is rotten," I replied. "It's so rotten I'm sick with it."

"You're right, it is rotten," she said. "But it is what we should have expected. We always knew the Marxian theory was impossible, a breeder of tyranny. We blinded ourselves to its faults in America because we believed it might accomplish something.

"I've been here four months now, and I've seen what it has accomplished. There is no health in it. The State of Socialism or State of Capitalism—call it what you will—has done for Russia what it will do for every country. It has taken away even the little freedom the man has under individual capitalism and has made him entirely subject to the whims of bureacracy which excuses its tyranny on the ground it all is done for the welfare of the workers.

"Where did you find the greater degree of freedom, Miss Goldman?" I asked. "In the United States or in Communist Russia?"

"Any form of government is bad enough," she replied, "but between this and individual capitalism, the choice lies with the latter. At least, the individual has a chance to express his individuality."

Of all the deportees who entered Russia with Miss Goldman, only one or two have assimilated the doctrines of Communism. Miss Goldman, Berkman and Novikov, the leaders of the group, refused to work with the Government in any way except purely humanitarian labor.

"We are studying conditions in Russia," said Miss Goldman, at another time. "We want to make a trip through the country districts and talk with the Peasants. Then we will be ready to speak. We probably will go to jail when we start criticising, but that doesn't matter. We've been in jail before. We cannot be true to our principles and not speak."

Miss Goldman and Novikov refuses places in the reviewing stand at the May Day procession, nor will they accept places at any Government meeting.

I spent much of my week in Petrograd with them. When I was ready to leave she said to me:

"Be careful what you write, if you want to return to Russia. If you don't then hit out from the shoulder and hit hard. You may be called an agent of the capitalistic class by the people in America who don't understand. If you are, tell them we have been here four months, and now we know. We have investigated factories, homes and institutions as no newspaper man can be permitted to investigate them, and we've found them bad. I know, from my conversation with you, you have gotten at the heart of the matter. It's up to you to tell the American people, and tell them straight."

A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent

Make This Free Test

For the Sake of Whiter, Safer Teeth

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

It Is Film
that causes men's teeth to discolor, and that holds tobacco stains.

It Is Film
that clouds women's teeth, spoils their glistening beauty and is the basis of tartar.

It Is Film
which is responsible for decay in children's teeth. It is the source of most tooth troubles.

The dealers named below have been supplied with 10-Day Tubes of Pepsodent. This week a tube will be handed free to anyone who asks. Simply present the coupon. The purpose is to urge a test of this film-removing tooth paste, which leading dentists nowadays advise. Prove the results for your own sake and your children's sake. Learn what they mean to your teeth.

See How Your Teeth Look When the Film is Gone

There is on your teeth a slimy film. You can feel it with your tongue. It clings to the teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

The tooth brush doesn't end it. The ordinary dentifrice does not dissolve it. So it clings and, night and day, it may do ceaseless damage.

The Tooth Wrecker

That film is the great tooth wrecker. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

The film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of many other troubles, local and internal.

That is why well-brushed teeth so often discolor and decay, why tartar forms and pyorrhea starts. You leave much of that film.

Tooth troubles are constantly increasing, as statistics show, despite the wide use of the tooth brush. And the reason lies in that film.

Now We Combat It

Dental science, after years of searching, has now found a way to combat film. Able authorities have proved it by convincing clinical and laboratory tests. Thousands of dentists have proved it, and at least a million people.

The results are seen everywhere in cleaner, whiter teeth. Some of your own friends have them.

For home use, this method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And this week you can test it at our cost.

Based on Pepsin

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual method is an acid harmful to the teeth. But dental science has discovered a harmless activating method. And that method, used in Pepsodent, enables all to daily use this efficient film combatant.

Watch the Results

We urge you to present the coupon. Get the 10-Day Tube and use like any tooth paste. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten—how they glisten—as the fixed film disappears.

Compare the results with your old methods. Then let your own teeth decide the method best for you and yours.

This is of lifetime importance. Don't neglect it. Cut out this coupon so you won't forget.

THE CROP PROSPECTS LOOK VERY PROMISING IN PETERBORO COUNTY

HAY IS THE ONLY UNCERTAIN CROP IN THE LIST—SMALL FRUITS AND VEGETABLES ARE LOOKING FINE—POTATOES GOOD.

"The rain came too late to save our strawberries and we will only have half a crop," said Charles Kitney, the well-known market gardener today. Mr. Kitney declared that the drought dried them right up and out of 8 or 9 patches they only had a handfull of blossom. Other gardeners might be more favourably situated than he but that was the way he was situated. While the rain came too late for the berries it saved his other fruits and vegetables. The potatoes have never looked better he averted and stated that he had some out in bloom.

The raspberries he believed would not be any bumper crop for most gardeners had suffered from winter killing. The vegetables, he said, all looked fine and excellent crops of all kinds were anticipated. He expected that he would have new cabbage in by July 1.

The cut-worms have menaced the cabbages, tomatoes and other vegetables in imprecedented numbers and Mr. Kitney stated they were coutinually fighting them. Everything appears to be growing fine and Mr. Kitney is very optimistic.

The grain crops from general indications throughout this district all are in excellent shape except the hay, which will be light, owing to the drought. While the ground has plenty of moisture now, the continued downpours will do no harm, the farmers say. The grains are a little ahead of other years one farmer declared.

"Were you annoyed because I sharpened a pencil with your razor?"

"Twice," replied the patient husband. "After I had given up trying to shave I tried to write with the pencil."

GREEN PEAS IN CHATHAM.

CHATHAM, June 21.—An instance of what a good gardener can do is the fact that A. F. Fallis, of this city, had green peas out of his own agrden on Saturday for dinner. This is probably a record for Chatham, as it is very early in the season for such a dish, and no other such instances have been reported up to date.

CONCLUDING THE ENQUIRY

COMMITTEE WANTS TO CLOSE THE INVESTIGATION INTO ACCOUNTS.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 23. — There has not been the slightest suggestion that one dollar has been wasted, and I think it is a great pity that the country should be put to heavy expense of such investigations, said H. B. Morphy, member for North Perth, and chairman of the Public Acounts Committee, when consideratoin of the item of one hundred and twenty million dollars overseas pay and accounts, was concluded by that body to-day.

Alluding to another item brought forward by the members of the Opposition and handled by the committee yesterday, the chairman said it was cheap, and that no good or useful purpose could be served by bringing on such items and wasting time.

A. R. McMaster, Brome, and J. H. Sinclair, Antigonish took strong exception to the chairman's remarks, the latter remarking that the investigation expense was justified when $121,000,000 is involved.

The discussion arose from the charge made on the floor of the House by Mr. Sinclair that money had been spent overseas and no vouchers sent back to Canada.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is is that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. ADDITIONAL BARRICADES

FIGHTING CONTINUES IN LONDONDERRY—MILITARY ACTIVE.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDONDERRY, June 23.—There was no cessation to-day in the battle between Unionist and Nationalist factions which has kept Londonderry in a terror-stricken state for some days past. During the night rival factions erected additional barricades from which they kept up a continuous fire. At times the shooting reached the intensity of volleys.

The city was again the scene of rioting to-day. At nine-thirty this morning, fighting was going on between opposing parties of Unionists and Nationalists who shot over the barricades that had been erected at various vantage points. The military were active in preventing citizens from venturing into the streets which were deserted except by active belligerents. Looting occurred in the city during the night.

St. Columkill's College, a Catholic institution, was attacked by rifle fire last night and a man name McKenna was shot dead in Bishop street, on which the college is located. Numerous other casualties are reported.

SAD TRAGEDY IN CARDEN TOWNSHIP

MAIDEN LADY ENDS HER LIFE—FOUND HANGING IN BARN.

A regrettable and sad tragedy took place a few miles north of Kirkfield, in Carden township, Saturday evening when the lifeless body of Miss Margaret Matchett was found hanging from a beam in the barn. Her tragic death came as a great shock to her sister, Mrs. Ashby, with whom the deceased made her home, and a deep gloom has been cast over the entire community.

The deceased lady was fifty years of age, and had been ailing for several months, apparently worrying over her continued illness. "is worry brought on despondency which resulted in the rash deed of Saturday. A short time ago she had wandered away from home and was lost for three or four days on the plains of Carden.

Deceased was a highly respected lady, well known and well thought of.

Dr. Blanchard, Coroner, was called from Lindsay, but after investigating the case, deemed that an inquest was unnecessary.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKETS

(United Press)

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 23. — Prices continued sluggish at to-day's stock market opening following the slump just before yesterday's close.

Prices were: Central leather, 65 1-4, off 1-8; Crucible steel, 145 up 1 3-4; Sinclair, 31 1-4, unchanged; U.S. rubber, 93 1-2, off 1-2; U. S. steel, 91 1-2, off 1-4; General Motors, 22 1-2, unchanged; International Harvester, 130 1-2, off 1 1-2; Retail Stores, 76 1-2, off 1-4; Studebaker, 68 5-8, off 3-8; American Locomotive, 95 5-8, off 1-8; Baldwin, 116 5-8, up 1-8; Pan Amn. Pet, 101, off 1-8; Royal D, 113, off 5-8.

Most of the list showed a reactionary tendency due to an accumulation of over night selling prices.

After the early selling covering orders on short contracts brought prices back to yesterday's close and in some cases fractionally higher. Corn products, food products and industrial alcohol were active on the recovery. In the late morning trading the main attack was centred on oils and Pan-American was forced down to 101. U. S. Steel common was held around 91 3-4.

THE TORONTO STREET RAILWAY MEN WENT ON STRIKE TO-DAY; THIRD TIME IN THREE YEARS

OVER FIVE HUNDRED JITNEY DRIVERS FROM HAMILTON, LONDON AND OTHER PLACES REACH THE CITY—NO SIGN OF TROUBLE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, June 23. — As if grown accustomed to street railway strikes, citizens of Toronto this morning faced the third strike within three years, of employees of the Toronto Street Railway, with calm resignation when the last street cars stopped moving at 5.15 this morning and 2,500 motor men and conductors ceased work in obedience to the strike order of their union. Jitneys made their appearance as if by magic and up to the morning rush hours handled the transportation problem very well, but when the crowds began to pour down town to the office district the jitney service proved far from adequate to meet the situation and the first of thousands of people were compelled to walk to their places of business.

The civic railway lines in the northern, western and eastern boundaries of the city, which are not effected by the strike order, were greatly congested, as they were made use of by citizens living within the area they served to carry them to the most advantageous point to get down town.

THE LAST HOPE.

The last hope of averting a strike vanished when, at the conclusion of a conference of all parties interested, called by the Ontario government yesterday afternoon, Premier Drury announced that "no human power can avert a strike." Immediately after this conference when all efforts at reconciliation seemed gone, notices were posted by union officials in the car barns instructing the men not to report for work at 5.15 this morning. Night crews were also instructed to quit work at the same hour, the end of the night run.

Consequently at 5.15 the strike went into effect. Mayor Church is expected to ask the Ontario Railway Board today to operate the street cars as the Board did recently during the strike on the Windsor and London street railway systems and as the Ontario Railway Baord did during the last strike on the Toronto Street Railway just a year ago. The Railway Board will probably make an effort to provide a service, but the men are determined that they will not operate the cars for the Ontario Railway Board or any other body unless they receive 66 cents an hour, the wage they demand from the Toronto Street Railway.

Board Doubtful.

There is grave fear that if the men insist upon 66 cents the Railway Board will not be able to carry on, as the Board has doubts if the railway can be run without loss if the men are paid their full demand.

In 1917 the strike of the Toronto Street Railway lasted two days. In 1919 it began on June 22 and terminated on July 4. This year's strike begins on June 23, one day later than last year and unless the Ontario Railway Board takes prompt action to provide a service the tie-up may be a prolonged one.

The Ontario Railway Board and the city are to-day considering granting the men an increase in wages and making up the deficit, if any, by a mortgage on the company's property. If this can be done under the Ontario Municipal Act the city authorities may ask the Ontario Railway Board to take over the street railway and provide a service.

At 9.30 jitneys were running wild, and down town streets were practically filled with the machines of jitney drivers. It is estimated over five hundred jitneys have reached the city from Hamilton, London and other places to share in the harvest in jitney fares.

Up to that hour there had been no sign of trouble anywhere and no accidents had been reported. The usual police force was doing duty, but the force will be considerably augmented by the afternoon, it is stated.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT SEEKING TRADE RELATIONS WITH CANADA

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, June 23.—Two representatives of the Russian Soviet Government Bureau here who spent two weeks in Canada seeking to place orders with Canadian manufacturers for Russian Soviet Government to-day submitted a report to Ludwig Cakmartens in which they declared that they had been favourably received both by represntatives of Canadian manufacturers and officials of of the Canadian Government and that preliminaries for trading had been arranged. It was stated to the Canadian Press by officials of the Bureau that as a starter a five million dollars contract for rolling stock with Canadian firm would likely be signed in the course of a few days. Officials refused to give the name of the firm saying they considered it inadvisable to announce it until after contract was actually signed.

Martens said that while in Ottawa the Russian representatives had several conferences with high officials of the Canadian Government and as a result he could state that the opening of trade relations with Soviet Russia was regarded favorably by the Ottawa authorities. He refused to state who the Ottawa officials were.

The material which Soviet Government hopes to purchase in Canada includes rolling stock, agricultural machinery, machine tools and drugs. According to proposition which has been submitted to Dominion firms upon signing of contracts the Soviet Government will send gold for deposit in Canadian banks to establish credits sufficient to cover total amount of contracts. An effort is also being made by the Soviet Government to purchase 4,000 freight cars which were manufactured in Montreal on order of the Imperial Government and were being delivered when revolution broke out. These are stated to be now held at Vancouver, B.C., on order of the British Munitions Board. Purchase of these cars is one of the matters which Nuortenva, Marten's secretary will attempt to negotiate in London.

SAYS ALLIES CANNOT HOPE TO COLLECT MONEY FROM GERMANS

OPINION EXPRESSED BY UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT.

(United Press)

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 23.—The United States government has quietly made known to France and England its belief that the two allies cannot hope to collect from Germany the huge indemnity proposed at the recent conferences of Premiers, it was learned to-day.

At the same time was emphasized by officials here that this government has not attempted to exert any pressure on the allies to be more lenient in indemnity matters.

LOCAL RESIDENT HAS EARLY PEAS

Mr. C. L. Bourne, of 739 Water street, has beaten all amateur gardeners in the city in an early crop record, having gathered enough green peas from his own garden to-day for his dinner. Mr. Bourne claims this record beats that mentioned in the Examiner yesterday made by a resident of Chatham, as that district has a week's start in weather. He stated that the crop of green peas this year is splendid, the weather having been ideal for their production

AGRICULTURAL GROUNDS FOR OUTSIDE AMUSEMENTS

FATHER PHELAN CHOOSES THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS FOR HIS SUMMER FAIR.

To show the adaptability of the Fair Grounds for serving all purposes for putting on outside affairs during the summer months it will be interesting to note the success of Father Phelan's Summer Fair to-morrow afternoon and evening. With the convenieces that are at hand, the size and layout of the grounds, it is felt that the affair to-morrow will be handled with a smoothness that is impossible under conditions not so favourable.

It is expected a very large crowd will be present both afternoon and evening as an excellent program of sports, etc., will be given. Dinner served at noon and supper from 5 o'clock on.

MECHANICIAN PLAYS AN IMPORTANT ROLE

The mechanician who rides furiously paced miles in his little seat at the side of a race driver gets little or no recognition and is scarcely noticed by the thousands of persons who see the fast field of drivers. Yet he plays a very important part.

It is his duty to keep a close watch on the tires, check each layer as it succumbs to the friction caused by rapidly moving wheels on rough brick pavement, and to signal the pits when he is about to make a change so that everything will be ready when they roll in for a sojourn of seconds.

He must keep a close watch on other cars in the race, particularly those in the rear, signalling his driver if one of the cars is about to pass. It is an unwritten law of drivers that all passing be negotiated on the right side. In case of a mechanical breakdown he is the only one who is permitted to assist the driver in making repairs.

He sits in the car without any protection — he might be bounced out any number of times. His only chance is to brace his feet on the floor. There is no steering wheel to help hold him in the car. Most any time during the race he can be seen furiously pumping oil with a small hand pump.

The thrills of the driver are his thrills—but the world never knows. It is the driver who gets all the honor and glory in victory.

He has one consolation—twenty per cent. of the net winnings usually find a way into his pockets.

Of the 76,667,875,661 gallons of gasoline produced last year, 51,874,500,661 gallons were consumed by motor vehicles.

THE CIVIC LINES NOT AFFECTED

LABOUR DELEGATION HAS RETURNED FROM RUSSIA

INVESTIGATED CONDITIONS IN THE STRICKEN EMPIRE.

NEWS DESPATCHES

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 23.—A Reuter despatch from Stockholm to-day quotes Mr. Phillip Snowden and Dr. Guest, members of the British Labour delegation which investigated conditions in Russia, who have arrived at Stockholm on their return, as declaring that in their view Soviet Russia could teach Western Europe nothing.

Socialism, they predicted, would prevail in Great Britain long before it would in Russia, the message adds.

INTERVIEWED GOVERNMENT.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 23.—A representative of the Russian Soviet Bureau in New York was in Ottawa recently, it is stated, making inquiries at the Department of Trade and Commerce as to what restriction, if any, is imposed on the trade between Canada and Russia.

He was informed that there had been for some time no restriction by the Canadian Government on exports to Russia, but that the Canadian Government would, of course, assume no responsibility in the matter.

WILL OPPOSE APPEAL.

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, June 23.—A. J. Andrews, K.C., leading counsel for the Crown in the recent strike prosecutions, left last night for London, where, with Sir John Simon and F. L. Newcomb, K.C., Deputy Minister of Justice of Ottawa, he will oppose the application for the hearing by Privy Council of the R. B. Russell appeal.

According to a cable received recently from W. H. Trueman, K.C., who is in London to press the case for an appeal, the hearing was set for 25th June. It is now regarded as probable, however, that proceedings will be postponed until Mr. Andrews' arrival.

SAVINGS DEPOSITS.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, June 23.—The savings deposits in the Canadian banks increased during May by about twenty millions. Within the last twelve months they have increased by over one hundred and twenty millions.

ENDORSED RESOLUTION.

(United Press.)

OTTAWA, June 23.—After a long debate, the House on division, at 2.40 this morning, carried the Government's resolution approving of the plan for the Government endorsation of notes for the purchase of steel vessels constructed in Canadian shipyards.

The Milwaukee Tire Dealers' Association, composed of 43 members, will bar all retail tire dealers guilty of crooked schemes.

Council Meeting

LAKEFIELD COUNCIL DISPOSES OF OF COUPLE OF SMALL LUMBERING INDUSTRIES.

LAKEFIELD, June 23.—At a joint meeting of the Council and the Board of Trade, held last evening to discuss a proposition from Mr. John Dingman, of Peterborough, who proposes to build a lumber mill on the old Tate-Lillicrap Company site ,to cost approximately $30,000 and to employ 20 to 25 men.

They ask the village to loan them $5,000 for five years without interest, a fixed assessment of $3,000 and to build a pier at a point near Strickland's point. A large number of those present expressed their views, when it was decided that the best Lakefield could offer would be a fixed assessment of $3,000 for five years and to build a pier at Strickland's Point.

Another Deal.

Another proposition was another lumber mill to be operated by the Armstrong Lumber Co., who have asked for the lease of the property formerly used as a mill site by Mr. John Charlton. They expect to cut about 25,000,000 ft .of lumber and this year will cut 750,000 ft., the logs now lying in Clear Lake. In the meantime they ask the village to loan them poles and wire to make a line from the Hydro to their mill, which will be operated by 50 h.p. to be bought from the Hydro. This proposition was agreed to and at a special meeting of the Council it was moved by Councillor Marling, seconded by Coun. Spence, that this corporation obtain from Mr. John Charlton a cancellation of his lease of the property where his mill site is. The resolution follows: That we then release it to the Armstrong Lumber Co. at a yearly rental of $50, that we loan to the Armstrong Lumber Co. the poles and wire to deliver power to their mill for the cutting for the year 1920. That we exempt the property leased to the Armstrong Lumber Co. from taxes (except school taxes) for the balance of the year 1920, which was carried.

The Town Hall.

The by-law to vote $18,000 to complete the new town hall was thoroughly discussed, and at the meeting, which was a thoroughly representative one, there was not a man present who was opposed to the by-law. It was stated that a few were opposed to the by-law, but with the showing of those present it augurs well for the carrying of the by-law. It is a beautiful town hall and one of the handsomest in the province and should be completed at once. In order that the people may be thoroughly informed regarding the total cost of the building and the necessity of votin gan increased amount of $ 18.000 for its completion, a committee composed of Messrs. Marling and Spence from the Council and Wm. Graham from the Board of Trade were appointed to prepare for publication a statement of the expenditure of the town hall from its inception, and including the amount required for its completion, so that the people may be thoroughly informed so that they may vote intelligently on the by-law when it is submitted on Jul. 4th.

Hydro-Electric.

The following letter re the Hydro was submitted to the meeting:

Toronto, June 19th, 1920.

Mr. J. C. Strickland,
Reeve, Lakefield:

Dear Sir,—Mr. Iler in discussion with Mr. Tait last Wednesday stated that service would be supplied for part of the village by June 25th, but it appears now that certain work must be done on Sunday, June 27th in order to make service possible.

We hesitate to make any definite promise for service, as unfortunately circumstances have forced us to take so many promises already. We can assure you, however, that every effort is being made to complete the construction at the earliest possible moment.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) F. A. Gaby,
Chief Engineer,

SMOKE NUISANCE IS CAUSE OF BIG LOSS

The cost due to the smoke in the atmosphere of cities in relation to health cannot be estimated in dollars and cents, but it can be estimated in its effect on the laundry bill, the time spent over the wash tubs by the housewife and the upkeep of the property affected by the nuisance, according to Dr. Charles Hodgets.

It remains a fact, however, that it is a detriment to both the comfort and the health either of communities as a whole or of the citizens in the groups suffering from a particular smoke nuisance, and so far as Ottawa is concerned there are such groups. The people look to the health authorities for immediate action to prevent this or any other nuisance, and rightly so. In most cases the nuisance does not involve cost to those so annoyed, but where smoke is the cause, there are other and financial losses which are deserving of consideration.

Are Least Affected.

Unfortunately in the case of Ottawa, the Mayor, Controllers and Alderman and members of the Board of Health are possibly least affected; effective steps would be taken to suppress the nuisances which daily demonstrate their presence of painting things black in their immediate vicinity.

Coming down to "cost" which means an unneccessary "tax" imposed in most instances upon a class of citizens least able to pay the same, there are now reliable figures of a recent date before us. They relate to the increased laundry and other bills of cost. Their accuracy is vouched for by a firm of auditors.

The Air Pollution Advisory Board of the Manchester Health Committee in investigating this nuisance issued a questionnaire to all sorts and conditions of people, householders, architects, house painters, property owners, etc.

Exact Figures Given.

The latter class estimated that the cost outside painting and maintenance of residential property of the rental value of $375 per annum was from 10 to 50 per cent. greater than in places where no smoke nuisance existed, while architects estimated that a clean atmosphere reduced the cost of upkeep and maintenance of buildings from 15 to 20 per cent.

As might be expected the painters revelled in the smoke, a typical answer being, "As a painter he would be pleased if the smoke did even more damage."

The effects from the housewife's standpoint are most interesting where the laundry bills are considered. The investigator, a female health inspector, showed that the weekly wash is longer in the districts suffering from the smoke nuisance, and those districts are usually the homes of the poor people.

The statistical committee of the Air Pollution Board estimates the actual monetary loss caused by the undue smokeiness of the air on account of washing done in their homes when compared with the cost in a community free from smoke to be over $000,000 greater; while with homes of the middle class, where the laundry is almost wholly sent out, the additional cost is $1,200,000.

Wear Not Considered.

The above figures take no account of the added wear and tear entailed by the extra washing which would be considerable.

The total cost to the city of Manchester is at least $3,750,000 per annum.

The cost is only one item among many; the damage to—health, merchandise and vegetation would greatly swell the total.

It is the conclusion of the board that it would well repay the city of Manchester to expend a large amount of thought and worry on any measures that would help to reduce its enormous yearly smoke tax.

Local Smoke Nuisance.

The experiences of Manchester are not parallel in Ottawa, but with the facts before us as an object lesson, would it not be wise and proper for the authorities responsible for smoke nuisances, even of a lesser degree, to take steps to prevent those now existing? They are small compared to the smoke nuisances of larger cities, but they do exist and we should prevent the small things, for in their accumulation the greater nuisances arise, and because of their toleration are the more difficult to abate.

There are many housewives in Ottawa who suffer from a local smoke nuisance and could name them to the health officer and tell of the unnecessary "tax" imposed upon them by their non-abatement. Among the nuisances could be mentioned offhand the smoke of the railroad engines, not to mention the smoke emanations from other sources, all existing in the city of electrical power.

MUSKOKA'S RECURRING APPEAL

Small wonder is it that each recurring vacation season sees added numbers turning for rest and recreation to "Nature's Wonderland" "Muskoka"; for there may be found all the elements that go to make a pleasant holiday. The clear bracing atmosphere and the sparkling waters under sunny skies serve as a welcome relief after the stifling city streets, and the healthy vigorous outdoor sports, swimming, canoeing, motorboating, golfing, etc., in such surroundings rebuild the body and enable one to return to the daily round with added zest and renewed interest in life.

Descriptive of this area, including Lakes Joseph, Rosseau, Muskoka and Sparrow, The Canadian National Railways 1920 "Muskoka" Folder tells of its beauties, and too, what is no small factor in its popularity, of its accessibility. Included also is an excellent map of the lakes named, a list of hotels and boarding houses with information as to rates and accommodation and a list of its golf courses. For free copy and information as to week end service now in effect, write General Passenger Department, Canadian National Railways, Toronto.

Biscuits

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
¾ cup milk, or half milk and half water

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, add shortening and rub in very lightly; add liquid slowly; roll or pat on floured board to about one inch in thickness (handle as little as possible); cut with biscuit cutter. Bake in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Royal Cinnamon Buns

3½ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 tablespoons shortening
1 egg
½ cup water
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
4 tablespoons seeded raisins

Sift 2 tablespoons of measured sugar with flour, salt and baking powder; rub shortening in lightly; add beaten egg to water and add slowly. Roll out ¼ inch thick on floured board; brush with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Roll as for jelly roll; cut into 1½ inch pieces; place with cut edges up on well-greased pan; sprinkle with a little sugar and cinnamon. Bake in moderate oven 20 to 25 minutes; remove from pan at once.

Parker House Rolls

4 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 tablespoons shortening
1½ cups milk

Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Add melted shortening to milk and add slowly to dry ingredients stirring until smooth. Knead lightly on floured board and roll out ½ inch thick. Cut with biscuit cutter. Crease each circle with back of knife one side of center. Butter the small section and fold larger part well over the small. Place one inch apart in greased pan. WOOED AND WON ON VOYAGE TO WED HER FIRST FIANCE

PREVENTED FROM LANDING AT HALIFAX, MANCHESTER GIRL HELD AT ELLIS ISLAND.

NEW YORK, June 22. — United States immigration authorities at Ellis Island to-day face the problem of straightening out a "love triangle" born of moonlit nights on the swelling Atlantic, in which Captain R. Kitchen, of Sydney, C.B., late of the Canadian Field Artillery, is portraying the role of rejected suitor.

A Woman's Privilege.

Miss A. Butler, of Manchester, England, a young woman of twenty-two summers, begged the Ellis Island authorities to give her her freedom at least long enough to marry Captain T. Mellor, of the British army, who made her forget in a three-day courtship on the steamship Royal George—bound from Liverpool to Halifax—the Canadian veteran, whom she had intended to wed when she sailed ten days ago for Halifax.

Authorities Are Austere.

Canadian authorities refused to permit Miss Butler to land at Halifax for any other purpose than to marry the Canadian who had provided the wherewithal for her to make the trip to Canada, and whom she promised to marry when Captain Kitchen was in Manchester last year on leave. The Canadian authorities put her on the steamship Caronia bound for England, via New York.

Course of True Love.

Captain Mellor wirelessed her to stop at New York, whither he was hurrying by train. When she stopped she was taken in charge here by the immigration authorities. According to the New York World, this morning, Miss Butler is not satisfied with the treatment accorded her by the Canadian officials at Halifax, where she is alleged to have fainted six times.

The Men Get Together.

The World also understands that Captain Kitchen is due here to-day, together with Captain Mellor, and between the two they hope to obtain Miss Butler's release, so that she will be able to wed "Captain No. 2," the Canadian having decided not to further oppose the match with his rival.

Officials Tackle Love Knot.

Officials at Ellis Island would not give out any information this morning regarding Miss Butler, and it is not known yet whether she will be deported to England or allowed to remain and become Mrs. Mellor. It is believed a decision will be arrived at some time to-day.

BULGARIA SEEKS CANADIAN PRODUCTS

Places £1,000,000 Sterling for Purchases from Allies.

OTTAWA, June 24.—Return to normal conditions in Bulgaria, and an ambitious program of foreign trade with allied countries, is indicated in a communication to the Canadian Trade Commissioner from the representative in the Balkans of a big Canadian industry. Sofia bankers have transferred £1,000,000 sterling, for purchases abroad, some of them in Canada. The present Government is friendly to the Entente allies and the Prime Minister hopes soon to visit London.

The letter states that eighty per cent. of the population of Bulgaria are peasant and agrarian and are opposed to Bolshevism. Good harvest is in sight for this season. The enforced reduction of its army to 44,000 men is proving an economic blessing to Bulgaria and the people are working peacefully and energetically to put the country on a prosperous basis.

WINNIPEG ADOPTS NEW STYLE VOTE

COMING ELECTION IS FIRST PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION UNDER PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATON IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE OUTSIDE OF TWO OF THE AUSTRALIAN STATES

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Man., June 23.—The city of Winnipeg's experiment with "P.R." on June 29 will be, in the words of a newspaper editorial, "the first parliamentary election under proportional representation in the British Empire, outside of two of the Australian states, Tasmania and New South Wales."

Winnipeg's representation in the Manitoba legislature, increased to ten members by recent legislation, is to be elected by the new system of balloting under which, according to its advocates, every party or group receives the exact measure of the representation which the vote warrants. Elsewhere in the province the old style of ballot continues.

There are between thirty and forty candidates seeking election in Winnipeg. The Norris Government and the Conservative Opposition have full tickets of ten each. In addition there are a considerable number of Labor and Socialist candidates and Independents of various degree. Government and Opposition each have a woman in the list of ten. Mrs. R. A. Rogers, well-known locally in women's work and organization, seeks the honor as a government supporter of being the first woman to sit in the legislature of the province, an honor which is disputed by Mrs. Lipsett-Skinner, journalist and lawyer, nominated in the formal Opposition ticket. A third woman, Mrs. John Dick, is running as an independent.

The government goes to the electors with one portfolio vacant—that of agriculture, caused by the sudden death in the midst of the campaign of Hon. Valentine Winkler. It is interesting to note that Mr. Winkler's son, a practical farmer and overseas veteran, is seeking election as a Liberal in his father's old constituency, Morden-Rhineland, but no suggestion has been heard that he will carry the family name into the Cabinet should he be successful.

It is not probable that much official information will be available on election night concerning the voting in Winnipeg. There will be 317 deputy returning officers, and each of them is to count the first choices only for each candidate in his sub-division. These first choices, when assembled and totalled, will give the total vote in the city and the total number of electors who have voted "1" for each candidate on the list. It will be possible to deduce that candidates who have a considerable plurality in first choices are elected, but the official statement of their election only follows after second and third choices in the ballots are allocated carefully according to the will of the voters. A large staff of "P.R." experts will go to work on the compilation as soon as the ballot boxes are returned, but it may be well into the next day before official returns are available.

HEROIC DEATH OF JAMES MENZIES

WELL KNOWN CHINESE MEDICAL MISSIONARY KILLED IN BATTLE WITH BAND OF MARAUDERS.

(Canadian Press.)

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 23. — The first detailed account has just reached this city of the heroic death of Rev. James R. Menzies, M.D., D.D., the well-known Chinese missionary, who has relatives in Vancouver, at Pitt Meadows, and on Vancouver Island. He was in his fifty-fourth year, and leaves a family living in Toronto. The description of his murder, while defending two lady workers, Miss Lethbridge and Miss Brydon, at Hwaiking, is contained in the Honan Messenger, of Weihwei, which he was editing at the time of his death.

It appears that Dr. Menzies, although unarmed, without hesitation attacked the band of robbers which was ravaging the ladies' quarters. He knew the strength of the maurading party, but this did not prevent him from making his single-handed assault on the robbers, who numbered probably between fifteen and twenty. "On Wednesday night about ten o'clock, a band of robbers attacked the ladies' house. After gaining entrance to the compound they proceeded to the house, broke the glass in the front door and entered. One of the ladies escaped to the upper verandah where she succeeded in concealing herself, the other was ordered to show the robbers where the money was kept.

Dr. Menzies, whose house was some distance off, heard calls for help and at once ran out. The lady on the upper verandah caught sight of him as he crossed the road by a newly white-washed bridge, and succeeded in acquainting him with the state of affairs. Replying, 'I am not armed,' he passed down from the bridge to approach the house. The robbers had left a man on guard at the gate, just below the bridge steps. When he heard Dr. Menzie's voice, he raised an alarm and called to the robbers indoors to hurry out. Dr. Menzies and this man coming together in the dark, grappled. In the midst of their struggle the rest of the robbers ran out and surrounded them. Flashes from a revolver followed.

"The whole band made their escape. One of their number was found next morning some distance outside the premises kiled by a shot apparently intended for Dr. Menzies.

"In the judgment of the doctor who examined the wounds, one bullet had pierced Dr. Menzie's body and entered that of the robber with whom he was struggling.

"By the time Mr. Slimmona, whose house was the farthest away, reached the scene all was over. He found the doctor lying on the ground, fully conscious that his end was near. He died within half an hour."

Jiffy-Jell is the one dessert which has the fruit flavors in vials. A bottle of condensed fruit-juice essence comes in the package. So a Jiffy-Jell dessert is a real-fruit dainty. DAVID S. KIDD BYRNE REMANDED IN TORONTO

CHARGED WITH DEFRAUDING BANK MANAGER—MONEY PAID BACK.

TORONTO, June 22. — Back to his mission house, his prayers and his waiting flock in Montreal, Pastor David S. K. Byrne may now return a free man.

The Toronto police court to-day remanded him till called on on a charge of having on June 1st defrauded Leo Coffey, a Toronto bank manager, out of $500.

"The money has been paid back," said Crown Attorney Corley. "It seems that he had some reason to think his overdraft would have been honored. Under the circumstances what can I do?"

"Not very much," said Magistrate Kingsford. "Had the case not better be withdrawn?"

"No; your Worship. In view of the peculiar mentality of the accused I want no decision of any kind; I would prefer to have the case remanded till called on, so that certain letters can be put on record."

This was done.

"I am very much obliged to you," said the reverend gentleman, making as if to shake the Crown Prosecutor's hand. "Oh, you are very welcome, indeed," remarked the busy lawyer—too busy to even talk to a clergyman.

Belief in the existence of those lucky millions which the accused claims to have inherited for saving the daughter of an Australian millionaire, was expressed to-day by Byrne's lawyer, D. M. Sinclair.

MOVING PICTURES.

The National Council of Women at its convention in St. John, N.B., has been devoting a good deal of attention to the subject of motion pictures, particularly in regard to the importance of a strict censorship of films with a view to the elimination of such pictures as will have the tendency to be injurious to children. This is a subject with which the Council of Women naturally is concerned, for more and more is the motion picture entering into the life of the Canadian people and it is of the greatest importance that so far as is possible, subjects that will have a debasing or a demoralizing effect shall be avoided and that the pictures that form the programmes at the theatres where so many citizens gather each evening shall be free from harmful suggestion and example. If there is anything that can be accomplished towards bringing about a better condition of affairs in this respect, the Council of Women are justified in their attempts to accomplish the desired reforms.

Important, too, is their desire that more British and Canadian pictures shall be shown in Canadian theatres, as 95 per cent. of the films displayed in this country are manufactured in the United States, and the children of Canada who see these pictures cannot help being impressed by them and unconsciously absorb American ideals. At the same time there has been a noticeable improvement in this respect in the past few months in the local theatres, where British and Canadian news films and Canadian scenic pictureso have been regularly shown. These pictures of events and scenes in our own country educate the people as to the wonderful possibilities of the great Dominion in which they live and develop national pride and enthusiasm. Let us have more of them.

WHY NOT CANADIANS?

It is not often that the Examiner has felt called upon to make a complimentary reference to the Canadian Senate, but its action in scoring the Dominion government for engaging an American firm to reclassify the civil service, and in passing a resolution stating that this work could have been better done by Canadians, entitles the upper body to some kindly words of praise and they are herewith tendered. The Senate's attitude in this matter is one that will be generally endorsed. There has been a widespread feeling that in going outside of Canada to secure experts for the work of reorganizing the civil service the government has given Canada some poor advertising and has displayed a lamentable lack of confidence in the ability of Canadians to handle important business. It would surely have been possible to secure in this country men with the necessary qualifications for this reclassification work and men, too, more familiar with the Canadian civil service than any outside firm, no matter what their ability, could possibly be. The firm of Arthur Young and Co. of Chicago, engaged by the government for this work were supposed, it is understood, to complete their task in five months, but in reality took two years, and the expense was much greater than had been anticipated. In addition much of the reclassification work will have to be gone over again, for already 300 classes of the 1,500 arranged by the company, have been altered.

Reclassification of the departments of the civil service undoubtedly was necessary, but the work could have been done more efficiently, cheaply and satisfactorily by Canadians acquainted with the conditions and the circumstances, and the Senate did well to impress this fact upon the people by passing a resolution to the effect 'that it is the opinion of this House that men with expert ability of a higher degree can be found in Canada who are capable of doing this work in a thoroughly satisfactory manner."

BETTER PROTECTION NEEDED.

The announcement made the other day that the Ontario government intends to place 40,000 bass fry in Stoney and Clear Lakes was received with much satisfaction by the hundreds of anglers who frequent these waters during the fishing season. The action of the government is regarded as an evidence of its interest in angling and of its intention of seeing that the fishing grounds of Ontario are not depleted of their stocks. Unfortunately, however, this interest is not so satisfactorily demonstrated in the mater of protection for the fish that already exist in the waters around Peterborough. The Examiner has on many occasions urged that more attention should be paid to this important question, but there is no indication that there has been any improvement. From the evidence supplied by cottagers at Chemong Lake ,it is apparent that there has been a good deal of illegal fishing done in that section of the Kawartha Lakes recently. It is a customary sight at Chemong at the present time to see maskinonge floating on the water, fine large fish bearing spear marks on their bodies. Apparently spearing of fish on a large scale has been going on and the dead 'lunge are only a few of those that have been slaughtered. Good as is the fishing at Chemong, it cannot be expected to continue so unless this and other illegal practices are put down vigorously and the attention of the authorities is called to these complaints in the hope that some action will he taken to protect the fish.

A POPULAR RECOMMENDATION.

One of the recommendations made in the report of the Special Parliamentary Committee on Pensions that promises to meet with popular approval is that in connection with the pensions of veterans of the Fenian raid, Northwest rebellion and South African war. The committee, after considering the cases of the men disabled in former wars, has suggested that their pensions shall be brought up to the same standard as the members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. There are not many of these men, and the increase in their allowances will not be a heavy burden to the country, but even if the augmenting of their pensions made an appreciable difference to the total, the people of Canada, we are sure, would be quite willing that the added expenditure should be assumed. The pensions granted to these old soldiers never at any time erred on the side of generosity and of course are utterly inadequate in view of the present day living conditions. The engagements in which they served may appear trivial affairs as compared with the terrible struggle just closed and yet the sacrifice of these men, the suffering they have had to endure on account of their wounds, the disability they have sustained, have been just as great as those of their comrades of the great war, and the fact that their services have been recognized and that they have been placed on the same footing as the Canadians who fought in Europe will perhaps bring them more joy and satisfaction than will the difference in the monetary reward

THE NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA

Premier Drury of Ontario issued an "open message" to the farmers of Canada the other day which illustrated both his own broadmindedness and one of the vital meanings of the Navy League of Canada. Mr. Drury said:

"It is good business to support the Navy League of Canada. The oportunity is before us—will Canada grasp it? The prosperity of every country waits on transportation. The call from every island of the seas is for 'ships.' The Canadian flag must become the talisman of a world commerce. We want Canadian lines established and maintained; the farmer and the laborer will benefit as well as the commercial business man. Profit will come in general benefit to all."

The main object of the Navy League of Canada is to promote the training of boys for the work of the sea. This is an important thing for Canada, an important thing for the British brotherhood in the world. It deserves the sympathy and support of all among us who are proud of the great story of the British race, and wish to carry it on worthily.

The Dominion Government is sympathetic, as well as the Ontario Government, and we hope all Provincial Governments. An agreement has been made between the Government Merchant Marine management, and the Navy League of Canada, whereby the League will furnish youths for the fleet service. Two of the most promising candidates will be selected for each ship to be trained as deck officers. Instead of paying a premium, each boy will earn $100 the first year, $200 the second, $300 the third, and $500 in the fourth. Boys must be 17 years of age.

This arrangement contains the nucleus of a fine system of manning our merchant ships with Canadian sailors and officers. It was stated some time ago that about 70 per cent. of the crews of the Government freighters were Canadians, but the higher officers are mostly British. Canada has a large maritime population and the growth of our public and private freighter fleets will steadily enlarge it. This country is now eighth among the maritime nations, and when the new steamers for Government and private account are in service, will have a million and a half tons of ocean-going vessels. To be of proper service to the country, these vessels ought to be manned by Canadians from the top down when possible, and the work of the Navy League in providing training for boys with a love of the sea, is invaluable.—Ottawa Journal.

MANITOBA'S FARM COLLEGE

CANADA HAS LARGEST AND BEST EQUIPPED INSTITUTION OF KIND ON THE CONTINENT.

One of the largest agricultural colleges on the North American Continent has just been finished near Winnipeg, Manitoba. Not only the largest and the most expensive, but one of the best fitted in the world.

The construction of the college, which comprises sixty-two buildings, has been going on for the last ten or fifteen years. During that time the students have been attending their regular courses, but it is not until this summer that the college was declared finished. Its scope has developed in response to the demands which the people have made upon it, and it has grown to its present dimensions from a comparatively small beginning.

The institution is planned to meet the varied needs of those who want to get their education there. Some seek special training in farm engineering, gardening, live stock management, cooking, sewing and country life problems. Some can spend only a month, and others five years. Special courses are offered therefore, varying in length from two weeks to four months. Regular courses are of two to five years. There are four of the latter. These are a three-year course in agriculture and a two-year course in home economics. They lead to degrees in Bachelor of the Science of Agriculture and Bachelor in Home Economics.

Most of the students go to the college from farms where the chief product is grain. The courses given seek not only to give them a better understanding of the problems of grain production but also to widen their interests and to diversify their activities when they return to their farms. The extent of the technical knowledge, and the diversity of practical skill that a farmer can effectively use ma yseem large to any one used to the minute subdivision of labor in other industries. The isolation of the farm makes it impracticable to employ the mechanical trades for the many small odd jobs of repair and alteration that require to be done about the farm. So the typical farmer is his own engineer. He must needs be his own manager, carpenter and sometimes his own veterinary surgeon. Nor can he know too much about soil management, the peculiarities of different crops, the nature and habits of weeds or the feeding, breeding and care of live stock. If he is to succeed financially he must know something about markets and transportation. The aim of these courses in agriculture is to supply as much of this knowledge and skill as possible.

Soon after the college was inaugurated it was found advisable to include home economics in the curriculum. There are business questions of farm management, marketing, and tariff which the farmer wants to understand. There are problems of country life, since the farmer has not only to make a living, but to live, in the country. The farm is not only the business location. It is also the place of residence of the family. Evidently the agricultural college of the future must concern itself with teaching more than the art and science of production.

Housekeeping has taken its place among the professions. Instruction is given in the fundamental principles and practice of foods and cooking. Interior and exterior arrangements of the home, the health and general well being of its inmates, textiles and fabrics, and dairying, horticulture and poultry raising are among the sciences taught.

The college is also equipped with an experimental building. Farmers and prospective farmers are beginning to ask questions which they very naturally expect the college to be able to answer. They are daily sending samples of tainted water and noxious weeds to be analyzed, identified and diagnosed. The answers are published weekly in many farm journals.

Two years ago mongrel hens were mated at the college with pure Plymouth Rock cockrels. One hen from this experiment laid 235 eggs last year. Many of them were laid when the temperature was 25 degrees below zero. There are at present 10,000 fowls on the college grounds. Each one of them bears a small number on an iron band on its leg. Thereby a record is kept of every egg laid by these fowl per diem. There are twenty-six incubators, each one of which has a capacity of 200 eggs. Seven-tenths of all chickens hatched by this method die before they reach the winged stage.

Of the forty cows on the college property all are milked by electricity or air pressure. The milk is tested, then filtered. All the cows are Holstein thoroughbreds.

The residence life of this wonderland for agriculturists increases the attractions. All these opportunities are shared by girls as well as boys. The residence buildings are furnished with two swimming pools, two gymnasiums, two football and basket ball fields. There are also a curling rink and an open-air skating rink. The bend in the Red River which runs through the grounds makes Winnipeg accessible over the ice in winter.

There are 500 rooms in the dormitory building. These are divided by a co-educational dining room in the centre and a large auditorium above. The latter can accommodate 1,200 comfortably. It is used by debating societies as well as a place of amusement: Dancing is permitted publicly on one or two occasions each term.

The whipping-post, as well as the maximum term of imprisonment awaits automobile thieves in the State of Delaware.

MORALE AS MILITARY FACTOR

Dr. Harry D. Kitson, Professor of Psychology at the University of India, makes some interesting remarks on the subject of morale in the Infantry Journal, the official organ of the United States Infantry Association. He speaks chiefly about the American army, but his observations will apply to the British and French armies as well, for all used propaganda to depress the spirits of the enemy and as resolutely refused to be daunted by German propaganda. According to Dr. Kitson, the Commander-in-Chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, composed a masterpiece in war psychology in his General Order No. 106, of July 1, 1918. This general order was mimeographed and thrown over the German lines by the thousands. In it he issued strict orders that prisoners should be treated according to the principles of humanity and justice; that they should be given healthful quarters and rations equal to those issued to the American troops. Then followed a typical bill of fare of the American soldier, with white bread as the first conspicuous item, a suggestive contrast to the monotonous dark brown bread of the German soldier. After that, meat, bacon, jam and tobacco. That the German soldiers read this message and digested it was proved by the fact that when captured, they quickly reminded the Americans of their promise to give them white bread.

Breaking Their Hearts.

"Another effective form of propaganda,' says Dr. Kitson, "is to tell the enemy how great are his losses and to point out the hopelessness of his military position. This is illustrated by the following message, which was prnted in German and scattered over the enemy lines during the early days of November, 1918:

"'Austria-Hungary has withdrawn from the war. The terms imposed by the Allies have been accepted and the arms will be laid down Nov. 4, at 3 p.m.

"'Turkey has also surrendered.

"'Germany stands alone.

"'German soldiers, why is this information withheld from you?

"'Because, as experienced soldiers, you would then know that the war is lost and that it is time for each man to look out for himself.

"'Come over to our lines during the night in little groups of two or three men.

"'During the day remain in your dugouts and give yourselves up when you see any Americans.'

"Though the German High Command issued strict orders against the possession of propagandist literature, the German soldiers treasured these messages. I have discovered them hidden under the coarse vegetable-fibre mattresses of their bunks where they had been disturbing the German dreams of world conquest and day by day had been weakening their morals.

"Another message conveying the truth about the German losses at St. Mihiel was sent over shortly after the battle. It consisted of a map showing the lines before and after the drive, accompanied by the legend:

The Bad News.

"'The terrain which was occupied by the Germans for four years was taken by the Americans in twenty-seven hours.

"'Three hundred and ninety square kilometres were taken and 15,000 prisoners.'

"Just as the morale of our army may be raised by encouraging conditions at home, so that of the enemy may be weakened by discouraging conditions at home. Methods of bringing this about are numerous. Food blockades, air raids, news items of a gloomy nature. This incident well illustrates the utilization of the latter. An American base camp in which we kept a number of German prisoners was a frequent target for German air raids. During one night of severe bombing the German airmen dropped one of their bombs directly into the German prison camp, killing ninety and wounding twenty-seven. The French Intelligence Service immediately seized upon this fact and published it in all the leading French papers. They knew that these papers would cross into Germany and inform the German people that their air raiders were killing their own men. Naturally the news would affect the national morale adversely."

Physical and Psychical.

From his observations regarding the psychological aspects of morale, Dr. Kitson decuced that there were two factors in determining the outcome of wars. Each plays an indispensable part. They are the physical and psychical forces. Upon these two factors wars may be won or lost. The first consists of guns, explosives, tractors, airplanes, food and shoes. Last, but not least, is the psychical factor which consists of hopes, feelings, ideas, motives and volitions. An army without the proper co-ordination of these two factors cannot successfully wage war. Dr. Kitson adds:

"The importance of the psychical force, however, is not clearly observed. While the physical equipment of the soldier receives diligent attention, his psychical equipment is often neglected. The psychical forces of warefare are not perceptible to the senses; they cannot be weighed upon physical scales or analyzed into chemical elements. They are obscure, vague, ill-defined, evanescent. They travel under a collection of names: loyalty, patriotism, esprit de corps. The one word that comes nearest to expressing them is morale. Morale always has a nucleus. Among soldiers it is usually love of country, crystallized into a slogan: 'Make the world safe for democracy,' 'Remember the Maine,' 'For king and country.' However expressed, there is usually some idea or ideal at its core. Morale is closely associated with the will. It burns to express itself in action. The high degree of morale in the recent American Army manifested itself by the general eagerness of the men to go to the front, and by their restlessness when he held back.

AMOUNT OF WATER USED BY DAIRY COWS

HEAVY YIELDING ANIMALS DRINK AS MUCH AS 250 POUNDS PER DAY.

United States Department of Agriculture test demonstrates the erroneous conception which many farmers and stockmen have regarding the watering of dairy cows. Some dairymen contend that the more water one can induce a cow to drink the more milk she will produce. The Federal experiments show that the difference in effect between watering at will and twice a day was not pronounced. The cows with water always available drank less and produced more. Perhaps the increased milk production was more or less a matter of temperament and—individuality. The cow wants water when he wants it, and she will not do her best in the way of yielding milk unless her thirst is satisfied when it is most keen. There was no apparent difference in gains in body weights of the cows which were watered twice daily and those watered at will. These methods of watering were effective of greater milk yields, larger consumption of water, and greater gains in live weight than occurred where the animals were watered only once a day. The experiments point to the tentative conclusion that the advantage of having water continuously available lies mainly in the saving of labour than in a greater production of milk.

It is worthy of mention that an average dairy cow normally will consume 75 to 100 pounds of water a day. Average producing cows even drink as much as 150 pounds of water daily, while exceptionally heavy yielding animals drink as high as 200 to 250 pounds of water every twenty-four hours. One official record is on the docket of a high producing cow which drank 300 pounds of water a day without ill effects. As milk is more than 85 per cent. water, it is not surprising that cows which yield 55 to 50 and more pound of milk daily utilise large amounts of water.—G. H. Dacy, in Breeders' Gazette.

NO ROADS FOR HAULING GRAIN OUT OF RUSSIA

LONDON.—"Take every railroad engine in Europe to Russia and it will still take you two years to build up that country's transportation system to normal.

This was the startling statement made by one of the foreign office experts on the Russian trade situation, and was advanced as an argument against those who talk optimistically of getting vast supplies of grain and food stuffs out of Russia in a "day.

Russia's transportation system—isn't. It simply doesn't exist—as transportation systems are conceived in countries like the United States and Great Britain, officials well informed declare. Reliable information gleaned by the British intelligence department shows that only six out of every hundred engines in Russia were in working order early in 1920. And of these six, the majority operated on wood and other inferior fuel.

Took From Another.

Furthermore, whenever an engine broke down, the worn parts were replaced from another engine, thereby rendering that engine doubly incapacitated and immensely harder to repair when materials finally became available.

Railway cars and freight cars also are insufficient and in bad repair. Hundreds of thousands of worn-out wheels which only need re-tiring are piled at the railway terminals. The airbrake system doesn't exist because only a few cars in a train have valves which are in working condition. Naturally speed in transportation is obtained only at the sacrifice of safety.

Another difficulty which Russia will have to overcome before her immense transportation system can be re-established is the training and recruiting of a large force of railway employes who have the interest of the roads at heart. Since the war, the personnel of the railways, never much to speak about, has deteriorated rapidly. Thousands of the best mechanics have been killed, died or disease or left the country. Other thousands have gone into other industries or ceased work altogether for the more lucrative vocation of being a member—of the "Red Army."

No Desire To Work.

The will to work, investigators report, is conspicuously absent among the former laborers. Their limited taste of a Communist Utopia has merely served to what their appetite for more leisure. Lenine, Trotsky and Company have at last realized the boomerang effect of certain of their doctrines and have taken decisive steps to remedy the situation.

The "industrial army" was their reply. What its success might have been no one ventures an opinion. Unfrotunately, the Polish offensive forced their immediate re-transference into fighting units again.

That Great Britain, Italy and even France are very desirous of opening up trade with Russia is unquestioned. Europe at large deperately needs grain and foodstuffs. Where it comes from is of no great moment. The reported under-acreage and poor crop prospects in America has only served to accentuate the situation. Already breadstuffs have taken unprecedented increases here. France and Italy are almost certain to be on ration again this winter. Of Germany, no one in the entente countries except the statesmen give a thought. But even there conditions are bound to be worse than in entente countries.

Allies Are Anxious.

Consequently the Allies are as anxious to put Russia to work as her proletariat rulers themselves appear to be.

But even though Russia produces, they are again confronted with the task of getting the grain to the seaboard. What the outcome will be, nobody knows. The hopelessness of the outlook has driven more than one Government official into despair.

The most deplorable development, from the European economic viewpoint, of the present year thus far, is the Polish-Ukrainian offensive against the Bolsheviks.

Ukrainia, the breadbasket of Russia and Central Europe, is facing a summer and autumn of guerilla, if not major, warfare. Cultivation of her immeasurably rich lowlands and uplands even now has become a myth. The spring planting season is half over and the fields are being utilized as battlegrounds rather than grain production.

Wants a Way Out.

Most of the Parliamentary opposition to Britain's "indefinite" attitude towards the Polish offensive is based upon economic necessity rather than love for either Poland or the Soviets. Generally speaking British Labor is not nearly as "utopian" as painted by leaders in Commons. But it is concerned over whether it is to buy bread from the United States at an adverse rate of exchange or from Russia at a favorable one. The "vicious cycle" of increased costs of living has begun to penetrate into the consciousness of the consumer. What he now wants is a way out.

Until the dispute between the Ukrainians and the Soviets has been settled, and Poland has retired to her legitimate borders, nothing can be accomplished. Consequently, Russian trade, which will take months to get under way after political complications have been removed, waits through seemingly unending periods of increasing political delays.

FIND DOUGHTY AND GET KEY TO SOLVE SMALL MYSTERY?

Police records of the Americas continent do not provide a more mysterious case than the disappearance, first, of Ambrose J. Small, multi-millionaire, and, subsequently, of his former secretary of many years, "Jack" Doughty. Both were lifelong residents of Toronto. Their customs were well known. Yet they dropped out of sight as though the earth had suddenly opened and swallowed them up. Months of search have failed to find traces of either. Yet the police pursuit instead of slackening, is now intensified. Meantime—

TORONTO, June 22.—When Ambrose J. Small stepped out of his Grand Opera House, Toroto, into oblivion on December 2 last only one person apparetly saw him go John Doughty's uncorroborated word is the principal evidence on this important point. He says that Mr. Small left the theatre in the usual way and started for home about 5.30. At Lamb's Hotel, next door, he is said to have been seen at about that time, and if there is no confusion as to date, he was en route home then But there is reasonable doubt in both instances, because of the time which elapsed between December 2 and the period when Mr. Small's movements of that day began to arouse serious interest.

Doughty was not questioned closely by Mrs. Small until December 28, thought it is recorded that she telephoned him about 9.30 the evening her husband failed to return home. Doughty, at that time, was at the home of his sister, Mrs Lovatt, at 8 Kingswood road. Doughty remarked, in reply to Mrs. Small's telephinic enquiry, that her husband had left the theatre about 5.30. Mrs. Lovatt recalls his part of the conversation.

When Last Seen

Mr. Small was seen around the theatre by several employes between four and five o'clock of that fateful afternoon Definitely and by corroberative evidence, this is the last time and place in which the missing man appears.

Ambrose Small was fond of walking and he frequently would discard street car and automobile in fair weather for a brisk walk home. His usual course was east on Adelaide three blocks from Yonge street to the Church street car, which would land him within half a block of his residence. There was no snow on the ground that second day of December, though it was cold and if he left his office at 5.30 it was then not yet quite dark.

The Kidnapping Theory.

If, as some of his friends are inclined to think, Mr. Small was kidnapped en route home, the deed would have had to be committed is the three blocks between the theatre and the Church street car line, for it is probable that, in his hurry to keep his dinner engagement with Mrs. Small and the cold, he would have taken the street car at that point

At that hour Adelaide street, in those three blocks, accommodates a stream of traffic. A pedestrian could not be forced into an automobile by voilence along that thoroughfare without attracting attention. If however, he turned into Church st., to walk home, there are many points at which he might have been grabbed by strong arms arn thrown into a car for it would have been dark before he could reach his home on Glen road and the traffic in the uptown residutial section would have thinned out.

Betrayed by Friend?

But those who cling to the kidnapping theory suggest that as Mr. Small passed along Adelaide street he might have been accosted by the kidnappers in an auto and induced to get into the car, being subjected to violence after the vehicle was under way. Of course this theory rests upon the idea that the person used to lure the unsuspecting man into the car was an acquaintance Otherwise he could not have been easily induced to take a ride. Having gotten their victim into an enclosed car, the use of chloroform or a club would have silenced him for the time.

But DID A. J. Small leave his office at the time Doughty insists that he did? That is one of the elements of the equation that the police are taking into consideration. Mrs. Small says she 'phoned his office in the theatre about 7.30. There was no answer. Certainly it appears reasonable to suppose that if he was around the theatre after dinner he would have been noticed by employes.

Had Net-Day Plans

Those familiar with the extraordinary case, and especially with the developments immediately before and after the mysterious disappearance, are convinced that Ambrose Small intended, as late as four o'clock that afternoon to be at his office the net day. In fact, his presence was vitally necessary to closing up of important details in connectios with the biggest financial deal in which he had ever been interested. After lunching with Mrs. Small, he told one of his most confidential employes to prepare a lot of statements the next day in reference to the various theatres and leases which he was transferring.

He made an engagement for 1.30 Wednesday afternoon (that would be the next day, Dec. 3) with Controller Alf. Maguire. They were to meet in Mr. Small office to readjust many insurance policies on the property transferred to the Trans-Canada Theatre interests. Mr. Maguire kept the engagement and waited over an hour.

Not Given to Disappearing.

It is scarcely within human possibility that Ambrose Small voluntarily absented himself from his office. There has been much loose rumor about Mr. Small's alleged habit of suddenly dropping out of sight for brief periods without notifying any of his employes. Those closest to Ambrose Small for many years assert positively that this is not true. From the same source comes the statement that he was not a drinking or "spree" man. He took an occasional drink, but very rarely Street gossip attributes the failure of the police o make action earlier in the mystery, before the elapse of so much time, to these alleged accentric haits of the theatre magnate. But those in Small's confidence assert that when called out of town suddenly, as not infrequently the case with his varied interests, he invariably telephoned Mrs. Small; or, if rusched for time, he instructed some of his employees to do so. He was very particular on this point.

Was Usually Cheerful

Mr. Small's state of mind during the last few days previous to his disappearance was unusually cheerful In fact, one employee who has enjoyed the closest companionship with Mr. Small for many years had long talks with him the Saturday and Sunday previous, and recalls that he never knew him to be in such a happy frame of mind. Mr. Small talked with him at great length, and outlined some of his plans for the future, after he had been relieved of his huge business interests. At that time the deal had been closed, and mere details remained to be completed. It can be said that A. J. Small contemplated a life of tremendous activities with his accumulated resources

Carried Little CashJ.

On the afternoon of his disappearance, on the evidence of those closest to him, he had less than ten dollars in cash in his pocket, though he also had some five cheques he had received that day on account of his theatrical booking commissions. These would total one thousand dollars. It was his habit to get cash for ordinary purposes from the box office of the Grand, and he did not ask anyone for money around the theatre that day. Mr. Small was a man who spent money freely, and if he contemplated any kind of a journey he would have had to have money. These cheques that he carried when last seen have never been cashed.

Doughty Accounted For.

John Doughty's disappearance is closely linked with the Small mystery, but apparently Doughty has accounted for his time very accurately during the evening and about the time Mr. Small disappeared. He took dinner with his sister, and was at their home (where he lived) until he took the car to go to the train that was to carry him to Montreal to assume new duties in connection with the Trans-Canada Theatres. The family testifies that Doughty regarded his change with enthusiasm. He had been receiving $45 per week while in the employ of Mr. Small and with the new company he was to get $75.

Depressed While in Montreal

However, from the time Doughty appeared in Montreal he seemed depressed. He was not nervous, but seemed to be suffering from frightful depression. Several times he had to answer long distance telephone calls from Toronto in connection with the Trans-Canada business, but he did not on such occasions display the slightest uneasiness when told Toronto wanted him on the line. But a business acquaintance from Toronto who had a dinner engagemet with him in Montreal reports that Doughty did not keep the appointment. Later he met him and asked him why. "Oh, I didn't feel like it," was the reply. "I'm not feeling well, you don't know how much trouble I have." He was not pressed for an explanation.

Doughty Well Off

When Doughty came home for Christmas he returned to Montreal important papers for the Trans-Canada that he had been commissioned to secure, and sent word he was not feeling well enough to return at that time. He never did return.

John Doughty has considerable property in Toronto. Through his father's estate he received considerable, and he was thrifty, with a Scotch idea of values that enabled him to appraise money's worth. He was a church member, and apparently of good habits. But the evidence of his theatrical acquaintances is that he was fond of feminine society, though never a "spender."

Basis for Conspiracy Charge.

The police warrant for Doughty charging conspiracy to kidnap Ambrose Small, grew out of the reports of at least two persons with whom it is alleged he talked on that subject. However, neither of them at the time regarded his remarks seriously. One of them in fact, asked, "Are you crazy?" These alleged references to kidnapping were made, according to this vidence, several days prior to the disappearance of Mr. Small. One of the people whom Doughty is said to have "sounded" on this wild project was an employee of the Grand Theatre, and the other a man connected with another theatre.

It was some time after Doughty disappeared that on of these men, talking with an employe of the Grand disclosed this statement of Doughty's He remarked at the time, "Find Doughty and you will find Small." The gentleman of whom he spoke, a close personal friend of Small's at once reported the circumstance to the police.

The theft of the Victory Bonds is a separate charge against Doughty and grows out of the disappearance of $150,000 worth of these securities shown by duplicate lists to have been in the safety deposit vault and not found there when the box was opened. Doughty, the record shows, opened that box the day his former employer disappeared, though he told Mrs. Small it was at the request of her husband that he went there. When she asked him for the key he said he had given it back to Mr. Small

Not a Fighting Man.

Doughty has always been regarded as a mild mannered man, but of powerful physique. He used to pull stroke oar for a local rowing crew, and in his youth was an athlete of some renown. Bue he was not a quarrelsome man, and was never known to have been involved in a matter of violence. According to the two men who claim he suggested the kidnapping of his then employer he is said to have remarked: "There's a lot of money in making away with Small."

There are many persons familiar with the Small case who ridicule the idea that Doughty had any idea of doing his old employer injury, or that he was capable of conceiving or carrying out such a desperate plot, and that these remarks were in reality a joke, but were interpreted rather grimly when both men disappeared.

An Offer of Help.

Letters of all sorts still continue to arrive at police headquarters, and at the Small desidence. The following is a sample of some of them—this being from a "medium:"

"I wish to come in tuch whith Mrs Small her self if you would give me her adress as I am intuerested in ending the case to give her my surface free if not satisfactory as I am a mediam from Phila. P.A. as I am visiting in Canada at present."

HENRI BARBUSSE AT ANTI-WAR CONGRESS

Henri Barbusse, author of "Under Fire," was the leading figure at a congress held in Geneva on April 30 for the purpose of organizing an international anti-militarist league under the name of the "International of the Veterans of the World War," according to reports found in Swiss and German papers. There were delegates present from anti-war veterans' organizations in France, Germany, England and Italy, a there would have been some from Austria and from the Russian prisoners of war in Austria had the authorities not held them up at the border. Some delegates from France were also prevented from attending, including Deputy Vaillant-Couturier. Barbusse, and a German delegate, Karl Tiedt, embraced each other on the platform amid the cheers of those present. War against war, the promoting of the movement for the seizing of political power by the workers with hand and brain, and scorn for the League of Nations seem to have been the main slogans of the congress. Plans were made for the organization of national commitees in the various countries.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Dear Mr. Editor,—I am very interested in the religious subjects that are taken up by our ministers. I wonder if they believe its true that Jonah swallowed the whale, if not why (its because he did not).) Now if they would use the same reason in regard the scriptures they would not find anywhere that Hell had two divisions, and if Hell originally meant covered up (the grave) or pit, sheol and all the human family have gone to the grave, is their a living grave and a dead grave or a dark one and a light one. Because the Bible says for 5-28 all that are in their graves shall hear His voice and shall come forth. Eccles. 9-10 there is no wisdom or knowledge nor device in the grave and the dead know not anything, our Lord gave a parable of the rich man and Lazarus and they both died as represented, but a parable spoken is never the thing meant they represent two classes of people the rich man clothed in purple and fine linen and fared well. See 16-19 purple represents royalty, linen rep resents purity. God favoured people sons of Abraham v.25.

Lazarus just outside the gate desiring to be fed of the crumbs which fall from the rich man's table and our Lord said to one of this class it is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it to dogs and she said truth Lord yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from the rich man's table representing the gentiles. Now if the Fatherhood of God were true in the sense Rev. Mr. Thomas was representing what can make such a difference for we are Gentiles to whom no promise was given and if our Lord said to the scribes and Pharisee Jno. 8.38-39 I speak that which I have seen with my Father and ye do that which ye have seen with your Father.

V44 ye are of your Father the Devil and the lust of your father ye will do. Mr. Thomas said God is the Father of every one worthy or unworthy Adam was the only Human son of God and He lost his position and forfeited his right to life and all the human family were his seed with no right to life. Abraham was a friend of God. Mosses was faithful in all His house as a servant and all Israel were servants but when Christ came Jno. 1-11-12 He come unto his own, and as many as received Him to them gave he power to become the sons of God, but only a remnant received Him. Matt. 21.43. Acts 13.46 Lo we turn to the Gentiles to take out of them a people for his name. Our Lord Jesus was the second Human Son of God and He gave his life a ransom a corresponding price (GrAntibutron) for the one forfeited, and only those who are begotten of God thro the spirit will become spiritual Sons of God.

1 Jno. 3-1 Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us that we should be called the Sons of God therefore the world knoweth us not because it knew him not. Rom. 8-14 For as many as are led by the spirit of God they are the Sons of God.

And it doth not yet appear what we shall be but we know when he shall appear we shall be like him for we shall see him as he is.

Yours truly,
A Lover of Truth.

R. C. BRAUND

1182 BOXES OF CHEESE SOLD ON THE BOARD TO-DAY

THE PRICE WAS 28 7-16 FOR THE ENTIRE OFFERING.

James Cook, of W. S. Cook and Son, Belleville, bought up the Peterboro Cheese Board at 28 7-16 cents this morning. The board was a small one but there were eight buyers in attendance. The bidding was slow and careful.

The following was the cheese boarded:

	Boxes.
Warminster ..	95
Selwyn ..	96
Villiers ..	100
Warsaw ..	125
Westwood ..	60
Ormonde ..	215
Young's Point ..	90
Lang ..	52
North Dummer ..	50
Stoney Lake ..	30
Norwood ..	194
Killarney ..	75
Total ..	1182

The eight buyers were G. A. Gillespie of the Peterboro Milk Products Co., James Cook of W. S. Cook and Son, Belleville; G. A. Kerr of the James Alexander Co., Montreal; T. Thompson of the A. A. Ayres Co., Montreal; M. Morton of the Lonewell, Christmas Co., Montreal; W. Flavelle of Flavelles Ltd., Lindsay; Wm. Weir of Otonabee for the Ingersoll Packing Co., Ingersoll; H. R. Free of Belleville for the Harris Abattoir, Toronto.

Before the bidding opened H. B. Cowan's Co-operative Co. was discussed and disparaged by the buyers. How the cheesemen were going to benefit after paying freight and handling the cheese puzzled the buyers and the downfall of the scheme was predicted. James Cook, of Belleville, offered 1-4 cent less than the price Mr. Cowan's cheese would bring in Montreal on Friday. As it is stated that factories that ship to Montreal have to pay 3-4 of a cent for freight and handling, Mr. Cook's offer amounted to 1-2 cent more than what they would get in the Montreal market. His offer was acknowledged fair but was not taken up by any factories.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie opened the bidding at 27. M. Morton raised him 1-16. Flavelle bid 27 1-8 and J. Cook went to 27 1-2. The bidding opened merrily then but slowed down when Gillespie bid 28 1-8. Kerr put it up a notch to 28 3-16. Cook bidded another 1-16. Both Cook and Kerr raised to 28 5-16, but Cook was given the bid. The bidding dragged. Flavelle bid 28 3-8 and the board went to Cook for 28 7-16.

The Belleville buyer's offer was accepted by all the factories. The price two weeks ago was 29 3-16 for 569 cheese boarded and 422 went for 29 1-4. On June 18, 1919, 1586 cheese were boarded and brought 30 5-16 cents.

JUNE MEETING 57TH CHAPTTR OF THE I.O.D.E.

MRS. JOHN BRUCE ADDRESSED THE MEETING—A RECEPTION.

The June meeting of the 57th Regiment Chapter I.O.D.E., was held on Tuesday afternoon. A picnic had been planned to close the year's work but the weather proving unfavorable it was held in the officers' quarters in the armouries.

After the usual routine business was concluded, Mrs. John Bruce, the retiring president of the order, addressed the meeting, giving a report of the annual meeting.

Mrs. Bruce drew a comparison between Calgary of ten years ago when she visited it on an organizing tour when the first chapter was formed and the Calgary that she found on this trip—the place of the annual meeting. She then proceeded to give a most interesting account of the various sessions and social activities of the annual meetng, mentioning that Toronto was chosen as the place for the annual meeting next year.

The Report.

The following is a short extract from her report:

"The members returned to their homes, some glad, some sad, but I trust that in the hearts of all was a determination to carry on, and a resolve that the order shall not fail in accomplishing the great work that lies before it in carrying out the aims and objects for which the order is found—to stimulate the spirit of patriotism which binds us round the throne of our gracious and beloved soverign; to supply a bond of union for the women of the Empire; to care for the widows and orphans of soldiers and sailors; to promote unity between the motherland, the sister Dominions, and themselves, and to forward very good work for the betterment of our country and people. There is work for every chapter, for every member of every chapter in doing this. Take courage and go forward and may I say as my last word what I said as my first word to my beloved 'Daughters': 'In addition to one flag, one throne, one empire, let your motto be unity.'"

The Reception.

At the conclusion of the business meeting refreshments were served from very dainty tables, of which huge bouquets formed the central decoration. Few of the members of the chapter present were: Mrs. J. C. Davidson, who received: Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, Mrs. Vincent Eastwood, Mrs. Duncan Walker, Mrs. E. B. Clegg, Mrs. Poole, Mrs. S. Clegg, Mrs. Reginald Hounsell, Mrs. Manson Comstock, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. T. W. H. Young, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, Miss Mabel Collins, Mrs. Rush and Miss Maud Rush, Mrs. E. F. Mason, Mrs. W. E. Merrill, Miss Lillian Rogers, Miss Alberta Meyers, Misses Rubidge, Miss Flora Davidson, Mrs. Holmes, Miss M. Poole and Mrs. C. R. Widdifield.

MUSIC ON THE BOAT

In increasing numbers each summer the Victrola is bought to add pleasure to the summer outing. You hear music on the water and it comes from a portable Victrola that has been installed in the rowboat, canoe or launch. The Victrola Style No. 8 at $76.00 is an instrument that can be well used in this matter, or if need be in the cottage or on the verandah and later in the home. Victrolas in this style, or for that matter any style, are obtainable in the handsome Victrola Parlors of Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter streets, Peterborough.

TO MAKE GOOD A CLAIM A FORTY-EIGHT HOUR TEST IS BEING MADE

The makers of the Barnet Refrigerator claim that a miscellaneous collection of food can be kept in their refrigerator for an indefinite period and all of it will remain as sweet and wholesome as when it went in. In other words it will not taint. To substantiate this they have placed in one of their refrigerators the following: Onions, milk, butter, cheese, turnips, cabbage, lettuce, matches, oranges, grape fruit, salt, cigars, fish, tomatoes, and chocolates.

The refrigerator is in the little George street window of the Cressman Co., Ltd. (the local agents.) It will be locked and sealed by Dr. A. W. MacPherson, the local medical health officer and the key will be in his possession until he opens the refrigerator on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

If you are interested in refrigerators be present on Friday afternoon and Mr. Neilson will explain to you the manifold merits of the Barnet.

IMPORTANT NEW TRAIN SERVICES ARE ANNOUNCED

The unification of the Canadian National and the Grand Trunk Railways will effect some material improvements in the train service concurrently with the summer changes in time tables on 27th June.

One of these changes that will be particularly appreciated is the new fast day service between Toronto and Ottawa. This will be over the Grand Trunk double track line between Toronto and Napanee, thence over the Canadian National between Napanee and Ottawa. The departure time fixed from Toronto is 12 noon, eastern standard time, arriving Ottawa at 7.15 p.m. This train will have connections from practically all points in Western Ontario. It will give a day service to the Capital in many instances where not now enjoyed, and will reduce the time taken en route where day service at present exists, and also reduce it compared with existing night service where there is now no day service. As illustrations: Passengers from London will be able to leave at 8.50 a.m. intead of 5.25 a.m., reaching Ottawa at 7.15 p.m. instead of 6.30 pm. This will save two hours and forty minutes en route, in addition to the much more convenient hour of departure from London. From Stratford, where passengers now leave at 5.30 a.m., they will leave at 8.10 a.m., and save one hour and fifty-five minutes en route. Corresponding savings will be made from Kitchener and Guelph.

From Palmerston, the night journey now takes fourteen hours and fifteen minutes, and there is no day service, whereas the new day service will only take ten hours and fifty minutes, representing a saving en route of three hours and twenty-five minutes. Similar savings will be made from all the important territory to the north and west reached through Palmerston.

Passengers from Toronto will, in addition to the Grand Trunk International Limited, which leaves Toronto daily at 9.15 a.m. and arrives at Montreal 5.45 p.m., have an alternative route via Ottawa, leaving Toronto at 12 noon daily, except Sunday, and arriving at Montreal at 10.50 p.m. A sleeping car will be operated on the connecting train from Ottawa at 7.20 p.m. daily, except Sunday, which will be attached at Montreal to the new night train of the Canadian National, leaving at 11.15 p.m., and reaching Quebec the next morning at 6.30 via the Quebec Bridge. At Quebec connections will be made with the Canada Steamship Lines steamers, leaving Quebec at 8 a.m. for Murray Bay, the Saguenay, etc. This night through sleeping car service from Ottawa to Quebec will be entirely new.

Another feature that will be popular with business men from Montreal is that they will be able to leave on the Grand Trunk night express at 11 p.m. (12 midnight, daylight saving time), arrive in Toronto at 8.30 a.m., daylight saving time, have all morning in Toronto for business, leave at 1 p.m. (12 noon, eastern standard time), take lunch and dinner on the train, and arrive at Montreal 10.50 p.m., thus saving a night's journey on the round trip between Montreal and Toronto.

The new time tables will be issued about 17th June, and the public contemplating trips to Ottawa and beyond from Toronto and Western Ontario, should consult agents or secure the new folders which will enable them to ascertain full details of the many new and attractive features that will be introduced with the changes effective on 27th June, besides those already referred to.

"WE WOULDN'T BE WITHOUT TANLAC"

MRS. McCURDY SAYS IT HELPED HER WHOLE FAMILY BACK TO HEALTH.

"Tanlac has done us all so much good that we look upon it as the family medicine, and I wouldn't be without it in the house on any account," said Mrs. M. C. McCurdy of 140 Stanley avenue, Hamilton, Ont., recently.

"I was in a very run-down condition a little while ago," she continued. "My stomach was so badly out of order, and I had such a very poor appetite I didn't care whether I ate anything or not, yet even a light meal upset me. The food would lie in my stomach like a lump of lead, and cause me severe pains. My head ached at times fit to burst, and I had dreadful spells of dizziness. I fell off in weight until I only weighed a hundred and thirty pounds and always had a dull, heavy and tired feeling, so that the work of the house was too much for me, and I wanted to lie down all the time. My nerves were all on edge and even the slightest noise out of the ordinary would upset and irritate me.

"When I read of how Tanlac was helping so many people I thought I would give it a trial. My appetite improved on the very first bottle, and from then on my general improvement was rapid. I soon found that I could digest whatever I ate and that my food seemed to be doing me good. As a matter of fact I haven't had any stomach trouble since, and have gained fully ten pounds in weight. I now feel strong and energetic, and really never felt better in my life."

"When my husband saw how much good Tanlac was doing for me, he started taking it too, for he was feeling run down at the time, and it helped him quite as much as it did me. The whole family have used it and it agrees with all of us. We think it's a wonderful medicine and there's nothing as good as Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Deninke; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

GARDEN PARTY HELD INDOORS

ONE OUTING WHICH THE WEATHER DID NOT SPOIL.

Even the weather failed to dampen the spirits of the Treasure Seekers' and Gleaners' Bible class of St. James' church last evening and the garden party planned by the members was transformed into a most successful indoor picnic held in the school room of the church. The bright and attractive decorations served very cleverly to dispel any hint at gloomy conditions outside and every one forgot the rain, and the two hundred persons present entered heartily into the good time provided. Previous to serving the dainty refreshments a very pleasing programme was provided, to which Mrs. Barton contributed a heartily encored recitation, Miss Florence Saunders and Miss Annetta Wright a duet which was much appreciated, Mr. Cutmore a solo which, like one rendered by Mrs. E. Kitney, was insistently encoted.

Selections by the South End orchestra contributed largely in making the evening the thorough success it proved to be.

MOTORIST RAN DOWN BICYCLIST ON GEORGE STREET

BOY HAD A NARROW ESCAPE FROM SERIOUS INJURY.

George Hawke, 216 Woodbine avenue, had a narrow escape from death at 1205 to-day, when he was struck by an automobile at the corner of George and Simcoe streets while riding a bicycle and dragged along the pavement with the car for eight feet. Although severely shaken up he receives no serious injuries and with proper rest and care should be around again in ten days, rD. D. C. King, who attended him, said to-day.

The cause arises out of a contravention of that much violated by-law, No. 1685 regarding cutting corners. The car was driven by Walter Kerr, of Myrtle Station, who with three other men, was going to a sale in Otonabee. The car is just a new 490 model. Kerr was driving south on George street and when turning east into Simcoe street cut across the corner by about 20 feet. Hawke was riding his wheel east on Simcoe. At the corner he turned north into George, making the proper turn.

Kerr's car struck him right in front of Payne's drug store, knocking him down and pinning him and his bicycle beneath the front wheels of the car. Kerr was travelling between 15 and 20 miles an hour when he started to turn. As soon as he saw he man on the bicycle he aplied his brakes, but slid about 10 feet before he hit him. Unable to stop he dragged the unfortunate man about eight feet further.

Willing hands lifted the front of the car off Hawke and Dr. Bruce Marshall examined the injured man. He was later taken to Dr. King's residence, where a thorough examination revealed no serious injuries.

The bicycle, which is a new one, got badly smashed up. The rear mudguard, rim, tire and spokes were all jammed up together, while the handle bars are bent and the front mudguard torn. The driver of the car was taken to the police station at once, but this afternon was reelased on $100 bail.

A charge of reckless and negligent driving will probably be laid against him, it was learned at the station.

The motor accidents are becoming a daily feature and cutting the corner is responsible for the great majority of them. Chief Thompson is determined to carry out this by-law to the letter and eliminate the accidents that are all too numerous.

As a result of being the fashion for society people to go into business in England, a son of the Marquis of Ailsa runs an automobile repair shop in London.

BUSY SESSION POLICE COURT

MAGISTRATE DUMBLE IS HOLIDAYING AT THE LAKES,

Magistrate Dumble is up the lakes and in his place to-day sat Vincent Eastwood, J. P., and City Treasurer F. Adams, J.P. They carried out their duties with all the tact and finesse of the Magistrate himself.

Charles Sharp, who resides on the Norwood road, let his cows run at large and it is alleged pastured on William Irwin's grounds. This is contrary to Bylaw No. 206. The accused pleaded guilty and acepted the $5 and $3.10 costs like a hero.

Elmer Liddell, a local man alleviated his thirst too copiously last Saturday night, and George street was annoyed with his presence. $10 and $4.10 costs was the judgment from the Bench this morning.

Conrad Schwerdt was the next prisoner's name. He drives for the Peterboro Bread Co, and John Corbett the manager, charged him with stealing bags and bread valued at $6.

The accused pleaded guilty but requested permission to secure legal advice. The case was remanded till to-morrow.

C. N. Barnes, who ran down Bert Stenton a week ago to-night, was fined $5 and $3.10 costs for cutting the corner where the accident occurred. The accused, via the mail, pleaded guilty, and was willing to pay all the damages, he said.

LINDSAY YOUNG MAN RELEASED FROM JAIL

LINDSAY, June 23.—For the first time in 5 years, in fact for the first time in the history of the Ontario Board of License Commissioners, a prisoner has been released from bond age afer being convicted of a second offence and sentenced to six months imprisonment for a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act. The case referred to is that of a young man who formerly was in business in Lindsay, but who recently moved to Toronto.

Seven weeks ago this young man was found guilty of the above offence by Police Magistrate Bradford. Owing to a splendid fight put up by his local barrister, Mr. L. V. O'Connor, backed by Counsel in Toronto, Mr. Currie, an appeal was taken to the License Board, who after investigating the evidence refused to grant a release. The lawyer then went higher and appealed to the Attorney-General, Hon. Mr. Raney, who after looking into the entire evidence, granted the release of the young man.

Sheriff Vrooman received instructions from the Attorney-General's Department yesterday and the accused was liberated towards evening.

Magistrate's opinion

Police Magistrate Bradford stated to a Warder man this morning that some time ago Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Chairman of he License Board, had communicated with him asking for information regarding the case, as an appeal had been made for leniency accompanied by a largely signed petition. He had forwarded the evidence to the Chairman.

What Attorney-General Said.

Several days ago Magistrate Bradford received a letter from the Attorney-General, Hon. Mr. Raney, in which he stated that he was about to order the release of the prisoner, as the spirit of the law (as far as the was concerned) was to condone crime nor yet severely punish an offender, and he believed that the prisoner had received sufficient punishment to teach him a lesson, and to make him a better citizen in the future

Sir Thomas Lipton, who has never ceased to conspire to the end that one of his unending series of "Shamrocks" should succeed one day in turning trans-Atlantic transport to a large and glorious silver loving cup, spent the earlier days of his business life as a lowly paid clerk in a grocery store in Glasgow. Then he opened a store of his own. His favorite story concerns the days when he opened his first grocery shop in Glasgow and slept under the counter. A customer entered a rival's shop and asked for a pound of butter, "Real or imitation, sir?" "What was it you sold me yesterday?" "That was the real." "Then," retorted the customer, "give me the imitation."

WILL INSPECT THE NORTHERN ROADS

MR. C. H. MEADER, ACCOMPANIED BY LOCAL MEMBERS LEFT THIS AFTERNOON.

Charles H. Meader of the Colonization Roads Department, was in the city to-day and met Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A. and Mr. E. McDonald, M.L.A., with whom he will make an inspection trip over the northern township roads of this county He has been recently over the northern section of Hastings and was in Bantroft, where he obtained the details of the movement for an improved trunk road between that village and Peterborough. Deputy Reeve Wilson of North Monaghan mentioned this proposal at the January session of the County Council and suggested that Peterborough County should support any request that is made to the Department.

Mr. Meader stated this afternoon that the roads between Peterborough and Bancroft are fairly good with the exception of a nine mile stretch west of Bancroft. From his information he believed that if this part of the route were put in good condition the route from Peterborough to Bancroft would be quite satisfactory. However, there are no funds available for the work at present, but Mr. Meader remarked that if a strong deputation took up this question they might succeed in enlisting the Department's assistance. The people of the Bancroft district desire the Peterborough road improvement as a shorter route to Toronto. Improvements are being made south through Hastings township to Madoc and Belleville, which provide a good road to Toronto, but the course is a longer one than the proposed highway through Peterborough county. Mr. Tooms and Mr. McDonald expect to accompany Mr. Meader in his trip until Saturday.

Voice Of The People

June 23, 1920.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Mr. Editor,

I was very sorry to hear that the Utilities Commish it was going to lose a lot of mon about my not paying my electric city bill on the 17th inst. yet. I know it because I have to-day it recd. already a 6 by 9 letter on old kent bond from Mr. Acountnot what says they need the mon by the 25th inst. and that the low rate for the electric city enjoyed by the citizens of Peterborough it is contingent upon every consumer paying his akount promptly and that he looses 10 per cent. by no doing so and we trust not you will kindly co-operate in the future. Now ain't those big words to use to a man what did not pay his bill for 5 days yet. I make the mon but my wife she keep the mon and pay the bill and the baby it has the meazles, so she could not go oudt an pay the bill on the 17th inst. I worked all day on the 17th inst. and the Util Commish it go home early so I can't pay my bill when I get thro work. My wife she say "don't you worry I'll pay the bill on Sat. p.m. wile you min the babe." But I hope Mr. Acountnot he not catch the meazles.

Now Mr. Ed. can you tell me why the Util Commish it is not glad to have me wait and pay after the 17th inst. so it get 10 per cent. more for the electric city and why it not wait two weeks yet until it should sent me the nice printed letter on old kent bond with 2c stamp. Maybe Mr. Acountnot he not busy and want to amuse hisself.—Yours truly,

I. Dohtsy.

AN ELECTRIC FURNACE TRIUMPH

One of the most notable improvements in electric furnaces for heating and melting metals has lately been perfected by a British firm. Many attempts have been made both on the continent and in America to produce a material which would get white-hot under the action of electric current and would yet remain unchanged so that it could be used again and again indefinitely. Long experience in furnace materials, combined with pains-taking research, has enabled this company to produce a substance which can be moulded into any desired form, has a high resistance of electricity, and is for all practical purposes permanent. It is now being used in crucible form for melting brass, in tube form for the "heat treatment" of tools, and in the shape of a bath for other purposes. Large numbers have already been supplied to British metal-working factories.

The Canadian Woollens Executive decided to play the C.G.E. to-night instead of the schedule game of June 26th, owing to their holiday arrangements. Great excitement will prevail at the Oval when the teams get started because if the Electric boys don't pull through with a win, the G.W.V.A. team will have an excellent opportunity to win the league providing they defeat the machine gunners on June 30th.

The Canadian Woollens team is the strongest available and intend putting up a good fight for the points. Sam Calladine, goal; J. Cridland and J. Hillman backs; A. Baron, J. Jackson and A Stiles half-backs; C. Thorpe, H. Jones, J. Chambers, G. Hodson and C. Clarke forwards.

At a meeting of the C G. E. Executive last evening the following players were picked to represent the C. G. E.: J. Naples, goal; B. Mason and J. McDonald backs; A. Parkins, H. Turner and B. Flanders, half-backs; A. Gash, C. Hotson, R. Leach Ed. Bartley and T. Hotson forwards. Reserves—W. Ridley J. Cowie, and B. Mann.

It is not definitely decided who will referee the game although both teams have requested the association for Mr. Alex. McKinley. The kick-off will take place at 6.30 prompt and to play 35 minutes either way.

FREE-KICKS

The Football Association will meet to-night in Mr. Fred Sutcliffe's Barber Shop, Charlotte street, after the C.G.E. and Woollens game at 8.15 prompt

On Thursday evening the Canadian Woollens and De Laval play at the Exhibition Grounds. There will be no collection taken at this game because both teams have received renumeration from the Fair Committee. Father Phelan will kick-off at 6.30 prompt.

Last evening the Comrades continued their success at the expense of the Machine Gunners who were defeated 5 goal to one. Goal scores, M. Dunkley (3), B. Martin (2), Cridland (1).

The D.F.A. has received word that the Corinthians of Old Country are trying to arrange a schedule so as to tour Canada. Will Peterboro be one of the fortunate cities. The Association should get busy.

LACROSSE

All the lacrosse players are requested to attend to-night's practice, beginning at 6.30 o'clock. Saturday's game with Oshawa will be played at Riverside Park at three o'clock, and although Peterborough won from them two weeks ago, the local management are not taking any chances but want every man out to-night. It will also help keep them in condition for the game in Hastings on Dominion Day. Everybody out.

What Is Nuxated Iron?

Physician Explains—Says Public Ought To Know What They Are Taking—Practical Advice on What To Do To Build Up Your Strength, Power and Endurance and Increase the Red Blood Corpuscles.

The fact that Nuxated Iron is today being used by over three million people annually and that so many physicians are prescribing it as a tonic, strength and blood builder in weak, nervous, run-down conditions has led to an investigation of its merits by designated physicians and others whose reports should be of great importance to the public generally. Among these is the statement made by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westchester County Hospital, who says: "When one patient after another began asking my opinion of Nuxated Iron, I resolved to go thoroughly into the subject and find out for myself whether or not it possessed the real value claimed by its manufacturers and attested to by so many prominent people. This is exactly what I believe every honest, conscientious physician should do before prescribing or lending his endorsement to any product whatsoever. If an article is worthless we practitioners ought to be the first to know of it and if it is efficacious we are in duty bound to recommend it for the welfare of our patients. A study of the composition of the Nuxated Iron formula so impressed me with the therapeutic efficacy of the product that I immediately tested it in a number of obstinate cases. So quickly did it increase the strength, energy and endurance of the patients to whom it was administered that I became firmly convinced of its remarkable value as a tonic and blood builder. I have since taken it myself with excellent results. There are thousands of delicate, nervous, run-down folks who need just such a preparation as this but do not know what to take. Therefore I have urgently suggested the widespread publication of the sworn statement of the composition of its formula so that the public may know what they are taking. This complete formula is now to be found in newspapers throughout the country. It is composed principally of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of a special specific standard and glycerophosphates which is one of the most costly tonic ingredients known. To the credit of the manufacturers it may be said that they use the most expensive form of iron peptonate, whereas by employing other makes they could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost and by using metallic iron they could have reduced the cost to less than one-twelfth, but by thus cheapening the product they would undoubtedly have impaired its therapeutic efficacy. In my opinion a careful examination of this formula by any physician or pharmacist should convince him that Nuxated Iron is to be placed among the very highest class and most strictly ethical preparations known to medical science. It exceeds anything I have ever used for building up the system and increasing the red blood corpuscles thereby enriching and fortifying the blood against the ravages of disease.

CRESSMAN'S WON A SIX TO ONE VICTORY OVER WESTCLOX TEAM

WINNING TEAM SCORED FIVE RUNS IN THE FOURTH—FEATURES OF THE GAME.

DeGraw's generosity with free transportation, and timely singled by Whitlow and Hunter, gave Cressmans a 6 to 1 victory over Westclox at the Oval last evening. The big store team now have a scissors-hold on the Commercial League championship with four wins and one loss. Luck was against Westclox in this important game as hero. Wolff was unable to do box duty, compelling the clock-makers to shift the infield. This took DeGraw from first base, moved Walker to the bag, and brought in Sheehy at short.

DeGraw had trouble locating the plate and in the fourth he forced in two of the five runs scored by Cressmans. It was right there the game was won and lost, as Leith Bartley came back strong after his defeat at the hands of Lock Works, and Westclox were in difficulty throughout game in trying to solve his offerings.

Cressmans First to Score.

Bartley opened up against Westclox by fanning Ainslie and Lundy, and then took a short drive from DeGraw. Cressmans' supporters were numerous and they were pulling strong for their team.

DeGraw also started well and Cobb struck out. Rutherford did the same thing, but Prosser dropped the third strike and had to throw him out. Bartley drew a pass and stole. Hunter was walked, DeGraw having difficulty in handling the moist ball. Bartley stole third and when the Westclox heaver unloosened a wild pitch Bartley went home. Long drew four wide ones, after which DeGraw retired the side by fanning Graham.

Quick Work by Pitchers.

For Westclox Prosser and Clark were strike-out victims and Yelland died on a roller to Bartley.

DeGraw recovered himself and only three men faced him. He got Whitlow on strikes, Walker took a liner from Nicholls and Sage fanned.

Ainslie Hits in Run.

In the third, Westclox got a run and evened the score after Sheehy had been thrown out at first by Bartley and Shannan had fanned. Walker drove one at Bartley, the ball being deflected off the pitcher's glove, bounding to Hunter who then had no chance to get the runner. Ainslie hit for two bases, scoring Walker, and making third on the throw-in. The rally was nipped when Sage grabbed Lundy's grounder and nailed him at first.

Cressmans, with a chance to score in their half, had a double play tacked on them. Cobb got a life when DeGraw threw badly to first, and he made second. Rutherford fanned. Cobb slid into third safe. Bartley was passed for the second time. Prosser dropped the third strike on Hunter, but threw him out at first, and Walker returned the ball in time to get Cobb at the plate. It was a neat play and if gave Westclox rooters a chance to roar.

Cressmans' Big Fourth.

In the fourth Westclox got a man at third with only one gone, but the next two batters fanned. Degraw lined out to Rutherford. Prosser beat out a hit to Hunter who was playing deep, and made second when the shortstop threw badly to first. He stole third, and was stranded there as Clark and Yelland were strike-out victims.

Cressmans' half was like an Annex rush. DeGraw lost control of the ball completely after fanning Long. Lundy juggled Graham's grounder, allowing the runner to make first. He reached second on a passed ball, and was hit home by Whitlow, who singled to left. Nicholls dropped one that Lundy could not reach and Sage was passed, filling the bases. The excitement was too much for Cobb and he struck out. Rutherford walked, forcing in Whitlow, and when DeGraw's liberality extended to Bartley, Nicholls walked home. Hunter came along with a single through short, Sage and Rutherford scoring. Degraw finally stopped the opposition by taking Long's roller and throwing him out.

Westclox had a chance in the fifth when, after Sheehy had been disposed of, Rutherford dropped Bartley's throw off Shannan's grounder, allowing the runner the bag. Bartley issued his first pass to Ainslie, after fanning Walker, but nothing developed as Whitlow got under Lundy's fly.

Cressmans went out in a row, Graham the first batter became mixed up with his short fly when the ball reached the ground, and was called out. Whitlow and Nicholls succumbed on grounders.

The sixth saw Westclox retired in order. DeGraw gave Bartley a battle but it ended in a strike-out. Chalmer Nicholls showed some class by grabbing Prosser's fly and Rutherford pulled in a liner from Clark.

It was now almost impossible for the batters to see the ball and after Sage had fanned and Cobb had got on through Sheehy's error and reached third, the game was called.

PLAYERS FAIL TO SHOW UP, SO THE GAME IS OFF

G.W.V.A.-CANADIAN GENERAL FIXTURE CALLED OFF LAST NIGHT.

When the City League players themselves failed to turn up for a scheduled game they cannot very well complain of lack of interest in City League baseball on the part of the fans.

The Great War Veterans and the Canadian General Electric teams were scheduled to play a League fixture at Riverside Park last night. When 6.15 o'clock arrived, the Veterans had eight men on hand, while Frankie Collins was the only C.G.E. representative. Had the G.W.V.A. had one more man present, they would have won the game by default, but the ninth man failed to arrive. Under the circumstances there was nothing to do but postpone game.

No ball player who takes a real interest in the game would act as some of the City Leaguers are doing. It is the duty of players to be on hand for a game, no matter what the conditions are, and although rain was threatening last night, the shower did not materialise, and the ground conditions were good. Umpires Kay and Lebarr and the other officials were there ready for the game, but the players took it upon themselves to decide that there would not be a contest. They cannot blame the fans for staying away when the players do not show enough interest to be on hand.

SECOND ANNUAL PEACE DAY REGATTA ON SATURDAY, JULY 17

THE MANAGING COMMITTEE HOPE TO EXCEED LAST YEAR'S SUCCESS AND APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC FOR PRIZES—SEVENTEEN EVENTS WILL COMPRISE A BIG AFTERNOON OF AQUATIC SPORTS.

The second annual Peace Day Regatta will be held off Rye's Boathouse at the foot of Lock Street, on Saturday afternoon, 17th July, commencing at 1.30 o'clock. A programme of seventeen events has already been decided upon by the following committee of management, who hope to surpass the success of last year's revival in aquatic sports in thi city:

Chairman—H. Kelsey.

Secretary-treasurer—H. B. Rye.

Executive—John H. Renwick, Douglas Loomis, N. Patterson, C. Burgoine, E. J. Brown, Walter Evans, A. Brown, Frank Allen, and Ben. Moore.

Appeal for Support.

In announcing this year's Regatta, the committee has issued the following statement:

"At the last meeting of the Regatta Committee, it was decided to ask those citizens who are interested in the promotion of aquatic sports in Peterborough to contribute small prizes. It was also suggested that the Board of Trade and those who are interested in the promotion of the Trent Canal waterway be asked to help make the Regatta a success. The committee have no funds, and are not holding this Regatta with any idea of making money, but are simply endeavouring to revive aquatic sports in this city. It seems a pity that Peterborough, the home of the Peterborough canoe, and with such a splendid water course, should have no Regatta. Some years ago there used to be a rowing club here. Then there were regattas.

"The young people are surely going to drift to the water sooner or later, and it would be as well that they were able to handle a canoe properly. There are many who take a canoe out and manage to get down the river and back safely, but they are not paddlers or canoeists in any sense of the word. Let us then revive the competitive spirit in the boys and girls and young men and women for their own benefit and for the encouragement of aquatic sports. In order to become competitors in regattas, they must become efficient canoeists."

Hope for Voluntary Gifts.

The success of the Regatta this year will largely depend upon the prizes that are offered. To obtain a suitable list for the seventeen events, the committee hopes to avoid direct appeals to the public, from whom generous co-operation is expected. Accordingly, voluntary contributions are requested, and contributions may be left with any member of the committee or with the secretary, Mr. H. B. Rye. It is hoped that a full complement of prizes will be received as soon as possible to facilitate the completion of the arrangements.

The promoters feel confident that the Regatta can be developed into an important annual event in Peterborough, and in soliciting assistance they ask that it be given as soon as possible.

The Events.

Men's Races—

1—Single canoe.
2—Double canoe.
3—Skiff (double).
4—Crab race.
5—Swimming

For Women—

TROPHY GIVEN FOR RIFLE SHOOTING

DOMINION RIFLE ASSOCIATION RECIPIENT FROM W. C. MACDONALD, REG., INC.

MONTREAL, June 23.—A challenge trophy was presented yesterday by W. C. Macdonald, Registered, Incorporated, for rifle competitions in Canada, the prize being accompanied by permanent cash additions to be paid by the company. The challenge trophy is the "Brier" shield, which will be presented to the Dominion Rifle Association, and which is now in course of making here.

This is a sterling silver shield, mounted on a mahogany base, the shield being about two feet high and eighteen inches wide, of decidedly beautiful design, and embossed with rifle competition scenes in heavy relief. It will be a permanent challenge trophy for the Dominion Rifle Association, with a suitable inscription bearing the name of the donors and the date 1920, the whole being surrounded by a wreath along the edges, one side maple leaves and the other laurels, while at the base are two rifles crossed behind a target, while at the top is a scroll, "Macdonald's Brier Shield."

The shield, which is valued at $500, will be open for competition as an annual challenge trophy, to be competed for at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association annual prize meetings at Ottawa, open to all members of the D.C.R.A., and will be held each year in charge of the officer commanding the winning team.

Provision has been made by the D.C.R.A. that each team competing for the trophy shall consist of eight men from any rifle association, to be competed for, ten shots at 300 and 10 shots at 600 yards.

In addition to the shield to the winning team, the Macdonald Reg., Inc., will each year donate $1,000, to be divided in prizes among the 182 best competitors, with five team prizes. The team prizes will run from $36 down, while the individual scorers down to $4 for the lower prize winners.

$500 Yearly For P.Q.R.A.

Besides this callenge trophy and series of cash prizes for the D.C.R.A., the W. C. Macdonald, Registered, Inc., have donated to the Province of Quebec Rifle Association an annual subscription of $500, to be shot for annually at their prize meetings at the Pointe aux Trembles ranges, to be known as "Macdonald's Brier Match." To this the P.Q.R.A. has decided to add $75 annually as team prizes.

The "Macdonald's Brier Match" will be shot for annually, with ten shots each at 300 and 10 shots at 600 yards, these matches to be open to all members of the P.Q.R.A.

In recognition of these handsome donations from the W. C. Macdonald, Registered, Incorporated, the councils of the Dominion and Province of Quebec Rifle Associations have sent letters expressing their warm gratitude to the company.

MOST AMERICANS HOPE LIPTON WINS

APPRECIATE HIS SPORTMANSHIP AND PERSEVERANCE.

Now that the pair of Shamrocks, the Nicholson designed Shamrock IV., which is to contend for the cup, and the Fife designed twenty-three-metre Shamrock, the trial horse, are engaged in their daily trial contests off Sandy Hook, and the pair of cup defense candidates, Vanitie and Resolute, have practically completed their series of trials off the Brenton Reef course at Newport, public interest in the forthcoming America's Cup races has acquired a sudden impetus which closely resembles that which was manifested in previous contests.

There can be no denying the fact that a majority of the people who are at all interested in the event hope and expect that Sir Thomas will win. This is not due to any lack of patriotism, but rather is appreciation of his perseverance and sportsmanship.

Another reason why many of those who are closely identified with the sport would not consider it any great calamity were the cup to go across the pond, after having remained here for seventy years, is that they believe it would awaken American yachtsmen from the state of lethargy they are now in and thereby materially benefit the sport, for it is not to be assumed that we would permit that emblem of marine racing supremacy to remain abroad very long without making strenuous and probably successful attempts to bring it back to these shores.

There are many who believe the America's Cup contests have become too restricted in the good they accomplish and that, were it necessary for Americans to go overseas for the cup, much talent might be developed in the design of new craft-talent which has had little opportunity thus far. It does not seem probable that all the naval architectural ability in this country is confined to any one man or even a few men.

It seems safe to assume, that, were the cup to be lifted this year, there might be many who would covet the honor of bringing it back, and that in itself would or should result in numerous craft being designed and built. Yacht racing on Long Island Sound and in Massachusetts has developed many unusually speedy boats from the boards of numerous naval architects, and it seems possible that some of these might be developed into larger craft of the kind suitable for cup contention honors.

There has been considerable quiet comment of late to the effect that, in the event of such a thing happening as our losing the cup, we might challenge with a schooner. There are many advantages to such a proposition, which would be made the more attractive were certain other conditions agreed to which might tend to result in sturdier, longer lived and more serviceable craft than the mere racing machines which are to contend for and defend the cup this year.—N. MOTOR ACTIVITIES AROUND THE WORLD

Street traffic semaphores are to be adopted in Toronto, Canada.

In Tokio, Japan, more than $250,000 has been spent for motor fire engines.

The price of motor cars in England has increased two and one-half times since before the war.

Claimed to be the largest in the world, Akron, Ohio, has a garage to accommodate 3,500 automobiles.

There were 1,496,652 open passenger automobiles manufactured in the United States last year. Closed cars totalled 161,000.

Natives of West Africa become full-fledged chauffeurs within three or four weeks from the time they see their first motor vehicle.

It is estimated that the United States is now using more crude petroleum each month than the whole world used in the entire year of 1885.

Motorists are paying more for gasoline in New York City than in any other part of the United States. The restail price is 37 cents a gallon.

Against an increase of 138 per cent. in the price of commodities, the average price of automobiles has increased less than 50 per cent. since 1916.

Henry S. Peter, of Kankakee, Ill., laid claim to the world's record for a "kicking flivver", which has broken one arm each of four persons while cranking the car in less than three days.

A motor truck designed with special equipment has brought a new era in which ice cream is delivered and frozen at the same time. The five-ton trucks are operated by a sanitary milk company in New York City.

By removing the armor and all the fighting apparatus from motor tanks, the French have found these war machines valuable in mountain climbing for tourists. A carriage super-structure is capable of carrying from ten to twenty passengers.

London, Ontario, is the first city in the world to install an electrical system by which the radiator of a motor car may be kept warm while it is standing in freezing weather. At convenient poles along the thoroughfares an electric current is obtained by paying an annual fee.

ONE GREAT ESSENTIAL TO A WOMAN'S HEALTH IS HER NERVES

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy as the day is long, instead of being sick and wretched. But how can any woman be healthy and happy when the whole nervous system is unstrung. The trouble is they pay more attention to their social and household duties than they do to their health Is it any wonder then that they become irritable and nervous, have hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells, become weak and nervous, and everything in life becomes dark and gloomy.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the very remedy that nervous, tired-out, weary women need to restore them to the blessings of good health.

Mrs. P. H. Ryan, Sand Point, N.S., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles. I was so weak and nervous I could not sleep at night and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling. I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I began to feel better and kept on until I had used six boxes when I felt like a different person. I am never without them in the house and recommend them to all who suffer with their nerves."

TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY BILLS CONSIDERED BY THE ONTARIO HOUSE IN LAST SIX WEEKS

ESTIMATES ARE INCREASED AND NEW TAXES IMPOSED—INTERESTING SUMMARY OF THE ACTIVITIES OF THE FARMER-LABOUR COALITION.

(The Monetary Times.)

Ontario has been the first province of Canada to be governed by a farmer-labor coalition. The session completed on May 28 was in fact the first occasion on which either of these parties had an opportunity to play a leading part in Canadian politics. The bringing in of no really drastic legislation and the willingness to compromise on objectionable features put Premier Drury and his Cabinet over the rough places. Coming from a movement which has cried for economy and for legislation against what they have called the "interests" the legislation passed at the recent session cannot be defined as having gone as far as some would have hoped and others would have feared. However, it is not in legislation that a government practices economy and the province has still to wait to see if the government can carry on its policy with the rigorous expenditure cutting promised.

There has been no cutting down of the estimates. There have been measures to increase the revenue considerably. The next budget will tell the story of the success of the farmer-labor legislators. During this session it has carried on in much the same manner as previous party administrations. Financially the government has added a few burdens. Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, in his estimates for the year figures out an expenditure of $17,941,557.15. Besides this the two great commissions, the Hydro and T. and N.O., will spend according to estimates $17,257,000 and $18,314,772 respectively. Such according to estimated figures is the burden of the province for the year. The commissions, of course, are responsible how they spend their money and Hon. Mr. Smith has little to do with it.

Much New Taxation Imposed.

Besides the ordinary sources of revenue Hon. Mr. Smith has made some amendments increasing taxation and put on some new ones. The greatest feature of his budget was the placing of bigger tax on race tracks. The original amount set out was $10,000 on mile tracks and $5,000 on half mile track. Here the government compromised with the result that the tax was reduced to $7,500 on mile tracks and $2,500 on half mile tracks. From that source the provincial treasurer hopes to get $800,000 revenue and $150,000 from the amusement tax at race courses.

An amendment to the corporation tax act increases the tax on banks 100 per cent. The tax was previously $1,500 on each head office and $50 on each branch. Insurance companies are also taxed differently according to amendments to the act. Hereafter there will be a tax of 1½ per cent. on the gross premium income on life insurance and one per cent. on other lines of insurance. There is no tax on dividends to policyholders.

There is also an increase on stock transfer stamps. Formerly the stamp was two cents on share at par value. This is now increased to three cents. The amusement tax was widened to include cabarets, etc.

Heavier Succession Duties.

Heavy increases were made in the succession duty levies. These range from 15 to 60 per cent. The extreme rate is on estates that pass on to distant relatives or persons no relation to the deceased. Only small increases are made where the estate is small. Where the estate exceeds $25,000 and does not exceed $50,000 and goes to wife, husband, children, parents and tax remains at one per cent. On estates from $50,000 up to $150,000 the old rates are increased one-half of one per cent. Thence the tax increase one-half per cent. with each additional $100,000. Ten per cent. is collected on estates of over $1,000,000. In each case if it goes to one person the tax is heavier or if it passes to a non-relative. It is believed that the new rate will almost double the income from these taxes. It will not show much on the current year as estates have 18 months in which to pay.

These are practically all the measures passed to increase the revenue. By more careful handling the government hopes to increase the revenue from the Forests and Lands Department and the Mines Department which by act at this session was separated from the Lands. A Royal Commission is at work investigating forests and lands now and an inquiry will be made into the mines department. From the report on these the government hopes to get more return to the people from the natural resources of the north country. The intention is to arrange this so that the money coming out of it to the province will in no way hinder development by the timber men and the miners.

Additional Expenditure.

As to increasing expenditure two acts were put on the statute books which at a general glance will cost the province money. One is the superannuation bill passed despite opposition from the United Farmers of Ontario, the parent body of the present government. The civil servants will pay into the superannuation fund half of the total but there are 110 servants ready for immediate superannuation for whom the province must provide the full superannuation. The government considers many of these still capable of service. Others will not be replaced. So the general cost will not be much.

Another bill which adds to the general cost will be mothers' pensions. There is an estimate for $250,000 for this purpose which will probably be enough for the first year. This bill provides pensions for widows with two or more children and also for wives whose husbands are in the hospitals for the insane. The municipalities pay part of the pensions.

This act was the product of the Labor party, which during the session has been more moderate than was expected it would be. The legislation brought in by them is not new to the Dominion, every act being brought having a similar one in force in some other province. Hon. Walter Rollo said that Ontario was "20 years behind the other provinces in this kind of legislation" and he thought the few bills being introduced would bring Ontario "more into line."

The Labor Legislation.

Chief among the labor legislation was the bill amending the Workmen's Compensation Act. The two main provisions in it were the increasing of the maximum of compensation from 55 to 66 2-3 per cent. and the giving of full compensation to those earning $12 a week and less. Other amendments with retroactive features and the pooling of funds from schedule two industries with those of schedule one industries were taken out when opposition developed.

The legislature also submitted itself to the principle of a minimum wage set by the state. The act passed this session applies only to women other than domestics and farm laborers. There is no amount set in the act itself for women workers but a board of five of whom two will be women is given wide powers of investigation and may set the mimimum wage to be paid to the women who apply for a board of settlement.

Another important bill in the general run was that providing local option in municipal taxation. If municipal councils to desire they may have the ratepayers vote on a bylaw for the exemption of a proportion of improvements from assessment. By continuing this proposition year by year the municipality may in time wipe out all the assessment on improvements. Not more than 20 per cent. may be taken off in one year. The property qualification for those running for municipal office was also abolished by an act passing the House.

Elections and Prohibition.

A general elections bill minus the fixed election date which met with much opposition was also passed. It puts the preparation of privincial voters' lists in the hands of the municipalities. The government also prepared the way to a bone dry Ontario by passing a resolution calling for a referendum on the question of liquor importation and passing an act stopping the carrying of liquor within the province except from private home to private home. This act becomes effective only if the province votes to stop importation. Much criticism was made of the cost of enforcing the Ontario Temperance Act. The estimated cost this year is $250,000. The government was sufficiently impressed with the criticism to appoint a large committee to investigate fully the working and cost of the act.

The minister of agriculture hopes to get good results from his bill by which the Government may provide loans up to $3,000 for incorporated co-operative societies for the storage and cleaning of seed grain and potatoes. He also got a bill through providing for the purchase of cream by test.

The chief interest of the industrial world in the education legislation is in the act providing for the establishment of technical schools throughout the province. These are more particularly related to certain industries such as textile manufacturers in which the industry will pay half with the government for the school.

Borrowing and the Interest Rate.

Heretofore the interest on provincial debentures was limited to six per cent. Hereafter the interest rate will be set by the government. The government got the usual legislation to borrow ten millions for emergencies in public service, public works, etc.

The House also passed a bill providing for the extension of the T. and N. O. to James Bay. The premier, however, made it quite plain that no immediate construction was contemplated. Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works, got through all the necessary legislation for his ambitious program of highways. Practically the entire system of 1,800 miles of highways is designated. Besides that, he provides for assistance to counties and townships. There is a tendency on the part of the government to delay public buildings until the cost of material comes down.

About 260 measures were considered by the legislature, most of them being private bills. In experience in parliamentary procedure delayed legislation somewhat. But the 12 weeks occupied is not a record. There were longer sessions in old party days.

DESCRIBE PROPER WAY TO INSPECT INNER TUBE

Haste in replacing punctured or blown out tubes is responsible for a multitude of these sins. The right way to place a tube into a casing is to first partly inflate it. Then it should be applied carefully, the side bearing the stem always being kept in sight. When it is in the casing it should be "talced" carefully and the fingers forced all around the tire to make sure the talc has been evenly distributed. A tube never should be inserted unless partially inflated.

In pumping a tube before insertion most motorists allow it to rest on the ground or on the floor of garage. This practice is wrong. It allows the tube to pick up particles of sand, cinders and oil which create friction and eventually tiny holes.

The right way is to place the tube over the left shoulder and pump with the right hand. Thus no portion of the tube will be allowed to touch the road or pavement. When tube is well rounded with air and free from wrinkles it is ready for insertion in the casing, and then should be pumped to the prescribed pressure.

Why Do People Take Monkey Glands?

Rejuvenation, both physically and mental, can be acquired, much easier and more pleasantly than by taking or eating the glands from monkeys. The French have invented a Medicine, in tablet form, that does away with all other means of rejuvenation. These Tablets are now universally sold throughout Canada, and are known as VITAL Tablets. They supply the necessary Vigor and Youth. There is no need to import chimpanzees from Africa, to take their glands to inject into people. Why go to all this trouble, and expense, when VITAL Tablets can now be procured right in your own town from your drug store? VITAL Tablets taken for a short period, disease of every description, old age with all its aches and pains, will be a thing of the past. Young men and women with their pale faces, thin blood, impure blood, blotches on the skin, run down, worn out, tired people, can be placed in a state of good health, with pure blood, strong nerves, a strong stomach, a healthy body, full of youth and vigor. BAGDAD ANTIQUE RUGS ARE MADE AMID FILTH

How "genuine antique rugs" are manufactured and prepared for European markets and American markets is told by an American who visited Bagdad. The shopping streets seem like tunnels. They are arched overhead with brick to keep out the heat; thus they run, like subways, up and down the bazaar quarter. Through those long, stifling, faintly lighted tunnels throng the eternal crowd of men, mules and camels. Often one will see a fine rug lying flat in the filth of a narrow street, ground beneath the tramp of men and beasts; but there is a method in this: Foreigners make Oriental rugs bright and new in Persia and sell them through Bagdad. Since an "old rug" is worth more, wily brokers have hit on this way to make a new rug look old.

SPEAKERS INCLUDED SEVERAL MEMBERS OF THE PROVINCIAL HOUSE—OMEMEE NEWS OF INTEREST.

OMEMEE, June 23.— A most successful picnic was held by Omemee Farmers' Club in Magee's grove on Thursday afternoon. The affair was attended by over 500 people, and the committe in charge are to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which they were carried out. The day was a delightful one for an outing of this nature. Young and old joined together in a good old-time picnic, and joy reigned supreme during the afternoon, and also on into the night.

Two booths were on the grounds and they did a thriving business in ice cream. They were in charge of a number of ladies and gentlemen who were untiring in their attention to the needs of the picnicers.

The Addresses.

The gathering was honored with the presence of Hon. Mr. Nixon, Provincial Secretary, Mr. Staples, M.P.P. Durham, and Mr. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P. for South Victoria.

During the afternoon the people gathered around the platform and listened to some really excellent addresses. Mr. C. E. Mitchell, the energetic president of the Omemee Farmers' Club, presided most acceptably. Seated with him on the platform were Hon. Mr. Nixon, provincial secretary, Messrs. Staples, M.P.P., F. G. Sandy, M.P.P., J. C. McNevin, President of Victoria County U.F.O., M. J. Hogan, secretary Victoria County U.F.O.

Hon. Mr. Nixon was the first speaker and was accorded an enthusiastic reception. He is the youngest member of the Cabinet and is a most pleasing speaker. He gave a most interesting history of the growth of the U.F.O. movement and its accomplishments, and followed this up by a review of the beneficient and progressive legislation passed by the Drury government in its first session

U.F.O. Activities.

Mr. Staples, M.P.P. Durham county, received a very flatering reception, and in a neat speech referred to the activities of the U.F.O. and what had been accomplished by the Drury government in the interests of the people as a whole.

Mr. F. G. Sandy, M.P.P., was warmly received He was right at home among his closest friends, whom he thanked for their co-operation and support. He referred to the great good which these gatherings accomplished, and afterwards referred to the first session of the Legislature recently closed. A great deal of legislation of a far reaching character had been passed. There was still a great deal to be done towards improving conditions on the farm and in the city along social and educational lines. The temperance leigslation was referred to, and the fact was emphasized that the government was sincere in its desire to carry out the expressed will of the people in this respect.

Public Issues.

Mr. J. C. McNevin, the candidate of the National Progressive Party for Victoria and Haliburton for the Federal House, was also warmly welcomed. He spoke of the pleasure it afforded him to greet the people and appreciated the co-operation extended him as county U.F.O. president. He asked for the same co-operation and support as candidate for the Federal House. Tributes were paid Hon. Mr. Nixon of the Drury government by the speaker, who pointed out that the fight in the Federal arena would be between the big interests and the common people, whom they would try to divide. Another big question was taxation and the tariff. It was argued that Canada's war debt was to be paid from the top six inches of the soil, yet in face of this the government places 27 1-2 percentage on tile drainage machinery, so that there is a $1,000 duty on this machinery coming into Canada, which is a handicap on the agriculturist. Taxation must be equalized said Mr. McNevin. A heavy burden was being placed on the farmer and laborer. They had never shirked their duty in meeting their obligations. The returned men should not have to bear an excessive taxation burden. It was not fair to them in view of the sacrifices they had made. Mr. McNevin felt that the farmers' platform had not been sufficiently analyzed by many. They were opposed to special privileges and aimed to de elop the natural industries. The future of Canada was in the hands of the people. In his campaign as the candidate of the Progressive Party, Mr. McNevin asked the people to speak of him as they knew him.

A Baseball Game.

While the speech-making was in progress a baseball tournament was being pulled off in a field adjoining the grove. The shouts of the fans could be heard many miles around and there was something doing all the time. The Mt. Pleasant team in its orange and green uniforms took on Reaboro in the opening game and a royal battle was staged. The game was featured by big swatting and wretched fielding, due to the condition of the field. Mt. Pleasant were the victors by the score of 14-13.

The winners then bumped up against Omemee and the slaughter was terrible. The ball was swatted all over the lot by the Mount Pleasant braves, who took particular delight in negotiating with the slants dished up by the Omemee southpaw. The class of ball was not of the big league brand, but it had the fans going at all stages in uproarious rooting. When the official scorer completed his arduous duties it was found that Mount Pleasant had scored 26 runs to Omemee's 3.

Super was the next item and the merry picnicers spread their table covers and were soon enjoying the contents of well filled baskets. Those who desired could obtain supper at the booth, in charge of a number of ladies, where excellent meals were served. After supper the dancing platform was the scene of activity. Lovers of the light fantastic enjoyed themselves for several hours—excellent music being supplied by the Omemee orchestra.

Special Services.

On Sunday morning the Rev. Major Birch of Toronto, occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church and delivered a very interesting address. Major Birch has served overseas and is now connected with the soldiers' civil re-establishment ,along which he mostly directed his thoughts.

In the evening the Masonic brethren of Lorne Lodge, Omemee, where Major Birch again addressed an exceptionally large congregation. The choir rendered a very pretty anthem, Mrs. Mitchell and Mr. Mackey taking the solos. After the services the Masonic brethren marched back to their lodge rooms, where a vote of thanks was tendered to Major Birch, also a small contribution given him in appreciation of his services.

SUGAR BEETS PROMISE AN EXTRA HEAVY CROP

Recent Rains Add many Dollars to Wealth of Lambton Farmers.

PEROLEA, Ont. — The recent heavy rains have been the means of adding many dollars worth of wealth to the Lambton farmers. The rain came in time to help the fall wheat, which is now just nicely out in head. The spring grain has not suffered up to date for rain. The present heavy fall will insure a bumper spring grain crop.

Sugar beets promise a heavy crop. It is evident from the appearance of the fields that from 70 to 100 per cent. germination of seed has been secured. The flax crop would have been very short in fibre, but it is thought that the rain will now insure a fair average crop of flax

What Prominent Ontario Women Say

Tillsonburg, Ont.:—"I found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription very beneficial during expectancy. I felt quite poorly, was nauseated and sick, could not eat anything and I was extremely nervous and weak. I took 'Favorite Prescription' and it soon stopped the nausea, my appetite returned, also my strength and I was soon feeling fine and strong. My baby was strong and healthy and has always been so. I consider 'Favorite Prescription' a great help to the expectant mother and am glad to recommend it."—MRS. AMOS MILLS, Box 238.

A HAMILTON WITNESS

Hamilton, Ont.:—"A few months ago I was stricken down and was confined to bed about ten days. My strength all left me. It was my first illness since a child. I lost five pounds and felt awfully weak afterward. I could hardly do my work. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in tablet form. I tried a couple of bottles and before I knew it, I was well and strong and had gained 9½ pounds. I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to build one 'up.'—MRS. E. MARTIN, 397 Dundurn St.

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

MAXWELL

Extra Fine in Metals
Extra Fine in Mileage

More miles per gallon
More miles on tires

A Maxwell car weighs 2130 pounds. It is made of the finest materials that may be obtained.

You cannot find in any car a better crankshaft, better bearings, better axles or better gears.

Do you know why such fine materials are used in a car like Maxwell?

We had to.

Keeping its weight down and yet maintaining strength mean the use of only those extra fine steels and metals.

For a metal that is light in weight and yet strong, as any user of metals knows, is a high priced metal.

The use of these fine grades of steel has been the foundation of the business. Maxwell has grown in numbers and friends. The latter countless; the former well on the road to 400,000.

LOCAL S. A. BAND WENT TO KEENE

Fourteen members of the Salvation Army Band supplied the music at the entertainment held last evening in the Curling Rink at Keene, and over one hundred people from Peterborough motored down to attend the event, which was one of the greatest successes in years.

Dainty refreshments were served, and the three hundred present, who represented the entire countryside for miles about the village, had a thoroughly enjoyable time, and were particularly impressed by the splendid music supplied by the Army Band.

SIX BAGS OF SUGAR STOLEN FROM CAR

LINDSAY, June 23. — Medland Bros., wholesale grocers, have been defrauded out of $127.56, being the list price for 6 bags of granulated sugar at $21.29 per bag.

Six bags of the precious pulverized goods were stolen from a car on the Grand Trunk siding last night, while 55 bags were left unmolested.

It appears that Medland Bros. unloaded a car of sugar yesterday and at 6 o'clock sealed the door on the remaining 6 bags. This morning the discovery was made that some party had entered the car and pilfered 6 bags. The sugar was apparently then loaded in an auto or truck. The police are working on the case.

Londonderry City Still Invaded By Fighting Factions

SEVERAL MORE CASUALTIES ARE ADDED TO THE LIST—HUNDREDS ARE LEAVING THE STRICKEN CITY FOR THE SOUTH.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDONDERRY, June 24.—Terror held sway here yesterday and last night rifle and machine gun fire was sweeping the streets in the fiercest fighting to develop thus far in the civil war, which began last Friday between Unionist and Nationalist forces. The number killed and injured during the day had not been determined as it has been impossible to reach the scene of veritable pitched battles' in Bishop, Cross and Bond streets. It is believed, however, that there were scores of victims. The hospitals are being taxed to their capacity in caring for those struck down by bullets fired by opposing factions. Men engaged in actual fighting are extremists of contending factions and probably number only a few hundred. They absolutely terrorized the city yesterday, however, as they fired volleys down the streets from barricades or posted on roofs or in windows, shot at almost every one who dared to appear. Coinsiderable machine gun firing took place. Londonderry is facing starvation if the fighting continues. There is danger, too ,of a failure in the gas supply. Hundreds of people have left the city for the south.

Troops Arrive.

More British troops have arrived in the city and their greater activity in efforts to protect life and property has had a quieting effect. Only occasional shots were heard after midnight and two snipers have been arrested by soldiers.

Two more deaths have occurred, bringing total number of known dead up to eleven. A woman named Mills was killed last night while standing in her own door and William Rankin succumbed to injuries inflicted by Sinn Fein snipers. Besides actually attacking Sinn Feiners with armored cars and machine guns, the troops have done much rescue work. When it was reported last night that Sinn Feiners were about to attack a cluster of houses, armoured cars were rushed to the scene and troops removed terrified women and children to another section of the town. Armed men are also guarding the gas works.

Gas Supply Ceased.

A ide from occasional shots by a sniper there was no firing up to early this afternoon. Portions of the outlying districts are being patrolled by Ulster volunteers while Nationalist volunteers are guarding thier sections. Many additional wounded reached the hospital during the night. Gas supply ceased at five o'clock this morning and the inhabitants in some sections are left in a serious plight with out fuel, light or bread.

Offered a Bribe

W. E. BURNABY ACCUSES CONSERVATIVE OF ATTEMPTED BRIBERY.

Special to Examiner.

TORONTO, June 24. — The man who offered a bribe of $1000 a year to secure the post of purchasing agent to the Ontario Government is a well known Conservative who lives in Toronto. So said Mr. R. W. E. Burnaby, president of the United Farmers of Ontario, when telephoned at his home in Jefferson to-day.

"Do you think it was a plot to 'get something' on the United Farmers Government?" inquired the Examiner reporter.

"It would certainly seem that way at least," said Mr. Burnaby. "In any case they did not gain anything, as I not only told him that I would not help him but that I would see that he did not get the job, and he has not got it."

Federal agents in cities throughout the Unitel States are now engaged in rounding up the men indicted. They are charged with having made gross misrepresentations regarding oil properties, and with paying dividends out of money obtained from the sale of stock.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is is that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. We have helped a large number of children. See W. H. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George street.

THE AWARD IS REFUSED

EMPLOYEES OF THE GRAND TRUNK HELD MEETING IN MONTREAL LAST EVENING.

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, June 24.—At a meeting of the local division of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, held last evening, to which all Grand Trunk employees in Montreal were invited, about 900 attending, it was decided to reject the report of the majority award regarding the wages of office employees.

Addresses were made by W. M. MacPherson, Toronto, organiser of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, and E. Robinson, Ottawa, of the same Brotherhood, with regard to the presentation of the wages schedule by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, and the general conditions which had led to the demand for better pay and working conditions.

Following this, a general discussion took place, in which Vice-President Adam Hay, Ottawa, of the International Brotherhood of Railroad Clerks, expressed the opinion that the Canadian Union movement should await action by the American Railway Board before formulating demands for the Canadian employees.

This met with strong expressions of dissent, and was immediately voted down. Immediately after the general discussion, the local division of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees went into executive session, and by an overwhelming vote decided to reject the majority award of the Conciliation Board as inadequate.

It was stated that a vote will now be taken from the employees of the whole Grand Trunk system as to whether or not they will accept the majority award. This vote will be taken by mail and sent to the headquarters at, Ottawa, following which further action will be taken, it being expected that the vote will oppose the acceptance of the majority report.

MR. FRED ROY HAS SECURED BUILDING

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN HISTORY OF ROY STUDIO

A real estate turnover of considerable interest to Peterborough, marking as it does the growth and progress of a local establishment, is the recent purchase of the building, the upper floors of which they occupy at present, by Fred Roy from the National Trust Co., Toronto, executors of the will of the late Aaron Cox.

Negotiations have been going on for some time for its purchase, but have only been completed. The Roy studio has expanded with the city. New features have been added from time to time, making for better service, until to-day the studio is known throughout this district as the oldest and one of the foremost studios. The purchase of this building is a fitting culmination to the House of Roy's quarter century in business.

In the first floor of this building Miss Darnley's millinery shop and Jack Primeau's Fashion Craft shop is located. Mr. Roy stated that he did not entemplate making any changes to the building at present.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

A Truthful Story of Married Life in New York Society Circles.

Commencing on Saturday of this week, "Virtuous Wives" one of the greatest novels of later day, and one which reverberates with the spirit of the present age, will appear in The Examiner as a serial. The heroine of the story, which is by Owen Johnson—Amy Forrester, is the young wife of a New York business man, and is possessed of beauty, wealth, sensibility, and at first, ideals, but the growing need of mental excitement and emotional stimulus which her life of idle luxury creates, leads her farther and farther into a world where the one aim is to seek amusement. Little by little her sensibilities are dulled, her ideals fade and vanish, and it needs the shock of tragedy to open her eyes to her own real status and that of her friends, "Virtuous Wives" though they deem themselves.

DROP IN PRICE OF SHOES MAY COME

MONTREAL, June 24.—That shoes are bound to be lower in price was the opinion expressed by several local manufacturers. Cheaper hides must have an effect it was said, though the finer grades of leather have not yet decreased in price to an appreciable extent. It is expected however, that there will be a reduction in imported hides following the sensational drop in calf skins but as regards this there is great variance of opinion.

The effect of decreased cost of production, however, would not be felt for some time, said one man, how long is a matter of conjecture since any sudden drop would result in serious loss both to the manufacturer, who has bought his material at high prices, and to the retailer who has purchased his stock at a corresponding figure.

Prices have been cut in New England, but the reduction, it is claimed, was caused by the selling of the manufacturers' overstock direct to the consumer for less than the shoes cost It is unlikely tha such an event would occur here, though there is some fear that American goods may be dumped on the market.

GARDEN PARTY

The garden Fete held on the spacious lawn of Dr. N. H. Sutton, Park street, last evening under the auspices of All Saints' Women's Guild was a decided success.

Fears were entertained in the beginning of the wek due to the inclemency of the weather but Wednesday proved an ideal day for a garden fete. In the afternoon tea was served by the ladies and an enjoyable time was spent. In the evening various entertainment was provided. The fish-pond proved to be a good drawing card. The young people made use of the large tennis courts, which are used by the young people of Trinity Church. A short programme was rendered consisting of some of the city's best talent Dr. Sutton made a very capable chairman. The programme was as follows:

Instrumental Duet—Misses Hazel Moffat and Olga Johnston.
Vocal Solo—Mr. O. M. Steer.
Violin Solo—Mrs. P. Hooper.
Vocal Solo—Miss Ellen Eagleson.
Reading —Miss M. Perry.
Vocal Solo—Mr. Melton.
Misses Melton, Agnes and Olga Johnston acted as accompanists.

After the programme those present partook of the dainty refreshments served by the ladies

The thanks of the Guild is extended to Dr. and Mrs. Sutton, who so kindly gave the use of their large and beautiful grounds and also for their many kindnesses in endeavouring to make the evenig as enjoyable as possible to all. They are also indebted to the Heinztman Co., for the lend of a Victrola.

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT NEWS

TWO CASES ADJOURNED---AUTOMOBILE CASE UP

Magistrate Dumble is still away and the Police Court is like a ship without a rudder. Perhaps he is wondering if they miss him but he need not wonder for they sure do, and an S.O.S may yet have to be sent to Stoney Lake for business at the Station is pressing, while it seems hard to drag His Worship away from his favourite haunts it appears inevitable. Only one justice of the Peace out of a numerous list could be secured for to-day. This was Mr. Eastwood.

Two cases were adjourned. Conrad Schwerdt's case was held over till July 5. Walter Kerr, the Myrtle farmer, who ran down George Hawke on a bicycle at noon yesterday faced Mr. Eastwood on two charges one for driving his car negligently and the other of causing bodily harm to Hawke by wilful neglect. The last is a serious charge and the maximum penalty two years imprisonment. Crown Attorney Hatton applied for a remand and the hearing was remanded till July 8. One surety of $500 was required of Kerr. Dr. King stated that Hawke was brused severely about the hips ad his leg was causing him much suffering but he believed that he would be around again in ten days or a fortnight. Kerr is securing a $500 surety from a friend in the city.

EXPELLED FROM THE N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE.

Asks Ten Million Dollars Damages on Account of Controversy.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, June 24.—Allen Ryan, chairman of the Stutz Motor Car Company, who became involved in a controversy with the officials of the New York Stock Exchange at the time it was alleged that a corner existed in Stutz, has been expelled from the Exchange, according to an announcement to-day by the Board of Governors.

Ryan asks ten million dollars damages on account of the controversy.

THE BOARD MET TO-DAY

EVIDENCE IN THE C.G.E. LABOUR DISPUTE.

The Conciliation Board between the Canadian General Electric Company and its striking Machinists and Electrical Workers, resumed their sittings at the Court House this morning, pursuant to adjournment from Saturday last.

The Board is constituted of Judge R. D. Gunn of Ottawa, chairman; Judge McGillivray of Ontario county, representing the company; and Mr. John Munro, President Toronto Trades and Labor Council, for the men, all of whom are in attendance.

Local Manager Mr. E. G. Patterson and Mr. R E Layfield are again watching the company's interests, while Mr. Harry Harper and Messrs. Alex. Morrison and Flynn, respectively, are witnesses for the affected Machinists and Electrical Workers.

Result So Far.

As a result of the deliberations this morning the Conciliation Board have now in hand all data leading up to and covering the differences in contention, and they adjourned into private conference at 11.40.

Judge Gunn, chairman, assured the press that the Board will reach a conclusion to-day, forward their report to the Minister of Labor at Ottawa, who in turn will make public whatever award he arrives at, based on the Board's representations.

Separate Strikes.

The Machinists struck on May 6th, the Electrical Workers followed ten days later, and Organizer Harper assured the Board that each strike was independent of the other. In other words the latter body did not walk out in spmpathy with the former.

Winders Satisfied.

Mr. Alex. Morrison, for the Electrical Workers, replied to Judge Gunn that the armature winders were satisfied with the award of 15 p.c. increase, together with the company's additional offer of plus 5c. an hour. Ten armature winders signed up an agreement with the company on the basis of that award, and there would have been no strike had some consideration in the award been made employees in the transformer, wire and rubber departments. But Mr. Morrison did not give a wage figure which would have been satisfactory for these departments. If the strike is settled to-day by mutual agreement there would only be 35 or 40 men to go back, he admitted.

Mr. Flynn last week stated that consent to a Conciliation Board by the company to make an award regarding the unskilled workers' position would have averted trouble.

Some Not Satisfied.

Mr. Flynn, under examination, said that the 45c. an hour lowest rate offered by the company was not satisfactory to some hands, who classed themselves as skilled. Then at the time of the strike, all departments, apart from the armature winders, were not aware that the company had offered a minimum rate of 45c. an hour. The wire workers, for instance, were in that uninformed position, and had they been informed of such an increase, these hands might not have struck.

Lowest Rate 45c.

Mr. E. G. Patterson, in explaining his conference with the electrical workers before they went on strike, said he offered increases which would bring the lowest man up to 45c. an hour. Every department, he declared, got wage consideration; not a man in the whole department, excepting 5, but who under his terms would get an increase, and only 11 of them less than 5c. an hour. Each individual employee was instructed, Mr. Patterson added, by his foreman that he must accept the award plus 5c. an hour, or go to a Conciliation Board.

Three Main Issues.

Mr. Harper, for the Machinsts, said the three main questions in dispute were a minimum rate, overtime and classification. Under present working conditions, some 75 skilled men would fall below a minimum rate for machinists in amounts ranging from 5, 10 and 15c. an hour.

Probing Customs

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE HAS ANOTHER PROBLEM ON HAND.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 24. — Having disposed off overseas pay accounts and Canadian war order cancellation compensation, the Public Accounts Committee of the Commons began to-day to probe and ascertain if $407,000 was lost to Canada in duty on high priced tractors from United States manufacturers during 1917. It is charged that the government permitted two implement firms to ship seven hundred machines in duty free.

All these machines were worth more than nineteen hundred dollars each, whereas the order in council passed in 1917 to aid produceion provided only for free entry for tractors.

Seizure action by the Customs officials was called off by the Ottawa authorities it is charged.

The committee struck a stumbling block when the confidential nature of the customs office transactions cropped up, the advice of the Minister of Justice wil be sought before the committee sits to-morrow.

FRUIT PRICES GOING DOWN

WELCOME NEWS FOR PETERBORO HOUSEKEEPERS

Tomatoes are down a little in the fruit stores to-day—40 cents they ask for them, and expect that price to slip to a lower level. Apricots and plums at 40 cents a quart, they state, is a reasonable price for these early fruits. Cherrie retail at 50 cents a pound, but the Niagara crop is not far away, and as the crop is said to be large, cheap cherries are a certainty.

In fact, one fruit dealer in conversation with a reporter, believed that fruit would be cheaper than it has been for some years on account of the prevailing abundance, and because of the canners refusing to can, with the price of sugar at the present high level.

Small cucumbers can be had as low as five cents, but for the big fellows they ask 15c and 20c. Peaches that hail from the far south are bringing 25 to 40 cents a dozen. Water melons are on the elevated.

Carrots are scarce, it is said, and as a result the price is high—20 cents a bunch. Nice tender beets sell for two bunches for 25 cents. Spinach is only 10 cents a bunch. Onions, radishes, and lettuce are in the 5 cent class, but the fact that they are cheap does not mean that they are not good, for they are.

One strawberry grower, when seen by The Examiner yesterday, was busy carrying berries by the armful into a store. When asked if there was an abundance, he pointed to the array he had piled in the store. They were selling at 25 cents, but he stated that they were bound to be lower, and the clerk interjected that he thought they would be down to 15 cents.

NEARING THE OBJECTIVE IN THE LOCAL SERBIAN RELIEF CAMPAIGN

OVER THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS SUBSCRIBED TO THE CAUSE.

Rev. J. R. Campbell and Capt. Joe Lawson are in the city again in the interests of the Serbian Relief Campaign and hope to see Peterboro city and county reach its objective of $5,000 by the end of the month, when the campaign closes. Contributions to-day run over $3,000 from all sources, including a grant of $200 from the County Council.

It is felt that theer must be many more citizens who would like to contribute to this worthy cause, but have not sent subscriptions to the banks or The Examiner office. The two Brotherhood officials hope these citizens will act at once. Now, that the city has done so well, small subscriptions are to be expected, and no matter how small, all will be welcomed.

The "What $100 will do" campaign has beeen most successful and additions to the honor roll are hoped for. Since the roll was published on Saturday the Adult Bible Classes of Trinity Church have taken one Serbian child as a ward, and have contributed $100. Employees of the Canadian Packing Company, always ready with a contribution, also have given $100, which will clothe and maintain another orphan. Every subscriber in the honor roll will receive a photograph of the child who receives the benefit of their assistance.

Who will be next. The complete honor roll is as follows.

Provincial Council Carpenters Growing

OPPOSSED TO INCREASED SESSIONAL INDEMNITY.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 24.—Interviewed by the Canadian Press to-day, Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, opposed increasing the sessional indemnity by fifteen hundred dollars under present conditions in Canada.

Mr. Crerar was not in the House last night when the matter was debated.

HAVE NOW 77 LOCALS IN ONTARIO, AN INCREASE OF 14 LAST YEAR, AND MEMBERSHIP IS 7451 WITH RETURNS INCOMPLETE—WELCOME TO DELEGATES.

CARPENTERS PREDOMINATE.

A fortuitous and appropriate coincident of the formal welcome to the delegates attending the Ontario Carpenter's convention at the opening session in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum this morning was the fact that with the exception of Ald. Phelan, who accompanied Mayor McIntyre, the local officials were themselvesc arpenters actively engaged in that ancient occupation and members of the local Union.

Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.L.A. for West Peterborough, although not present this morning, will greet the delegates before they complete their work, Mr. Tooms is a carpenter and fully qualified woodworker. Mayor McIntyre has followed the trade since his youth, Mr. T. H. Lane, president of the Trades and Labor Council, is one of the most prominent of Peterborough' carpenters, and has in the past been a delegate to the Provincial Council's conventions. And as president of the local Union of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Mr. Thos. McMurray is necessarily a carpenter by trade and is likewise a staunch advocate of his organization. The presence of Ald. Phelan was a slight reminder that while the carpenters of Peterborough are occupying the seats of the mighty the followers of other trades and professions are at least represented in secondary positions and share a little of the white light that beats upon the local carpenters in their high places.

A Special Pleasure.

Extending the city's welcome on behalf of the Council and the people, Mayor McIntyre assured the delegates that the duty gave him an especial pleasure because he was engaged in the same occupation and was one with the delegates.

"While you have come to Peterborough on important business.,' he said, "we hope that you will be able to spare enough time to see something of our city. We are proud of the city as a whole, and of the parks, educational institutions, manufacturing industries and other features. This is an inland city, but it is located on an important waterway on which is situated the only two hydraulic lift locks on this continent and one of them, the highest in the world, is within the boundaries of Peterborough.

We hope that your convention will be a successful one and that it will result in the advancement of your Association and its members, and that your visit to Peterborough will be in every way pleasant, so much so that we will soon again have the opportunity of greeting you."

Ald. Phelan joined with His Worship in extending a welcome from the Council and the citizens and wished the delegates every success in their convention.

Labour's Greeting.

Mr. T. H. Lane, president of the Trades and Labor Council, conveyed the welcome of organized labour in Peterborough. He referred to the prominence of carpenters here in elective positions, and told an anecdote of the last provincial elections in which a certain tailor replying to a criticism that a carpenter had been elected to the Legislature, remarked that the greatest man of all time was a carpenter.

"And it's been the same all through history," said Mr. Lane. "The carpenters have always been on top. We are the most contented people in the world. If we have a comfortable home we are satisfied. We are not looking for mansions."

Organized labour, he added, would not attain its fullest success until it went into politics as in the last October's elections.

Mr. McMurray's Greetings.

Mr. Murray offered the greetings of the local Carpenters' Union, No. 219. "We hope your stay will be a pleasure to you," he said, "and that you will take away memories of Peterborough that you will not forget. You are here not to cause a disturbance but to try to help and educate the great masses of the people. There are as good citizens and good workers in the carpenters' ranks as you will find in any organization in the world. We're not trying to drive capital out of the country: we want to work in harmony, to be fair and also to be treated fairly, and to get an honest, decent living."

Mr. McMurray urged the importance of political action in order that labour could place men in Parliament who would pass legislation for the benefit of the masses. They have already shown that they had capable and thoroughly qualified men. The legislation passed during the recent session of the provincial house was the best Ontario had ever had, Mr. McMurray declared. Labour in Peterborough was as energetic and progressive as in any city in the province.

FAREWELL TO REV. A. J. THOMAS OF GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH

DR. E. E. HARVEY OCCUPIED THE CHAIR—A UNIQUE FEATURE.

The basement of the George Street church was taxed to capacity Tuesday night when about 600 members of the congregation gathered to officially say farewell to Rev. A. J. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas.

Needless to say a gathering such as that of last evening was proof positive that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have endeared themselves to the congregation and that they will be very greatly missed in this city when they leave to take up their new field of labor in St. James' church, Montreal.

Dr. E. E. Harvey occupied the chair and after the opening selection by the Sunday school orchestra, he called upon Mrs. James Kendry and Mrs. Foote to come to the platform. The presence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas upon the platform was also requested, and while they came to the front Mr. J. H. Renwick played a few strains from Lohengrin's wedding march.

Unique Feature.

A unique feature of the gathering Tuesday night was the fact that it was held upon the 16th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas. On behalf of the congregation Mrs. Kendry congratulated the pastor and his wife on this occasion of their anniversary and expressed the hope that they might be long spared to labor together for the advancement of the Kingdom.

Mrs. Foote then presented Mrs. Thomas with sixteen beautiful roses.

In replying to the congratulatory remarks, Mr. Thomas paid a tribute to his wife, and among other things stated that much of his success in the ministry during the past 16 years had been due to the efforts of Mrs. Thomas as his helpmate.

Chairman's Address.

The chairman's address took the form of a direct message to Mr. Thomas, Dr. Harvey stating that he brought a gift from the whole congregation, namely their love and their appreciation of the pastor's services during the past three years. "Just as a torch may light a thousand and still retain its flame, so you have done in many a heart and lit an enthusiasm that will long remain," said the chairman. "In this compound of laughter and tears which we call life," continued the speaker, "you have taken a part which we will not soon forget." Continuing the chairman expressed the appreciation of the congregation for the work Mr. Thomas has done in thir midst.

Gift from Epworth League

Mr. Thomas did not have many idle moments last evening. He was again called to the platform and Mr. Clarece McKee read an address from the Senior Epworth League expressing their appreciation of the wholehearted efforts of Mr. Thomas in this organization for the young people of the church. On behalf of the Epworth League Miss Mary Ellott presented the pastor with a silk umbrella In thanking the League, Mr. Thomas said it would be strange if he did not give time and thought to young people's work because he realizes that the young people occupy a very important place in life and in the nation. Then too he stated that he owed a great deal to the Epworth League as it was intimate association with that organizaion which led him to take up the ministry.

Presentation From Ladies

The ladies of the congregation made a presentation to Mrs. Thomas and Miss Smith. In a few well chosen words. Mrs Jas. Kendry assured Mrs. Thomas and Miss Smith that the splendid work which they have accomplished during the last three years has been greatly appreciated Mrs. S. R. Armstrong presented Mrs. Thomas with a walnut tea cart and thirty-five dollars in gold and Mrs. Foote presented Miss Smith with a club bag. In accepting her gifts Mrs. Thomas stated that she had found it a pleasure to work with George street people, a pleasure o work with her husband and best of all a pleasure to work for God. Miss Smith also assured those present that her work during her sojourn here had been a pleasure.

Presentation of Purse of Gold.

The final presentation of the evening was from the entire congregation to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas. Mr. H. G. Walker read the address and Mr. B. F. Ackerman made the presentation, a purse of $500. The address was as follows:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Thomas:—

We the members of George Street Church, Peterborough, rejoice with you that God has called you as His co-workers to the wider sphere of service in St. James Church, Montreal. However, we desire to take this opportunity of expressing our deep regret at your departure from our midst and our aporeciation of your personal characters and splendid services rendered to our church and to the community

We are reminded, Mr. Thomas, of your earnest devotion as our pastor during the past three years, wherein you have walked before this people as a true exemplar of the precepts of the Divine Master. Thereby you have persuaded many to recognize the worth and beauty of a more profound experience in the noble principles of Christianity. In the preaching the gospel you have displayed the true Evangel through which many have received the good tidings of salvation and many will live to bless you for your sympathetic pleading and tender invitation.

As the pastor of our church during the sad and tremulous years of uncertain warfare, it was all too frequently your sorrowful duty to convey tenderly and lovingly the message of comfort, when healing consolation was sorely needed. At times, as well, it was yours to bear the message of cheer when good tidings prevailed.

Of Mrs Thomas will remain pleasing memories of her charm of manner and of faithful service. In the Women's Missionary Society, over which you have so efficiently presided for two years, you have proved a capable leader, under whom the society has increased in membership, developed larger missionary knowledge and advanced in zeal for Christian stewardship To the Mission Band, the Mission Circle and the Ladies Aid Society you have been ever a helpful counsellor.

With you too, as its guiding and sympathetic hostess, the parsonage has been wide open to welcome the anxious seeker, to advise the wayward wanderer, and to rejoice with the happy newcomer to Christ.

Endeared Selves.

At the Epworth Leagues, both of you, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, have endeared yourselves to the youth of tender, and of riper years by the kindly and judicious enthusiasm inspired into their respective activities and thus many a boy and many a girl will develop a stroger, a gentler and yet a sweeter future because of your personal touch and kindly direction.

Throughout the city of Peterborough, the community and the Bay of Quinte Conference, your impress has been widely and distinctly realized in every cause of Social Service and of Good Citizenship

We request your acceptance of this gift as a minor memento of our greater appreciation of your sincerity, devotion and success in all departments George Street Church Peterborough.

Signed on behalf of the congregation:

H. G. WALKER
ELMER E. INGALL
B. F. ACKERMAN
E. E. HARVEY
C. E. SMITH.

One Idea

In accepting the gift from the congregation Mr. Thomas said that he was thinking of the work he had left undone and not of what he had done "It is always that thought that weighs upon me," he said, "the thought of the opportunities lost and the work left undone. I go to Montreal, not to make a name for myself or for the Methodist Church, I go with the one idea,—to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ for the salvation of my fellowmen."

Musical Numbers.

The musical numbers interspersed throughout the evening's programme included selections from the orchestra, solo, Mrs. J. H. Renwick; vocal duet, Misses Maisie Armstrong and Doris Rathbone; solo, Mr. Harold Jones and instrumental duet, Miss Laura MacFarlane and Mrs. C. S. Thompson.

GERTIFICATE TO TEACH ANYWHERE

(Canadian Press.)

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 23. — The National Council of Women convention here declared to take immediate steps to establish Dominion teacher's certificate, which will entitle those holding it, including British teachers, to teach anywhere in Canada. It was resolved that one of the qualifications for the certificate would be a thorough knowledge of all matters appertaining to Canadian education and citizenship.

COST TO EXCEED THE ESTIMATES

PROGRESS OF THE HUNTER STREET MONUMENT.

Frank Barber, consulting engineer on the Hunter Street Bridge, was in the city yesterday on an inspection trip, and in conversation with an Examiner representative this afternoon, said he was satisfied with the progress of the bridge. The work had gone on as steadily as could be expected under the conditions of to-day, and Mr. Barber believed the great part of the work would be completed before next year. What remained of the finishing up would be done next year.

The construction of the central span would begin shortly, he said.

Questioned on the appropriation being exceeded, he did not wish to make any definite statement, but said he would make a report to Ald. James Hamilton, chairman of the Bridge Committee, on this in a few days. In view of the increases in the price of lumber and other goods, and the increased wages, he believed the cost might slightly exceed the appropriations.

The foundation at the west side, he said, was all that could be desired.

H. W. Midlemist, of Toronto, chief engineer of the Railway Board, was in the city examining the foundations to-day, and he was well satisfied with them.

"Peterborough will have a bridge they will be proud of," said Mr. Barber.

INSURANCE MEN TO TAKE IN THE TRIP.

Will Attend Convention at Saratoga Springs.

The numerous policyholders of the Prudential Insurance Company at Peterborough will be pleased and gratified to learn that owing to the magnificent work shown in this district for the years 1919 and 1920, Superintendent J. I. Allen, Asst. Supt. R. F. Sedgwick, and Asst. Supt. F. J. Flaherty, and Agents A. Moffatt and J. J. Fallon, of Peterborough, and Agent W. O. Bennett, of Oshawa, have been invited to attend a convention at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, 28th, 29th, and 30th June. Their selection as to the leaders in the Prudential field in Canada is certainly worthy of comment, inasmuch as work of this description advertises the city of Peterborough which they represent. There is no booster like insurance men, and especially the insurance men of the different companies that are represented in Peterborough to advertise our city and community.

BIG DROP IN PRICE OF HIDES.

Considered This Way Eventually Affect Price of Shoes.

MONTREAL, June 24.—A drop in hides is the most striking feature of local market prices which have otherwise undergone few changes. Skins, according to one dealer, which during the war period have sold as high as 65 cents are now down to 20 cents each, by far the lowest price since pre-war days when they could be purchased for seventeen and eighteen cents. It is stated that this should materially affect the price of shoes, though a considerable time must elapse before the consumer will reap the benefit.

Applied After Shaving

Keeps the Skin Soft and Smooth

MANY men suffer from irritation of the skin as a result of shaving. With some it assumes a form of eczema and becomes most annoying and unsightly.

By applying a little of Dr. Chase's Ointment after shaving the irritation is overcome and such ailments as Barber's Itch and Eczema are cured.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, JUNE 24TH, 1920.

A DOUBTFUL PLAN.

The people of Canada would like to know more details in connection with the ship-building policy of the Dominion government before they are likely to indicate anything like approval of the plan. As it is outlined at present the scheme seems a very desirable proposition— for the ship-building companies. Apparently they are to gather in all the profits from the enterprise while the public money is to be risked in protecting the companies against loss. The government proposes that Canada shall endorse promissory notes to the value of 50 per cent. of the price of all vessels constructed. The obligations thus to be assumed by the government are not likely to be hailed with delight by the public. The Canadian people have been told that it is a time for economy and retrenchment by governments as well as by municipal bodies and by individuals, and in the face of such warnings repeatedly re-iterated by spokesmen for the government, they will be at a loss to understand why the credit of the country should be pledged to assist a few wealthy concerns in a business deal from which the firms involved derive all the profits and the government takes half the risk.

THE REPORT ATOPDTED.

The announcement that the Government intends to adopt every recommendation made by the special committee appointed to consider the pension question will be received with satisfaction. There were fears that all the suggestions made by the committee would not be acted upon, judging by the treatment given reports of this kind in the past and it is pleasing to find that the pension recommendations are to be adopted in their entirety. The feeling that the committee has taken a commendable interest in the mater and has carried out the duties entrusted to it with more than usual care and zeal, is general, and if there are any complaints as to the recommendations made they are based on the fact that the report does not go far enough in the matter of re-establishment plans. For this the members of the committee are not to be blamed, for the action of the government in declaring that it would not entertain any request for further cash gratuities, narrowed considerably the scope of the investigation and interfered with the work of the committee, in asmuch as it tended to destroy the confidence of many returned soldiers in the inquiry. The special committee has, it is felt, admirably dealt with the question of pensions, the main matter considered by it, and the condition of the disabled Canadian soldiers and of the dependents of those who gave up their lives will be considerably improved as a result of the adoption of the report submitted.

WAR SERVICE BADGES.

Police Magistrate Saunders of Calgary, was quite sound in his law in the decision laid down by him the other day that any person could wear an active service button of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, provided he did not attempt to secure any financial benefits from his action in wearing the badge. The ruling naturally caused a mild sensation, especially among returned soldiers, because it was realized that much of the prestige that goes with the wearing of the little brown button would soon disappear if Magistrate Saunders' decision was to be upheld. There had been a general impression that a penalty of a $300 fine or six months' imprisonment had been provided for the illegal use of the active service badge—in fact a warning to this effect is stamped upon the button. The mystery, however, was explained in the House yesterday. The unauthorized wearing of the war service badge was prohibited by an order-in-council passed in April, 1919, but this order expired with other war measures in January last with the result that since that time there has been no law against the illegal use of the badge, and the Calgary ruling was the only one that could be given under the circumstances. The matter is being adjusted by adding the penalty clause to the criminal code so that from now on those who have any desire to masquerade as war veterans should not be misled into believing that they are quite safe in wearing the bronze button if they haped to have come into the possession of such a decoration.

WHEAT CONTROL.

The Federal government at a caucus of its members has decided to adhere to its wheat policy and a resolution is before the House of Commons authorizing the continuance of the Canada Wheat Board, and providing it with wide powers. There are varied opinions as to the wisdom of this course. Certainly the consumer in Canada has not benefitted, nor will not benefit as a result of the operations of the Board, whose main duty is to get the highest possible price for the surplus supply of wheat it has under its control for export. The world market sets the price.

Whatever may be the general opinion as to the faults of the system, there is no doubt that the clause against trading in wheat futures on any grain exchange is a movement that will be applauded. The elimination of the gambling feature of wheat trading is welcome.

As Turner's Weekly, which as a live western publication is closely in touch with western conditions, puts it, "The man who grows wheat, or the man who eats it, or a combination of both, pays, in some mysterious manner, for a fat living for a large-sized selection of citizens in Winnipeg." These Winnipeg wheat manipulators do not see the wheat, do not in any way assist in its production or transportation and have no scientific interest in its growth, but they play with it, and by means of some financial sleight-of-hand, extract gold from the game. Until the time comes, if it does come, when all the wheat will be marketed through some central organization, either governmental or co-operative, there will be room for the honest trader who buys wheat from the grower and sells to the consumer, taking a fair commission for his work, but there is no room for the smooth manipulator who gambles with and enhances the selling price of Canada's most valuable produet.

IMMMIGRATION.

There is a growing demand for immigration. Most public men in Canada who have spoken on the matter have eggressed the opinion that it is essential to have the vacant lands of the West filled up if we are to escape national insolvency. The idea of the desirability of immigration is generally agreed to, but there may be a difference of opinion as to the kind of immigrants who should be encouraged or accepted. At a land settlement congress held recently in Saskatoon, the necessity of immigration was emphasized. Most of the speakers at the congress seemed inclined to encourage settlers even though they were non-English speaking, although no disposition was evinced to encourage sects or races unprepared to accept the full duties of Canadian citizenship, and it was the unanimous opinion that some sort of a literacy test should be applied to immigrants. The subject of foreign immigration in one which will have to be seriously considered. There is no question about the desirability of some of the "foreigners" who have come to Canada and who have made their homes here and become Canadian citizens. On the whole, they have shown an aptitude for progress. There is this is to be said, however: there is a limit to the power of absorption. One of the speakers at the congress referred to, declared that the Anglo-Saxon race had always shown themselves able to assimilate and absorb other nationalities, and that although traces of the infusion of foreign blood were noticeable, the race was rather improved than otherwise by the admixture. This is largely true, but as we stated above, there is a limit to the power of assimilation. To reduce the matter to an absurdity for the sake of argument: let us suppose that there were one hundred Anglo-Saxons in a given district, and let us suppose that there were one thousand foreign non-English-speaking immigrants in that district. Would it be possible under the circumstances for the Anglo-Saxons to assimilate or transform into Anglo-Saxons the one thousand newcomers? There could be only one result to such a condition: the Anglo-Saxon characteristics of the community would disappear. In connection with the present problem, there is no use going into the mistakes of the past. The question which confronts Canada ,and especially the West today, is: are there enough foreigners in this country now? Is it possible to assimilate any more without danger of the nation losing its present nationality. It is largely a question for experts. stork can Aswallow a lizard and remain a stork, but if it attempts to swallow a crocodile, it has a good opportunity of becoming a component part of the crocodile. We make no suggestion that many of the races which came to Canada in the past fifty years were racially inferior to the British citizens, but those of us who desire to remain racially more or less like we are at present, must estimate carefully how many mose fertile families of foreign-born we can settle in Canada without altering our national personality.

LONDON YIELDING TO NEED FOR RE-BUILDING

Process of Tightening and Levelling Up Being Planned.

LONDON, June 24. — London, which travellers maintain changes more slowly than any other great capital, is yielding to the necessity of providing for continued inrushes of population. There are many indications that the city is on the eve of an unprecedented era of rebuilding.

Instead of stretching further into the beautiful country lying outside its bounds, the predicted building boom is likely to be a process of tightening up and levelling up by better utilization of wasted spaces and acceptance of the American sky-scraper idea.

Evidences of the last-named influence are to be seen to-day along London's newest downtown thoroughfare—Kingsway—near the Strand Here a number of buildings, either built by Americans or designed for American occupancy, are in the process of construction. Shortage of skilled men in the building trades and hindranes due to England's leasehold system are the main handicaps, but the fact remains that London is verging toward marked physical changes.

A DANGEROUS WARNING —BLEEDING GUMS

Are your gums tender? Do they bleed when brushed? If so—watch out for Pyorrhea.

This disease of the gums, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, not only destroys the teeth, but often wrecks the health.

In Pyorrhea, the gums become spongy, then recede; the teeth decay, loosen, and fall out—or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about them. These germs lower the body's vitality and cause many diseases.

You can keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums prevents Pyorrhea—or checks its progress, if used in time and used consistently Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean.

Start using it today. If your gums have receded, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

KEEP BUSY FIVE YEARS

President of Locomotive Works Lands European Contracts.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, June 24. — Samuel Vauclaim, President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, has just returned with orders sufficient to keep the big Philadelphia plant busy for five years. Bankers wondered how he was to finance the orders.

"I have already arranged it," Mr. Vauclain told an interviewer who questioned him on the point. "People used to trade before there was any such thing as money and foreign exchange."

He then explained that he had arranged the tenative payment by barter. Roumania needs $100,000 worth of locomotives, but she had little money and little credit. She did have, though, some of the richest oil fields in the world. Mr. Vauclain traded his locomotives for oil and oil options. He then went to the British Government and sold the oil at a handsome profit, payable in United States currency.

UNUSUAL REQUEST FROM SASKATCHEWAN FARMER

Demands $5,000 from G.T.P. for Delay in Securing Transportation for His Housekeeper. Later Compromises at $1,000.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., June 24.—The Grand Trunk Pacific railway has received an unusual request from a Saskatchewan farmer who demanded $5,000 from them because of alleged delay in securing transportation for his housekeeper, who was coming from Louisiana. A later letter compromised on $1,000. "Please do not make me go to law about this," he urged, "for I know that you have more money than I have. Just send the money along and I will call it square." He is not yet received his thousand, officials stated.

For the production of gasoline over 213,000 new oil wells have been drilled in the past ten years in the United States.

Half a Pineapple For One Dessert

In Jiffy-Jell desserts the fruit flavors are abundant. For instance, half a pineapple is crushed to make the flavor for one pint dessert. This is done in Hawaii from fruit too ripe to ship.

All Jiffy-Jell fruit flavors are made from condensed fruit juice. They come in liquid form—in vials—a bottle in each package. That is true of no other quick gelatine dessert.

A few cents will serve a real-fruit dessert for six people. No artificial flavor, no saccharine. It is the most delicious fruit dessert available, and it comes in ten choice flavors.

CROSBY HALL HOME FOR CAN. STUDENTS

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, June 24. — Students from Canada and other overseas dominions of the British Empire, studying in the University of London, are likely to have a home in Crosby Hall, the ancient home of Richard III, on the Chelsea Embankment. Plans to utilize the building are now being developed by the World Association for Adult Education.

It is proposed to construct residential quarters on the ground adjoining Crosby house for students coming from the British Dominions, from India and the United States, together with a proportion from the British Isles so that full interchange of view and experience may be promoted. Crosby Hall itself will be the centre of the whole institution and will serve the same purpose as are served by the halls of colleges at Oxford and Cambridge.

An appeal is being issued, supported by the leading lights in the educational world here, for $1,000,000 wherewith to build and equip residences for about 120 students.

DAIRY PRODUCTION SHOWS INCREASE

CHEESEMAKING GOES BACK BUT CREAMERY BUTTER MAKES BIG GAINS.

Comparative figues for the year 1915 to 1918 inclusive, showing the number of patrons of dairy factories in Canada indicate that on the whole the dairy production of the Dominion made steady progress during that period. The totals for the Dominion were—In 1915, 212,927 patrons; in 1916, 212,182 patrons; in 1917, 248,683 patrons, and in 1918, 252,416 patrons. Details of dairy production in Canada in 1919 show that if cheese and creamery butter are taken together there was a net increase in production over both 1915 and 1918.

The total increase in dairy products in 1919 was, however, entirely due to the increase in amount of butter produced, as the decrease in cheese as compared with 1915 was 16,152,855 lbs. and when compared with that of 1918 the decrease was 7,143,421 lbs. On the other hand creamery butter shows an increase of 8,287,255 lbs. over 1918, and of 17,562,678 lbs. over 1915. The figures for 1919 are—Cheese, 167,734,982 lbs. creamery butter, 101,554,131 lbs.

Figures of the production of condensed and evaporated milk and milk powder are not available for 1915, but it is well known that the increase during the war period was very large. The production of condensed and evaporated milk in 1919 shows a decrease of 1,306,339 pounds compared with 1918. Milk powder produced in 1919 shows an increase of 1,060,184 pounds over 1918.

WENT INTO BIG WAR TO SAVE OUR SKINS

Promised Peace Not in Sight—20 or 30 Wars Going On.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 24. — What was called "a straight talk" was given at the annual meeting of the Union Jack Club by Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson who described himself as "an old soldier who knows what he is talking about."

"We have been told," he said, "that we went into the war to end war. We did not. We went into the war to save our skins. We were told that after the war we would have peace but we have not got it. There are at present between 20 and 30 wars, big and little, going on. We were told that the war would end war but it did not and could not.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatims, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

THE BOARD MET TO-DAY

Mr. E. G. Patterson, local manager for the C.G.E., practically agreed that a minimum rate, classification and overtime were the main issues in contention. The Union's original demand of 80c. an hour for machinists, 65c. for specialists and 55c. for helpers, had been reduced by 5c. in each class, which had been acceptable to the company. But he positively could not agree to a wage scale on a minimum basis.

Premium System.

This is a bone of contention between the company and their employees. The men are asking in particular that overtime on this system be paid on a day work basis, but Mr. Patterson will not agree to that. He declares that such a course is unusual in regard to piece work, which the premium system really implies. He contends that the time for jobs is so fixed as to encourage men to greater production both in their own and the company's interests. By this system the men are given opportunity to augment their wages considerably. The men, on the other hand, claim that the time limits are in some cases not equitable.

Judge Gunn remarked that much depended on the fairness of a foreman in fixing time limits. However, it would be hard for this Board to recommend that the company revolutionize its methods of operations.

Mr. Patterson declared the company would not revert to the old system in vogue years ago. The premium system must stay.

The chairman thought this a matter for adjustment, if any, between Mr. Harper and the company's management.

Minimum Basis.

In discussing this issue at stake, Mr. Harper declared the aim of the Union is to set a minimum rate at the lowest wage on which a machinist could live. No maximum rate is fixed by unions, he said. He contended that 80c. an hour, in his knowledge, seems to be the average minimum rate throughout the country to-day.

Classification.

Mr. Patterson said he could not accept the men's proposed classification of workmen.

The chairman wished Mr. Patterson and Mr. Harper, for the employees, would get together also on this question, which none but skilled men could adjust. He would like this clause withdrawn from before the Board, who he did not suppose could ever agree on such a contention.

Mr. Patterson replied that he was always willing to consider the claims of men who thought they were not being paid enough. "We did at one time offer 5c. an hour increase all round, and are ready at all times to take into consideration particular cases not properly adjusted."

The Board hopes for a settlement of this classification problem by the disputants themselves before they (the Board) conclude deliberations to-day. The prospects for this, however, are not very bright.

FARMER'S REPLY TO REMARKS OF CHEESE BUYER ON LOCAL MARKET

MR. J. E. GALVIN, OF LAKEFIELD, DEFENDS THE FARMERS COMPANY—NEW FACTORIES SHIPPING—BUILD UP PETERBORO,

Judging from the discussions which took place among the buyers on the Peterboro cheese board yesterday before the sale and among the farmers and others after the sale, as well as by the interest being shown at the meetings that are being held in the country districts to discuss the matter ,the new farmers' company, the United Dairymen Cooperative Limited, whose headquarters are here in Peterboro, and which has undertaken to sell cheese cooperatively by public auction in Montreal, is causing a great furore locally and throughout the dairy districts of the province.

At yesterday's meeting of the Peterboro Cheese Board, Mr. Cook of Belleville, one of the buyers, as reported in last night's Examiner, offered a quarter of a cent less for the Peterboro cheese than the new dairy company might realize for its cheese at its sale in Montreal this week. The buyers also wanted to know how the farmers were going to benefit after paying freight and handling the cheese. It was said that it costs the farmers ¾c for freight and handling their cheese to Montreal.

Mr. Galvin Replies.

A strong comeback to these remarks was made to the Examiner today by Mr. J. E. Galvin of Lakefield, a farmer, who is one of the Peterboro county directors of the United Dairymen Cooperative Limited. "Our farmers," said Mr. Galvin, "are watchinging the proceeding on the cheese boards with much interest and are noting the strenuous efforts the buyers are making to disparage our company. In this connection there are a few questions which our farmers would apreciate if Mr. Cook would answer. Here are some of them:

"I understand that it was said at the cheese board yesterday that the price paid on the Picton board last week was much better than the price our farmers' company received at its Montreal sale. It was said that had the Prince Edward county farmers shiped their cheese to Montreal instead of selling it at the Picton Cheese Board they would have lost several thousand dollars. We would like to know why no reference was made to the Madoc cheese board, where cheese sold for 3-c less than the farmers realized at Montreal, or to the Stirling and Kingston boards, where it sold for 9-16th of a cent a lb. less, or to the Brockville Board, where it sold for 1-2c less, or to other important boards where the price paid would not net the farmers as high returns as the cheese sold at their sale in Montreal, if last week's prices are taken as a basis of comparison as the buyers seem to think they should be.

Why did they do it?

"If, however," said Mr. Galvin, "we admit that the buyers paid a higher price for cheese at Picton, considering the freight and hasdling prices at Montreal, what does it mean? The best price paid at the farmers' sale in Montreal last week for Ontario Specials was 28 1-4c. The price paid at Picton was 28 1-8c. Will Mr. Cook please explain how firms with their head office in Montreal can pass by some of the best cheese made in the province, which cheese is shown by Government grade to score 94 points or more out of 100, on which the freight to Montreal has been paid, and then go out on the Picton board and bid 28 1-8c for cheese on which presumably they must pay another 1-8c a lb. in cheese buyers' commissions, and about 1-2c a lb to get that cheese to Montreal? Is it not evident that the only object a Montreal firm would have to do such a thing is to injure the farmers company by refusing to purchase at its sale where it is claimed the cheese can be bought the cheapest? Is it not apparently their endeavor to make it appear that the farmers will lose money by selling their cheese through their own company? This is an old game which has often been seen played before, and which the farmers are beginning to see through.

Costs Lower.

"Acording to last night's Examiner the buyers state that it costs 3-4c a lb. to send cheese to Montreal, and sell it through farmers company. This is absolutely not the case. The cost of absolutely not the case. The cost of selling some 60 boxes of cheese, which were shipped by a Peterborough County factory to a Montreal sale recently including freight, cartage, and selling costs in Montreal was .040c. or a fraction less than a 1-2c. a pound. Why do buyers misrepresent things like this and why do they not point out that when the cheese buyers buy the cheese they have to pay the same freight and cartage charges as the farmers? Do the buyers desire to have the public think that they love farmers so much that they pay costs out of their own pockets and don't charge them back to the farmers in the lower prices they ordinarily pay for their cheese?

"I am informed that Mr. Cook made the statement in conversation before the cheese board opened yesterday, that our Farmers' Company had found the cost of doing business in Montreal so much greater than they had expected that it has been forced to increase its selling charge to 20c. a box. If this was the case, it was an absolute mis-statement ,as our charge to the factories for selling in Montreal remains at 5c. a box, as it was at the first. Will Mr. Cook explain what is the object of buyers in making such statements. Will he also explain that most of the local buyers receive a commission of 1-8 of a cent a lb. for buying the cheese, which amounts to 10c. a box, and which has been shown to cost the trade approximately $100,000 a year? Nearly all of which can be saved by the farmers and the consumers, if our farmers will sell their cheese through their own company.

Co-operative Refund.

"The buyers, persist in comparing the prices paid on the cheese boards with the prices paid at the Montreal auctions of the Farmers' Company. May I ask why they do not point out that ours is a co-operative company and that our by-laws provide that in the event of our having surplus profits at the end of the year these profits will be returned to the factories in the form of a bonus in proportion to the amount of cheese they have sold through our company. The Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries Limited, which sells the butter for only 20 creameries, refunded some $150,000 of surplus profits last year in this way. If we can sell the cheese for 500 or 600 factories it is evident that we also should be able to make large refunds and that these refunds should tend to offset any apparent increased price paid on the boards for cheese. Why do not buyers like Mr. Cook mention points such as these?

"At yesterday's cheese board, Mr. Cook offered to pay 1-4 of a cent a lb. less for cheese at Peterborough than our farmers' company will realize for cheese at its sale this week in Montreal. Does Mr. Cook desire us to understand by this that our young farmers' company, which so far has held only three sales, is already setting the price for cheese throughout the province and that it is for this reason that the buyers are trying to beat our price.

Not Cowan's Company.

"Our farmers note," said Mr. Calvin, ,that the buyers continually refer to our company as "Cowan's Co-operative Company" and in other similar ways. Of course we understand their purpose. They don't like to place themselves in the position of attacking a farmers' company and therefore, they are endeavoring to make it appear that it is not a farmers' company but is a company being promoted by one individual .In view of the fact that farmers from one end of the province to the other are supporting this company, and that its president, vice-president, directors and shareholders are farmers, it is evident that this little by-play on the part of the buyers is not likely to mislead many of our farmers.

Building Up Peterborough.

"It has been suggested," continued Mr. Galvin, "that if our Farmers' Company succeeds it will injure the Peterborough Cheese Baord. While we appreciate the good work that has been done by the Peterborough Cheese Board, we look on it merely as an incident in the big campaign in which we are now engaged. The fact is that through the efforts of a few of us. Peterborough city and county has been made the headquarters of this new big company. If this company proves the success that we hope that it will, it should become possible for us in time to erect large head offices in Peterborough just as the farmers' companies of Saskatchewan have in Regina. If so big meetings, attended by farmers from all parts of the Province, will be held annually or semi-annually in Peterborough and Peterborough city and county will become the very centre of the dairy industry of the Province. This is the opportunity that is ours. What those of us who are pushing this new company would like to know is, do our farmers and citizens realise what is involved in this campaign, and if so, are they ready to get behind us and make a big success of it? Incidentally I might state that we are delighted with the widespread support that we are receiving to date, as practically every day we are hearing of new factories in all parts of Eastern Ontario that are shipping to our sales. In spite of all the row and misstatements about us, we are continuing to make steady and rapid headway.

BURNHAM TAKES LEAD IN DEMAND FOR MORE MONEY

PARTY LINES DISAPPEARED WHEN QUESTION OF INCREASED IN DEMNITY WAS DISCUSSED.

OTTAWA, June 23.—Party Shibboleths were thrown to the winds in the Commons to-night, when members from both sides of the House joined forces in demanding the Government an increase in the sessional indemnity.

An overwhelming majority of the House is in favour of an increase, most members favouring making the indemnity $4,000 a session. However, in the three parties there were members who spoke for and against the increase. A feature of the debate was a tilt between Sir Robert Borden and the Liberal Leader, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. The latter, with some heat, accused the Prime Minister of breaking faith with him in revealing to a Unionist caucus the substance of a confidential conversation. He refused to make his personal position known in regard to the request before the Government announced its policy.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, the Farmer Leader, was not in the House when the debate was brought on by J. H. Burnham, of West Peterborough, taking advantage of a motion for the House to go into supply, to fire the first shot in the fight for more money which up to the present has been carried on behind the scenes.

Borden Urges Caution.

Sir Robert Borden summed up his position in the following words: "I think that in justice to the majority of the members of the House the indemnity ought to be increased, and that it is too low at the present time, but, on the other hand, there is in my mind, and I would commend this consideration to honourable members of both sides of the House, a very grave and serious doubt whether it will be in the public interest, whether it will be in the interest of Parliamentary institutions, whether it will be in the interest of the honourable members themselves, to press for such an indemnity increase at this session of Parliament."

In introducing the subject, Mr. Burnham said that the present indemnity of $2,500 was worth only $1,200 under present conditions. It was so inadequate that it made it impossible for many members to continue as such. The attendance, he said, was very fair, but there was no use disguising "that there is a certain amount of apathy and despair on the part of a great many members who don't understand how they are going to make both ends meet. If the mass of the people wish their business to be attended to, they have to pay their public servants in the the way they pay private servants; that is, in a way that will sustain them in decency."

Salary Ridiculously Low.

Mr. Burnham declared that he did not propose to continue as a member "at such a ridiculously low salary as this." Ninety-five per cent. of the members of the House favoured the increase, he declared, and there was applause from all quarters. He wondered why it was the leaders had not been able to get together and arrange the matter. He had been informed 75 per cent. of the Farmers' Party favoured the increase. The speaker regretted that there should be any suggestion of criticism because members could frank their mail, and in conclusion he invited the leaders to state their positions. "We have to eat just as much nourishing food and we have to have just as decent clothes as the Ministers," was his parting shot.

Gen. Sir Sam Hughes favoured an increase to $5,000, and he did not think one could "find a Grain Growers' Lodge or an Orange Lodge in the country that would raise any objection to it."

Dr. Blake, of North Winnipeg, supported the increase, and suggested that any opposed to it should declare themselves. Two members of the Opposition immediately took him up.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless, is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

The Refrigerator in Our George Street Window Will Be Opened at Three o'Clock To-morrow Afternoon

It contains onions, milk, butter, cheese, turnips, cabbage, lettuce, matches, oranges, grape fruit, salt, cigars, fish, tomatoes and chocolates.

They were placed there at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon and the key is being held by the Medical Health Officer, who will open the refrigerator to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The makers of the Barnet contend that the food will be untainted and is as in good a condition when removed after 48 hours as when it went in.

If You Are Interested in Refrigerators See the BARNET and Have Its Merits Explained to You by an Expert from the Factory

Because of the very low temperature maintained in a Barnet, and the entire absence of all moisture, a remarkable saving can be made in preserving perishable foods. The heat of a summer noon day may be intense, but the temperature inside a Barnet is always wintry and dry; never more than a few points above freezing.

A constant draught of pure, dry, chilled air is caused by our syphon system of air circulation. This air sweeps continually through the ice and food compartments. It keeps the flavours beautifully fresh, and frees the food from the danger of spoiling through moisture.

Our special and exclusive system of ventilation carries off all food gases and odors. Strongly scented foods cannot taint others. These gases pass out through vents in the roof of the chamber into a specially constructed channel, which lets them out into the open.

The Barnet has eleven walls to keep the heat out and the cold in. The saving in ice, of course, is considerable.

Not only does it use less ice than any other, but on account of its eleven wall insulation and perfect ventilating system, there is greater refrigeration obtained from the amount of ice consumed.

CANADIAN CROP PROSPECTS ARE GENERALLY FAVOURABLE

TORONTO. — Crop prospects in Canada, from coast to coast, in regard to grains, fruits and vegetables, according to reports gathered by the Canadian Press, give reasonable ground for optimism as to Canada's agricultural and horticultural production for the year 1920.

In the fruit growing districts of Eastern Canada, the prospects are for bumper crops, and there is already great anxiety as to securing help for the harvesting of them.

Western Canada wheat reports are optimistic. In some parts of Ontario record crops of wheat and oats are promised, while other grains are also doing well. The same is true, generally speaking, of the reports from Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Potatoes are doing well in practically all centres, although the area seeded was restricted.

The various pests are making themselves felt—cut-worms and grasshoppers are being fought. There is still danger from frosts, and the help problem is ever in sight—but so far as actual growth is concerned, Canada's crops are in a remarkably favorable position.

In and Around Toronto.

Plenteous showers during the last week have worked wonders in the agricultural and horticultural districts centreing on Toronto and throughout Central Ontario. Fields which were given up as dead, following the unusually dry month of May, have suddenly changed to green, and the tardy and withered fall wheat crops have put on several inches in growth. Oats, barley and wheat promise big yields; potatoes and roots are coming along well, and the vegetable plots in Toronto suburbs are very promising. Strawberries have grown to record sizes, and a few days' sunshine will put on the market a very heavy berry crop.

Kill Off Grasshoppers.

WINNIPEG.—The Manitoba Free Press, in presenting its third crop report, says it is most gratifying to find that in the last 15 days there has been no general depreciation of the extremely satisfactory conditions which obtained early in June. The amount of wheat in short blade is rather surprisingly large in view of the late seeding.

Chief interest centres around the grasshopper and the feature of the reports is that so far the percentage of crop actually eaten off is very small, so that in a number of cases the crop eaten off is again coming, though it will be late. Poison bait reports indicate that it has been most effective in keeping the hoppers in check.

Conditions of moisture is not quite so satisfactory as last reports. Forty points out of the 240 heard from need more rain than they have at present, though nearly all of these points state crops not actually suffering and sub-surface moisture good.

In Essex County.

WINDSOR.—The crop situation in Essex county is fair. Growers of small fruits are not optimistic of a big yield, and base their contention on the fact that a hail storm two weeks ago played havoc with this year's growth on the bushes. The rains have assured a fair potato crop, while corn and grains are flourishing. Clover and timothy hay is not so heavy and is shorter in stock than a year ago.

Alberta's Report.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta.—Following good rains during the past week over the major part of Southern Alberta, crop conditions at the present time look bright for an average yield. All crops are late owing to the backward spring, but very rapid growth is being made.

EDMONTON, Alta.—Crop conditions have never been better in the Edmonton district, and the handicaps of the late spring have been practically overcome.

LEON TROTSKY IS OWN MESSENGER

SOVIET WAR MINISTER CARRIES IMPORTANT DESPATCHES TO COLLEAGUES.

MOSCOW, June 24.—Leon Trotzky, the Soviet war minister, is often his own messenger. While he was carrying important dispatches to one of his colleagues, The Associated Press correspondent had a fleeting interview with him in Kremlin the other day.

Replying to aquestion as to whether he would appoint time to discuss with the correspondent the activities of the working army, he said: "This is a time of momentous decisions in Russia and until party politics for the coming year are determined I cannot talk for publication."

Meanwhile he was taking such long steps as to render it difficult for the correspondent to keep up with him. Crossing the big square of Kremlin he was saluted by the numerous soldiers who recognized him despite the fact he was wearing the regulation uniform, no different from that of his enlisted men.

As Trotzky walked his wiry person seemed vibrant with energy, showing no signs of the strain of the past three years. Reaching the cavalry barracks he disappeared up the steps, two at a bound, with the parting words, "Call me up later when I have more time."

After his leisurely dinner the animal wandered back into the woods and traffic tied up for an hour once more became normal.

GAVE WRONG IMPRESSION.

Mr. Frank Kitney Explains How the Strawberry Crop Suffered From Drought.

Referring to a crop report he gave the Examiner a few days ago, Mr. Frank Kitney stated this morning that his remarks about the strawberry yield had been misunderstood. He did not intend to convey the idea that in each patch, interpreted as a whole field, there were only a few berries, but that in each clump of plants which he meant as a patch, only a few berries were ripening. The bloom had been heavy and there was every promise of a big crop, Mr. Kitney said, speaking of his own experience, but the lack of rain in the first stages of the fruit's development left many of the heads empty. Mr. Kitney produced a sample of his crop showing that scarcely ten per cent. of the blossoms had borne or were bearing fruit.

REBUILDING DRAIN BUILT 27 YEARS AGO

ANOTHER LINK OF THE PARK STREET DRAIN IS BEING RENEWED.

The renewal of another section of what is known as the Park street drain, is proceeding under the supervision of City Engineer Parsons, on the north side of Rink street, between Aylmer and Rubidge streets.

This surface drain built in 1893, 27 years ago, extends from the corner of Walton and Weller streets to the point where it empties into the river east of the corner of Rink and George streets. Down Walton to Homewood, along Babbs' lane to Gilmour, and continuing southerly by St. Joseph's street to Charlotte and across the intervening blocks to the corner of Sherbrooke and Park Place the drain turns into Park street, and reaches to Rink street.

It was built as a box culvert of timbers 12 inches square. On parts of Rink and Park streets its top covering served as a sidewalk for many years. Each spring it carried a flood of water but in the summer months it was generally a mere trickle, and sometimes dried up, inviting venturesome boys to explore its gloom.

The renovating of the drain is proceeding in sections. A few years ago a line of 30-inch concrete pipe was laid from Aylmer street to the outlet, and on Park street from Rink to Sherbrooke street a 20-inch pipe was substituted for the old culvert, which was filled in with earth in that section. The present link is of horseshoe shape and has a greater capacity than even the 30-inch pipe east of Aylmer street.

The Council this year apropriated $5,000 for surface drainage work, but half the money was diverted to other uses and the Board of Works had only $2500, which curtails the work that had been outlined.

The section now being renewed has been uncovered east of the C.P.R. and cleared of the dirt and debris that had collected during the 27 years. The rotting and fallen timbers also demanded extensive repairs.

Because of the fact that the Park street pipes laid a few years ago, are only 20 inches in diameter, future improvements will likely include a diversion easterly on Sherbrooke, to empty into the creek. The alternative would be to build a parallel drain south on Park street. It is recalled that Willis Chipman advised the 20-inch drain on Park street, but the proposal to put in a drain on Sherbrooke is decidedly preferable to laying another pipe on Park street.

ECONOMIC COUNCIL IS QUITE A NOVELTY

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, Junne 24.— A novelty in social legislation is the new German State Economic Council which is gazetted in the official REICHSANZEIGER. This institution may be from and side by side with the regular designated as a business and professional parliament of experts in all economic branches existing apart state legislature.

Its functions are to examine and pass upon all important economic measures, and it may even compile and present laws although neither the government nor the Reichstag are bound by its decisions.

This newly instituted body consists of 326 members representing agriculture and forestry, industries, trades banks, insurance, handicrafts, transportation and public enterprises, consumers' league, officialdom, fine arts and liberal professions, horticulture, fisheries. To the foregoing are added 12 members appointed by the Reichstag and 12 by the government.

The new council, which will meet for its first deliberations about the same time as the new Reichstag, viz, early next July, has only a provisional character. It is to pave the way for a permanent Economic Council in accordance with paragraph 165 of the German Constitution, which provides that "there shall be created on

A NEW YORK ENGINEER APPROVES HYDRO-RADIALS

Mr. W. S. Murray, a consulting engineer of New York City, employed by the Government to report on the Hydro Radial situation, has furnished the Government with his views. In brief he finds that the Hydro-Radial lines are justified and fails to find any duplication.

In summarizing his report, Mr. Murray states:

"(1) I consider the construction and operating estimates made by your engineering staff conservative.

"(2) I find the lines admirably located with reference to the passenger and goods traffic thy are designed to reach, the density of which is not in unfavorable comparison to existing roads which have thrived in the States.

"(3) I do not consider the act of their construction as one against which a charge of duplication can be made.

Construction Too Costly Now.

"(4) I am in full accord with the conclusion of the commission that it is inadvisable to proceed at this time with the full construction of these radials, on account of the greatly inflated costs applying both to line and equipment.

"(5) I consider it most important however, that the commission proceed with the development of full plans applying to financing as well as construction, in order that it may be in a position to acquire such existing radials and property as may be economically purchased, and which will after form parts of the completed systems."

Will Serve as Feeders.

As regards the question of duplication of existing transportation lines, Mr. Murray takes the view that the proposed radials will provide services which the present steam lines are not in a position to give, and that they will serve as feeders for the steam lines. In support of this view he quotes an opinion of Mr. D. B. Hanna, General Manager of the Canadian National Railways, expressed on May 2, 1918, during the arbitration proceedings relative to the valuation of the Canadian Northern Railway, that the facilities offered by the G.T.R. double-track system between Toronto and Niagara Falls were not sufficient to handle the traffic, and the statement of Hon. Dr. Reid in a letter to Sir Adam Beck, that, in view of the proposal to build a radial railway from Toronto to Kingston," he was prepared to recommend to the Council that the Toronto & Eastern Railway be handed over for the actual amount, and that he considered it urgent that a decision be arrived at at the earliest possible moment so that the road be constructed as a feeder for the Canadian National Railway System.

Present Service Inadequate.

Dealing with the districts the Toronto, Hamilton & Niagara Falls radial would serve, Mr. Murray expresses the opinion that existing transportation services do not provide an adequate service for the increasing surburban traffic. The electric line between Port Credit and Sunnyside has a slow speed and a difference in gauge necessitates a transfer of passengers at the junction point with the city lines. A similar condition exists adjacent to Hamilton. In the Niagara district the rail and roadbed construction are of higher order. In all three a considerable part of the roadbed, by reconstruction, might be made to lend itself to a line upon which a high-speed interurban traffic might be operated.

Tartar on Teeth

Shows That You Don't Clean Them—Note These Facts

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

This is to men and women who find that brushed teeth discolor and decay. Who find that tartar forms, or pyorrhea starts. You are not keeping teeth clean. You let a film remain and the damage is traced to it.

Dental science has found a way to end film. It is now embodied in a dainty tooth paste which millions are employing. We urge you to try it ten days at our cost and see the results for yourself.

That Film on Teeth
Can Now Be Ended in This Way

You can feel on your teeth a slimy film, ever-present, ever-forming. That film is the great tooth wrecker. Dental science now traces nearly all tooth troubles to it.

The film clings to the teeth, gets between the teeth, enters crevices and stays. The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary dentifrice does not dissolve it. So millions find that teeth discolor and decay despite the daily brushing.

Why Teeth Discolor

That film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Dental science, after years of searching, has found a way to combat film. Many able authorities have proved its efficiency. For five years it has been subjected to every sort of clinical and laboratory test.

Now, for home use, it is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Leading dentists all over America are now urging its adoption. This week we offer a 10-Day Tube to anyone who asks. And we urge that someone in every home prove its unique effects.

Based on Pepsin

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. Dental science has now discovered a harmless activating method. And now everyone can fight the film with active pepsin constantly.

See What It Does

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Use like any tooth paste. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Watch the results and read the reason for them. Compare this new method with the old. Then adopt for yourself and have your children adopt the method which seems best. This is of lifetime importance to you. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

Look Now

That film, to some extent, clouds nearly every set of teeth. And most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

Look in Ten Days

See how the teeth whiten—how they glisten—as the fixed film disappears. Then you will know there is a way to cleaner, safer teeth.

FARM CONDITIONS IN OLD ONTARIO

FIRST CUTTINGS OF HAY CROPS REPORTED—CROPS LOOK WELL.

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Rainfalls during the past week have more or less covered the Province, and as a consequence all field crops have been much improved.

The first cuttings of sweet clover and alfalfa have been made in several counties, and both crops as a rule are giving satisfaction.

Red clover is heading, and will soon be ready for cutting, but it is short in stalk, and although now thickening after the recent generous showers, it will be a comparatively light crop. Alsike is also described as having a low stand.

Early potatoes are in blossom, but the bug is said to be prevalent, and the flea beetle is also doing injury to the crop. Middlesex reports that the potato beetle is also attacking tomato plants.

Sugar beets are doing well, but Huron reports that mangels have been so disappointing that there has been a great demand for turnip seed. With recent rains all roots are doing better.

Elgin reports that the bean acreage is smaller than usual, but that the crop is coming along well.

Fall wheat is heading out nicely, but the straw will be shorter than usual, although recent rains have improved the general prospects of the crop. Lincoln makes mention of the appearance of loose smut, and Norfolk of injury from the Hessian fly.

Spring grains have also picked up well since the rains, which were much needed.

Brant reports that wireworms and cutworms have practically destroyed a number of fields of oats and corn. Cutworms have also been doing damage to cabbage and tomatoes. Most of the reports of insect injury come from the western portion of the Province.

Essex reports that some fields of tobacco have been almost ruined by hail, and others have been more or less a failure from dry weather, and that consequently there has been considerable resetting.

Orchards promise well. While the usual June drop has been going on, the quantity of fruit setting well on the trees has been large compared with recent years. Strawberry fields have been refreshened by the rains, and will likely yield good pickings.

Live stock are now doing well on pasture. Veal calves are bringing 15 and 18 cents a pound. In some of the western counties the heel-fly has been causing much annoyance to cattle.

The milk flow has about reached its peak. The Prescott and Russell representative states that in one cheese factory that pays on the fat basis, patrons have received at the rate of 77½ cent per pound of butter fat.

Huron reports that light hogs and some sows are being shipped. Small pigs range from $12 to $16 a pair.

Grey states that a number of draught colts are to be seen in the pastures, but Victoria [illegible] that fewer stallions are to be noticed on the country roads than formerly.

Grey reports that lambs are growing fast, and are high in quality.

Peel quotes the prices of wool as 30 cents a pound for fine and 15 cents a pound for coarse.

Dundas says that farmers are delighted with the results of co-operative selling, as they are securing better returns than they could get from the local drovers. Grey also remarks that co-operative buying is being extensively practised in that county—just now in hog feed, salt, and binder twine.

Referring to farm labour conditions, the Wentworth representative says: "Many farmers who would hire married men have houses which are empty because they cannot get help, although they are offering large wages."

Thanks From the Convention.

Mr. P. Green, president of the Provincial Council of Carpenters, concluded the preliminary formalities by acknowledging the welcomes that had been extended to the Council. He also thanked the committee for the arrangements for the convention and for the trip over the Lift-Lock on Friday morning, and expressed appreciation for the City Council's assistance.

The local reception committee from the Carpenters' Union is composed of Messrs. T. Robertson, B. Halpin and C. Leibers.

The President's Report.

This morning's business included the presentation of the reports from the President, Secretary and Executive.

In his survey of the year's work, President Green touched upon the organization of locals in Pembroke and Arnprior. "These organizations," he said, "have, in my opinion, put an end to the One Big Union in the Ottawa Valley so far as the Carpenters are concerned."

Mr. Green also pointed out that wages were becoming more uniform and with an ever increasing membership he hoped soon to see the province one hundred per cent. organized.

Executive Report.

The report from the executive, Messrs. Green, F. J. Hawes, T. Jackson and Thos. L. Clancy, said that the year just closing had been the most successful since the Council was formed in the betterment of working conditions and increase in membership. The 75c. rate had been more than reached and several locals are receiving from 80 to $1.00 an hour. The eight hour day has been established in places where the men had been working nine and ten hours before May of this year.

Fourteen New Locals.

Secretary Tom Jackson's eighth annual report showed a gain of fourteen locals during the year, with a total of 77, and during the same time the membership had grown from 5,294 to 7,451, but the figures for this year are not complete as membership returns have not come in yet from eight locals. The Provincial Council in 1917 had 46 locals and 2,500 members. The financial statement showed a satisfactory credit balance.

Proportional Vote.

Mr. A. J. Odam, of the Proportional Representation Society of Canada, attended the convention to explain to the delegates this system of voting. It is being employed in electing six delegates to the International convention.

UNLUCKY CANADIAN WOOLENS; LAST MINUTE GOAL FOR C.G.E.

CHAMBERS OPENED THE SCORING—M'DONALD SCORED THROUGH HIS OWN GOALS—HALF TIME WOOLENS 2, C.G.E. 1—C.G.E. ADDED TWO IN TEN MINUTES—CLARKE EQUALIZES—CALLANDINE SAVES A PENALTY—LAST MINUTE GOAL BY BARTLEY—C.G.E. 4, WOOLENS 3.

The Teams.

C. G. E. — J. Naples, goal; B. Mason and J. McDonald, backs; A. Perkins, H. Turner and J. Flanders, half backs; A. Gash, C. Hotson, R. Leach, Ed. Bartley and "Ted" Hotson, forwards.

Canadian Woollens — Sam Calladine, goal; A. Barton and J. Cridland, backs; F. Yelton, J. Jackson and A. Barrell, half backs; C. Thorpe, J. Montgomery, J. Chambers, J. Hodson and C. Clarke, forwards.

Chambers Scored in 5 Minutes.

Cridland won the toss for the first time this season and both teams visited each goal keeper in rotation. A solo run on the right by Thorpe and Montgomery bewildered the C. G. E. defence and Montgomery lifted the ball over Mason's head to Chambers, who made no mistake for the first goal. This sudden surprise made the C.G.E. stupid and though the steady influential work of Turner at half back held the fast going Woollens forwards in check. On mid-field play Chambers beat Turner in a tussel and in a good position missed the upright with a long drive. A foul against Wetton brought relief to the C.G.E. for McDonald to kick past.At the other end Wag missed an open goal from about 10 yards out.

McDonald Scored throuhg his Own Goals.

Gash broke away on the right to be stopped by Cridland in the corner, who pnnted down to Chambers. The centre-forward lifted the ball over his head, and McDonald (C.G.E.) back skyed his kick that went toward his own goals. Naples could not see the dropping ball, owing to the sun blinding his view, for the Woollens to receive their second goal. Even play went along for a while in mid-field until Henry Turner worked his way through the Woollens' defence to pass to Gash, who was lying in a questionable offside position, to beat Callandine with a low ground shot that went through into far corner upright post and the net.

"Wag" Hotson Tried to Punch the Ball Through.

The Woollens retaliated and were unfortunate in not scoring through Chambers' long drives that were missing the uprights by inches. On a visit to the Woollens' goal Ted Bartley shot across a beautiful ball to "Wag," and in his eagerness to get the ball, tried to fist it into goal. He burst into laughter himself after he had noticed his action. Individual play by Chambers kept the two C.G. E. defence men guessing, and from 20 yards out gave Naples a difficult shot to handle. The goal keeper punted up to Turner who slipped a beauty to Leach who lifted the ball over Bartons' head to Bartley. The renowned "Ted" made an awful swat for the ball right in front of goal to go past.

Just before half time the Woollens confined the play to the C.G.E. area. From about 20 yards out Birrell's drive just about went through. On return play Chambers tested Naples with an oblique shot. Half time — Canadian Woollens 2; C. G. E. 1.

HALF TIME.

On resuming Leach made a bee line for goal but was stopped by Calladine who conceded a corner that was fruitless. The C.G.E. forwards played havoc around the Woollens goal for the next 10 minutes, and after many brilliant and exciting saves by the Woollens' goal keeper, Gash received the ball at touch. He lashed the ball across to Bartley on the left wing to beat Calladine with an unsaveable shot. Just afterwards Chambers broke away through the centre and from 25 yards out gave Naples a hard one to hold. Jack Cridland was playing a great game at full back and many a time he came out on top after defeating three men.

Hotson gave C.G.E. the Lead.

The effective play of Turner always ended in disaster for the Woollens and in mid-field play the centre half drew out the defence to slip the ball out to Bartley who shot straight for goal. Caladine was waiting to pick up the cross but before he knew what had happened, "Wag" jumped upon it to deceive Calladine. Encouraged by their success the C.G.E. had the most of the play with Calladine being brilliant in goal.

Clarke Equalizes.

Four offsides against the C.G.E. gave the Woollens an opportunity to get down the field and through nice combination on the left wing Mason was outwitted by Clarke, who slipped the ball into the net.

At the other end C. G. E. forwards had the Woollens defence in trouble and in a melee in the penalty area an accidental foul awarded the C. G. E. a penalty. Gash was trusted with the kick, who tried to shoot in below the bar but Calladine diverted the ball between his hands and crossbar to go into play where Gash shot wildly over the cross bar.

From this period the Woollens outclassed the C. G. E. in every department. The C. G. E. forwards were called up five times in succession for being offside. During a disputed over time period the outside right of the C.G.E. worked a corner off Barton and from the corner kick Bartley received the ball right in front of goal to put the C.G.E. ahead again as the whistle blew for full time. C.G. E., 4; Canadian Woollens, 3.

Analysis of the Game.

The following analysis gives the run of play and decisions awarded by Referee Keller:

C. G. E.	1st Half.	2nd. Half.	Total
Goal kicks	8	7	15
Goals	1	3	4
Corners	0	3	3
Offside	2	9	11
Fouls	0	2	2

Canadian Woollens.	1st Half.	2nd Half	Total
Goal kicks	5	7	12
Goals	2	1	3
Corners	1	1	2
Offside	1	0	1
Fouls	1	2	3

Notes on the Game.

When the game finished the neutral linesman, Burrows claimed the referee played three minutes too long, but Colingwood (C.G.E.) agreed that they played full time. According to most of the spectators the C. G. E. won the two points during the overtime period.

One of the spectators was overheard saying: "Yes, the Woollens put it over them like a tent, but the horse shoe was inside."

President J. Parkins expressed his sentiments of the game when he said —"The C.G.E. were very lucky to win."

"It was a hard game to lose after having most of the play," exclaimed the Woollens' Captain.

No team has scored through Sam Calladine yet on a penalty kick. He played a fine game last evening, and deserves great credit.

The lats minute goal of the C. G. E. was scored in the disputed overtime period that gave them the two points. Jack Cridland could have protested the decision, but he is a real sport.

EAST PETERBORO LEAGUE WILL AFFILIATE WITH THE O.B.A.A.

LEAGUE MOGULS HELD A MEETING LAST EVENING—KEENE DROPS PROTEST.

Ring up another for Jake Solomon, the peerless purveyor of pep and other things in the interest of baseball. The East Peterborough Baseball League, which has become a very important organisation, will affiliate with the O.B.A.A., entering the Intermediate Series.

This decision was arrived at last night, when representatives of the clubs met at the Windsor Hotel.

Martin Coughlin, president of the League, and Frank Leahy, secretary-treasurer, were present, as well as a representative of all clubs, with the exceptiorn of Norwood.

Each team will deposit $3.00 with the secretary, to cover the O.B.A.A. fee and incidental expenses.

Protest Withdrawn.

The protest by Keene against Lush, who pitched two innings when Lakefield defeated Keene, was taken up, and after the Lakefield side of the case had been aired, Keene representatives displayed good sportsmanship and withdrew the protest. Lush is working for the Bell Telephone Co., and was in Lakefield before 24th May, according to statements made, and accepted.

Member Gives Trophy.

It was announced that Mr. E. N. McDonald, M.P.P. for East Peterborough, had offered to donate a trophy valued at $25.00, for competition by Norwood and Douro teams when they meet in Norwood in a league game on 6th July. Mr. McDonald's offer was accepted, and he will receive the warm thanks of the league for his splendid gift.

As Nassau players could not come to the city to-day to meet Keene in a league game at the Summer Fair, arrangements were made with Keene to play the Veterans of theCity League, the league game being moved on to next Saturday. The game will be played at Lakefield at 5.30.

Permission was given for the Douro-Norwood game of 1st July to be transferred to Tuesday, 6th July, and by mutual consent Nassau will play their home game with Lakefield at Lakefield on 1st July.

The drafting of the second half of the schedule covering the month of July was left with a committee. This schedule will be published on Saturday.

NORWOOD MADE A THREE-CORNERED TIE IN EAST PETERBORO LEAGUE

DEFEATED DOURO YESTERDAY IN A GOOD, FAST GAME--- SCORE WAS 12-11.

Norwood brought about a three-team tie in the East Peterborough League yesterday afternoon when the team won an exciting game with Douro on the latter team's grounds. The score was 12 to 11.

Norwood, Lakefield and Keene are now bunched, each having two wins and a loss.

As is usual in the Eastern circuit, the result of the game was in doubt until the last man was put out. In their final turn at bat, Douro had three on bases and one out, but a nice double play worked by Norwood stopped an outbreak of runs, and the visitors went away with the game.

George Heffernan, who beat Lakefield last week, pitched against Douro and got into trouble at the getaway, Douro collecting four runs, and he was lucky to keep "fifteen runs in an inning" crowd in check, for they threatened to break loose on several occasions. Cranley twirled well for Douro, but made trouble for himself by wild heaves to first base,. The batteries:

Norwood—Heffernan and English.
Douro—Cranley and Coughlin.
Umpire—Frank Leahy.

CITY LEAGUE GAME TO-MORROW

THISTLES AND WOOLLENS WILL CLASH AT 6.15 O'CLOCK

The first game in the second section of the City League will be played to-morrow (Friday) night at 6.15 o'clock, with the Thistles and Canadian Woollens as the opposing teams. The Thistles, who won the first round without a loss, are not likely to have such easy going in the second series, as all the other teams have strengthened up and are playing good ball. To-morrow night's game should be a good exhibition.

Permission has been given by the T. B.A.A. for the Hillcrests to play an exhibition game hereo n the afternoon of July 1st.

The Petes will play a Central League game in Cobourg on Saturday.

HELP HER HUSBAND IN RACE FOR TROPHY

MRS. BURTON IS ASSOCIATE SKIPPER OF SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S CAPTAIN.

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, June 24.—One of the mitigating circumstances of a yacht racer and prodigiously successful trophy hunter is the fact that not every cup is a cup.

At least that is the opinion of Mrs. Burton, "associate" Skipper of Sir Thomas Lipton's America Cup contender, Shramrock IV, who is here to help her husband Captain W. M. Burton, try for the trophy which has reposed west of the Atlantic since 1855. Her paradoxical opinion was uttered very seriously.

"Happily some of them are salvers, tea services, and what not," she said. "Imagine the housewifely task of polishing something like a thousand cups of embossed silver."

Having the cups is very fine, Mrs. Burton says, but the real joy of the thing is the race. Since her marriage, Mrs. Burton has not missed a race with her husband, who declares he'd as soon sail a race without his topsail as leave his wife behind.

Mr. Burton was reticent as to the precise duties of an associate skipper.

"I stand in the companionway just beyond the wheel and I always know that everything is coming out right and that we are going to win," she finally explained.

She said she never suffered from nervousness and never, never dreamed of making suggestions to her husband or in any way distracting his attention from the minutiae of his duties as helmsman.

"There could be nothing more out of place on a racing yacht than an excitable, unstrung woman. I am always perfectly calm and confident and enjoy it thoroughly.

"During my first experience in yacht sailing I used to get a bit perturbed and wrought up and I suppose there will never again be anything so thrilling as the first one of all, when we raced an old fashioned seven-ton affair—but that was long ago."

Mrs. Burton has full confidence in the speed of the latest Shamrock which is unlike any yacht that has ever sailed for the America trophy.

"It is not in the least like any other yacht that was ever made," she admitted, "bbut my husband and I believe it is invincible, and we count on winning that coveted mug this time."

SALE SEMI-READY SUIT LENGTHS MADE TO ORDER

Custom-made Suits From Odd Suit Lengths Left Over From a Busy Season.

"We have been allowed to participate in the selling of 1,000 suit lengths left over from a busy season in the Semi-ready Tailor Shops—not enough in each pattern to sample for the traveller—but sufficient to demonstrate the custom tailoring department which is a feature of the Semi-ready service.

"These suits are marked down for quick disposal to prices that do not represent the original cost. The cloth is worth from $8 to $10 a yard and each suit length is big enough to make a suit for a man of 44-inch breast.

"All the sample suit lengths at $60 to $75 we will make up into suits to exact measurements for $45—free of tax.

"The worsteds and tweeds that have been selling at $50 and $55 we will tailor to order for $40."

EAST PETERBORO BASEBALL GAME

The Bolumk's ball team uncorked a surprise on the Keene East Peterboro team in Keene Tuesday night and defeated them 6 to 4.

The Bolumk's line-up was: Huff, catcher; Doughty, pitcher; White, 1st base; Thirnbeck, 2nd base; Rutherford, short stop; Tudhope, 3rd base; Anderson and Meredith and Herbison, in the field.

The game had plenty of swing to it and aroused lots of excitement amongst the fans of Keene. A feature of the game was several phenomenal catches by Meredith in the field.

ON THE LINE OF FIRE!

Mortality Tables show that Nine out of each Thousand die every year, says the Underwriters' News.

Put a Thousand Men side by side in a line, faced by an equal number of Soldier, each with a rifle in his hand; 991 of these rifles are loaded with blank cartridges, and Nine are loaded with real Bullets.

The Men in this line know that Nine of them will fall when the Command is given to fire—but do not know who these Nine will be.

Suppose a Life Insurance Policy were offered to each of these Thousand Men, would not every sensible man take out the Insurance?

BIG CROWD AT SUMMER FAIR

Every element necessary for the success of a summer fair has combined in making Father C. J. Phelan's fair, which is being held at the Exhibition grounds to-day such, and so far the grounds have been well filled.

The principal attraction during the earlier part of the day has been the dining room at which, from dainty decorated tables expertly managed, a splendid cold dinner was served. At six o'clock this evening a genuine old fashioned tea will be served with a menu consisting of cold meats, salads, baked beans and all manner of home-made cooking. In this department which is in one of the buildings at the grounds, which building has been transformed into a beauty spot by flags, flowers and ferns, the ladies in charge and Mrs. W. S. Merrill and Mrs. Gus White, convenors, assisted by Mrs. Frank Fairen, Mrs. Tom McQuillan, Mrs. Fred Shannon, Mrs. Kit Rutherford, Mrs. Jack McAuliffe, Mrs. J. J. Lynch, Miss Nevin, Mrs. M Tooley, Mrs. Joe White, Mrs. Grisdale, Mrs. T. A Grant, Mrs Billy O'Brien and Mrs Fitzpatrick.

The Booths.

About the grounds charmingly decorated booths carrying out every pretty color scheme possible, have been arranged. At the ice cream booth Miss Cecil Kennaley is convenor, and is assisted by Misses Kathleen and Gertrude Clancy, Miss Margaret MacDonald and Miss Frankie Walsh.

At the fish pond which contains presents suitable for the young and old, including dolls, toys, embroideries, etc., and guaranteed to please whoever gets them, Miss Annie Simons, Mrs. Tom Cronyn and Miss Hanna Fraser are in charge.

In the "Palm Garden" in the exhibition building the girls of St. Peter's have a maze of attractions, including an ice cream and soft drink booth, a teelgraph office, a cigar booth, a flower garden and a tennis court at the rear.

Country Store.

One new feature at the fair is the "country store" at which through purchases made by a wheel of fortune managed by Mr. Jean Hurtubise and Mr. George Lynch, groceries, children's and ladies' wear, potatoes, embroidery and every household commodity may be obtained. This is under the capable management of Mrs. J. V. Gallivan, Mrs. M. J. Daly and Mrs Richard Sheehy.

To-night's Attractions.

While all attractions mentioned are fully worth while attending, the fair to-night a special programme is being held and Danny Simons, the celebrated vaudeville actor, will put on a Scotch sketch and the Convent children's drills and choruses.

PLUNKETT—WINDSOR.

At the residence of Mr. Walter Windsor, River Road, on Wednesday evening, 23rd June, a pretty wedding took place, when Catharine Thelma, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Windsor, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Ernest Plunkett, of Keene. Rev. G. E. Ross, of Mark Street Methodist Church, performed the ceremony. The bride looked charming in blue silk, wearing the conventional wedding veil, her ornament being a pearl necklace. The bridesmaid, Miss McCall, of Apsley, was dressed in white; and the best man was Mr. Herbert Trollop, of Peterborough. After the ceremony a pleasant evening was spent in dancing. At midnight a sumptuous repast was served, which was much enjoyed. A few of the guests were Mrs. John A. ADVISED TO BUY STRAWBERRIES EARLY

The public are advised by a local fruit dealer to buy their berries now if they wishl to get the finest and sweetest berries. His berries he sold at 25c a box and 22c by the dozen. While the price might be lower he claimed that the berries would be inferior in quality to those now.

The public he stated are more discriminating than in past year's and they cannot import berries from Grimsby where they are cheaper because they get slightly mushed and the people won t buy them The berries may be excellent in other ways and especially for canning but at the sign of a bruise the buyers turn up their nose and ask for the better quality.

"Work hard and live a 'safe and sane' life.

"Early to bed and early to rise.

"Cosmetics aren't necessary. Get your bloom of youth from the sun and winds.

"Don't gossip. If you don't have anything good to say about a person, don't say anything at all."

GUNNING FOR PROFITEERS WITH A WOODEN GUN DOES NOT APPEAL TO J. MURDOCK

COMMISSIONER GIVES HIS REASON FOR RESIGNING FROM BOARD OF COMMERCE.

"UNDERHANDED"

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, June 25. — "I could not submit to going through the Canadian woods hunting for profiteers with a wooden gun."

That is how Commissioner James Murdock explained the stand he has taken in resigning from the Board of Commerce when interviewed at his home this morning.

His strong face appeared unusually aggressive as he outlined the limitations of the Board and the lack of support which it had received from the Cabinet.

"They wanted to pay me to help them camouflage the public," he said, referring to Sir Robert's request that he continue as Commissioner until such time as the Privy Council should decide on the constitutionality of the legislation pertaining to the Board.

A Conference.

"Sir Robert thought I was kidding in my letter to him on the 17th. I gave him one week to fill the vacancies on the Board by appointment.

"That afternoon I was called to his office for a conference. There we talked over the situation, and Sir Robert urged me again to stay on. But I wrote again on the 18th, and said that I would feel I was not giving the people of Canada service if I stayed any longer than the week. As it was, I stayed one day longer than the week in order to sign two orders."

Commissioner Murdock complained also about the estimates for the Board of Commerce. There was supposed to be $100,000 for the maintenance of the Board, exclusive of the salaries of the Commission, he said.

The Estimates.

"I don't think they have done anything towards getting that amount," he said, "nor do I think that they have any intention of doing so. The Board is dying for want of money."

Commissioner Murdock pointed out that he had no personal differences with the members of the Cabinet. Although he charged that work of the Board was intertered with, he did not say it was done in a direct way.

"The whole thing was underhanded," he said. "For example, we could not go about our routine business without finding that some one was hindering us. Ordinary routine information, which should have been obtained in an hour or so, could not be obtained often for days.

"I was to resign on the 23rd, but I kept on until yesterday to get out two orders which should have long since been fixed up had we had the assistance to do it."

BACKS UP MINISTERS.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, June 25.—"Mr. Murdoch is actuated by fierce personal malignity," asserted Judge Robson last night when informed of Mr. Murdoch's resignation and statements. "I may shortly follow the matter up further," he added.

Questioned in regard to the Crescent Creamery letter the Judge said: "I had heard of the matter, but had absolutely forbidden the showing of the letter to me, and its receipt was entirely unlooked for. As far as the statements relating to Cabinet ministers are concerned, they are, from experience, equally absurd. I don't know of any facts whatever from which he could infer that any of the ministers were insincere about the board."

EXTRACT FROM LETTER

Some Extracts from James Murdock's sensational letter to Sir Robert Borden, the Premier, follow:

"We have been handicapped for months without a chairman and a proper staff, and I am not going to be a party to making a joke of the law."

"The people of Canada expect service for salary, even though your Cabinet do not."

"The majority of your Cabinet . . . are not and never have been, in sympathy with the intent of the Board of Commerce Act."

"Members of your Cabinet began to undertake to minimize to as great an extent as possible what they believed to be unnecessary and unfair provisions when applied to the businesses of those for whom these honorable gentlemen no doubt had first regard."

"That the chairman Judge Robson appointed by your government was regarded by certain interests as being safe and sane."

"That the general viewpoints and desires of the former Chairman (Judge Robson) were well known by various honorable members conected with your Cabinet, and especially by the Honorable Mr. Calder."

Business men living together under the protection of the tariff have got to know each other so well that price-fixing agreements and all sorts of agreements and arrangements are the rule rather than the exception."

"My conscience will not permit me to become a high-salaried time-server."

VILLAGE SMITHY TURNED HIS ATTENTION TO MANUFACTURE OF HOMEMADE TANGLEFOOT

Police Jumped in and Dismantled the Industry—Mother of "Moonshiner" Upset Two Barrels of Moisture, But He Parted With $500.

WALKERTON, June 25.—John W. Wilson a young blacksmith residing with his parents about 1 1-2 miles west of Pinkerton, was fined $500 in Walkerton on Saturday last for infractions of the liquor law, says The Walkerton Herald and Times. Wilson, who had been suspected of manufacturing moonshine whiskey for some time, was caught foul with the goods early Saturday morning last after the officers had visited his place on two former occasions without result.

Militant Quartette.

Hearing repeatedly that Wilson was making a brand of swamp whiskey with a kick like a canal mule, Inland Revenue Officer Johnston, of Owen Sound, accompanied by Inspector Mat. Beckett, of Grey, and Policeman Boan, of Owen Sound, swung into Walkreton at daybreak on Saturday last and picking up Inspector White here, the quartette steamed off to Wilson's home in Greenlock and landed there while the boozeman himself was away.

They were conducting a n incriminating search when Mrs. Wilson, mother of the suspected moonshiner, rushed out and upset two barrels of moisture which the officers reached in time to get a sample from the bottom of the casks and which proved to be brew ready for the boiling and in a fair state for developing later into the real tanglefoot.

Mrs. Wilson, it seems ,again attempted to destroy evidence by hurling a gallon jug of booze unto the ground with the evident intention of smashing the vessel and dispersing the contents.

Pleaded Guilty.

The crock, unfortunately, didn't break, and recovering it she pulled the cork and began pouring the mixture out. Constable Baon, however, butted in on this operation, and wrestled the jug from her, and an examination of its contents revealed a strong quality of the finished moonshine product.

The copper boiler and other parts of a still weer also coralled on the premises, and with these trophies the officers were about to depart, when Wilson, himself, blew in and was put under arrest and escorted with due solemnnity to Walkerton, where he pleaded guilty before Magistrates Tolton and Richardson to a charge laid by the inland revenue officer under the Dominion law of having a still and manufacturing, and for which he was mulcted $300 and costs.

Needed a "Bracer."

Inspector White then moved forward and pressed a charge against the accused for an infraction of the Ontario Temperance Act by having liquor in other than a private dwelling house, and to which the defendant also confessed and coughed up another $200 and costs, making a total contribution of upwards of $550 for his performances in the booze line.

The curtain ha dhardly dropped on this part of the programme when Wilson left himself liable for another two hundred dollar touch by seizing the glass of booze on the town hall table, which had been brought there as evidence for the court, and tossing it into himself as a bracer in the presence of Chief Ferguson and others.

The indiscreet move was overlooked by the authorities, who thought Wilson had already put enough gold on the plate for one occasion.

LARGE CROWD TOOK IN THE PICNIC YESTERDAY

With a programme of prominent farmer speakers, ideal weather following the showers, the South Monaghan and Cavan U.F.O. picnic held on the beautiful grounds of Mr. R. A. Caldwell at Wallace's Point yesterday afternoon was a notable success.

Stirring addresses were given by Mr. J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., Toronto, Mrs. G. A. Brodie of Toronto, president of the U.FW.O., Mr S. S. Staples, Millbrook, M.P.P. for East Durham, and Rev. A. J. McConnachie, Centreville.

Cars and other vehicles began arriving shortly after dinner, bringing farmers with their families from far and near. It is estimated that there were over one thousand persons on the grounds, and while some doubted this, it is an approximate number. The sun shown down out of an azure sky early in the afternoon, but it soon began to cloud up and the speeches that were started about four o'clock, were interrupted by intermittent showers. The greater part of J. J. Morrison's speech was delivered after supper.

After the showers the sun came forth again and drove away all storm clouds. Old Sol was in a pleasant mood and he imbbed some of his exuberance into the gathering.

An Ideal Spot.

There is no more beautiful spot along the entire river than Wallace's Point, and June, with its sunshine, clear cool atmosphere, the flowers in all their splendor, the droning of bees and twittering birds is the ideal time for picnics. The lovely home of Mr. Caldwell was gaily decorated for the affair with flags and banners. The white house, with the touch of color surrounded with the deep green of the grass with the myriads of people on the lawn, and road, completed an entrancing picture.

After the few short addresses, Mr. Morrison began, but did not continue owing to the showers. Supper for the speakers was served in the pavilion, while under the spreading branches of the trees and on the verandah or in their cars, families opened their picnic hampers, safely esconced from the downpour. A booth conducted by Mr. Caldwell, added much to the success of the occasion.

In the evening a ball game between a picked nine from Bailieboro and Cavan and their rivals in Millbrook was a feature of the day. After a contest that showed some good material down that way, the boys from Cavan and Bailieboro chalked up 13 and won by two runs. The field looked like a stretch of No Man's Land, with its hills and hollows, but this only added to the fun of the game.

A Dance.

A dance in the pavilion at night came near being a catastrophe, for several of the posts underneath gave way. This was soon remedied, however ,and the dance went merrily on to the squeaks of the fiddle, until a late hour. Square dances and quadrilles were interspersed with one-steps and waltzes, and while the first were more popular, the fiddler had to

INTERNATIONAL PAYS MORE THAN RECEIVES

CASH BENEFITS TO CARPENTERS OF CANADA EXCEEDS THE TOTAL OF THEIR DUES.

The membership of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners is increasing at the rate of 10,000 a month, Mr. George Lakey, of Indianapolis, one of th vie-presidents of the International, told the Ontario Provincial Council of the Brotherhood at last night's session of their convention in St. Alphonsus Lyceum.

The total enrolment in March had grown to 363,161 in April, and that month's increase was indicative of the Brotherhood's progress.

Answering the One Big Union's question "Why send money into the United States?" in the labour movement, Mr. Lakey gave to the convention a statement of the year's receipts of dues from Canada and payment of benefits to the Canadian unions, showing that the payments by the International Brotherhood exceeded the receipts from this country by the sum of $44,563.41.

Canadian carpenters had paid into the general treasury $63,805.09 in dues during th year, and they had received as strike benefits $73,818.50. death benefits $0,450. and organisation and other work cost $108,268.50.

Congratulated Canada.

In referring to these facts, Mr. Lakey stated that there was no criticism from the International of the excess payments to the Canadian carpenters. In fact, he conveyed hearty congratulations for the increased strength and general progress gained by the trade in this country during the year, but when any insinuation was made by the One Big Union or any person in regard to the sending of dues to the International, the balance sheet for the last year was proof that the Canadian branch of the Brotherhood was actually receiving considerably more financial assistance than their total dues for the same period.

Have Made Progress.

Mr. Lakey dwelt upon the advantages the trade had received in increased wages. Of 732 trade movements during the year, 94 per cent. had been settled successfully with gains of from 10 cents to 60 cents an hour, and at the present time the prevailing high average of wages was from one dollar an hour to ten dollars a day. The trade movement report

A Truthful Story of Married Life in New York Society Circles

In to-morrow's issue, The Examiner will present the opening instalment of "Virtuous Wives." This book is conceded to be one of the newspaper serials appearing on the market for some time.

The heroine of the story—which is by Qwen Johnson—Amy Forrester, is the young wife of a New York business man, and is possessed of beauty, wealth, sensibility, and, at first, ideals, but the growing need of mental excitement and emotional stimulus which her life of idle luxury creates, leads her farther and farther into a world where the one aim is to seek amusement. Little by little her sensibilities are dulled, her ideals fade and vanish, and it needs the shock of tragedy to open her eyes to her own real status and that of her friends—"Virtuous Wives" though they deem themselves.

The book is altogether a highly interesting story of married life in a well-known social environment.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is is that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. We have helped a large number of children. See W. H. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George street.

TROOPS FLOOD THE STRICKEN CITY AND FIGATING IS SUPPRESSED.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, June 25. — Military authorities had gained control and were holding the city in an iron grip last evening, according to latest reports received here from Londonderry.

At 11 o'clock the fighting and firing had ceased and all was peaceful for the first time in nearly a week.

A rigorous campaign to round up snipers had been begun.

The only certain victim of the fighting yesterday was a small boy of eight who was shot dead in a Catholic institution.

The city magistrates made desperate attempts to get food into the city to stave off threatened famine.

The government decided against a declaration of martial law in Londonderry, it has been announced, after a consultation with Sir Neville Macready, commanding the British forces in Ireland. Sir Neville declared such a move would be inadvisable.

Several additional battalions of British troops were under orders to proceed to Ireland, as much to cope with the threatened shutting down of the railroads as with the Londonderry uprising.

APPROACHING NORMAL.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDONDERRY, June 25.—Londonderry to-day was approaching normal conditions. Banks and many shops were open and people ventured into the streets. The food supply was short, however, and the town is still without gas. Fighting between warring factions since midnight was confined to sniping, rival elements evidently fearing to attempt massed activities in view of the increased military forces.

SERIES OF OUTRAGES.

(Canadian Press.)

BANTRY, County Cork, June 25. — What was apparently a concerted series of outrages against Sinn Feiners occurred here, one death and the burning of several homes and shops resulting. One young man was shot dead in bed by masked men who later set fire to the shop and dwelling of a local merchant. Both men were prominent in Sinn Fein circles. An attempt was made to burn stores on the Quay, where employes are all Sinn Feiners. Residence of recently elected chariman of guardians of Sinn Fein also was destroyed, by fire.

SNIPERS BUSY.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 25.—Snipers were busy in Londonderry during last night, according to a Central News despatch from that city. Troops on guard there fired on disorderly elements several times and also disposed of looters. About midnight firing became so intense that a searchlight on a destroyer in the harbor was thrown on the city in an endeavor to locate men engaged in fighting. A former soldier was killed.

OF COURSE! OF COURSE!

EVERYBODY KNOWS YOU, BUT WHAT DO THEY KNOW ABOUT YOUR STORE TO-DAY?

Surest thing on earth! Of course! Everybody in town knows you. How could it be otherwise? Let's see, how long have you been doing business at the same old stand? Well, well! It doesn't seem as long as that.

But that's not the point. We admit that everybody in town whose trade you want does know you. Knows where your store is. Knows it is still there, doing business.

All fine and dandy! But—

Does everybody know what you can do for 'em To-day? This particular day, with its own particular to-morrow?

You've just opened up some new goods. Do they all know that?

You've got some slow-moving stock that you're sticking a new price-tag into to wake it up. Do they know that?

You've installed a new service wrinkle for their benefit. Do they all know it?

Those are the real advertising questions.

The fact that they knew what your store-front looked like week before last doesn't mean that they know what the inside of your store can do for them to-day, does it?

That's what daily newspaper advertising can give them. It keeps your store from being a closed book, or a hickory nut they must crack for themselves.

Through your advertising, "everybody knows you" in a way that means business and profits.

That's the kind of "knowing you" that you want.—Ad Route.

WARSAW FARMERS ARE INTERESTED

HEARD AN ADDRESS ON OBJECTS OF NEW FARMERS' COMPANY.

From the interest shown at a meeting of farmers held in Warsaw last evening to discuss what action should be taken in regard to the new dairy company, the United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, there seems good reason to believe that at least two more Peterborough county factories may soon be shiping their cheese to the new farmers' company in Montreal. At last night's meeting the patrons of both Warminster and Warsaw factories were represented. Mr. Payne, salesman for the Warminster factory, acted as chairman.

The objects and aims of the new dairy company, and what it may mean to Peterborough county and district, were fully explained by the speakers of the evening: Messrs. J. E. Galvin, of Lakefield, and H. B. Cowan, of Farm and Dairy. The advantages of the new system of selling were fully explained and the importance of farmers getting behind their own company was emphasized. It was shown that the only reason why buyers would pay higher prices for cheese on the local cheese boards than they paid for the cheese sold by the company in Montreal, was a desire to injure the farmers' company. At the close of the meeting, expressions of opinjons were called for. These given indicated a desire to get behind the new company.

It was decided to call meetings for Tuesday evening of the patrons of both the Warminster and Warsaw factories, in the factories, in order that the patrons shall be given an opportunity to decide whether or not they intend to ship to the new company. Mr. Wallace Armstrong of Warsaw, said that if this new farmers' company becomes the big influence in the dairy industry that it promises to be, he would like to see the Warsaw farmers get some of the credit that will ultimately attach itself to those who help make the company a success.

GROWING CURRANTS AND GOOSEBERRIES

Success in growing either gooseberries or currants depends in a large measure on the pruning. There are two systems of pruning, the tree and the bush forms. In this country, however, it is best to prune to the bush form. If left to itself, the bush soon becomes a mass of shoots, non producing good fruit. The best fruit is produced on canes from two or four years old, and by leaving one or two of the stronger young shoots each year and cutting out one or two of the oldest ones the bearing wood can be kept in the best condition.

A large number of shoots are produced each year, many more than is necessary for the good of the plant. The weaker of these must be cut out, leaving from six to eight, depending on the strength of the bush, which is considered sufficient for a commercial plantation.

RENEWAL OF CANES.

The canes should be renewed every three years, that is, pruning should be so done that there will be no canes of over three years of age. When the plants are weak, it is advisable to head back the canes in order to produce good, marketable fruit.

When the plants are set the tops should be cut back slightly and the bush balanced up as much as possible. The tops of each cane should be cut back a little each year and the season's growth cut back, usually severely, depending upon the growth made. The young shoots not needed should be cut out every year.

All branches tending to lie on the ground should be removed, and the centre of the bushes kept somewhat open by removing all crowding and interfering branches. Do not leave the bushes too thick. This is a common mistake in pruning these fruits. Larger berries and better-filled bunches are secured and the fruit is more easily harvested if the bushes are not allowed to become too dense.

Pruning may be done any time during the dormant season, but it is perhaps better to do the work during late winter or very early in the spring before growth starts.

In pruning it is highly important to keep on the lookout for the cane borer, which is a little worm that bores in the centre or pith of the cane. This worm always works downward. A cane with a black centre, and somewhat hollow, indicates the work of the borer, and such a cane should be cut back until the sound, healthy pith is reached.

STONEY LAKE SERVICE ON DOMINION DAY

The Stoney Lake Navigation Co'y. have arranged for a splendid holiday service up the lakes on Dominion Day. In addition to the two regular boats leaving Lakefield, the commodious steamer "Stoney Lake", will be put on the Lift Lock Route for a delightful trip up the Trent Canal, and on up through the lakes. Passengers can, if they desire, have their meals on board, or at Burleigh Falls where the steamer will stop. To increase the interest in the sail on the lakes, a fine orchestra will furnish music on board where dancing may be enjoyed amid the glorious breezes and the comfort and ease of the fine boat,— all combining to make a refreshing and invigorating holiday. See the window cards.

MODERN TOOLS SAW ORIGIN CENTURIES AGO

Modern tools originated in ancient times, and many of the old-time forms were of much better workmanship than those in use today. Thus it appears that the forms of the chrisel were perfected 2,500 years ago, and that the beauty of workmanship in Bronze Age chisels has never been exceeded.

The carpenter's saw was at first merely a blade roughly hacked on the edge. By 4500 B.C. it had regular teeth, sloping equally both ways, and by 900 B.C. the Italians gave a rake to the teeth to make them cut in one direction instead of merely scraping, as before.

Shears were invented in 400 B.C., the "snuffers" referred to in Exodus having been merely a small knife and a pair of tweezers to trim the wicks of lamps, with a point to part the trands. The screw was a Greek invention, and greatly used by the Romans as a means of or producing motion. Centuries passed, however, before the nut and screw, for fastening ,was invented. The common screw came into use less than 200 years ago.

Thick beaten wire was made into chains with round links as far back as the Second Dynasty, 5200 B.C.; and links doubled and looped through one another appeared in the Sixth Dynasty, 4200 B.C. Yet chains were not commonly used until much later. The Gauls excelled in such work, as they used chain cables and rigging in place of rope to resist the Atlantic gales.

ALAND ISLANDS WOULD RE-UNITE WITH SWEDEN

POPULATION 12,000—CLAIM FOR ANNEXATION TO FINLAND BEFORE CONFERENCE.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, June 24.—The natives of the Aland Islands which lie between Sweden and Finland, at the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia, are engaged in a lively agitation for reunion wi th Sweden, acording to the advices received by representatives of the Swedish government in this country. The population of the islands is about 12,000. Formerly they were held by Sweden but were taken over by Russia 120 years ago. After the world war a delegation from the Aland Islands presented to the Peace Conference a claim for annexation to Finland. A commission was appointed by the conference which recomended that the Archipelago be neutralized under a guarantee of the League of Nations.

Apparently this delegation did not faithfully represent the attitude of all the islanders for other Alanders have been agitating for self-determination and permission to join with Sweden since the beginning of 1918.

The Swedish government has taken up the subject with the Powers and has asked the government of Finland to submit the question by referendum to the natives of the Aland Islands.

According to a statement drawn up by a Swedish premier, efforts to settle the matter between Finland and Sweden have failed and the Swedish government has appealed to the Peace Conference in support of the demands of those Alanders who desire to be annexed to Sweden.

On June 1, a delegation of the County Council at Aland, empowered by 96 per cent of the population of the islands, visited Stockholm and was received by King Gustave. This delegation presented the demands of the islanders for their right of self-determination and their intention to reunite with Sweden, declarng that their failure to receive these rights were causing impatience and that if they were withheld while being granted to others would cause great apprehension with the Aland population.

The King assured them that Sweden was making all possible efforts to obtain a decision which would be based on the vote of the islanders themselves.

HAVE NOT EXHUMED MRS. LANGLOIS' BODY

QUEBEC, June 24.—Louis Langlois, aged 38, the resident of Whitefish Lake, near Kazubazua, Que., who is charged with murdering his father, Thomas Langlois, was arraigned before Magistrate Millar in Hull Police Court, but was immediately ermanded until Wednesday, June 30, for the preliminary hearing.

Langlois, since arrested, has not made any statement regarding the tragic death of his father. The prisoner did not appear to be worrying when he appeared in the court room.

Though Detective Brisette stated that Langlois may also be charged with murdering his mother, who is said to have died in a mysterious manner a few weeks prior to the death of his father, no action has been taken to have her body exhumed. Residents of the community where the Langlois family lived, informed the police they were certain that the mother was also made away with by the prisoner. Detective Brisette will also investigate this ch ge. He is in Montreal and will no likely return to Hull until the preliminary hearing.

Langlois was not represented by counsel in Police Court. Crown-Attorney Parent appeared for the prosecution.

Separated From His Wife.

Langlois, who is a man about 35 years, and married, though separated from his wife, had been living at his parents' home with his 11-year-old daughter. Some months ago, Langlois suggested to his parents that they give him their property, and he would keep them during their life time. The parents would not agree to this propositioni

Think Mother Poisoned

After the rejection of Louis Langlois' proposal, it is stated that a woman, stopping at the Langlois home, whose name is unknown, and Mrs. Thomas Langlois, the wife of the dead man, died within a few weeks of one another. Mrs. Langlois died somewhat mysteriously, and there are suspicions that her death was the result of poisoning.

According to Louis Langlois' version of his father's death, he discovered his father lying with a gaping wound in his head, near a big stone, when he returned from the field where he had been doing some work. There was a ladder nearby, and Langlois surmised that his father had hit his head on the stone after falling from the ladder.

Coroner Doubtful.

Coroner Davies is most emphatic in his statement that the stone on which Thomas Langlois is supposed to have hit his head could never have caused the terrible hole in the skull of the victim. The nature of the wound indicates that only a blunt instrument used with considerable force, could have smashed in the skull.

Langlois was anxious to secure his father's farm. When taken in charge by Detective Brisette, he had on his person $200 in $10 bills. This sum is alleged to be part of the $260 which the victim received a few days before his death from a neighbor in payment for some logs. On the morning of May 18, a few hours after the tragedy, the alleged slayer sent his little girl away. Another gruesome feature of the case is the mysterious death of Mrs. Langlois a short while before her husband met a fragic end. Mrs. Langlois' death which, it is hinted, was caused by poisoning, will be thoroughly probed, and Langlois may eventually be charged with murdering both his father and mother.

THE AUTOMATIC WIRELESS CALL

One of the reasons why wireless telegraphy has not been made compulsory on smaller vessels is that its value has depended upon an operator being continuously on duty. Important calls might come at any moment, night or day, and unless there was an operator always with his ear to the telephone, the value of the installation would be enormously reduced. This drawback has been removed by a recent invention by a British wireless telegraph expert. It is described as an "automatic call device" which rings a bell when messages of a certain kind, such as the ship's special call signals or the S.O.S. signal for help, are being sent out. When this device is installed, a ship does not need relays of operators continually in the wireless cabin. It is enough to train two or three officers in the use of the wireless teegraph instrument. The bell calls them when they are likely to be required—as in the case of the ordinary telephone.

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require. They regulate and stimulate the heart and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, N.S., writes:—"I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting as I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man."

Price 50c. a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WORD ABOUT FALL STYLES FOR MEN

NEW YORK, June 24.—The price cutting wave which loomed on the horizon several weeks ago and spread rapidly throughout the country attracted fully as much attention to the stores and departments selling apparel for men as to those dealing exclusively in garments for women. This seemed to prove either that high prices had discouraged men from buying clothes they actually needed or that if supplied they were stocking up as a safeguard against another advance in the fall. In either case old H. C. of L. was given a definite wallop and the market at large was so affected that wholesalers reported advanced orders for fall merchandise at a complete standstill.

As price reductions on merchandise already in stock will probably continue for some time and purchasers of suits in many case will undoubtedly buy garments with the idea of saving them for the early fall, a word about fall styles in men's suits is of interest at this time.

"Jazz" Effects Out of Running.

It seems apparent that "jazz" effects are decidedly out of the running. Conspicuous clothes are to be neither in good taste nor good style. Mixtures, of course, are in the lead, but these mixtures are in very subdued tones, with green, it is said, on the shelf. Brownish shades will head the procession in fabrics, with navy as always a staple and good. Oxfords will also be approved.

As to style in fall suits, there is no radical difference or change apparent. Clothes will fit easily and comfort-

Patch pockets are receiving favourable attention, and it is said the little extra "cash" pocket has been eliminated for the coming season.

Overcoat Fabrics Heavy.

In overcoats, fabrics favoured are decidedly heavy. Last winter was so generally severe that coat manufacturers are apparently solid on the idea that the overcoat should be heavy enough for any emergency. They are acting accordingly. Overcoats, like suit coats, are loose and full and a trifle longer than last season, the average being forty-three inches as against forty last year.

Vivid colourings and conspicuous patterns are shown in tie silks for the stretching and wrinkling. The wool poplin in plain colours is very much favoured by some tie manufacturers, and it is claimed for this fabric that it is practically indestructible. The tie that will not wrinkle, the one that will not wear out and the inconspicuous suit are all designed to appeal to the man who is economically inclined. As a matter of fact, the economy urge looms up strong in the whole advance line of men's apparel.

Light Wool Hats Popular.

Summer weather has arrived this year rather spasmodically, and as yet strictly summer headgear has not dominated the field. A few men blossomed forth in straw hats the middle of May, and stragglers have fallen into line as the warm spell approached. But even these days, the headgear is not of the cool type, the use of light wool hats and caps being much in evidence. These, of course, will give place to the straw hats as the season advances.

SHORTAGE OF CARS.

Because of the fact that if a Canadian freight car gets across the border into United States al hope must be given up for its return for many months, the C.P.R. tranships all goods routed to that country at their ports of entry, according to R. McKillop, superintendent of the local division.

When the goods reach the border it is held until a foreign car can be secured. As there is a great shortage of American freight cars, this means that goods are often delayed for some time.

The G.T.R. will not ship goods destined to the United States unless a foreign car can be secured at the shipping point. No great difficulty is experienced by the G.T.R. in finding foreign empties, according to local officials.

CARELESS MOTORISTS.

The increasing number of automobile accidents in the city should impress every motorist with the necessity of observing common sense and judgment in his handling of his car on busy throughfares. The traffic laws were devised for the protection alike of pedestrians and motorists and should be carried out in that light instead of being regarded as they are by many car owners as regulations that can be ignored with impunity so long as there are no policemen around to interfere. The motor traffic on Peterborough's streets is heavier now than ever before in the city's history and consequently the need of care on the part of chauffeurs is greater than ever. There is no room for heedless or absent-minded drivers or for those who disregard the rules of the road and the speed limit ,and the sooner this fact is recognized the sooner will travelling on local streets become safe and sane. A few stiff fines for the flagrant offenders might have a beneficial effect upon all motorists—certainly on the part of many of them there is need of improvement.

THE "BRIBERY" CHARGES.

The "bribery" talk indulged in by several U.F.O. members of the Legislature at Farmers' gatherings during the past few weeks which has been the cause of much comment in the newspapers recently, has been finally sifted by the Attorney-General with the result that the members whose names have been mentioned have definitely and flatly denied that any improper proposal has been made them or any inducement offered them in the interests of any particular legislation. Mr Andrew Hicks, the Government Whip, whose recent speech caused all the trouble, said that his statement on that occasion was entirely based on a remark made by Mr. M. C. Fox, M.P.P., and the latter informs the Attorney-General that Mr. Hicks received a wrong impression of what he said. And so the tempest in a tea-pot ends, with the honour of the Province untarnished. The incident, however, should not be without value if it succeeds in impressing upon men in public life the desirability of carefully weighing their words in touching upon public matters from the platform. There are too many hasty speeches delivered and the old alibi of blaming the reporters when trouble follows any of these ill-advised statements will not always serve to save the situation.

A STRANGE POSITION.

Mr. D. J. Taylor, U.F.O. member for North Grey, who admits that he was offered a bribe of $1,000, persists in his refusal to supply the Attorney-General with the name of the person who made the offer and gives no further information other than that the money was not offered in connection with any legislation. Mr. Taylor declares that as nothing came of the offer no good purposes could be served by further publicity. The member for North Grey would have proved himself a much wiser man if he had said nothing at all about the attempt to corrupt him and doubtless he realizes that fact now. But having committed himself in a public speech he will have considerable difficulty in making many of his constituents believe that it is in the best intereats of the province that the identity of the would-be briber should remain a secret. It is rather an unsafe doctrine to say that because the attempt was a failure there can be no good purpose secured by publicity. Mr. Taylor might just as well claim that the identity of a man who failed in an attempt to commit murder or robbery should be suppressed because his effort was unsuccessful. The Attorney-General should devote a little time to impress upon the North Grey member his duties and responsibilities as a representative of the people and as a citizen of the Province.

Irate Father—What, more money! See here, young man, what did you do with that last five hundred I gave you? Chorus girls, cabarets, joy rides, I suppose.

Son— No, father, no! I've been playing bridge with mother.

KILLING THE GOOSE.

At the recent convention of the American Federation of Labour at which a campaign for the six-hour day was decided upon, the chief argument advanced by advocates of the shorter working day was that its adoption would result in more employment being provided. Such a view The Examiner pointed out at the time could not expect to meet with a favourable reception among the farmers, and the following extract from an editorial in the official organ of the U.F.O., The Farmers' Sun, shows that our prediction as to the rural opinion on the six-hour day question was well founded:

"The same fallacy shows itself in another form in the notion working men sometimes cherish, that shorter hours mean more work," says The Sun. "The argument runs on the same lines: 'Here is a job to be done. Let us stretch it out as much as possible. Then either we shall get wages for a longer period, or more of us will get wages for the same period.' If all industry were concentrated in one job, such reasoning might hold true. But jobs are numerous and successive. One grows out of another. It is the surplus—the profit—which provides for the next job. It is quite legitimate to discuss the control and use of the surplus. The complaint that capital is in the wrong hands, or is misapplied, may be justified. Br. that is another question. The issue is the short-sighted exploitation of industry by a class dependent on it. Such a labor policy kills unborn employment. It brings hard times. Its only contribution to the sore problem of distribution is that it lessens the amount to be distributed.

"Let the goose lay her eggs. Take care of the goose. All differences as to the ownership and control of the goose postulate the continued existence and productive activity of the goose. There will be little satisfaction in a victorious assertion of our claims upon the goose when we shall have killed her."

CANNING WITHOUT SUGAR.

Due to the high price asd scarcity of sugar, the possibility of small fruits going to waste is greatly increased. There is a method of canning without sugar, and Miss Babb, instructor of household science at Macdonald College has prepared a paper dealing with it that is informative. She especially emphasizes the caution that in sugarless canning the utmost care must be observed and every rule strictly followed, otherwise the loss of fruit and wasted effort may result.

"Fermentation and decay are caused by the bacteria, yeasts and moulds, which are ever present in the air, coming in contact with fruit. We must, therefore, destroy these forms of life present in the fruit and in the containers and prevent their further entrance into the containers, by sealing and sterilizing or boiling. This is what is termed canning.

"There are many reasons why canned goods spoil. Some of these are; Because of imperfect jars; use of old or poor rubbers; use of stale products; being too slow; filling too many jars at once; inaccuracy in time of boiling; failure to test jars after sterilizing, and careless storage.

"The equipment necessary for canning is as follows: Wash boiler, or large kettle, with an air-tight cover; fitted rack for bottom of boiler; good jars and covers properly sterilized; good rubbers; long-handled spoon or silver knife, strainer or clean cheese-cloth for washing fruit, blanching and cold-dipping, boiling water, and clean towels, all of which should be sterile.

"To prepare the jars, test them first for leakage, by filling with water, fitting on rubber, sealing tightly and inverting on a dry table. If no moisture is seen on the table the jar is safe. Sterilize the jars and covers by placing on rack in boiler, cover with cold water, bring water to boiling point, and boil for fifteen minutes. Sterilize the rubbers in a shallow dish of boiling water for five minutes.

"In the cold pack method the importance of the two terms, blanching and cold dipping, should be emphasized. Blanching is to dip in boiling water, and keep under the boiling water for from a few seconds to five minutes, according as to whether the fruit is of the soft or hard variety. Cold dipping means the immediate plunging into cold boiled water, to set the coloring matter, to aid in keeping the fruit whole and to make it easy to handle.

"Select fruit when it is at its best—thoroughly sound, ripe, but firm and free from bruises.

"Grade as to size and quality for sake of uniformity.

"Can the day it is picked, and as soon as possible after picking, especially where no sugar is used.

"Clean fruit and prepare as for table use.

"Blanch in case of hard fruits.

"Cold dip.

"Pack products quickly into jars, which have just been removed one at the time from the boiler, using a sterile knife or spoon handle for packing.

"Fill with boiling water, insert knife to let out air and fill again to top with water running over jar.

"Put on sterilized rubber, cover, and partially seal at once.

"When all jars are ready, place on rack in boiler and cover with water of the same temperature as jars, keeping the jars separated.

"Cover boiler, bring to the boiling point and boil until the fruit is cooked.

"Soft fruits require from 10 to 15 minutes where sugar is used. When no sugar is used we add 15 minutes more to the required length of time with sugar.

"Hard fruits with sugar require from 30 minutes to one hour plus twenty minutes without sugar.

"Uncover boiler at end of time for sterilizing or boiling, allow steam to escape and seal jars tightly immediately upon removing from boiler. Invert until cool.

BOTTOM FALLS OUT OF HIDE MARKET

DECLINE IN PRICES DUE TO INABILITY OF TANNERS TO SHIP GOODS.

(Canadian Press).

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 25.—Hide dealers declare the bottom has fallen out of the hide and wool markets and are predicting $2.50 shoes within the near future.

Green salted hides which were selling for 18 cents a pound recently dropped to 12. N. B. LaBryer, manager of the hide company here, says the price will go lower, adding that the same condition exists in all the markets of the country. Calf hides which six months ago brought a dollar a pound have been offered lately at 25 cents, Mr LaBryer continued, and then can get to buyer.

The decline in prices is due to the inability of tanners to ship their goods because of railway congestion and because of the fear of a credit stringency, Mr. LaBryer declared. Big stocks of high priced leather purchased several months ago are still on hand and they want to get rid of it before buying more. Mr. LaBryer also asserted that many tanneries have closed down entirely and others running half time.

The wool market shows an even worse state of demoralization accord ing to Mr. LaBryer. Wool which a year ago ranged from fifty to fifty-five cents a pound now is virtually-impossible to get twenty-five cents for, he states. The demand for wool is so light, he said, that no dealers are making purchases except where they get an opportunity to buy at such low prices that they are willing to take a chance

The recent attempt of the Wool Grower's association to hold a wool sale at Enid, which was called off because there were no buyers, was cited by Mr. LaBryer as an illustration of the present day wool market situation. A single buyer offered 20 cents for the best grade of Shropshire wool if he could get a carload lot.

INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP.

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, June 25.—Dr. A. E. Garvie, principal of the New College, London ,and Chairman of the Congregational Union, is shortly leaving England on an Anglo-American friendship mission to the United States.

"I shall get at the ear of the nation by speaking at churches, universities and colleges," he said.

AXIOMS WE SHOULD REMEMBER

1. Under any economic or industrial system, men and women must inevitably continue to work for wages.
2. Some workers must always be paid more wages than other workers, either owing to special ability or the class of work performed.
3. No worker can continuously be paid wages that he does not earn.
4. The value of the work must be controlled by the saleable value of the articles produced.
5. The cost of living is governed by the cost of production, both in regards to primary products and secondary manufacture.
6. The community cannot expect cheap bread, meat and other foods at the expense of the farmer and grazier.
7. Shorter hours of work must increase the cost of all articles, including food and clothing.
8. The maximum output in the hours worked, will result in cheapening the articles produced, as the cost of production inevitably governs the selling price.
9. Men and women in a free country cannot be prevented from saving money and acquiring property.
10. In order to promote industrial development and provide work, the nation must continue to depend upon its intellectual citizens.
11. The community or nation that develops most brain power, and inventive genius will be the most prosperous, and brain must inevitably command more reward than mere manual labour.
12. Capitalism (or the accumulation of wealth) can never be abolished, for some men will always earn, "and save" more money than other men.
13. With hope of profit there would be less industrial development, less employment, lower wages and higher cost of living.
14. Private enterprise involves not only the control of established businesses, but also the risking of capital and personal effort in the promotion and establishment of new industrial enterprises.
15. The only possible way for workers to secure a substantial increase in wages without a corresponding increase in cost of living, is by increasing output.

MINISTRY OF HEALTH DEMANDED IN SPAIN

(Canadian Press)

MADRID, June 25.—Spaniards are awakening to the necessity of improved hygenic measures to decrease the mortality of this country. Several of the leading newspapers have joined in a demand that a ministry of health be organized to give proper attention to sanitary conditions in factories and houses, to reduce accidents to workers and to have charge of the erection of cheap houses for the poor, old age pensions, health insurance, maternity allowances, prevention of epidemics and hygenic instruction for the people.

One newspaper quotes Dr. Juarros as having asserted that smallpox, diphtheria and tuberculosis had increased enormously; that births had decreased and the death rate among infants grown to such an extent that these deaths now comprised 20 per cent. of the national mortality. An infinitesimal number of houses boast of a bath, he said, public baths were entirely lacking and the houses of the poor were so badly constructed that the occupants did not have as many conveniences as were afforded by the, prison.

The Institute of Civil Engineers has taken up the subject and is agitating for hygenic measures to reduce the death rate.

Teach the Children to Save

Habits are acquired early in life. Children, who are taught the value of money and the habit of saving, grow up into good business men and capable women.

The easiest way to teach children to save, is to start a Savings Account for each child ($1.00 each is sufficient). After a child has saved another dollar to make an additional deposit, he or she will have a better appreciation of just what a dollar stands for, and how much work and self-denial it represents.

HOW IT'S DONE

Brown was about to have some alterations made, and asked Jones—who had just got rid of the builders—the best way to go about it.

"Oh," said Jones, "you call in a decent builder and tell him the limit you are prepared to pay, being sure that the sum mentioned to him is about a quarter of what you can afford for the alteration; and then, if you are lucky, you may get half of what you want done for about twice the total sum you want to spend."

QUEEN MARY OF ROUMANIA TALKS ON HOW TO BE A SUCCESSFUL RULER

SAYS REIGNING IS SOMETHING OF A TRADE—PRINCIPAL INSTRUMENTS ARE COURAGE AND COURTESY.

SHE IS PRACTICAL

BUCHAREST, June 24.—"How to become a successful queen?" said Queen Mary of Rumania, repeating the question of the correspondent.

"Why, it is something of a trade to be a queen, and the chief implements of the trade are courage and courtesy. Smile when your head is aching, smile when all is going wrong, smile at good news and at bad news. Always keep yourself interested in others. No matter how great may be the strain on your patience when talking or listening to a bore, make him or her think that you think the conversation is vital. Never think of your personal troubles but those of your country. I don't even own up when I know that I don't know a thing; but I always go out and find out all about this unknown subject."

Ask anybody, peasant or politician, who rules Rumania, and they will look at you with eyes wide open in surprise and say: "Why, the Queen of course."

Queen Mary is the scene-shifter, the siken hand, the power behind the throne of King Ferdinand every minute. Since she came out from England, nearly 25 years ago, she has been learning this trade of being queen, and now she has been at it for more than five years, in place of Carmen Sylva, and she has made it her business to know her country and her people.

She aspires to be queen in every sense, and she is quite as willing to take the duties of the job as well as its pleasures. As for its pleasures she gets all the fun she can out of it, dresses as well as she can, to enhance her beauty which is famous. "If a queen goes around, shabby and red-nosed, it makes a great deal of difference, I think," she said. "It is not expected of us and so why should I do it? I felt rather mortified when in Paris just after the armistice and I had to attend receptions frequented by all the beauties of the world, and was not able to wear some of my splendid jewels which had been sent to Moscow. Just to think that I had four or five crowns, some of them inherited from my Russian mother, and not one to wear in Paris."

That the Queen is quite as willing to shoulder the duties of queendom is testified to by thousands of men and women who met her during the German occupation of Rumania. As a Red Cross nurse she was visiting the hospital of the incurables at Jasy. When she and the surgeon had reached the door of the hopeless; "there's no need of going in there, it is too dangerous," said the surgeon. "They are dying—it is my duty," answered the Queen. Just after she entered the Queen heard a dying soldier calling for his wife. Without a word the Queen walked over to the bed of the typhus victim, saying "Here I am," and knelt and embraced the man, who died in her arms, happy.

The Queen is a practical queen. In the same city of Jassy, this fact was discovered and when the mayor wanted to get the snow cleaned off the streets, he timidly applied to the Queen for help. "Why bless you, of course I will help," said the Queen, and she led the gang of snow-shovelers. After this whenever medicines and instruments were needed in the hospitals, or extra nurses, the Queen was called upon.

Once there was a bread famine. The Queen got her own private motor cars scouring the country for flour and then she organized the bakeries of the city. She did the same when there was a wood and a coal famine. "As a child I was taught to live for others," said the Queen in one part of the conversation with The Associated Press correspondent. "So whatever I do I do naturally, without effort. As a little girls I was told this was part of the trade."

"Should the Queen get a touch of internationalism and go on strike some day, that would be a hard day for Rumania," said laughingly Take Jonescu, one of her admirerers, a man regarded as the keenest minded lawyer and politician in the country.

"WET" OR "DRY"

Milk is the food of children and old people. Combined with cereals it makes the ideal ration—but if your stomach does not take kindly to milk pour a little hot water over two Shredded Wheat Biscuits, put a small chunk of butter on each Biscuit, allowing it to melt into the shreds. If you like the Biscuit "dry" split it into two halves and crisp them in the oven and eat them with butter—a real whole wheat toast, wholesome and nourishing.

KULU VALLEY IS KNOWN FOR HINDU CELEBRITIES

Kulu valley, which lies in the Himalayas about 100 miles to the north of Simla, is wel known for its remarkable "deotas," or godlings, with their drums and musical instruments. Many years ago Hinduism was introduced into Kulu by Hindu conquetors who brought with them from the plains their Hindu deities. The prevailing religion in Kulu is the aboriginal worship of nature dressed up in Hindu forms, with a dash of Buddhism picked up from the neighboring country of Tibet.

The relations of the "deotas" of Kulu to one another and to the people are very human. They are landed proprietors, and their names are entered as such along with their tenants in the land-revenue records. Their servants awaken them each morning and carry them in a kind of palanquin for an airing and a bath. They are even supplied with food and for amusement are danced up and down on the village green in company with their friends and relations.

The people consider that the "deotas" should behave themselves correctly and they are punished if they do not carry out their duties in a satisfactory manner. In former days a godling who did not bring down rain in due season was taken before the Rajah, who would solemnly sentence him to imprisonment until he changed his mind for the better. The principal god of Kulu is called Raghunath. On the occasion of the yearly fair held in October, all the other godlings have to call on him, render homage, and accompany him on procession along the common.

NATURAL BRIDGE.

Spans Deep Chasm Through Which Stream Flows.

The natural bridge is one of the chief natural curiosities of the United States. It is situated in Rockbridge County, Virginia, 115 miles west of Richmond. The bridge spans a deep chasm through which a small stream flows. It is composed of a hard siliceous limestone in horizontal strata, and is the remnant of the roof of a great cave which formerly covered the gorge. This remnant now remains in the form of an arch 215 feet high. The span of the arch is from 45 to 60 feet and the thickness of its crown is about 40 feet, while its average width is 60 feet. A public road passes across it.

AIMS AT SUPREMACY IN AIR FLIGHTS

FRANCE PREPARING SCHEME TO MAKE AVIATION SUCCESS.

PARIS, June 24.—With the intention of reducing the cost of freight shipments via airplane so as to relieve the ordinary motor lorry traffic, M. Flandin, Under Secretary of State for Aviation, is preparing an extensive scheme which he has told the French Chamber of Deputies he is confident will maintain French supremacy in the air against all comers.

M. Flandin says the greatest efforts will be devoted first to North Africa and then extended through the French colonies, iwth a total mileage of nearly 2,000, protected by modern signalling apparatus and numerous landing grounds.

"I consider that aviation has passed beyond the military and sporting stage and that commercial flying must develop. For this purpose I intend the subvention of manufacturers of approved types and will inaugurate bureaus of investigation whereby France will be abe promptly to adapt all the latest inventions to her commercial advantage," said M. Flandin.

Cost an Obstacle.

French interest in flying undoubtedly has greatly increased in the last six months, particularly since the success of the cross-Channel flights, more than 500 passengers flying to London in this period. The greatest difficulty faced here, however, is the excessive cost of machines, which must be capable of sustaining 200 hours' flying time, but the French makers are already promising machines capable of nearly six times the distance, with a proportionate increase in carrying capacity.

The airplanes now used are carrying more than a ton apart from gasoline storage, and experts agree that it would be possible, if plans do not miscarry, to deliver merchandise from Paris to London for less than the land and water route costs.

What financial aid the French budget will provide is still uncertain, but it will be not less than 300,000,000 francs, which will enable French producers to meet the threatened German competition as well as to wrest control of the Continental passenger and freight traffic from British firms, which have been active ever since the armistice.

Will Have Surplus to Export.

The French monthly output at the armistice was nearly 3,000 machines and 4,000 motors, and while it is unlikely that all the war-time shops will be re-established, sufficient will be maintained to carry out the Government's project and provide a surplus for exportation. The constantly increasing cost of gasoline is another obstacle to be overcome. Scientists who have been experimenting since the war are not disturbed by the outlook, however, and prophesy that French engines next year will be adapted to operation on alcohol, of which the French annual output is greater than France's actual commercial needs and which can be increased as much as desired.

Proponents of M. Flandin's effort to make France the greatest commercial aviation nation are urging that time will be lost, as after July 1 Germany will be permitted to develop production without violating the provisions of the treaty against the military design of machines. German machines, however, will be designed largely for sale in other countries, it is pointed out, thereby leaving the question of freight-carrying supremacy as well as superiority in civil flying to be settled between Great Britain and France.

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS:

Have you tried Chinese cabbage yet? Although comparatively new, many amateurs have become acquainted in the last two or three years and like it immensely. This is just the time to put in the seed. Handle the plants just like the ordinary cabbage plants, but when they reach maturity you will find they look more like the heads of celery than common cabbages. These heads have nicely blanched hearts, which are delicious when eaten with French dressing or even with sugar alone. You will probably find the seed catalogued as Pe Tsai, or possibly as Wong Bok.

Women of Canada Testify

Dacre, Ont.:—"I am more than pleased with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was run-down and so nervous that I could not even stay in the house alone in the day-time and tried every kind of medicine I heard of but got no result. One of my friends advised me to take 'Favorite Prescription,' said that it would cure me, and it did. After taking four bottles I felt like a new woman and it is also the very best medicine for a woman bringing up a family. I will recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to any one suffering like I did."—MRS. JOSEPH BEAUDRY, R. R. 2.

WEAK AND NERVOUS

Tillsonburg, Ont.—"I found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription an excellent medicine for the ailments of women. I had become very weak and nervous. I was just miserable when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and it proved most beneficial. It so completely restored me to health that I have never had any return of this ailment. I do advise the use of 'Favorite Prescription' by women who suffer with womanly trouble."—MRS. GEO. WALKER, P. O. Box 490.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of lady's slipper root, black cohosh root, unicorn root, blue cohosh root and Oregon grape root. Dr. Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whiskey and morphine were injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it, in liquid or tablet form.

BALLAD OF SHAMROCK IV.

Oh, Neighbour, dear, and did you hear
He's crossed the sea once more,
Expecting in a post-war year
The luck he's missed before?
His smile is bland, his courage up,
As on the deck he's seen,
For Skipper Lipton views that Cup
A-wearin' of the Green!

The spider which a lesson taught
Brave Bruce in other years,
A world-wide record vainly sought,
It latterly appears.
Though her persistence men may cite,
And morals from it glean,
What's it to Skipper Lipton's fight
To deck that Cup in green!

Our amiable Uncle Sam
Won't let the trophy go;
But still he vows, "I'm proud, I am,
A sportsman true to know!
S'pose I give two cups—sim'lar types,
Meet for each racing queen—
One, dolled up in the Stars and Stripes,
One Skipper, tied with Green!

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back Its Color and Lustre With Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it ad draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

CALIFORNIA WANTS JAPANESE CURBED

NOW NUMBER 87,279 AND HAVE MORE THAN DOUBLED IN TEN YEARS.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 24.—The influx of Japanese into California has brought about "alarming" conditions, and it has become necessary to protect the sovereignty of the State against the "growing menace" through diplomatic negotiation or a strict exclusion act, Governor William D. Stephens said in a letter addressed to Secretary of State Colby to-day.

Governor Stephens expressed the hope in the letter that the initiative measure now being pjrojected in the State to deny Asiatics the right to all land purchases or leaseholds would be adopted by the electorate by an overwhelming majority. While California harbours no animosity against the Japanese people, he said, the State does not wish them to settle within her borders and to develop a Japanese population in her midst. He asks that immediate negotiations be entered into with the Empire of Japan to make impossible any further "evasions" of existing immigration agreements and to make such agreements as rigorous as possible.

"Twenty years ago our Japanese population was nominal," the letter said. "Ten years ago the census reports of the United States Government showed a Japanese population in California of 41,356. A computation and survey recently made by the Board of Control of the State of California indicates that this Japanese population has been more than doubled—amounting to 87,279."

Governor Stephens said he feared that the initiative measure, if passed, might fall short of its purpose through the Japanese retaining possession of agricultural lands through personal employment contracts, and that therefore Government action was necessary.

Although respecting Japanese culture and advancement and the right of Japan to true development, Governor Stephens held that "hte people of California are determined to repress a developing Japanese community in our midst. They are determined to exhaust every power in their keeping to maintain this State for its own people."

After stating that "the blood fusion of the Occident and the Orient has nowhere every successfully taken place," Governor Stephens said that "California views with alarm the rapid growth of these people within the last decade in populatioin as well as in land control and foresees in the not distant future the gravest menace of serious conflict if this development is not immediately and effectively checked."

The spirit of existing anti-alien land laws and immigration agreements has been evaded through the employment of legal and other subterfuges to such an extent that the purposes of the measures have been frustrated, Governor Stephens charged. He referred to the suspension of anti-Asiatic legislation in the State during the Peace Conference at the request of Secretary of State Lansing, but held that decisive action was necessary now.

"The Japanese are not of a servile or docile stock," the letter continued. "Proud of their traditions and history, they brook no suggestion of any dominant or superior race. And it is just because they possess these attributes and feel more keenly the social and racial barriers which our people raise against them that they are driven to race isolation and, I fear, ultimately will reach that race resentment which portends danger to the peace of our State in the future."

If you want to keep your friends, don't discuss religion or politice with them if you disagree, for the man and woman who can do this sanely are few and far between.

"DOUGHTY" SIGNS THE RENT RECEIPTS; SEEN IN TORONTO, GOSSIP SAYS

AS LATE AS APRIL, TENANT OF PROPERTY OWNED BY MISSING MAN INFORMED PLACE WAS UP FOR SALE.

TORONTO, June 24.—John Doughty, for whom the police are searching to provide the key to the A. J. Small mystery, is trying to sell a house he owns at 70 River street. The fugitive, for whom a reward of $5,000 is offered in connection with a charge of conspiracy to kidnap the theatrical magnate, served notice through his sister, Miss Jean Doughty, as late as April 23, last, on the tenants of this residence that they must be prepared to move on sale of the property.

That was before there was public announcement of the warrant being issued for Jack Doughty's apprehension. But at that time the Small disappearance and the linking of his erstwhile confidential secretary's name with the puzzling case, was the subject of animated gossip among the score of families who occupy property around the corner of River street and Norvale place, from whom John Doughty has for years called monthly to collect rents.

"All Right" in April.

In April, when Miss Doughty served notice as to the sale of the property owned personally by her brother, one of the tenants asked her, "how is your brother, John, getting along?" She replied: "Oh, he's all right; we are not worrying." Last Friday when Miss Doughty was around collecting the rents, she was again asked by one of the tenants concerning the sale of the property. Miss Doughty remarked: "We are in too much trouble to bother about the sale of houses just now."

Receipts Look Similar.

Here is a curious, if not illummating, angle of the Small-Doughty mystery; the signature on the receipts given in recent months to Leo White, tenant of Doughty's house at 70 River street, are apparently identical with those given him by John Doughty personally, during the thirty months he has occupied the property. Each receipt is written in the same well rounded clerical hand and signed, "J. Doughty."

Did John Doughty prepare and sign a large number of these receipts before he dropped out of sight at the end of December? If he did, it suggests deliberate preparation for long absence, and no particular hurry in arranging the details. And as late as April 23 John Doughty apparently was exercising a measure of supervision over that particular propert yat 70 River Street, because White was notified that the rent would be raised on that date from $20 to $23 per month. The notice was in writing, signed, "J. Doughty," and was served by Miss Doughty. The body of the notice was written on a typewriter.

"J" for "John."

Leo White has not been much disturbed over the fact that he was paying the rent to Miss Doughty, even when he knew John had disappeared, though there had been some discussion with his wife over the possibility of them having ultimately to pay the Doughty estate again for the time they occupied the premises since Doughty ceased collecting in person.

If John Doughty gave Miss Jean Doughty power of attorney to collect money for him, these tenants know nothing of it. In fact they are taking it for granted that the "J. Doughty" signature at the bottom of the receipts is the same "J. Doughty" who has been signing these documents for years. However, some of them say that "J" might stand for "Jean" as well as "John Doughty."

Saw One Signature.

Only once in all the time White has occupied the house at 70 River St. did he see John Doughty sign the receipt. He always brought the receipts filled out and signed. But on November 21, 1919, White called at the Grand Opera House and paid Doughty in person the rent. At that time Doughty said, "Well, Leo, this is the last time I will see you about the rent, for I'm going to Montreal to live. My sister will make the collections after this." He then proceeded to write on the machine a receipt for the money.

It was prepared on a letterhead of the "A. J. Small Theatrical Circuit," a bit of yellow paper, and the signature, "J. Doughty," which White saw the man inscribe, is similar to the signature "J. Doughty" which has been appearing on the receipts he has been receiving from Miss Doughty in payment of the monthly rent. This signature is, however, written in a much larger style and is "ragged," as if an old pen had been used, but it strongly resembles the signature written on receipts since.

In Hiding in Toronto?

Perhaps the monthly appearance of these bank receipts, with the date, name of tenant, number of the property and the signature written in ink, exactly identical with those handed out by John Doughty for so many months, has suggested the thought, but the fact remains that it is common gossip in that neighborhood that John Doughty, the fugitive with a reward of $5,000 for his apprehension, and with the possibility of facing a life sentence if convicted of the charges against him, is still in Toronto!

The Doughty property is located a block north of the King St. car barns. Many of the houses in that section are occupied by Street Railway employes. The Doughtys own Nos. 68, 70, 72 and 74 River St., and the adjoining Norvale place block of 14 residences. The appearance of John Doughty monthly among all these places as a rent collector has made him a familiar figure to the men, women and children there.

"See Him at Night."

This has given the neighborhood a very intimate interest in the sensational case, for it is the first time the section has ever known an individual for whom a reward of $5,000 has been offered in connection with kidnapping a millionaire. So everything connected with the case has received its full share of attention among the men at the King street car barns and their families and friends.

It was from the tenants that the press heard the reports that John Doughty has been seen repeatedly at night around the city WITHIN THE PAST MONTH. One of the women tenants said: "Why, yes, John Doughty was seen by many of the street car men since January 1. They see him at night, for he don't seem to be around in the day."

"Did you ever see him?" was asked.

"Well, no," she said with hesitation, "I never did, but the boys on the cars have, and I have been told by several persons that they had seen him—people who have known him for years."

Gossip at Car Barns.

"How recently was he seen?"

"Well, I haven't heard of any person who has seen him for a week or so, but you go down to the car barns and see So-and-So. He saw him three weeks ago."

At the car barns, several persons said they knew a man who had seen Doughty in the past month. They were sure Doughty was in the city, but not one person could be found who would admit having seen him. It was always put up to some one else. But the impression among these people who knew him so long and so well was that he is still in Toronto, or was until within the past few days.

"A Perfect Gentleman."

And among the people from whom Doughty has collected rents for so long he is well liked. One tenant said: "We found John Doughty a perfect gentleman. It will be hard to make us believe he would steal money, for kidnap or harm any person."

These tenants think the rents for the houses in which Doughty is personally interested are being sent to him, wherever he is, and that he makes out these receipts on the 15th of each month and mails them to his sister.

The two-story brick house at 70 River street was given to John Doughty by his father as a wedding present on the occasion of his second marriage. All the other houses there are owned together by the three sisters, another brother and John, unless the estate has been recently settled up. When John Doughty, a year ago, married for the second time, he went with his two little boys to the home of his wife to live.

Wife Lives in Toronto.

A pathetic feature of this strange tangle is the anxiety of these children for the return of their daddy. The oldest boy is ten and the younger seven. When John Doughty and his second wife separated he took the children of his first wife and went to live with a sister.

His wife says Doughty has never contributed to her support since they separated, and that she does not wish to receive anything from him. She remarked the passionate devotion of Doughty to his sons, and their fondness for their father. But she regards the tragic circumstances surrounding her husband with more or less indifference, as she says she put him out of her life when they separated. She is the daughter of a pioneer Toronto citizen, and desires, above all things, to avoid being connected in any way with the sensational case.

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS.

If you grow lilacs or rhododendrons take pains to remove all the seed pods that form. If you allow them to remain they will take the strength of the plants, thus retarding the number of flower buds. You will find that on the rhododendron and the new flowers will grow from identically the same spot as this season's blossoms. Do not, therefore remove any of the wood, but simply break them off with the thumb and forefinger.

OLDEST WRITTEN CODE OF LAWS IN WORLD HAS BEEN DISCOVERED

BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN PREPARED 2,100 B.C., AND SHOW A HIGH STATE OF CIVILIZATION, IT IS STATED.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—The oldest written code of laws in the world, probably ante-dating that of Hammurabi by at least a thousand years, has been discovered in part among the hitherto untranslated clay tablets from Nippur at the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The Hammurabi code was prepared, it is thought, about 2,100 B.C., and were discovered about 20 years ago on a large diorite stone (some paragraphs missing) by French explorers.

The laws, which have just been translated by Abbe Scheil, of Paris, deal with the responsibilities of hired servants, with trespass on farms and orchards, harboring of slaves, rentals, rights of slave women who have borne children to their masters, punishment for adultery, etc. One interesting statute provides that rentals must run for three years in case a man has taken over a house the owner does not know how to manage. This is somewhat obscure, and may mean that all rentals were for that term. In any event, property could not lie idle or be improperly used if someone was willing to use it for public or private benefit.

In general, the laws show a high state of civilisation in 3,000 B.C., and indicate milleniums of previous experience in settled communities. They deal with personal and property rights on a basis somewhat like that of the Deuteronomic code. It is possible the tablets were text books used at the great university of Nippur.

The discoveries are considered of the highest importance, and search will be made for further tablets containing additional laws.

HARD WORK, LESS FUN.

No More Automobile Rides on Sunday for Italians.

(Canadian Press.)

ROME, June 25.—Hard work and few amusements must be the portion of patriotic Italians during the next few years, in the opinion of former Premier Nitti. The taxes on theatres and concerts already somewhat heavy, have been considerably raised; while the proprietors of hotels who give balls, dances and other entertainments must pay to the state from $50 to $500 a time.

There are to be no more automobile rides on Sunday, as cars may not be used between Saturday afternoons and Monday mornings. No one may motor betwee 8 o'clock in the evenin gand 8 o'clock in the morning all the week, and cars of more than 35 horsepower are forbidden to all.

As the trolleys and trains which go out on Sundays to Frascati, Tivoli and the other outing places are greatly reduced in numbers, it will be necessary for the average Roman to invent some other mode of passing his Sunday.

MOVIE STARS GET GREAT RECEPTION

LONDON, June 24.—Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, the film stars on their honeymoon, received a remarkable reception on their arrival in Southampton on the Lapland. Airplanes flew over the ship, dropping bouquets, the Mayor of Southampton headed a reception committee, and thousands of people cheered them. Thousands also greeted them at Waterloo Station in London, and the police were forced to clear a way to the cars.

When they arrived on the boat train, the crowd began calling enthusiastically for "Mary" and "Douglas." A small gloved hand raised the blind in the compartment of the railway carriage, and the face rimmed in the famous curls peeked out.

It was the London public's first glimpse of the actual face they already knew so well on the film. In a flash the coach was surrounded by reporters, movie men, and photographers.

And that was the signal for Fairbanks to push his way out of the carriage and into the swarm. Here he was subjected to a veritable onslaught of handshakes. With great effort a circle was cleared so that the movie camera men might reel in a few hundred feet.

Mary Says, "What Will I Do?"

While this was taking place, Mary herself was helpless. "What will I do?" she asked plaintively. She was not prepared for the reception.

But while Mary looked pale and tired, Fairbanks was the most nonchalant man in the station. He linked arms with his wife and said, "Let's smile, Mary."

"Blow us a kiss, Mary!" yelled the mob. And Mary obliged.

Then an army of porters swooped down and cleared a path for the stars the length of the platform. Open-mouthed youngsters fought to get close to Fairbanks, and sought to touch his coat "for luck."

Fairbanks was as active and laughing as usual. He said: "Mary is on the verge of tears, I guess. She is a little over-tired, but you see she was not prepared for such a reception. This has been overwhelming. She went through something like it at Southampton, but this will about finish her, I'm afraid."

Girls with cameras were also in the throng, and pleaded long and lustily to be permitted to snap Mary. She acquiesced, but when it came to autographing books and cards and papers, she was forced to decline.

So the crowds swarmed towards the waiting taxicabs, shouting.

Fairbanks said afterwards that it would be impossible to accept the hundreds of invitations that have showered upon them since their arrival on British soil.

Institute Lecture.

This afternoon was the Summer series lecturers' day at the Institute. So that the piano could be used, the meeting was held in the Town Hall Considering the weather, a large number of ladies were present. Several musical numbers had been planned, but Mrs Stark's mandolin solo was the only number given. Mrs. Allen of Fort William gave a sketch of the work of the Institute in New Ontario. The Institute is all hese women have. They are pushing schools and Medical Inspecion, also have gotten a building for a maternity hospital with two Victoria Order Nurses. They are trying to get District nurses. The women there feel they have more difficulties than the pioneers of Old Ontario had, as they have the foreign element to contend with. There are foreigners of 22 different nationalities with neither religious nor secular education for many. The institutes try to do a little missionary work.

She touched on the school question also on women in public life. Women perhaps should stay just in the home if she could always keep her children in the home, but that is an impossibility and it is woman just duty for her home to know what is going on outside and to take part in it.

She also spoke of some laws pertaining to women and children. Many laws are obsolete as they stand.

A resolution was passed that this Institute send word to superintendent of Institutes that it is very strongly opposed to any greater laxity of the divorce laws.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Payne on August 12th.

There will be a meeting of the executive on Tuesday afternoon, July 6th at the home of the President.

After the National Anthem was sung, a social cup of tea was served and most of the ladies enjoyed a half hour's chat and it was noticed that the talk was of serious matters and not gossip.

SAFETY FIRST.

Mrs. Figgers (with newspaper) — "Do you know, Henry, that every time you draw your breath some one dies?"

Mr. Figgers—"Well, I'm sorry; but I can't help it. If I quit drawing my breath I'll die, too."

WHY RIVERS WIND

Because Water Presses From Side to Side.

Take a compass and a map. Measure a river—say the Thames—and note the distance from its source to its mouth. It is only about 120 miles. Yet measure it along all its windings, and you find that its actual length is more than double that. It is, in fact, close upon 250 miles, says Pearson's Weekly.

The Rhine and the Danube wind about in similar fashion. As for the great Mississippi, there are many parts of it which curve so greatly that you may steam twenty miles and find yourself only two or three away from your starting point.

Study the map a little more and you will discover another curious point — that rivers which run through flat country wind more than those which come down swiftly through mountain valleys.

A river making its way from source to sea naturally finds its way through the lowest levels of the valleys through which it runs. But when, as in the case of the Mississippi, it runs for great distances through country almost as flat as a pancake, it is clear that this cause alone is not sufficient to account for its curious curves.

Recent researches show that running water has a certain rhythmic motion, and that it presses not only forward, but also to each side. Granted that the earth is soft and that the current is not confined by rocks, this is the real reason of its serpentine course.

Man may straighten the course of a river by canalizing it but if he does so it is absolutely necessary that he make the banks solid with stone or cement. If he should fail to do so, the first flood will break the banks down on one side or the other, and within the course of a few years the river will be winding along as crookedly as ever before.

BROKE THE RECORD.

Fine Performance of Capt. Williams in Two-Mile Run.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, June 25.—One of the finest performances ever accomplished by any runner at Lansdowne Park resulted Wednesday night in a win for Capt. Williams, when he ran two miles from scratch in a handicap race in 10 minutes and 14 seconds. On the way he broke the Canadian record for the 1 1-2 miles, doing that distance in 7 minutes and 36 seconds, which is over 20 seconds under the A.A.U. record for that distance.

Biliousness and Liver Diseases

May be the result of Constipation or may exist when the bowels are regular. The Liver is congested often, giving rise to pain under the right shoulder, the complexion is yellow, headache, nausea, loss of appetite, slight fever, distress after eating, sometimes vomiting. Bile does not enter the bowels to digest the fats which decompose, forming gas, irritating the intestinal tract, often producing diarrhoea. A natural Liver Stimulant is required and DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS taken according to directions not only stimulates, but tones that organ.

Go to Warne's Drug Store, and secure a box, and then watch results. Price 25c, 50c, and $1.00 per box. Each Dollar box contains a Guarantee.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

DR. T. J. GLOVER HOLDS SECOND CANCER CLINIC

ALL CASES TREATED BUT ONE REPORT IMPROVEMENT—THIS ONE IS EXPERIENCING A REACTION, SAYS DR. GLOVER, WHO EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE THAT HE CAN CLEAR UP THE PAIN.

TORONTO, June 25.—Dr. Thomas J. Glover conducted his second general clinic for inoperable cancer patients in St. Michael's Hospital between 11.30 and 12.30 yesterday.

The evidence of nearly a score of cases, which had received one, two and in some cases three injections of his newly discovered serum was, with one exception, that they felt much improved, had better appetites, less pain and more cheerful.

"Tell us the worst. We want to know exactly how you feel," Dr. Glover asked each patient as he or she was brought in by Dr. McCormack, of St. Michael's house staff, who assisted in yesterday's clinic.

Patients who hesitated were pressed for truthful statements and asked to be careful in reporting their conditions.

The one case that does not show improvement is that of Walter Good ,a man of 73 years of age. He complains of shooting pains in the head. He has cancer of the neck. Dr. Glover gave him a treatment on Saturday morning. "He is having a reaction from the serum," said Dr. Glover to medical men at the hospital in referring to this case. The man who is a patient in the hospital, was not brought into the clinic, but was visited by Dr. Glover. "I think I can break that pain up all right," said Dr. Gloverr.

Hard to Get Enough Food.

One of the most remarkable cases was that of George Stevens, a middleaged man who has undergone several operations without success. Last Saturday he was writhing in pain, and when he learned that Dr. Glover had a serum for cancer he cried aloud for an injection. His condition was such that he was nearly doubled up when he was brought in for a treatment. Since the first injection he has shown steady improvement and, when he was brought in again for his second "shot" he walked in, unassisted, his back erect and his manner bright and cheerful.

"I'm feeling fine, doctor," he declared with a newly-found broad smile. "I haven't half the pain I had."

"How is your appetite?" inquired Dr. Glover. "I can eat like a horse," declared Stevens, pushing his chest out.

"What did you have for breakfast?" "Toast and tea and cornflakes, and——"

"What did you have for supper last night."

"I didn't eat much for supper last night."

"What was the trouble?" "There wasn't much left." Whereat the quiet clinic broke out in laughter.

Margaret McClung, an elderly woman from the Home for Incurables, who had had two treatments, said she was positive she felt better. Her condition was generally improved since receiving the first injection.

"Has your pain been relieved?" the doctor asked J. Mizel, of 199 Major street. "Oh, yes, I feel better," came the reply as he extended his bared right arm for a second injection.

A case of throat cancer frankly admitted that he felt much better since being treated. "How much better do you feel?" he was asked. "Well, I eat better and sleep better."

A young woman of 35, suffering from an abdominal cancer, was brought in on a stretcher. She received her first treatment on Saturday. At that time she was so weak she could scarcely raise her arm and she showed no interest in anything about her. Her speech was disconnected and unintelligent. This morning Dr. Glover was himself surprised at her condition. "She's improved all right," he remarked. The patient herself looked bright and spoke quite intelligently. She appeared to be interested in her surroundings and answered questions to the point. "I have no pains," she said simply.

MANY FAMILIES CLUB TOGETHER TO BUY OWN NEW YORK APARTMENTS

CO-OPERATIVE PURCHASING OF OFFICE AND LOFT BUILDINGS HAS BEGUN.

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, June 25.—An "own your own apartment" movement is in full swing here. Two late evidences of its growing strength are the purchase by the tenants for $2,500,000 of an apartment house on Fifth avenue and the starting of construction on a cooperative apartment on Park avenue which is to cost $4,000,000.

Just the other day it was announced that Woodrow Court, an apartment house occupying the entire block front on upper Broadway, between 169th and 170th streets had been sold for $600,000 to the 53 families residing in the structure. This is said to be the first deal of such magnitude to be 100 per cent cooperative and in which tenants of moderate means have participated. In this deal each tenant only put up a few thousands dollars in cash. In the Fifth Avenue transaction each tenant was called upon for $150,000 in cash.

Starting about eight months ago the transactions in cooperative buying if apartments have mounted in volume until they are presently a fixture of realty dealings and all of the employees do nothing else but handle the sales of apartment houses to tenants. This is generally a profitable transaction for the owner for tenants are willing to pay more to retain their homes than speculaors or investors would pay and it is said to be profitable for the tenants in that they assure themselves of homes at a cost of only about seven years average rentals.

Tenants are approachd both individually and through mass meetings when agents have apartment houses to offer. The tenants are given a certain length of time to decide and if they wish to take the property the agents form a company to own the building to which only tenants may subscribe to stock. The purchaser of the stock get a 99-year lease.

The shortage of office and commercial space has been only second to that for housing purposes in New York and cooperative purchasing of office and loft buildings by tenants has begun, although it has not as yet reached the proportions of apartment purchasing by tenants. Transactions in business buildings differ from apartment sales in that while cooperative buying is done it is seldom 100 per cent so, the usual deal involves the purchase by a club of a half dozen or so business tenants, who apportion the space among themselves and then lease the remainder. The management, in both cases is generally vested in some well known agent under the directon of the tenant owners.

JAP TROOPS SEEK WORK.

(Canadian Press)

TOKIO, May 25.—More than 700 of the German prisoners of war set free by Japanese troops in Siberia are desirous of finding employment in Japan. All are graduates of technical schools and experienced in electric, mechanical and railway work. The Japanese authorities to whom they have applied have referred the matter to the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, which is trying to find employment for them.

NOT HIS WIFE AT ALL.

English Bride Declares She is Twin Sister of Real Wife.

(Canadian Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June 25.—His English bride, 18 years old, told him she was not his wife at all, but was the twin sister of the woman he married while with the American Expeditionary forces abroad. Arthur J. Eller set forth in a suit for divorce he filed here recently.

Eller's complaint stated that he married in Liverpool, Nellie Lenehan, a hospital worker whom he met in France. He returned to the United States with his contingent and his supposed bride followed. Soon after joining him here, he alleged, she told him her twin sister was his real wife, and left here for New Orleans.

THE J. C. TURNBULL CO. LTD.

LARGE CROWD TOOK IN PICNIC YESTERDAY

play for some "round" dances, eevn though some of the agrarians raised a note of protest at departing from the time-honored but arduous, perspiring square dances.

Joseph A. White, president of the South Monaghan and Cavan U.F.O., was chairman and introduced the speakers.

The Speeches.

Rev. A. J. McConnachie, of the Presbyterian church, Centreville, was the first speaker. Smpathy for the farmers' movement was expressed by the speaker. He referred to the bill for the superannuation of inside civil workers as an excellent and much needed piece of legislation. He was proud to see the public taken open free discussion of questions of national import and he believed nothing but good would come out of such meetings as the one yesterday.

S. S. Staples, M.L.A. for East Durham, incidentally the youngest member of the House, told of his first conception of the U.F.O. when six years ago two representatives were called from the local club of Fairmount to form a provincial wide organization so the farmers might study the financial side of agriculture more closely. As a result of that insignificant meeting there is now an organiaztion of 1,500 farmers' clubs, with a membership of nearly 60,000. A brief review of legislation passed by the House during their first session was made. Speaking on the temperance issue he predicted a referendum on the importation of intoxicating liquor into the province about October 5. Reference was made to the proposed act to regulate the purchase of milk and cream by which the minister in charge will appoint two provincial inspectors, giving them power to inspect the books and tests of the different creameries. In other words tne purchaser of milk and cream is compelled to give a proper test to the producer or bear the consequences.

Mothers' Pensions.

He described the mothers' pensions bill and praised it. In conclusion he expressed pleasure at being present and given an opportunity to tell what they had done and he stated that he felt it was his duty to give any information received during the past session to any school section or organization in the district.

Mrs. Brodie is fond of a joke and she had as good a string as ever yesterday. She emphasized the freedom of thought the women will exercise on future elections. That the women can outvote the men was a bit of interesting information. While other people were a little surprised at the election of a farmer government they weren't, for the women knew a farmer always made good. No candidate need expect the support of the women she said, unless he is every inch a man, strong in mind and character.

Mrs. Brodie was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses on behalf of the ladies by Miss Katy Anderson, daughter of Mr. E. E. Anderson, secretary-treasurer of Cavan and South Monaghan U.F.O. Mrs. Brodie replied in a few words, saying she was only to opleased to be present and address the gathering.

Mr. J. J. Morrison.

Mr. J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O. took up Rev. McConnachie's eulogization of the civil service superannuation bill to start with and stated bluntly that he was no more in favour with ministerial superannuation than for the civil service. Superannuation for the farmers whom he called the most oppressed people in the country was needed, he said. "What class of people in the province do we need to encourage most to continue their vocation?—the agricultural people" he answered. "They have lost more than any other class in the last thirty years" he said. "Everybody was calling the farmers narrow and shouting class legislation." "I defy anyone to show any plank in the platform or anything asked of the government or anything given us that smacked of class legislation. "The speaker set forth the following platform of their party that they are striving to establish:

1. Establish the personal responsibility of the electors.
2. Promote honest debate on public questions.
3. Economy and honesty in public business.
4. Fair representation for the agricultural people.
5. Fair treatment of the farmers as producers.

"They would fulfil their pledges." he stated. "Have you had it?"—No! "They've broken all pledges."

High Wages.

Mr. Morrison said the high wages were driving men from the farms. They can't afford to compete with the manufacturer, he stated. Mr. Burnaby, president of the U.F.O., paid $3 a day to men and two meals as well. A man on the farm can't earn it, he said.

Mr. Morrison said farming was a decadent industry and harked back to their grandparents' struggle for existence and he told his own family story for their benefit.

He recalled how on more than one occasion government had played into hands of the manufacturers at the exnense of the farmers. Not a word of complaint came from the farmers. During the war the back yard garden movement entered into competition with the farmers but never a growl was heard from them.

Statistics.

He produced statistics to show that Durham County in 1890 numbered 20,762; 1900, 18,000; 1909, 15,702; and, the last figures available, 1918, 14,221; a total loss of 6,541 or 31½%. Continuing he gave the figures for each township, a material loss showing in each.

"And yet you must help the people in the great top-heavy cities. The people went to Toronto and elsewhere because there was more fun, he said, and he told how his own sons had drifted citywards until his farm must pass out of the family.

Twenty thousand left Ontario farms last year he declared because the laws oppressed them.

"If you don't want to save your industry go on to town" he advised them. The farm men have been workers and workers only and the women work harder and longer than any other class" he maintained. "They picked on them for the H.C. of L. but they failed to show them profiteers and that they exchanged products 100% pure for 50% shoddy.

He outlined the growth of the U.F.O. To-day they do a $25,000,000 business.

Class consciousness is what is needed, he stated. Why there is a decrease in farming population, he said, was because they picked their smart offspring for doctors, lawyers, etc, while the densher boy could hoe the corn at home. Then they took the wages he should get to pay the college student's expenses. Then when he got through and graduated they elected him and he made laws to oppress his brother.

Recall Government.

Mr. Morrison claimed they should have legislation to recall th government. Every party was crooked, he maintained. Public questions were never debated properly, the recoprocity treaty was not discussed thoroughly, he said.

"We have never been a faction in business and continuing told how they were used so badly during the war. Money flowed like water in munition factories but the government put an arbitary price on cheese and wheat.

The speaker recalled C. W. Hanna's advice to the farmers when he put on his hog campaign. "Let your wives and daughters feed the hogs." Then education was insulted when they promoted students ofr working on the farms. Then they moved the clock on another hour—another insult. Then they conscripted their sons and paid them $1.10 a day. Then in the war bonds the millionaires found a hiding-place exempt from taxation for their ill-gotten gains. Then when their sons return, they have to pay the war debt; and then as a grand finale, they tucked on the luxury tax.

According to Mr. Morrison the Roman slaves were veritable autocrats compared to them. If they are dissatisfied, he advised them to use their vote on the Dominion election and keep tab on the men they elect to see they carry out their wishes.

A vote of thanks was passed, and heartily extended, to Mr. J. J. Morrison following which Rev. Mr. McConnachie spoke briefly, denying that he held any ill-will to Mr. Morrison, although they disagreed on a few points.

More than 25,000 miles of highways were destroyed in France during the World War.

A PRESENTATION TO MISS RUBENA CARTER

HAS BEEN TEACHER IN NO. 1 SECTION, SMITH TOWNSHIP, FOR LAST SEVEN YEARS.

Residents of School Section No. 1, Smith Township, gathered at the school this afternoon and presented Miss Rubena Carter with a purse of gold and the appended address. Miss Carter has been associated with the school for the last seven years, and her departure from the community was the occasion for the following address of appreciation of Miss Carter's services to the school:

The Address.

S. S. No. 1, Smith.

Miss Rubena Carter.

Dear Miss Carter,

In gathering here this afternoon to say farewell to you on the occasion of your leaving the school, over the destinies of which you have so efficiently and ably presided during the past seven years, we, your friends of School Section No. 1, Smith—and every resident of the Section is your friend—have mingled feelings of appreciation and regret, and the appreciation, of course, is of the manner in which you have so faithfully discharged your duties here, and the regret is that you are severing your connection with the School.

We have felt that your remaining here has been a monetary sacrifice on your part, that your ability and zeal would have earned you a higher position and a greater financial recompense than are possible in a rural school section; but the reward that lies in a sense of duty well done has been abundantly yours. Your influence over the many pupils who have come under your control cannot fail to have a lasting effect upon the lives of every one of them, and you can have that glow of satisfaction that can only come to one who has measured fully up to the responsibilities of her position.

In expressing to you our deep appreciation of what your seven years of faithful service have meant to this section, we ask you to accept this purse of gold, and to take with it our heartiest assurances that your work among us has been realised and appreciated by the community.

CITY HALL STAFF ENJOYED PICNIC

EMPLOYEES WERE GUESTS OF EX-MAYOR DUNCAN.

Thirty-one members of the City Hall staff had their first annual picnic yesterday afternoon and were guests of ex-Mayor and Mrs. George Duncan at their cottage at Hettrick's Point, Rice Lake. The party departed at about three o'clock in cars supplied by ex-Mayor Duncan, Mayor A. A. McIntyre, Mr. S .R .Armstrong, Mr. R. H. Parsons, Mrs. D Drummond and Mr. Fred Hall, and arrived in time for a splendid picnic lunch, after which some good live sports were indulged in, perhaps the most interesting being the baseball game by two star teams, captained by Miss Burgess and Miss Jackson, the latter team winning by a score of 10-7.

At an early hour in the evening, after passing a hearty vote of thanks to ex-Mayor and Mrs .Duncan for the hospitality extended, the party returned to the city.

All mishaps to cars were censored from the report of the picnic by City Hall officials.

WITH LAYING ON OF HANDS "HEALER" TREATS THE SICK

ST. JAMES' CATHEDRAL, TORONTO, SCENE OF MOST PATHETIC SERVICE—HUNDREDS OF INVALIDS FROM YOUTH TO OLD AGE WERE THERE.

TORONTO, June 25. — The morning sunlight filtered through the stained windows of St. James' Cathedral yesterday morning on a multitude of men and women, quiet and still, and yet filled with a flood of suppressed emotion that found vent only in prayers inaudible to others, and that came from tightly-pressed lips and hearts long practised in suffering in silence.

The lightened windows of the chancel and on either side of the nave pictured the scenes of the miracles of Him in whose name these people had been called together, and the weary eyes of the sick, for there were many hundreds of them there, rested on them, and hoped for a repetition of those miracles in their own lives.

Gathering of the Sick.

St. James' seemed to be the gathering place of the sorrows of Toronto and from nine o'clock onward friends carried in the invalids on stretchers, wheeled in the cripples in chairs, led in the blind, aided the lame, from the babe of a few months, carried by its mother, to the aged totterer, bound with the disease fetters of years, they made their slow way into the old building. Its tattered battle flags and monumental marbles never looked before on such a pathetic scene. The soft tones of the organ sounded as from a great distance, from the sick came no word, the stillness was broken only by the whispered word of a nurse or usher, who directed the sick ones to their places. The stretchers with their burdens of pain were set before the steps of the chancel, the wheeled chairs were lined in the centre aisle.

The Crippled and Blind.

The pews are filled, the choir stalls occupied by many clergy, sitting in strange expectancy. The bells sounding the hour of ten o'clock break in on the muffled organ notes. The creaking of a register as a wheeled chair passes over it, or the clumping sound of the crutch of a cripple, breaks in from time to time.

Comes a mother carrying in her arms the thin form of a girl of twenty, whose pallor tells of years of pain or a father with a boy whose steel-encircled legs speak of vain effort to give strength to shrivelled limbs.

In a corner sit the blind from Pearson Hall, their buttons and ribbons telling where they last saw the the light. Their eager whisperings to "sister" asking the aid of her eyes.

Expectant Crowd.

A little after ten o'clock and Canon Plumptre enters the reading desk.

Moved by a common impulse the audience stood up; all who could, rose to their feet. But instead of an invocation came an announcement regarding an offering and a request that the invalids shouud leave their names and church connection ere they left the building.

Then the rector said: "Let us pray," but scarcely had the audience bowed or kneeled when he said again "No, we will sing 'Rock of Ages.'"

Softly the voices joined in the common hymn of all churches, the couched invalids nodded weak heads or moved a wavering hand in time to the voices of the singing people.

"While I draw this fleeting breath,
When my eyes shall close in death,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

Scarce had the words died away when a vigorous figure appeared in the pulpit, and James Moore Hickson, on whom were centred the hopes of all that waiting crowd of suffering men and women, presented himself.

The Healing Missionce.

All conceptions of what he might be are shattered by the personal appearance of the man. Sturdy of build, ruddy of face, a well set chest, from which rises a strong neck and a round head crowned with short black hair, a moustache slightly grey, full eyes wide apart, dressed in a black suit of business cut with turn down collar and black tie, bearing a small pin; that is in brief the appearance of the man whose aim it is to revive the churches' healing ministry, and who practices by the laying on of hands what he preaches.

The mystic and the ascetic are utterly lacking in the outward appearance of Mr. Hickson. His aggressive and strong voice complete the overthrow of all preconceived notions about him. He announces that he wants to speak a few words of preparation and does so in direct and forcible utterance.

Nothing new to Offer.

"This is not my mission; it is yours. You will get out of it what you and I put into it of love and faith. Try to enter into its spirit. Fifty people may take communion and yet not two may receive the same thing. Some receive but bread and wine; others life and forgiveness.

"Spiritual healing centres about the person of Christ. There is but one name under heaven whereby we receive health and salvation.

"We believe in the living person of Christ, without it there is no life to our religion. I but come to you with the old, old story of Jesus and His love. In Galilee He went about his Father's business.

"May I reverently say that He did it in a business fashion, healing the sick, cleansing the lepers, raising the dead. His command to the faithful men he chose was 'Go on with my work.' The church to-day has no ministry of healing. He did not say to the leper, 'I have come only to Save your soul! He saved the leper's body also. He came to heal our soul diseases as well as those of the body, and the world to-day needs it. Envey, malice and the devil of selfishness that is gripping the world to-day—He can drive out."

Belief in Healing.

He went on to say that while believing in the securing of healing by prayer, he was not thus opposed to all that medical science or mental therapy or suggestion could do, but there was limits to the doctor's and surgeon's skill, yet no limits to God's healing power, and the church must put none. It must bring the sick to Christ as of old, in faith.

He asked that the people join in their prayers and continue in them. The healing the body might be slow as was often the healing of the soul. He said he himself had no more power to heal than an electric bulb without the current.

Then he led his audience in a prayer for healing of both body and soul, and stepping down to the platform said he would first lay his hands on the invalids lying on cots and then on the children and others.

Laying on Hands.

A feeling of tenseness seemed to grip the audience as the man stepped down. A paralyzed woman was first approached. She lifted her thin hands together as he neared her. His method was unusually the placing of one or both hands on the forehead and repeating of a short prayer, beginning, "Blessed Jesus do Thou give Thy healing to this dear one," and ending in a sentence or two.

Often he followed by quoting a psalm and repeating a phrase of the prayer on the head of the attendant or father or mother, wife or husband, who stood in pathetic eagerness by the cot or chair of the invalid. Canon Plumtre took part by also repeating a prayer over the invalid one.

So began the most pathetic and appealing scene that Toronto has ever witnessed. Wan and drawn faces flushed with momentary emotion as Mr. Hickson neared them. The wail of a crying child broke now and again on the hushed and crowded church.

From these aisles and the open space before the platform friends and ushers carried out the cots, wheeled the chairs and held the arms of those who had passed under his hands, or were on their way to him.

The Sick Children.

Most moving scene of all was the coming of the children. Softly the strains of "Innocents" came from the audience.

But never such children as these were gathered in sacred walls. The epileptic, the crippled, the weak of mind, the helpers, the deformed, borne or led by their weeping mothers, some lovely to look on, some the reverse. The little ones kneeled along the altar steps and on them he laid his hands and prayed. Full fifty of such there were. Followed the blinded veterans from Pearson Hall. These, too, kneeled and sought sight and were led back by the nurses and friends.

And so on went the service for two hours, while outside waited many more to get in when the building should be sufficiently emptied of the first multitude of sufferers.

Surely never did Toronto see the like for sorrow and pathetic faith and hope.

FIVE THOUSAND TOOK IN PICNIC

BIG DAY AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS YESTERDAY.

With an attendance of well over five thousand persons, Rev. C. J. Phelan's picnic held yesterday afternoon and evening at the Exhibition Grounds was a big success. The attractions offered to the public in the booths and dining hall were splendid, but even these were out-classed by the specialties offered during the afternoon and evening.

During the afternoon a rousing baseball game was played between Keene and the Great War Veterans, in which the latter team trimmed the Keene boys in a score of 11-6. Foley of the Great War Veterans' team sustained his reputation as a star pitcher and struck out 11 men and helped win the game by a home run.

The Programme.

Danny Simons, the well-known vaudeville actor who has recently come to the city from a tour of the States, was the star attraction on the programme, and his Scotch skit was a real hit. Mr. Frank Clarke's banjo solos were repeatedly encored, likewise the rainbow drill put on by the little girls of St. Mary's convent. This latter item was very charming, the little girls dressed in every color of the rainbow, paper dresses, going through the intricate steps of the drill without a single mistake, greatly to the delight of the spectators.

Clergy Present.

Some of the clergy present at the picnic was Monsignor Casey, of Lindsay; Rev. Father Meagher, of Lakefield; Father O'Sullivan, of Wooler; Father Ferguson of Warkworth; Father Bretherton of Hastings, Father McCarthy of Norwood, Father McGuire and Father Cote of Peterboro, Father McAuley of Ennismore, Father Corkery, Father Collins, Father John O'Brien and Dean McColl, of Peterboro.

TENDERS WILL NOT BE MADE PUBLIC

Tenders, for repairs on the city schools have been let and the Board of Education, following its usual custom, will not make public the names of those to whom the tenders were let. All repairs were of a minor nature, representing painting, etc.

HOW TOWNS AND CITIES IN BRITAIN DISPOSE OF CAPTURED GERMAN GUNS

THE DEMAND FOR THESE TROPHIES OF WAR IS NOT SO KEEN IN THE OLD COUNTRY AS IT IS IN CANADA.

In view of the clamor that is being made by some Canadian towns and cities for captured German guns the following extracts from Old Country newspapers will be of interest.

GERMAN GUNS DUMPED IN THE BOGIE

Lively Saturday Night Scenes at Huntley.

Huntley was the scene of a gun "dumping" exploit last Saturday, involving the destruction of the four German trophies which had been stanced at the Drill Hall. During the day there had been a feeling that something unusual was in the air, and towards night a great many country people, especially young men, began to assemble about the Square.

About 10 o'clock they made tracks for the Drill Hall, the grounds of which were locked. Getting over the wall, the younger men first took the larger howitzer, which weighs four tons, and, heaving it against the gate, they forced it open, breaking down half of the gate and tearing away a massive freestone pillar at the side. By this time a very large crowd had gathered, including hudreds of women and children, who applauded the performance. The field gun was then brought out to the street also, and a party invaded the Drill Hall, forcing open the door, and took out two of the German machine guns. The guns were pulled across the Square and down to the River Bogie. An effort was made to lift them over the parapet of the bridge, but this was found to be impossible, and they were then dragged over the bridge to the Pirries' Mill, on the other side of the bank, and thrown down the embankment. The machine guns were submerged, but the howitzer and the other field gun still show above the water.

Cheering and laughter greeted the dumping of the guns, and the crowd did not dispense until after one o'clock on Sunday morning.

GUNS DUMPED IN THE DEVERON.

The youth of Turriff took the law into their own hands last Saturday night, and dumped in the River Deveron the German guns which had been stanced at the Drill Hall in Fife street.

About 10 o'clock a large company of young men entered the grounds of the Drill Hall, and breaking open the gate dragged the two guns, weighing 1¼ and 4 tons respectively, to the street. Ropes were attached to them, and two processions were formed, each led by a gun, on the way to the Deveron. The one with the smaller gun proceeded by Duff street past the Parish Church to the Deveron Bridge—boundary line between Aberdeenshire and Banffshire—where the trophy was hoisted over the parapet and splashed into the river.

The other gun was dragged along Main street and Fife street, and up the Castlehill, followed by a great crowd, who were shouting and cheering. Difficulty was experienced in pulling the gun up the hill, but there were many wiling helpers, and the bridge was at last reached. The efforts to pitch it over the bridge were unsuccessful, and it was pulled through a field on the Banffshire side of the river and hauled down the bank into a deep pond known as the Kernn.

BUCKSBURN GUN DUMPED

Sunday Morning Removal.

In the early hours of Sunday morning, one of the two German guns presented to the local drill hall was removed and dumped over the edge of the heap of danders at Stoneywood works. The gates of the drill hall were locked for the night, but this did not hinder the operation, for the wall around the hall was broken down to make way for the removal.

GERMAN GUNS DUMPED IN THE ISLA.

Noisy Keith Crowd Attempts to Break into Drill Hall.

Keith, up till Saturday, had been free from the trouble of having its German trophies taken from their place and dumped into inaccessible holes, but now one can say this no more.

In the courtyard of the Drill Hall, open to view and accessible from gates on both Church Road and Cross Street, there had been placed seven German trophies in the shape of three mortars and four guns. They had been lying there exposed to view for months past, and although gun dumping had been prevalent all around the district, no thought was apparently ever given to the probability of these being removed. Last Steurday night, however, a large crowd, composed of young men, girls and boys, broke open the gates of the Drill Hall courtyard and removed the seven pieces, trailing them down to the Isla, and dumping two into the "Campbell's Pot," two into a pool below the Union Bridge, and three into the river near the Linn. In the act of doing this the stone wall near the Linn was broken down, and also the palings opposite the "Campbell's Pot" and on the other side of the Union Bridge.

Hall Door Damaged.

The crowd, not satisfied with the work they had done, also wished to get possession of the other guns, including the one captured by the 6th Gordons, which were in the Drill Hall, and, with this object in view, tried to obtain from Captain Thomas Mitchell the keys of the hall. These he refused to give up, and when the crowd found that they could not get the keys they made an attempt to break open the main door of the hall, and while they succeeded in damaging it to a certain extent, they did not manage to break into the hall.

The whole episode is looked upon by the general public as particularly foolish, and can serve no good purpose.

Some of the guns are visible in the water, and were on Sunday the object of considerable interest and curiosity.

OLDMELDRUM GERMAN GUN DUMPED

An unusual spectacle was witnessed at Oldmeldrum on Saturday night, when a number of discharged soldiers, assisted by others, dumped a German field gun into a disused quarry near Aquhothies, about two miles away. The gun was in the Territorial Hall, and shortly after 9 o'clock it was dragged up Kirk Stret by an enthusiastic crowd, including several men who had lost limbs or had been crippled in the war. These had a joy ride on the gun to the place selected for dumping which was an old limestone quarry of considerable depth.

GERMAN GUN DUMPED IN THE SEA.

How Portsoy Kept Holiday.

Monday was observed at Portsoy as the annual spring holiday. Business was practically suspended, and a good many of the inhabitants spent the day away from home. The weather was not very suitable, being cold and wet.

In the evening the German gun gifted to the town by the Government a month ago was taken from the Gasworks, where it was stored for safety, by a number of young men, who, after parading along several of streets hauling the gun, proceeded to the rocks lying to the west of the old harbour and dumped it into the sea over the high ground there known as the Dounie. The water being deep at this point the gun quickly disappeared. There was a large number of people on the braes watching the proceedings.

MINT SQUARE PENNIES.

(Canadian Press)

SYDNEY, Australia, June 25.—Australia is about to mint square pennies and half pennies of nickel. These will go into circulation concurrently with the present copper coinage of which, it is understood, no more will be minted.

So far the only peoples to attempt to use square coins are those of British dominions. India has had a square 2-anna piece since 1918, Ceylon, a square 5-cent piece since 1910 and the Straits Settlements a square cent since last year. The action of the Melbourne Mint officials is probably dictated by the fact that square coins leave less metal in the sheets from which they are cut and they pack better when boxed.

GARDEN FETE WAS A BIG SUCCESS

WAS HELD UNDER AUSPICES OF HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Four hundred and ninety children, pupils of Queen Mary School, their parents, brothers, and sisters and friends, enjoyed a thoroughly happy evening at the garden fete given last evening on the school grounds, and all were so delighted with the success of the evening and the evidence of the splendid results from such events when parents, children, and teachers get into closer touch with one another that it is the ardent hope of all that the affair may be repeated next year.

On the Grounds.

The Home and School Association, under whose auspices the affair was given, spared no effort in making the fete the success it proved to be, and at an early hour in the afternoon commenced the work of decorating the upper part of the splendid grounds transforming it into a miniature fairyland with flags, pennants, and countless Chinese lanterns. A booth was arranged, at which the refreshments, ice-cream cones, were served, and which proved a very popular resort for the young and old.

The Programme.

Every one entered heartily into the spirit of the affair, and when a baseball game was announced between the fathers and boys, there was no hesitation on th part of the fathers in making up a team, and they took defeat at the hands of their sons with good grace. The mothers joined in the races, and every one beyond school age quite forgot the fact, and entered as heartily into the sports as the boys and girls. The swings in the school grounds were a big attraction for the pupils and visitors.

A Chorus.

During the evening the pupils of the Senior I. Class and the Junior II. sang a very much appreciated chorus, and the little tots, very prettily dressed in white, with wreaths of daisies, the boys as postmen, joined in a pretty drill. This number proved so attractive it was repeatedly recalled. The Third Book children sang some patriotic choruses, which evidenced the remarkably splendid training they had received.

Congratulated Association.

The Home and School Association was heartily congratulated upon the splendid results the organisation has brought about, and which was unmistakably proved of great benefit to both parents, teachers, and children.

LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE.

"THESE LAST DAYS"

By H. F. GADSBY

OTTAWA, June 24.—The session is ending in a fat-headed way, Parliament quarreling with the press and threatening to scratch its eyes out. This happy state of affairs is part of the general harmony which has resulted from Union Government.

If there is still a disbeliever in party government anywhere in the length and breadth of Canada all he need do to convert himself is to look at the stupidity which Union Government produces in its followers. The word Union seems to shrivel the intellect and arrest healthy criticism of arbitrary actions. As everybody knows the present Parliament is largely made up of second choices, men whose convictions were not strong enough to harm them with either party, and who accordingly got the nomination. These half-minds will not get the nomination again—that goes without saying—but meanwhile they continue to make all the mistakes that mental decreptitude can stumble into.

Perhaps the worst bone-head play these hang-overs from the order-in-council period made was the quarrel with the press. Because the Government in the last four years has spent some two million dollars for necessary advertising in Canadian newspapers, Parliament jumped to the conclusion that it owned the newspapers and could do anything it liked with them in the way of spitting in the Ottawa correspondent's faces. It viewed with pride the fact that it was the only parliament since Confederation that had goaded a united press into rough language. This pride, as the sequel shows, was suicidal, but the fact that it existed at all is abundant proof that the present Parliament is suffering from senile decay. Imagine any sane body of legislators starting a crusade against the rights of the press and expecting to get away with it! The only way to explain it is that Parliament, knowing death is at hand, wants to die as disagreeably as possible.

Being assaulted in its freedom, the press naturally took measures for defence with the result that a great body of opinion was not exactly created—for it was there before—but invoked against an increased indemnity for the malingerers of the War Time Election Act. There is reason to believe that the Government, which was under great pressure of round robins and threats of absence from the divisions if the salary-grabbers demands were not met, furnished an exscuse to turn the deputation down on the ground that the public mind was sufficiently inflamed already.

The treasury raiders withdrew muttering that they would bring the matter up again next Session. Next Session? Ah, there's the rub! Will there be one? Their idea was to get the money while the getting was good. One newspaper had a bright thought. If members of Parliament really thought that they were worth four thousand dollars a year why not pass such a law for the next Parliament, trusting that they would be there to share the benefit? Such a course would show that they were true patriots and not actuated by selfish interests.

Needless to say this good advice was sniffed at. This Parliament believes in ready money. Its members do not legislate for posterity or, for that matter, for the next election, realizing that for most of them there ain't going to be any next. Now that the additional indemnity is a hope deferred instead of cash on the nail, the patriots have lost interest in it and the session will not be held up any longer. They have launched the washerwoman's curse against the newspapers that crabbed the game and the new postal rates on printed matter are part of a horrible revenge.

Bone Clear Through.

The Government partakes of the general feeklessness of its supporters. In tinkering with the budget it has, to paraphrase an old saying, touched nothing that it did not dehorn. It made a great play with the luxury tax but when it came to a show-down the threatened interests were able to persuade the Finance Minister that the tax should be on the excess and not on the whole price. For example—the budget, as it came to the House, announced a luxury tax of ten per cent. on suits costing over forty-five dollars. That is to say a fifty dollar suit set the purchaser back fifty dollars, plus five dollars and fifty cents luxury tax—total extravagance fifty-five dollars and fifty cents.

That last straw of five fifty even on the most prosperous camel's back was calculated to give him pause while he asked himself if he couldn't make his old clothes do. It was also calculated to give the merchant pause while he asked himself if it wasn't better to make a profitable sale at forty-five dollars than to put the goods unsold at fifty-five fifty back on the shelf. Like the quality of mercy the luxury tax blessed him that gave and him that took—the seller whittling down his price to reasonable limits and the buyer, confronted with this object lesson in thrift, taking a sharp tumble to himself. If the buyer finally decided that he could afford it the Government was a gainer by ten per cent. on the sale and ten per cent is a good profit and worth taking.

What does the amendment do? The tax on that suit of clothes is on the excess—that is to say on five dollars instead of on fifty dollars—five being the difference between forty-five and fifty if my arithmetic is not astray—and instead of five dollars and fifty cents our clothes-buying patriot hands over to the Government fifty cents which is somewhat less than a slap on the wrist, either as revenue or as a moral lesson on extravagance. The tax is so small that it will be eaten up in collection and it has no real effect on the high cost of living.

Another example by order-in-council of a commission of seven to go through the outside Custom House Service like a dose of salts and thin down some twenty-four thousand employees to about half the number. The thinning down may be all right—it is in the direction of needed retrenchment—but it's the nasty way it's being done by a band of seven Yankee intruders, four of whom bear German names. I am not insisting on the German end of it—they may be just as good Yankees as the other three—but the question is, Why Yankees at all? Haven't we got Canadians who could do the job just as well and not chew so much gum? Once before—the civil service reclassification—the Government went to the United States for expert help and the country has not yet ceased to echo to that affront to its own intelligence. We had not looked for an encore so soon. There will be two moons in the sky, we venture to predict, before Washington asks Canada or even England to comb out her civil service.

DOCTORS SAY GLOOM IS BAD FOR HEALTH

Doctors tell us that gloom is bad for the health. We all have to die sometime, but unless we are continually dreaming of heaven and longing to enter in, it is better to be optimistic.

Especially is this the case at mealtimes. If we are not happy, we are not likely to be hungry. Good digestion, it has been said, waits on appetite. Therefore, if we are wise, we shall take every precaution to render ourselves as happy as we can.

A good rule is never to indulge in any kind of discussion at meal-times. Political and religious problems are particularly to be avoided. These topics have always set people by the ears, and always will. Agreement on such themes is mainly a matter of temperament. People of different temperaments will approach them from different angles.

People sometimes say they are glad they did not live in the Middle Ages. They feel afraid lest they should have been burnt as heretics or massacred as martyrs. They forget that the Middle Ages produced the noblest of all callings—that of the jester.

It was the jester's duty to put at their ease all who gathered round the board. By his sudden sallies of wit and mirth he banished dullness, and made heated controversy impossible. Unlike the doctors, he never killed anyone.

Gone, alas, are the Touchstones of other days! Theirs was a noble task, nobly fulfilled. But if we cannot engage a jester to make us merry, we can at least banish frowns and grumbles at table.

Harsh words and ill-feeling may be as deadly almost as germs. Silence, if it be the silence of real friendship, is a blessing. But gloom and rancour will spoil the best digestions.

TRAVELLING A BATTLE.

Parisian Women Workers Insist on Special Carriage.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS.—So bad have the travelling conditions become on the tubes here that the women workers, including the midinettes and modistes of the fashionable shops, have demanded that a special carriage on each train be reserved for women.

They protest indignantly against the pushing to which they are subjected. "The traditional gallantry of France is a dead letter," said one typical business girl. "Travelling on the metro at certain hours of the day has become nothing more or less than a battle in which the weak have no chance against the strong."

BRITISH BUYERS WAR ON PROFITEERING

ADOPT SLOGAN NOT TO BUY UNTIL PRICES KNOCKED DOWN.

LONDON.—You can only kill profitering by not buying." This is the new slogan. The consumer is on strike and some industrialists express fears that this remedy may be applied so swiftly and roughly as to produce unemployment and bankruptcy. This is probably an exaggerated fear, but it helps to explain why some large London stores, like Selfridge's are reducing prices from 5 to 10 per cent. Goods which before the war sold for eight shillings and sixpence, rose to twenty shillings. This process lasting five years has, so to speak, knocked the sovereign down by abqut twopence or three pence per month. The problem now is how to put it up again at rate of one penny or twopence per month.

The Labor world seems to be beginning to wake up to the fact that it really controls the situation. If it continues to push up wages and put down the output, prices must get worse and the consumers' strike may become more determined. Labor leaders see this.

The latest official returns show that the workers in the British coal mines are 1,101,313 or 63,423 more than before the war, yet the production of coal fell from 287 to 229 million tons. Thus, the workers increased 5 per cent. and the output decreased 20 per cent. Meanwhile, wages have been so increased that the miners now take 216 million sterling out of nation's total coal bill of 282 millions or 80 per cent., leaving 20 per cent. in Royalties and profits, to 160,000 shareholders.

These facts are being forced home upon the public by the fact that next Monday coal is set free from Government control. Coal rations to householders then cease, saving £400,000 a year in local fuel overseers alone. Coal exports at inflated overseas prices, are to be reduced from 2 to 1½ million tons per month in order to ensure adequate home supplies.

NOW FEELS LIKE DIFFERENT MAN

HAD SUFFERED FOR FIVE YEARS BUT IS WELL AND STRONG SINCE TAKING TANLAC.

"All my friends were saying that I looked like a ghost a few months ago, but you wouldn't think so to look at me now, and the wonderful change in my appearance is entirely due to Tanlac," said Romee Fortin, when seen by the Tanlac representative at the well-known meat market, 2151 St. Catharines, E., Montreal, recently.

"Until I started taking Tanlac I was in very bad health," continued Mr. Fortin. "I had suffered from indigestion for five years. My stomach was always very weak, and I had to be very careful what I ate. Even then after a meal I had a feeling as though I had swallowed some hard indigestible substance, that lay like a weight in my stomach. Then I would have the most dreadful headaches, especially in the forehead, and sometimes got so weak and dizzy that I had to leave the shop and go home to bed. My breath used to come in quick, short gasps, and I was also badly constipated. My sleep at night was very disturbed, and I used to get up with a bad taste in my mouth and my tongue coated white. My blood must have been in a very bad state because my face and body were covered with red pimples, my complexion was a yellowish green and my lips almost white. It's no wonder my friends thought I looked like a ghost.

"But it is simply wonderful what a change Tanlac has made in me. I've got a surprising appetite, and my digestion is perfect. I am no longer constipated, and the headaches are a thing of the past with me. My blood is so much purer that the pimples have all disappeared and my complexion is rosy and healthy. I've gained ten pounds in weight, and feel full of life and energy. I'm like a different man altogether and I shall always be grateful to Tanlac for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Deninke; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

THE HOME CIRCLE

IN THE SHADOWS.

When the twilight shadows gently play,
And even's stillness hovers night,
As sunset's glory dims the day,
And crimsons all the western sky,
My little one, in spotless white,
Kneels by me in the afterglow,
And, with a kiss and fond good-night,
Comes, "Now I lay me," soft and low.

Close snuggled in a snowy heap,
My babe repeats her evening prayer—
"I pray thee, Lord, my soul to keep"
She lisps upon the quite air.
And back in years I'm carried then,
In childhood's days I seem to be,
And I am just a boy again,
Bowed low before my mother's knee.

And mother's face is pressed to mine,
My little evening prayer to bless,
As gentle, loving arms entwine
About me in a soft caress.
And as I whisper at her feet:
"If I should die before I wake,
The shadows echo and repeat:
"I pray thee, Lord, my soul to take." —Lincoln Journal.

Don't neglect your mind. A little reading every day to store the mind with knowledge, a little quiet thinking to make what you read your own, a little pleasant conversation to stimulate your wit—these things are as necessary to women as to men and make them delightful and interesting companions.

We heard the other day of a home that was almost too bad too be true yet it is a good example of the poor management shown by the working class of America since they have been receiving their present exhorbitant wages. The mother was sick in bed but had no night gown. The children never took off their clothes but slept on bundles of rags on the floor. The only pieces of furniture in the living room were a broken down rocker and a phonograph with about thirty "Jazz" records. And the father had a thousand dollars invested in oil stock.

She came to the breakfast table in a torn, dirty dress, with half combed hair. The table was without a cloth, the breakfast badly cooked. The children were dirty and quarrelsome, and she saw them slip away to school without attempting to wash their faces or change their soiled aprons. Her husband had hastily swallowed a cup of coffee and left the house without a word to wife or children.

She sat for a while gazing indifferently at the untidy table and disorderly room, and then began lazily to set things in order. She dwadled over her work without spirit or system, and the children were home from school before the beds had been touched. The two oldest girls hurried up stairs with scowling faces at her scowlding command to them to make up the beds. Dinner was half an hour late and her husband stormed up and down the untidy house, ate an ill-cooked dinner in sullen silence and hurried from the unpleasant home. The children followed, scattering to the neighbors, to the barn, anywhere away from home and mother. The darkness drove the various members of the family into the house again, but they came unwillingly, and slipped away to bed uncared for, cross and wretched with their badly nourished bodies, and hearts that hungered for the peace and comforts of home.

Do you think this is an exaggerated picture? It is not. There are homes just like this, and the dirt and disorder and discomfort and heart ache lie at some woman's door.

For the overworked wife and mother, for the invalid, for the ignorant who are trying to learn who are doing their best to bear a heavy burden, we offer pity, sympathy and help, but for the indolent woman we have only scorn.

STRAPPED TOGETHER THEY JUMP INTO SEA

JAPANESE MAN AND WOMAN FULFILL DOUBLE SUICIDE PACT.

(Canadian Press)

HILO, Island of Hawaii, June 25.—Strapped together as they leaped into the sea to fulfill a double suicide pact, Yye Tafaburo, a Japanese of North Kohala, and Makiso Kukuyama, wife of another Japanese, partly failed in their endeavour, Tafaburo was drowned but the woman was pulled from the surf by W. Pinehaka, jailer of North Kohala.

Pinehaka saw the pair with ankles and bodies leaped as one into the sea from the rocks below Hawii on the North Kohala coast. He scrambled down to the water's edge just as the tide washed the woman back to shore, the bonds that tied her to her companion having broken.

Later Tafaburo's body was recovered by Hawaiian divers.

The woman's infant child, wrapped in her obi, or girdle, was found hanging in a tree not far from the spot where she had failed in her attempt at suicide.

APPRENTICES RARE IN MODERN PLANTS

The formal training of apprentices in industries is a matter to which active attention is not being widely given, according to the Industrial Bureau of the Merchants' Association, which gives the results of an inquiry into various systems which have been adopted in this country.

The situation in New York is illustrated by the machihists' trade. The Industrial Education Survey made last year, summarized apprenticeship conditions among approximately 1,000 machine shops.

"Of definite training of apprentices there is little and what there is,' 'says the summary, "is largely confined to large establishments. The survey revealed only four establishments having regular indentured apprentices. In eleven other establishments visited, employing 4,477 machinists and machinists' helpers, there were only 164 apprentices, or boys who were being more or less thoroughly trained in the trade."

The decadence of apprenticeship training is attributed to the specialized occupations and greater freedom of employment characteristic of modern industry. Since apprentices today are not bound out as formerly, the employer often finds his trained workers leaving him before any return has been received for the cost of training. Specialized occupations, moreover, and large shops make practical training of an all round journeyman a difficult task.

"Trade instruction," says the Bureau, "is carried on for the most part by employers either in informal systems such as exist in the printing trades, in well organized corporation schools, or in the so-called 'vestibule schools.'

"The standards of apprenticeship are established in general by co-operation of employers and trades unions. Trade schools under the public system of education fulfill to some extent the demand for trade education. It is generally considered, however, that the actual trade instruction must be largely gained in industry itself rather than in separate schools."

Of 1,064 shops replying to a questionnaire in 1913, 764 reported no attention given to apprentices, 300 reported some attention given, and of these latter only forty-two reported any written or verbal agreement that provided for definite instruction and advancement. Instruction for the most part was carried on through journeymen or foremen.

Informal systems of apprentice training are found to be the most widespread, these varying with the employer, ranging from almost complete neglect of the boy, permitting him to pick up such information as his work permits, to personal interest in and instruction of the boy by the foreman or the employer himself.

As an outgrowth of the growing demand for skilled workmen there have grown up in many large organizations elaborate systems of apprenticeship training. These "corporation schools" provide thorough training not only by practical but theoretical instruction. For the most part all work is carried on within the plant by instructors paid by the company: although in some cases the school work is carried on in public continuation or night schools.

The apprenticeship system of the Pennsylvania Lines, East, for instance, was started in 1910, and in 1917 had grown to ten schools with several hundred apprentices. Equipment and instructors are furnished by the company and all instruction is carried on on the company premises. There are three classes of apprentices—regular apprentices, who are admitted upon examination and interview and whose period of apprenticeship is four years; first-class apprentices, chosen from regular apprentices showing exceptional ability after the first year, and specials, consisting of graduates of technical colleges and occasionally first-class apprentices of extraordinary ability.

The results of the system have been better trained men, the creation of media for selecting material and a definite creation of a higher class of apprentices.

An apprenticeship system was started by R. R. Donnelly & Sons, The Lakeside Press, Chicago, in 1908, and just before the war was taking on thirty new apprentices each year. Instruction was furnished by three full-time teachers. To be eligible, boys were required to be about 14 years old and to have a grammar school education. The first two years of the five-year period are arranged so that three and a half hours daily are spent in the school room and four and a half hours in the factory.

The Packard Motor Company in 1914, before the unusual war conditions arose, had sixty apprentices in its plant. In order to be eligible boys must be at least 16 years old, must possess a certificate of graduation from the eighth grade, and must pass a physical examination. The length of the course is three years, during which time the usual apprentice wages are paid. At the end of the apprenticeship period $100 bonus is given and two weeks' paid vacation allowed.

A third variety of apprenticeship is the so-called "vestibule school." This was the direct outgrowth of war conditions which demanded intensive instruction to enable inexperienced help to carry on a single process in quantity production. The success of such intensive training, which extended over a period of only a few weeks, has led to the serious consideration of adapting this plant to peace conditions. Its tendency, however, to break down all apprenticeship rules and to lend to "blind alley" employment has resulted in strong opposition to its use.

All apprenticeship systems adhere more or less to certain well-defined standards formulated by trade unions. Under such rules the proportion of apprentices to journeymen is variously fixed at from one to five to one to fifteen; the wage of the apprentice is roughly determined; the character of the training is in some cases outlined; the length of apprenticeship is fixed, varying from two to five years, the majority being four years; and the age of the apprentice is determined, ranging from 14 to 18 years as a minimum up to 22 years of age as a maximum. The maximum age for entry, however, is frequently not fixed.

To a considerable extent, especially in large cities, the apprenticeship rules are not rigidly enforced. It has been found in this city, for example, that the proportion of apprentices allowed is seldom attained, and to such an extent do the skilled trades depend upon recruitment from outside sources that some trade agreements omit apprenticeship rules altogether.

OTTAWA, June 25.—Rumor is current in political circles that Sir Robert Borden will resign the Premiership immediately after prorogation of parliament. This rumor lacks confirmation by any responsible parties It takes the form of a belief that Sir Robert will submit his resignation to a causus of Unionises which will be held early next week. It is believed that a number of Unionists, though perhaps not a majority of the party, would be not averse to accepting Sir Robert's resignation. As his successor Hon. BOARD FINDS MUCH THAT IS IRREGULAR

INTERIM DECISION CONCERNING OPERATIONS OF TEXTILE MANUFACTURERS.

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, June 25. — The interim decision of the Board of Commerce concerning operations of the textile manufacturing concerns in Canada issued to-day expresses the opinion that the investigation should be carried through to completion in the interests of the public.

The board has found much that is irregular and susceptible to enquiry. Some difficulty has been experienced but the board is in possession of figures showing exactly what profits most of the textile firms have made in the past ten years.

Stress is laid on over-capitalization of some of the cotton companies.

The reports suggests that the Dominion and Provincial governments enact that particular industries keep standard book-keeping systems, and compel chartered accountants to enforce that standard.

OUTING TO LIFT LOCK FOR THE DELEGATES

CARPENTERS ENJOYED MORNING'S TRIP UP THE CANAL.

The trip over the lift-lock provided by the local Reception committee as a pleasurable break in business sessions of the Carpenters' convention, more than delighted the delegates who enjoyed every miuute of the three hours on the water and in examining the huge mechanism of the lift-lock.

"Wonderful," said George Lakey, International vice-president of the Carpenters. "I have just come from Panama where I had some work with our locals there. I was over the big canal, but I saw nothing like your lock."

The "Rainbow" was provided for the delegates and leaving the George street wharf did not return from the trip up the canal as far as the turn until noon. The Reception committee arranged to have Mr. Roy take photographs of the visitors at the lift-lock, which in itself will make an interesting souvenir of their convention in Peterborough. Messrs. Robertson, Halpin and Leibers were congratulated upon the interesting and enjoyable entertainment of the morning, and this afternoon the delegates were deep into the resolutions upon which various committee have been working.

giving all the details, showed that in not a few places $1.25 an hour was being paid. These were encouraging evidences, but they did not warrant a cessation of effort. Every new member was an acquisition of strength, and while the organisation was securing improved conditions for the trade, those men who had not yet joined a union should be reminded of how they shared in the benefits that were derived from te International Broterood's work.

Mr. Lakey said he had no sympathy for the man who, while benefiting from the better conditions thus obtained, refused, through selfishness or some other motive, to join the organised movement.

"If I work up a fine patch of potatoes," said Mr. Lakey, "and while cultivating them another fellow comes along, leans over the fence, and says, 'That's a fine patch you've got, George. I want you to split fifty-fifty with me.' I'd feel like giving him one of those potatoes in the ear. That's all he deserves. The non-union man participating in the improved conditions the Unions had struggled for, wanted half 'the crop,' but didn't want to work for it or to contribute anything toward it."

"How can we have any sympathy for that man when we know that his only contribution has been to make our work more difficult," Mr. Lakey remarked.

Delegates Elected.

Voting on the proportional representation plan, the convention elected the following delegates to the International Convention:

Ira Barnhardt, Port Colborne.
Archie Burton, Hamilton.
C. Mead, Toronto.
Tom Jackson, Toronto.
Pat Green, Ottawa.
H. Dowler, of Kingston.

A resolution passed yesterday afternoon petitions the Government to enforce the Building Trades Protection Act in Ontario. It is particularly desired that the regulations providing for safety devices in building operations be carried out.

Urges Co-operation.

Mr. E. Ingles, of London, vice-president of the I.B.E.W., was a visitor to last night's session. He was impressed, he said, by the need of closer co-operation by the different unions in the building trade. In a comparatively few cities of Canada, there is team work, the results of which have proved the advantages of a Building Trades Council.

Mr. Ingles and Mr. Lakey also spoke of the importance of political action. There had been a marked awakening of the importance of political activity, but both speakers declared that the working men did not yet realise that the old political parties with their fine pre-election promises, sought only to secure office. The united strength of the workers in Canada and the United States could be a force in politics that would more quickly realise the hopes of the people if unity could be accomplished.

From his observations during nine months in the west had convinced Mr. Ingles that the One Big Union was no longer the menace to the organised trades movement that it had seemed last year. Financially it is already $5,000 in arrears. Mr. Ingles stated that it had been a disruptive influence, and he named several unions newly organised a year ago that had started with every promise of success, only to disband as a result of the One Big Union. Mr. Ingles said he was satisfied that the real purpose behind the One Big Union was revolutionary. It had professed to be a Canadian organisation, but had been maintaining organisers in the United States.

TURKISH WOMEN NOW UNVEIL THEIR FACES

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE. — Turkish women are no longer the shy veiled creatures who passed their time in the seclusion of the harem and were never seen by foreign men. They still cling to the veil. But the streets in Constantinople and other larger Turkish cities are filled with women who have their veils thrown back from their faces. They are highly ornamental and becoming. Most Turkish women don't want to abandon them in favor of hats. But there are many sorts of veils and the smart, black silk veils which some of the women wear are very fetching when draped artistically over their hair.

In the railway and street cars there are special seats for women mbut the flimsy curtains which are supposed to screen them from the gaze of men are usually drawn back and it is not uncommon to see men standing in the compartments for women. Only very old men, however, are rash enough to sit down in the same seat with a Turkish woman. Turkish women seldom go to a theatre where there are men. Special matinees and evening performances are arranged for women only.

The war has done much to break down the barrier between Turkish men and women. The women were needed so badly as nurses and relief workers that the government had to avail itself of their services. And now it is regarded as quite proper for men and women to be associated in all sorts of charitable and educational work. Consequently many women who were formerly forced to content themselves with seclusion in a home where fancy work and French novels were the only diversions are devoting their time to hospitals, orphanages and other philanthropic institutions.

Women who have been educated abroad or in the foreign schools in Turkey are the leaders in this movement for greater freedom for their sex. Their broad experience in war work has interested many women in politics and they have openly played a great part in the nationalist movement. In the Constantinople American Woman's College the Turkish girls take great interest in basketball and other athletic games and the effect upon women who have come under foreign influence is making the old life of seclusion and inactivity unattractive to younger Turkish women.

Two more interesting recitals were given in the Conservatory of Music this week. Miss Helen MacLaren's pupils were heard on Tuesday by a large and interested gathering, when those taking part were: Grace Doxie, Rolf Strong, Muriel Wilson, Helen Clark, Hugh Waddell, Mary Richardson, Irene Hourigan, Isobel Mein, Gwelda Packenham, Wilmot Merritt, Margaret Borbridge, Elizabeth Mulholland (pupil of Mrs. Anderson), Everett Sisson, Hilda Evans, Edna Borbridge, Mary Comstock, Anna Simpson, Georgie Hardill, Florence Record, Eleanor Wilgar, Bessie Mather, Velma Strong, Jean Gilman, Grant Gillespie, Arleigh McKone, Margaret Johnston, Helen McFarlane, Mary Mulholland, Bert Pitchford, Jessie Stevens, and Jean Wilgar.

At the conclusion of the recital Miss MacLaren was presented with a beautiful bouquet of roses.

Miss Johnston's Recital.

On Thursday evening Miss Olive Johnston's pupils, assisted by Miss Josephine McGill, pupil of Miss Urquhart, gave a very charming recital, and those taking part were: Phyllis Rome, Vera Calvert, James Dutton, Dorothy Couper, Marie Armstrong, Slater, Violet Young, Ena Young, Mild. Johnston, Isobel Cooper, Florence Evans, Berneice Hall, Orville Rome, Florence Greer, Nellie Black, Dorien Curtis, Teddy Friendship, M. Armstrong, May Grierson, Abelinda White, Ormie Heap, Autumn Dubay and Eleanor Dodds.

MONEY IS RUSSIA'S CHEAPEST PRODUCT

Russian money is one of the cheapest of Russian products. It is literally dispensed in bales, writes a correspondent from a Black Sea port. The old-fashioned pocket-book no longer is sufficiently large to carry one's daily or weekly supply of rubles, of which one American dollar will buy about 4,000. In normal times the ruble had an exchange value of about half a dollar. There is a colony of millionaire Russian refugees in Yalta, he says, who have to keep their currency in trunks, boxes and barrels.

The kopek has long since disappeared as a standard unit in Russian money. In Yalta smaller denominations of rubles scarcely exist. People brandish 5,000 and 10,000 ruble notes as though they represented only a few farthings.

A correspondent of the Associated Press, who made a tour of the Black Sea towns on board the American destroyer Smith-Thompson found Yalta to be unique among all the cities on the Black Sea. It is the only place in Southern Russia where one does not see hunger or distress. At one time it was the summer home of the late Emperor of Russia. The Bolshevists have obtained control of it, but have spared the fine Imperial palace with its sumptuous garden and decorations of regal grandeur.

There were upward of 20,000 Russian refugees in Yalta when the correspondent visited the city, but the majority of these were well-to-do and able to take care of themselves. In anticipation of Bolshevik invasion many of them were preparing to leave for Constantinople, France and England. Those who were temporarily short of money were peddling their diamonds and jewels at a fraction of their cost. Every second store in the town was a clearing house for valuable furs, ruge, trinkets and other epsonal possessions.

Sebastopol, the chief city of the Crimea, had 30,000 refugees, but most of them were satisfied to remain, as they felt Sebastopol was comparatively secure from the Bolsheviki. There seemed to be ample food for the population, but the hospitals were short of the vital necessities.

In the area north of Novorossisk, running as far as Kuban, there were said to be 500,000 refugees, who were forced to flee from their homes in Kursk, Poltava, Kiev, Khartov and other cities. Throughout the towns of Southern Russia there is a general prevalence of typhus, due to overcrowding, lack of soap, scarcity of physicians and indifference to cleanliness.

MOTORISTS COMPLAIN ABOUT TAR ON STREETS

AUTOS ARE SPLASHED BY LIQUID SURFACE MATERIAL.

Protests have been made by a number of motorists over the manner in which many Ottawa streets are treated to a surface of tar or liquid asphaltam without a protecting coat of sand.

A few days ago the roadway of Lyon street was sprinkled with the black liquid and then left to the tender care and respect of motorists. Automobiles splashed through this stuff and many cars received a liberal dose of the surfacing material. The tar was also tracked over paved paved thoroughfares for considerable distances while pedestrians were compelled to pick their steps through the mire. Undoubtedly much of the tar was carried into houses on the feet of children and others.

Absolutely no protecting surface was placed on the tar, and, at first glance, the substance resembled water. Automobile owners have been indignant over the manner in which wheels and bodies of cars have been smeared with the sticky substance.

CANADIAN WOOLENS OUTCLASSED THE DE LAVAL WITH TEN MEN

FATHER PHELAN KICKED OFF—CRIDLAND'S AND HILLMAN' GREAT DEFENCE WORK—LONG HITS THE CROSS-BAR—HALF-TIME NO SCORING—WOOLENS PLAYING TEN MEN—THORPE'S BEAUTIFUL GOAL—JONES' BRILLIANT IN GOAL—HODSON'S NICE FEINT WORK GOT SECOND GOAL—WOOLENS DESERVED TO WIN WOOLEN'S 2, DE LAVAL 0.

A large crowd witnessed the De Laval and Canadian Woollen last evening at the Exhibition Grounds in a return League Fixture as one of the many attractions under Father Phelan's Summer Fair. Many of the spectators witnessed their first football game and became great enthusiasts as the game proceeded.

The Canadian Woollens had Hullman and Jones in their line-up. The Separator boys trotted out the strongest team available.

The Teams.

Canadian Woollens—Sam Calladine goal; J. Cridland and J. Hillman backs; J. Montgomery; A. Jackson and A. Stiles half backs; C. Thorpe, J. Jones, J. Chamersb, J. Hodson and C. Clarke forwards.

De Laval—W. Jones, goal, B. Hartshorn and J. Godfrey backs. W. Brown, Geo. McDonald and R. Lindsay, half backs; G. Hartshorn, J. Long, R. Raum, J. Styles and J. Lindsay forwards.

Referee—Mr. Alex. McKinley.

Father Phelan Kicked Off.

For second time this week Jack Cridland had the good luck to win the toss and decided to play with the sun at his back. The opening exchanges were even and on the right wing Hartshorn worked a corner off Hillman. The De Laval man landed a beauty in front of goal for Styles (De Laval) to shoot wildly over the cross bar. A nice try by Charlie Thorpe went past at the other end. Hillman gave De Laval a free-kick for using illegal tactics. Hartshorn shot across the goal, Cridland punted up to Clark who beat Brown on the run and centred across to Jones (Woollens) to head over the cross-bar.

Cridland and Hillman Good Defence

Time and again the De Laval forwards would raid the Woollens defence to be stopped by clever tactics of Cridland and Hillman. On one occasion Ramm broke through them and made for Calladine who kicked the ball out poorly to concede a corner kick that went into play. Chambers caught on in mid-field and with the ball at his foot bewildered McDonald and Hartshorn. He let drive from 15 yards out, Jones saved and went to Jones (Woollens) who made De Laval goal-keeper look smart to clear. Play run from end to end with each side having hard luck in not scoring. In mid-field Jackson at centre half passed up to Hodson who shot the ball across to the right wing Thorpe run into score on an offside decision. A break away by Hartshorn on the right was spoiled through his anxiety to cross the ball that went past. Just afterwards Hillman gave a corner, Hartshorn placed a beauty in front of goal but the big tall lanky fellows of the Woollens headed the ball out to Chambers who tested Jones with a fast drive.

Ball Hits Crossbar.

A raid by all the forwards of the De Laval resulted in Lang having hard luck in not scoring as the ball hit the cross-bar, to go into play. Montgomery slipped a nice one up to Jones (Woollens) who out run the defence and while on the run tested De Laval goal keeper with a low fast ground shot. He punted up the field to Ramm who picked the ball too far ahead for Calladine to run out of his goal to clear. Even and interesting exchanges took place as half time arrived.—No scoring.

Half Time.

After a rest of 10 minutes the teams were set agoing again with Jackson of Woollens an absentee, who had strained the muscle of his thigh the previous night against the C.G.E. and compelled the Woollens to play with ten men Chamerbs wene back to centre half and they played four forwards. Right off Hillman was in difficulty in the corner, that awarded the De Laval a fruitless kick travelled straight to Jones (Woollens) who beat Godfrey on a tackle and lifted the ball out to Thorpe.

Thorpe's Beautiful Goal.

The outside right got the drop of the ball as it was touching the ground that left his foot like a shot and went through the goal with Jones dumfounded. Encouraged by their success the De Laval custodian was kept busy for the next ten minutes punting with his hands and feet to keep his charge safe. From centre field Montgomery sent a beauty to Jones who cleared in a masterly style

Jones Brilliant in Goals

The Woollens were playing better football with their ten men against the De Laval's eleven and rained shot after shot upon Jones. A nice pass to Hodson by Clarke was accepted that struck the inside of the jar upright, run across the goal mouth, that was sure to go through. Quick as a flash Jones threw his whole body at it and stretching his hand out saved a certainty. The De Laval tried hard to hold the Woollen's in check but they simply outclassed the De Laval in every position.

Second Goal by Hodson

The understanding and timely combination of Jones and Thorpe produced nice football. The right wing would work their way right down on the defence and test Jones repeatedly. Chambers now playing centre-half during second period was a tower of strength to Woollens. With five minutes to go he passed forward to Hodson who feinted a kick to draw out the defence and turning himself quickly let drive with his right foot that lifted the ball in below the cross-bar for the second goal. Just afterwards Calladine was called open to clear. The Canadian Woollens destrved to win and registered their second two points and deserve a better position in the league standing.

LOCAL FOOTBALL GOSSIP

CALEDONIANS VS. MACHINE GUN TO-MORROW AFTERNOON—BENEFIT MATCH MONDAY EVENING—OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST.

On Saturday afternoon the Caledonians will play their last league game with the Machine Gunners. The other scheduled game for this date was played last Wednesday evening when the C.G.E. defeated the Woollens by the odd goal.

On Monday evening under the auspices of the Inte ational Association of Machinists, a benefit football match will be played between the Caledonians and the Great War Veterans, at the Exhibition Grounds. Kick off at 6:30 prompt. Tickets can be had from any of the committee.

His many friends in the city will be pleased to learn that Abraham (De Laval) is now out of the hospital after the operation for appendicitis, and looking well.

If the Machine Gunners defeat the Veterans next Wednesday evening at the Exhibition grounds, the C. G. E., will win the league. On the other hand, if the Vets win, it will require a play off between the Vets and the C.G.E.

Remember the Fourteenth Day of July is the annual meeting of the Peterboro Football Association, and any club who desires to participate in the City Football League will require to send two representatives.

The football fans would like to witness a real cup tie series now. They certainly would attract the spectators.

The T. and D.F.A. Council selected the following team to represent Toronto in the annual Inter-City game at Montreal, July 1st: Halliwell (Ulster), Hutchinson (old Country), Johnson (Scottish), Hamilton (All Scots), Jones (Lancashire), Martin (Ulster), Anderson (Scottish), Maguire (Ulster), Marshall (O.C.C.), Forsythe (Ulster), Aitken (Baraccas). — Reserve, Campbell (Dunlops.)

The Machine Gunners will be without the services of Rufus Payne, the prominent outside right, who has taken unto himself a new partner during the week. The fans wish him every success in his new departure, and a pleasant honeymoon in British Columbia.

One of the most reliable full backs in the Province of Ontario sustained a broken ankle in a football match at Guelph on Wednesday evening. The unfortunate player was "Jock" Burns, who has played the game for a number of years.

During the week Hanson of the De Laval team met with an accident at his work that necessitated him giving up football for the season. His injury is doing well.

After last evening's game Jones (De Laval) went over to Jack Cridland (Woollens) and gave the Woollens Captain a good shake of the hand. "Jack, the best team won." Jack accepted the congratulations with a winning smile. True sports, gentlemen.

"LITTLE BOY" WAS PAINTED

GANG DISAPPEARED, LEAVING HORSE UNCLAIMED AND UNOWNED.

OTTAWA, June 25.—The stewards at Ottawa have established that "Little Boy," winner of the fourth race Monday is a "ringer." As a result the colt is on the hands of the Connaught Park officials, no one caring to face the music of owning the racer. He ran as a dark bay and is now fading to a chestnut

The stewards' ruling is: "For misrepresentation and deception in connection with ownership of the horse Little Boy, in the fourth race on June 21, E. S. Moore, Frank Farrington and Geo. F. Richings are denied the privileges of the Connaught Park course, including admission to the grounds. Trainer Stafford Doyle and the mare Celtiva are suspended and recommendation will be made to the Canadian Racing Association that the license of Stafford Doyle be revoked."

Farrington, a Detroit contractor, is said to be the owner. Richings is down as the painter.

The gang got away with the betting coup in the mutuels and away from the track. The horse ran as a ringer in Kentucky, but was fifth. His identity has not been established.

NEW TOM MIX PICTURE SAID TO BE THRILLER

The famous cowboy star, Tom Mix, will make his debut in this city as an author and producer at the Allen Theatre, where William Fox will p resent his latest and greatest Western thriller, "The Daredevil," to-day and to-morrow. This photoplay promises to be something new, for Mix is giving the public his idea of what a fast moving, rapid-fire, sure-hit story of the West is, and how he believes real Westerners would interpret it.

As in all Tom Mix productions, many thrilling and hazardous deeds of daring are performed by the author-director-actor and his supporting company.

Mix rides through water falls into the cave of the bandits, jumps from his horse to a train moving at the rate of thirty miles an hour, rescues his sweet heart from the train to the back of his faithful horse, and introduces some novel rope-throwing features.

As usual, the star is superbly supported by a capable cast, which includes Eva Novak, Charles K. French, L. C. Shunway, Sir Jordan, Lucille Younge and George Hernandez.

BUSH LEAGUE.

Last evening the Black Caps and the Duffus Devils played in the above league. A very strenuous game resulted in a tie of 0-0.

Duffus Devils—Sharp and Lashley.

CANADIANS HAVE DEVELOPED BEST VARIETIES OF WHEAT.

At no time in the history of Canada has her wheat fields meant so much to the world as now. Canada produces wheat of the finest grades and in such large quantities as to place the Dominion well up among the wheat-producing countries of the world. Both Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture have done their share in improving wheat varieties and extending the growth of this necessary cereal.

An interesting account of the work that has been done is contained in the May number of the Agricultural Gazette, the official organ of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. It is there shown that the most widely grown varieties were developed by Canadian scientists. Preston, Stanley, Huron, Bishop, O.A.C. No. 104, Marquis, Ruby, and Prelude have each their valuable factors. The history and characteristics of each are given. The Seed Branch and the Department assist the Canadian Seed Growers' Association in extending the growth of pedigreed varieties. The Seed Branch itself encourages seed crop competitions and seed fairs, tests seeds for farmers and merchants, inspects seeds on sale, and has, through the Canadian Seed Purchasing Commission, ensured supplies of dependable seed wheat during recent years.

LIKE ARABIAN NIGHTS TALE TORONTO MAN VISITS RAJAH

BLAZING JEWELS, GORGEOUS COLORS, FAIRY PALACE—THOUSANDS OF SALAAMING HINDOOS ACCLAIM INDIAN PRINCE LIKE A GOD—BRITISH GUESTS SUMPTUOUSLY ENTERTAINED.

Certain religious festivals in India are dying out, and some are tabooed by the British Government, such as the "Suttee" or the burning of the Hindu widow on her husband's funeral pyre, and the "swinging of the hook" where the hook with a rope attached is inserted in the small of a man's back and then hauled round in every direction. One of these festivals remain, that of the "Fire Walkers," which the writer has personally seen. Here a bed of red hot coals covering a large area is prepared and the participants walk, run, prostrate themselves in bare feet with apparently no previous preparation or protection to the soles of their feet, and without seemingly burning themselves.

Weird Music.

The two great religious Hindu and Mohamedan Festivals are the Dasara and the Mohorrum celebrated annually in October, the exact date depending on the event of the new moon. Sometimes these festivals clash and then ensues a period of anxiety for the Indian police, picquets having to be furnished by both British and Indian troops. During this time the bzaars are buzzing with excitement. Processions move along the narrow bazaar streets, and there is little peace for anyone who happens to live adjacent to the bazaar. The ratle of drums, the din of tom-toms accompanied by low droning Oriental music, makes life unbearable for those who do not appreciate the harmony of these weird sounds. When these two festivals happen to coincide special arrangements have to be made to prevent opposing Hindu and Mohamedan processions meeting, special routes and areas being allotted to Hindus and Mohamedans. Bazaars are then placed out of bonds for all troops. However, generally both festivas pass off quietly, though it is always an anxious time for the powers that be as both castes are keyed up to a high pitch of fanaticism.

Rajah is a God.

Last year the writer had an opportunity of witnessing the Dasara Festivities in which the Maharajah of Mysore is the central figure, at Mysore City, as one of the Maharajah's specially invited guests. At the celebration of the Dasara the Maharajah becomes a god temporarily. During this period he is kept secluded from his subjects and family, he is unshavan and spends his days and nights in fasting and prayer.

On the eve of the day, we, the European guests assembled at his capitol, were bidden to attend a durbar at the palace which is the culminating ceremony of the festival when His Highness appears to his subjects after his ten days abstinence.

Like Arabian Nights.

It was like a scene from the Arabian Nights. After a drive through the street of the gaily decked city, flaunting the myriad colors of the natives in holiday attire, we arrived at the palace about sunset, the last rays gilded its golden dome and touched its grey stone columns and balustrades with pink and amethyst. A dignified building made to appear like the palace of a fairy tale. To further enhance the gorgeousness of the whole affair, in the court yard knelt thousands of His Highness' subjects, in all the colors of the rainbow, awaiting his appearance in the balcony above. I think the most frivolous of us even felt the impressiveness of the scene as we were led up the marble staircase through long balconies where the foot sank silently in the costly rugs, and the walls were hung with curtains of gold tissue, and priceless paintings. Then on again, past the throne room with its double doors of carved silver, depicting the past history of Mysore and its Rajahs, and its thrones of silver upholstered in crimson, another corridor is past and at last through double doors of carved ivory, yellow with age, we come into the central balcony or durbar hall. A period of breathless waiting. Then a door is opened and His Highness appears preceeded by an ancient servitor of dignified men with long white beards, bearing a corneacopia of gold from which flowers overflowed, and as he advanced always facing the Maharajah, he intones in that soft, weird voice of the East, "Krishna-Maharajah-Wadyar," bending reverently at each word.

Blazing With Jewels.

The Maharajah is more gorgeous than the wording of the most luxurious story of the Arabian Nights. His long coat is wrought of pure gold tissue with buttons of huge rubies set in diamonds. His turban is of gold too, fastened with a large ornament, or rubies and diamonds and emeralds. About his neck he wears strings of enormous pearls, and uncut emeralds, and one string of very large, very white, uncut diamonds. He is led with his right hand laid on a small crimson velvet cushion. It is a slim, nervous hand so laden with rings as to make all movements of it slow and laborious, and it is tied by a small crimson cord. The face is intense and wrapt—the face of a devotee. Behind him walks his younger brother, the Yuvaraja, then follow the rest of his retinue. They all advance to a throne of pure gold facing the multitude below, and there His Highness seats himself.

Magnificent Throne.

The throne is indeed a fitting setting for his magnificence. It stands about eght feet from the floor to the top of the canopy. It is mounted by three steps in front and is fitted with a crimson velvet cushion.

About the edge of its huge gold canopy hangs a fringe of pearls at least twelve inches deep, and this, in the centre of the canopy, suspended just over the head of the Maharajah, is a long thick tassel of emeralds and pearls.

Meet the Mogul.

The multitude below is breathless, the multi-colored silk curtains that hide the walls move softly in the breeze, and from the far end of the gallery behind the purdah curtains of wrought gold and amethyst comes the faint whisper. Then a slim hand appears in one of the slits, occasionally pushing them further open for a better view. It is here that the princesses and female members of the family are assembled.

The guests are then presented to the Maharajah in order of precedence. We pass before the throne as our names are called, making first a little bow before the Maharajah, then to his brother. When the durbar is over we pass out as we came before His Highness and the ladies are then presented with a bouquet of flowers.

Rides Elephant.

The next day in lordly style His Highness, mounted his state elephant with jewelled trappings in the courtyard, and rode forth with his young brother beside him in state to the acclamations of the multitude. It was wondrous sight when the sun glinted on those be-jewelled two as they swayed in the gold howdah as the ponderous beasts moved on.

The procession wound away in the sunlight and we European guests left the club balcony where we had viewed it and wandered back to our own festivities at Government House where we were being entertained right royalty by H. H. the Maharajah.

Worth Trip Round World.

Then followed a week of races, polo, pigsticking, paper chases, dinners, dances. Our host the Maharajah made a daily appearance at races and moved most courteously among his guests. But I noticed no enthusiasm in his smile when his horses won races, and his gaze often wandered away to the top of the hill Chalmundi which sits so protectingly above his little city. I wondered if that life of the gods appeared more real to him then this other. For me it all seemed an anti-climax after that scene in the palace which I should have journeyed over the world to witness and considered myself richly repaid.

ST. JOHN'S CHOIR ENJOYED OUTING

OVER ONE HUNDRED TOOK IN THE ANNUAL EXCURSION.

St. John's choristers and their friends making a total of over one hundred spent a pleasant holiday on the "Stoney Lake" and at Burleigh Falls, the occasion being the annual choir trip. Starting from George street wharf at 8.15, Burleigh was reached at one, where Mrs. Darcy supplied a splendid dinner. Several hours were spent in bathing, fishing and snapshotting, before starting for Peterborough. A break of thirty minutes at Young's Point was made to bring off the races. Supper was splendidly served on board after leaving Lakefield, by Coleman Bros., and singing and dancing combined to complete a happy day. All the arrangements for the outing were made by Mrs. H. W. Morphet and Mr. R. J. Devey, who were heartily thanked for their successful efforts

A READING LAMP FOR MISS M'LAREN

ST. ANDREW'S SOLOIST HONOURED LAST EVENING.

At the choir practice of St. Andrew's church last evening, Miss Helen McLaren, who next Sunday completes over five and a half years as soloist of the church, was presented with a dainty table lamp by the choir. The presentation, made by Mrs. Flitton, was prefaced by a few remarks by the organist and choirmaster, Mr. John Crane, who referred to the whole-hearted and valued services rendered by Miss McLaren not only to the church but to every musical interest in the city. He remarked, in asking her acceptance of the lamp, that she might find it useful at some future time when "reading the Ladies' Home Journal, studying the cook book, or figuring up the household bills for the month," and on behalf of the choir wished her every success and happiness in whatever field she might enlist her musical talents.

Other members of the choir also expressed words of appreciation of Miss McLaren's work and the gathering broke up feeling that the choir had sustained a great loss in losing Miss McLaren.

PETES BEATEN BY DELORA TEAM

CENTRAL LEAGUERS LOSE BY 8 TO 6 IN GAME WITH TRENT VALLEY OUTFIT.

The Peterborough Central League team ran into an unexpected snag yesterday when they journey to Deloro and met the Trent Valley League team of the mining village. The Refiners won the verdict 8 to 6 after the Petes had set up a lead of 5 to 0.

The Deloro outfit played snappy ball, the infield handling grounders in good style, while the outfielders covered a lot of ground and grabbed in many healthy drives. Leal pitched nice steady ball for the Refiners.

The Petes on the other hand were decidedly below form in their fielding and Manager Solomon is thanking his stars that yesterday's game was only an exhibition feature. Their misplays gave the winners five runs in the sixth after two men were out, and handed the game to the Refiners on a platted.

Kirn, Rose and Harrison worked three innings in turn against Deloro. The refiners got three runs off Kirn, who pitched the first three innings, and five off Rose, who twirled the next three, although errors after the side should have been retired in the sixth made it possible for the winners to get five unearned runs. Harrison did not allow a hit or a run in the last three innings.

The Peterborough team lined up as follows: Swanston, c.; Kirn, p., m., 1b.; Rose, p., m.; Harrison, p., 1b.; Carroll, 2b.; Cherrett, s.s.; Murray, 3b.; Shaughnessy, l.f.; Turner, r.f.

The Petes were royally entertained by the Deloro outfit and thoroughly enjoyed the outing.

Score by innings:

Peterborough . . . . . 203010000—6
Deloro . . . . . 003005000—8

MR. T. J. PARROTT HAS COLLECTION OF RARE COINS

SOME OF THEM FORM INTERESTING LINK WITH THE PAST.

Mr. T. J. (Joe) Parrott, the well-known Hunter street vendor, who for many years has displayed his goods in the lane west of the old Times building, has, during the last six years collected any odd bits of money that came his way and to-day has a flourishing collection of coins.

Mr. Parrott has many opportunities to pick up odd coins for his goods are all sold at a low price. A newspaper item the other day stated that a merchant in Kingston had received a United States' one cent piece dated 1854. Mr. Parrott has two coins that appeared to be the same issue as the one in Kingston. One bears the date 1851, while the other is dated 1820. The coins are thicker than a Canadian cent and consequently heavier. The head of Liberty is encircled by 13 stars. On the back is the demonmination entwined with laurel leaves with the United States of America inscribed around it. He has a half dime of the same year, 1857.

Other Coins.

Mr. Parrott has a 4d. piece, a 6d and a shilling of the George III series. The 4 cent piece is not now in use and this piece is highly prized. The shilling he procured from a Mr. Edwards who found it last year while pulling up the sidewalk on Hunter street for the new bridge. How long it lay there and whose it was would form an interesting story. Doubtless the one who lost it has long since gone to his earthly resting place.

Among his collections are many other interesting coins and a story is attached to each. A unique Irish coin dated 1820, with a hole in it and a small ring through it was an old gentleman's watch guard, Mr. Parrott said. It was given him for a keepsake. He is continually adding to his collection he told the reporter, for persons who would not have the face to do it in a store, pass off lead quarters and cents with holes in them on him. It is unbelievable that such is the case but the gum and pencil vendor emphatically declared it was so, but says that he always takes them without a complaint for his collection.

INQUIRY INTO CASE OF INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

TWELVE SERVING TERMS IN AUSTRALIAN PRISONS FOR ARSON.

(Canadian Press)

SYDNEY, Australia, June 25.—The Labor Party having lately come into power in New South Wales, it is proposed by the government to appoint a commission to inquire further into the case of the Industrial Workers of the World, who are in the penitentiary for arson and attempted arson committed here several years ago. An inquiry of the kind held not long after the men had begun serving sentences which aggregate many years resulted adversely to them.

The prisoners number twelve, their names being Donald McPherson, William Teen, John Hamilton, Bernard B. Besant, Donald Grant, Charles Reeve, Morris J. Fagin and Thomas Glynn, William Beatty, Thomas Moore, Benjamin King, ePter Larkin.

Larkin had some connection with the industrial workers' organization in the United States prior to coming to Australia and King is a Canadian by birth. When the war was at it's height the men set fire to four big establishments in Sydney, causing losses estimated at $1,250,000 and tried to set fire to other stores and factories. They were convicted of treason.

JAMES MURDOCK CREATES FURORE

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, June 25. — The resignation of James Murdoch as the last remaining member of the Board of Commerce, has created a furore. Sir Robert Borden did not receive the letter until late this morning.

What the premier will do in the circumstances he has not disclosed. There is a feeling among the government supporters that Murdoch should be caled upon to specify which members of the cabinet undertook to minimize the provisions of the Board of Commerce Act and Combine and Fair Price Act, and that he should be called upon to give particulars of the charge that following Judge Robson's resignation several Cabinet "undertook to thwart the Board's activities by quiet and hidden restrictive opposition."

CANADA DEPRIVED OF MUCH CUSTOM DUTY

U.S. MANUFACTURERS SOLD TRACTORS AT FALSE VALUES.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, June 25. — How implement manufacturers in the United States sold tractors to subsidiary companies in Canada at false value, in order to avoid Customs duty, was brought out before the Public Accounts of the Commons to-day.

Like Connivance.

It looks like a connivance between two companies to make a false declaration without becoming amenable to the law, and it was evidently a case of sharp practice. After studying the Order-in-Council they found a way to circumvent it, was how H. B. Morphy, the chairman, expressed himself when an alleged loss of $407,000 in Customs duty was probed.

Gruelling Examination.

F. Richards, Dominion Appraiser, was on the witness stand all morning. In a somewhat gruelling examination at the hands of L. C. Ross, West Middlesex, witness said the Department's hands were tied by the Order-in-Council, and had to sit idly by and see the country deprived of Customs duty.

The only influence worth having is the influence you yourself create.

There is no higher rank than that of worker.

No title can ever make a loafer a noble-man.

Miss Ida E. Wood, photographic expert; Miss Jean C. Mackie, astronomer, Miss A. J. Gannon, curator of astronomical photographs all at the Harvard Observatory, have discovered a new star. This makes 18 new stars that have been discovered by women at this observatory by women since 1887.

PRESIDENT OF DOMINION TRADES CONGRESS WILL ADDRESS OPEN MEETING.

Mr. Tom Moore, president of the Dominion Trades Congress, will address a public meeting in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum to-night. Some misunderstanding has been caused by several advertisements naming both the Lyceum and the Labor Hall, and the Carpenters and also the executive of the Labor Council, under whose auspices this meeting has been arranged are anxious that the information shall be given correctly to the public. A large attendance is expected. Mr. Moore, who by the way rose from the carpenters' ranks, is well known in Peterborough, having been here often when he was an organizer for the Carpenters' Union.

OLD GILMOUR STREET RESIDENCE IS SOLD

MR J. A. G. GOULET BUYS THE YOKOME PROPERTY.

One of the very nicest residential properties in the city exchanged ownership this week, when Mr. J. A. G. Goulet purchased from Mrs. F. K. Yokome, Gilmour street, the entire grouds and residence occupied by the late Mr. Yokome and herself for so many years.

The grounds are spacious with a wide expanse of lawn and shrubs and trees that had been cultivated by years of care and attention. A back lawn and garden heightens the decorative and homelike effects, conveying a reminder of those days when the pleasures of life were more generally found at home and most citizens had front and rear lots that invited both rest and work. A lover of nature and an ardent advocate of the city beautiful, Mr. Yokome practiced on his own property what he recommended to the whole city and its representatives in the council.

Mrs. Yokome has not yet completed all her plans but it is necessary for her to dispose of her household effects, which she is now doing by private sale.

Many old and valuable pieces of furniture will be parted with. They will appeal to those persons who seek for intrinsic values and who know that in the furnishings of the older homes are enduring woods that are precious to-day through their scarcity.

VOL. XVI.I. NO. 150 — PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1920 — PRICE THREE CENTS

STRING OF BY-LAWS TO BE PRESENTED TO THE PEOPLE

SEVERAL DEAL WITH NEW INDUSTRIES, ONE PROPOSES SUNDAY STREET CARS AND ANOTHER INCREASED FUNDS FOR HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

VOTE ON JULY 30TH

Three and possibly four or five by-laws will be presented to the ratepayers on Friday, July 30th. One contains the agreement with the Raybestos Company to buy the Henry Hope factory for a new industry; the second provides for a loan of $10,000 at 6 1-4 per cent. by the city to the Otonabee Mills Limited, a new local company that propotes to locate in Ashburnham; and the third seeks the people's approval of the operation of the street cars on Sunday in Peterboro.

There is also some likelihood that the ratepayers may be called upon to vote additional funds for the completion of the Hunter street bridge, and, to fill out the card to the proportions of a ballot in some of the United States elections, a fifth bylaw will be added if negotiations with a manufacturing company that has manifested interest in Peterboro are successfully concluded.

Ask for a Loan.

The Raybestos Company's plans to take over the Henry Hope Company's plant have already been published as has been the proposal of the Otonabee Mills Limited. Mr. Walter Worth and Mr. J. Hopwood are organizing the latter company with the intention of manufacturing yarn. They are purchasing the Oke furniture building on Hunter street east, and plan to erect an additional building on several lots at the rear. The company asks the city to loan them $10,000 at 6 1-4 per cent. interest, giving their property and plant as security, and guarantees to employ 20 persons within two months after beginning operations and to have 30 employees in six months. They also ask for a fixed assesment of $8,000.

For Sunday Cars.

Ald. Gainey suggested that the vote on these bylaws be deferred until by-laws for Sunday street cars and more funds for the bridge could be prepared. He said that Mr. Tooms had assured him that the new legislation enabled the municipality to express its wishes at once in regard to Sunday cars, and there was no doubt of the cost of the Hunter street bridge exceeding the money already provided.

Ald. Crowe—If there is any chance of having the vote taken we would like to have the use of the cars.

Ald. Morrison seconded Ald. Gainey's motion that a bylaw for the Sunday street car vote be prepared.

Ald. Turner—It is difficult to estimate how much will be needed for the bridge. I thought that we might run along to the end of the appropriation.

Mayor McIntyre—You will end the work then.

Ald. Turner—It might be winter by that time.

Mayor McIntyre — There's not enough money to last until winter.

It was suggested that the salvage of used material might provide sufficient to carry on for a time, but Ald. Gainey said that the treasurer could not pay cheques on salvage.

Ald. Turner recommended that the Bridge Committee bring in a report as soon as possible, showing the financial statement of the bridge work and estimating the amount of money required to finish it.

This was agreed to and City Solicitor Widdifield was also instructed to prepare a bylaw for the Sunday street car vote.

$200 INCREASE FOR THE CITY ENGINEER

AS AN INDUCEMENT TO REMAIN HERE—WAR TROPHIES ARRIVE.

City Engineer Parsons' salary was increased from $3300 to $3500 by the Council last night as an inducement to him to remain in Peterboro instead of accepting the more remunerative offer he recently received from the city of Hamilton.

Ald. Whitehouse said that Mr. Parsons had told him he would rather stay in Peterboro if his services were appreciated, but in view of the attractive offer he had to consider his personal interests first. The increase of $200 moved by Ald. Turner and seconded by Ald. Copping takes effect july 1st, if Mr. Parsons regards it as sufficient.

German Guns Here.

Three war trophies allotted to Peterboro, two 150 mm. and one 75 mm. guns captured from the Germans have arrived here and are stored in the Board of Works shed. Their disposal was left to the Parks Committee on motion of Ald. Turner seconded by Ald. Gordon, and their receipt will be acknowledged with thanks.

Pay For Site.

Ald. Turner moved that the necessary bylaw for the payment to the Wilson brothers of the 17,500 for the sewage disposal site be prepared for the next meeting.

Ald. Crowe's Appreciation.

Ald. Crowe expressed his appreciation of the Council's sympathy during his illness and moved that a similar resolution be sent to Ald. Jones.

Mr. Barber's Account.

Stating that Mr. Frank Barber had already received $7,000 from the city, Ald. Phelan advised that before any other payments are made to Mr. Barber that the exact amount which the city must pay him be computed. He was informed that the last payment estimated on $200,000 there was included $70,000 which is expected to be recovered by salvage.

Ald. Turner replied that he would investigate the facts of the payment and report.

Mr. Gordon was informed that Mr. Barber's commission is four percent. of the whole cost of the bridge. He pointed out that the city was still in debt to Mr. Barber.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.
Why is is that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. We have helped a large number of children. See W. H. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George street.

BRITISH BOMBARD THE TURKISH LINES

(Canadian Press).

LONDON, June 26. — British warships at anchor before the town of Ismid, Asia Minor, have violently bombarded the Turkish line stretched around that place. It is estimated a thousand Turks have been killed, according to a despatch from Athens. Reports from Ismid, the message stated, indicate that violent fighting continues there.

FINANCIAL MARKETS REFLECT CONTRACTION OF TIME FUNDS AND SLOWING UP OF INDUSTRY

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, June 26.—Advent of mid-year with its extraordinary large interest and dividend payments, effected no change this week in the finnacial markets beyond further contraction of time funds and materially higher rates for call money. Unlike the years preceding the world war, the prospective disbursements were unaccompanied by any marked inquiry from investment sources. Bond market and other high grade securities were irregular at best on extremely light dealings. Resumption of railroad strike at Eastern terminals acted as a further check to production at the steel mills and intensified the already very congested freight sit uation with consequent heaviness in railroad shares.

In other branches of industry such as woollens, leathers and affiliated lines, trade authorities reported further reduction or absolute suspension of operations. These conditions were again not pronounced in New England and Pennsylvania sections.

Politics seemed to exert little influence, although increased interest was shown in the coming convention at San Francisco. Latest aspects of eastern European situation were without apparent effect upon the foreign exchange, that market being governed entirely by prospective gold imports.

Mr. Tom Moore Gave An Address

MR. THOMAS TOOMS AND DELEGATES TO CARPENTERS' CONVENTION WERE AMONG THE SPEAKERS—PUBLIC ISSUES.

The eight hour day and labor's innocence of the blame for the high cost of living were the principal themes of the speakers at the open meeting called last night in St. Alphonsus Lyceum, by the Trades and Labor Council.

The meeting gave the public an opportunity of meeting Mr. Tom Moore, President of the Dominion Trades Council. At the opening of the meeting the attendance was very small but towards the close a large number of citizens gathered, including the Mayor and members of the City Council.

Mr. Tooms, M.P.P.

The first speaker introduced by the chairman of the evening, Mr. T. Lane, president of the local Trades and Labor Council, was Mr. Thomas Tooms, M.P.P. In a short address the speaker said the country is at present in a critical period of the labor movement and it is up to the labor men to realize their duty and responsibility in meeting conditions—meeting them with common sense and justice—upon which factors all legislature must be based. He urged consistency in all things and an eye to the future, also a serious consideration of the political side. He said that the labor men in parliament have found common ground with the farmers and told of the many measures his party had introduced into parliament.

In conclusion he said that one thing the party has been trying to impress upon the people is that poverty is not a necessary evi' and the object is to discover the fundamental cause and remove it.

Arthur Martell.

The second speaker, Mr. Arthur Martell, Montreal, 5th Vice-President of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters, said that while there is yet much work to be done, the campaign started by the Federation of Labor recently with a view to solidifying and gaining cooperation, has been somewhat successful. The question of organization is becoming a class question, he continued ,though it was never primarily intended to be because labor and employers cannot function without each other. The purpose of organized labor is to try to establish reasonable working conditions, also a market value of labor. If a market and price cannot be established for labor, labor is not of much use. To establish a condition any faction must have some control, and to control, labor must organize, and by organization try to keep the demand and supply equally balanced, and keep a job for all.

Continuing, he said, that in spite of all divisions along national lines in Quebec the organization is progressing and should do more so in Ontario where there is less opposition.

48 HOUR WEEK.

The eight hour day and 48 hour week, he continued, is of vital importance, and one which all should advocate, affecting as it will 26 countries represented in the League of Nations.

The speaker believed that in order to obtain this, pressure will have to be brought upon the governments. The building trades are at present enjoying the eight hour day in Canada but there are many countries in the League of Nations where the 12 hour day is used. In Canada to-day in the textile trades we have the ten hour day and the 55 hour week. He concluded by saying that it is up to the working people to give the question their most serious consideration and reminded them that the legislature is governed by the sentiment of the people.

"We have been promised the eight hour day, and we are entitled to it," he said, "and by bettering conditions we are bettering the country and making it worth while to live in—worth while to fight for."

"The One Big Union."

Brother Valley, organizer of the American Federation of Labor, outlined in detail the failure of the 'One Big Union' in Winnipeg, which was organized, he said, somewhat on the basis of the working man who sits on his employers doorstep and starves to death." The One Big Union has never succeeded in fulfilling anything. He said in spite of the disorganization of labor wrought by the movement the Trades and Labor Council was preserved and the International organization in Winnipeg their organization intact. He cautioned the gathering against letting individual opinion creep in, stating that it was only by taking the main level of the working class that organization may be successful. Urging organization, he concluded that with 50 per cent. of organization, conditions will be bad, with 80 better, but with one hundred per cent. conditions will be what Labor is looking for.

Three Movements.

The next speaker, Mr. Tom Moore, dealt specifically with one or two great questions which are disturbing the public mind. There are, he said, three great movements in which we are all interested, the political movement, as now we have members from other walks of life from those of yesterday who represented the people, the co-operative movement which bend towards lowering the price of food and clothing and preventing profiteering by the middleman, and lastly the Trades Union movement. It is, he said, essenial that every worker should study all three and that all three should go side by side but not become confused.

In speaking of the strikes in Peterborough, in Toronto and throughout Canada, he said there must be some underlying cause for them. There is, he said, a feeling of distrust against some one and something, and in that lies the danger of the present time. Unless the government realizes the danger of putting off there is the danger the people will take action themselves.

Profiteering is one cause of the unrest and in discoursing on this subject the speaker threw some light upon the futility of the Board of Commerce which, though functioning for some months has wrought little appreciable difference in living conditions.

It is generally accepted by the public that profiteering in labor is responsible for high prices. This the speaker proved to be absolutely groundless, showing by actual statistics that while bread has more than doubled in price, the price of labor on each loaf has advanced a fraction over one cent since 1914. Coal has advanced $7 or $8 a ton while the labor end had advanced $1.38 on each ton brorght to the surface. Steel and textiles were shown to have made equal advances with equal innocence on the part of labor and yet, he said, labor gets the blame. The speaker dealt at length with mergers and the evils wrought by them.

Create Bolshevism.

The employer who to-day will make no way for organization, who says he has no room for such, that it is his company and he will not be dictated to, is doing much to create a state of Bolshevism. Dealing with public ownership the speaker said that organized labor believes in it, and has fought for it.

The fight to-day is against workers becoming part of an automatic machine, that they may be considered human beings, not a commodity. He concluded by an appeal for organized labor, the necessity of improving working conditions and impressing the vital need of co-operation between labor and capital.

American Visitor.

Brother G. Lakey, of Indianapolis, 2nd vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters, in an address, characteristic of the United States, said he had come to Canada to see if the trouble here is the same as in the States and had found that it was. He outlined the steps taken by labor in the States to find out who was to blame for shoes costing $4.20 and retailing five hundred yards away at $12.50 and other commodities raising in the same proportion for which labor was blamed. He also gave the United States' Board of Commerce a scathing review, stating that it was a Board provided with a wooden gun to go hunting profiteers where the members knew they wouldn't meet any. He concluded by paying a glowing tribute to Peterborough which he said is no mean city.

Greater Production.

Brother Eccles, the last speaker, vice-president of the Electrical Workers, brought some light upon greater production, which he said is the excuse for longer hours. He stated that on a visit in the west, while he heard greater production must be accomplished to save the world, mills are working only three and four hours a day as there has been too much production, while some of the abbatoirs are over-stocked.

FEDERAL MEMBERS TO VOTE THEMSELVES GENEROUS INCREASES.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, June 26.—Increases in indemnities of the members of the Senate and the House of Commons, the salaries of the Speakers of both Houses of Parliament, Ministers of the Cabinet, and members of the Judiciary will be proposed by the Government, acoording to a statement issued by Sir Robert Borden last night.

Members of Parliament will receive $4,000 for the session's labours, instead of $2,500 at present, but the Government will propose legislation to provide that this indemnity shall not be paid unless the session is of substantial length and the members are regular in attendance.

In future, the remuneration of the members of the Government, in addition to their indemnities as members of Parliament, will be as follows:

Prime Minister, $15,00 instead of $12,000; other members of Cabinet, $10,000 instead of $7,000; Solicitor-General, $7,000 instead of $5,000; the Leader of the Opposition will hereafter be paid $10,080; salaries of the Speakers of both Houses will be $6,000 instead of $4,000, and the salary of the Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons will be $4,000 instead of $2,000, in addition to their indemnities as members.

County Judges Included.

Justices of the Supreme Court of Canada, of the superior Courts of the Provinces, and of Judges of County Courts in counties, including city of 40,000 inhabitants or more, will all be granted increases in salaries.

The G. T. R. Loan.

The supplementary estimates, totalling $62,002,482.93, were tabled in the House this morning at 2.20 o'clock. The principal item is the one of the vote of $25,000,000 loan to the Grand Trunk Railway. The plan is to be used in "meeting expenditures or indebtedness incurred or payable in respect of deficits in operating expenses, interest on securities, maturing loans, construction, equipment, renewals and betterments," and for the purpose "of relieving maturing secured loans or other funded indebtedness and other and interest thereon." Other large items are: Maintenance of Canadian Navy, $1,700,00; public works, "harbours, wharves, etc.", $1,977,798; Air Board, $1,650,000; Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment $6,387,064; increases in salary $6,000,000; Canadian Government Railways, sum to pay off deficit $1,000,000.

The consideration of the Railway Department's estimates took up practically the whole sitting of the House and met with strenuous opposition.

The estimates were finally passed at 2.15 this morning.

ALLIED NATIONS ARE IN CONTROL

MARSHAL FOCH GIVES INTERESTING INTERVIEW.

(Canadian Press).

PARIS, June 26.—The allied nations are masters of the situation in the Near East, as elsewhere, and, if in complete harmony, can employ all the forces at their disposal to carry out their policies, which are "soberly proportioned to their interests," said Marshal Foch in an interview to-day.

"The allied position in the Near East," the Marshal declared, "is that of a liability company, limited in which no shareholder may say it was his capital which made the company's operations successful.

"The Greek army is one of our assets, and we are using it in corporate interests."

Discussing the German disarmament, he said it was not the actual destruction of cannon but the overcoming of the hostile and militarist spirit of the German people.

THE OFFENSIVE IS DEVELOPING

TEN THOUSAND PRISONERS AND FORTY-EIGHT GUNS CAPTURED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 26.—An offensive which is being carried out by General Baron Wrangel, successor to General Denikine, against the Bolsheviki in the Crimea, is developing rapidly. Wrangel's troops have occupied the line of Makalaiwska, Bolohoitshmk and Wakaiwa.

They have taken ten thousand prisoners and captured 48 guns, 250 machine guns, three armoured trains, nine armoured motors, several million pounds of wheat and much rolling stock.

COUNCIL DEFERS READING THE REPORT ON HOUSING

RESTRICT TO $100 THE FIRE CHIEF'S EXPENSES TO CONVENTIONS—HAVE NO FUNDS NOW FOR SIBERIAN RELIEF FUND.

PLUMBING INSPECTOR RESIGNS

Declining to open and discuss the report of the Housing Commission last night, the Council shelved it until the regular meeting on Monday, July 5th, with expressions of caution against haste and an allusion to the possibility of eventual abandonment of the project, which it is understood is now completely set out on paper and needs only the Council's approval.

Would Like to Help the Serbs.

An appeal from Capt Joe Lawson and Rev. Mr. Campbell, who are in charge of the Canadian Brotherhood Federation's campaign in Peterborough to secure $5,000 for the relief of destitute Serbian children was regarded as a most deserving one, but in view of the fact that the appropriations for the year had been struck and that there was no reserve for conting. encies, Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that the Brotherhood's request be recommended to next year's Council when they were providing for special grants.

"We are in hearty accord with the objects of this campaign," Ald. Turner said, "but we have to hew close to the line. Much as we should like to give a contribution I can't see where the money would come from and we are not permitted to overdraw our appropriations. This is a cause that we can help next year just as well as this and the Council can then deal with it"

Fire Chiefs' Conventions.

Ald. Morrison's report of the Fire, Water and Light committee containing a clause which recommended that Fire Chief Grange be permitted to atend the convention of the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Association in St. Thomas from August 3rd to 6th and also the convention of the International Association in Toronto from July 26 to 30th with the further recommendation that a member of the committee, preferably the chairman, accompany the Chief, was amended on Ald. Crowe's motion, seconded by Ald. Gainey, that the Chief's expenses should not exceed the sum of $100 appropriated for that purpose

At first Ald Crowe suggested that the Chief attend only one of the conventions, and Ald. Gainey said that he couldn't see why the Chief wished to attend the Dominion convention, as that association was not affiliated with the International.

Ald. Gainey remarked that if both conventions were to be attended that the Assistant Chief or Captain should go to one of them, so that the knowledge to be gained would not be confined to just one man in the department

Ald. Morrison defended the committee's report, and stated that the Chief took his holidays during the conventions However, the amendment limiting Chief Grange's expenses paid by the city to $100 was carried by the Council.

Resignation Received

Mr. Peter Thompson's resignation as plumbing inspector, after a service of fifteen years ago, was referred to the Property committee, as was a letter from the Plumbers' branch of the Retail Merchants' Association suggesting that in apointing a new inspector he should be of mature years, that he be a practical plumber of long experience and should also be required to pass a rigid examination prior to his appointment.

An application for the position was received from F. A. Rathbone and referred to the committee.

A Narrow Escape.

After narrowly escaping a shunting engine and freight car at the C.P.R. crossing on Aylmer street at 8.55 p. m. a short time ago, Mr. O. S. Matchett emphasized in a letter the need of a watchman at the crossing until 11 p.m. He wrote that the train was backing up, had not sounded a warning and no lights were shown on the street Mr. Matchett's letter was passed on to the Board of Works.

MR. TOM MOORE,
President of the Dominion Trades Congress, who addressed a public meeting in this city last night.

GREEK FORCES ARE ADVANCING

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN, ALSO WAR MATERIAL.

(Canadian Press).

LONDON, June 26.—Greek forces stationed in the Smyrna district are advancing in four directions into Asia Minor, according to a statement today by the Greek Legation, quoting the official Athens communique. The towns of Soma, Perativi, Mendelhora, and Chaoush-Datkiosk have been captured, and many prisoners, cannon, and machine guns have been taken by the Greeks. The Greek losses were twenty-one killed and one hundred wounded.

WILL MAKE LEVY ON THE CITY

(Canadian Press).

CORK, June 26.—Announcement was made by the Lord Mayor at a meeting of the Corporation yesterday that a systematic levy would be made on the city to support the Irish railwaymen. He said the Corporation was one of the bodies of the Irish Republican Government, and that its decrees had to be obeyed. If this was realized, he added, it might be necessary to make clear to the people that they were subject to the Corporation, which, he stated, was not recognized as British.

THE CALEDONIAN CLUB MEETING

FIRST ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING LAST EVENING.

The Caledonian Athletic Club held its first annual business meeting last evening in the Woodmen of World Hall, with President A. Dick in the chair.

The Secretary, Mr. Alex. McArthur gave an excellent report on the financial issue of the season just ended and was awarded a hearty vote of thanks.

The Machine Gunners reuested the Caledonians to play their schedule game on Tuesday evening, instead of this afternoon, but after the situation had been fully considered by the players and executive, the original date was adhered too. If the Machine Gunners do not make an appearance to-dy at 3 o'clock at the Exhibition Grounds they will lose 2 points.

The Football players and Athletic members are entitled to get tickets for the Excursion being run by the Social Club and Tickets can be had from the Committee.

It was arranged that the Club members and friends will meet every Thursday evening during July and August at the Exhibitions for recreation.

At some future date, the married men and the single men will play a football match.

The Football Club donated two prizes to the Social Club for the Excursion on July 1st.

The Executive desire every member of the Club to obtain their Excursion tickets for South Beach as early as possible because they are limited. None sold on day of Excursion. Sports and Fishing Competitions at South Beach.

ROOT HAS TWO-PANEL PLAN FOR WORLD COURT

Would Choose Judges from Nominees of the League Assembly and Council.

THE HAGUE—Among the plans for the creation of an International Court of Justice suggested to the Commission of Jurists now engaged here in working out the project is one by Elihu Root, former American Secretary of State, which provides that one panel of nominees for places on the court be chosen by the Assembly of the League of Nations, in which all the powers are represented, and another panel by the Council of the League, in which only the great powers have places. The judges then would be selected from the two panels.

Mr. Root also has pointed out that some day Germany and Russia will again surely be considered as among the great powers, and he has suggested that the plan be flexible enough to permit of their being represented.

All the jurists, it appears, agree that the most important point regarding the makeup of the court is that there be provision for adequate representation of the small powers, but at the same time they realize it is necessary that each of the five great powers be assured a place on the court. One report has it that the court is likely to consist of fifteen judges, five from the great powers and ten from the smaller.

The jurists declare that they are anxious to keep the court as far as possible outside of politics and independent of national bounds, but that they realize the importance of preventing the body being domicated by either the large or the small powers.

THE LATE SENATOR J. M. KENNEDY WAS KNOWN IN THIS DISTRICT

Senator J. M. Kennedy, one of the best known public speakers and newspapermen in Montana, and widely known about Peterborough, died suddenly at his apartments in Helena, Montana, recently. His wife, who survives him, was formerly Julia Sullivan, a daughter of the late Michael Sullivan, who formerly resided at the corner of George and Edinburgh streets, and is a sister of Mrs. J. J. Duffus, Mrs. Mark Buchanan and Mr. Dan Sullivan, all residents of this city.

A little over three weeks before the date of his death, Senator Kennedy suffered an attack of uremic poisoning, due partly to a cold he contracted during his travels about the state in behalf of the Near East campaign. A few weeks previous to his death he presided at a public meeting at the auditorium, but on the day of his death arose as usual in the morning and suddenly called medical assistance, immediately after lapsing into unconsciusness.

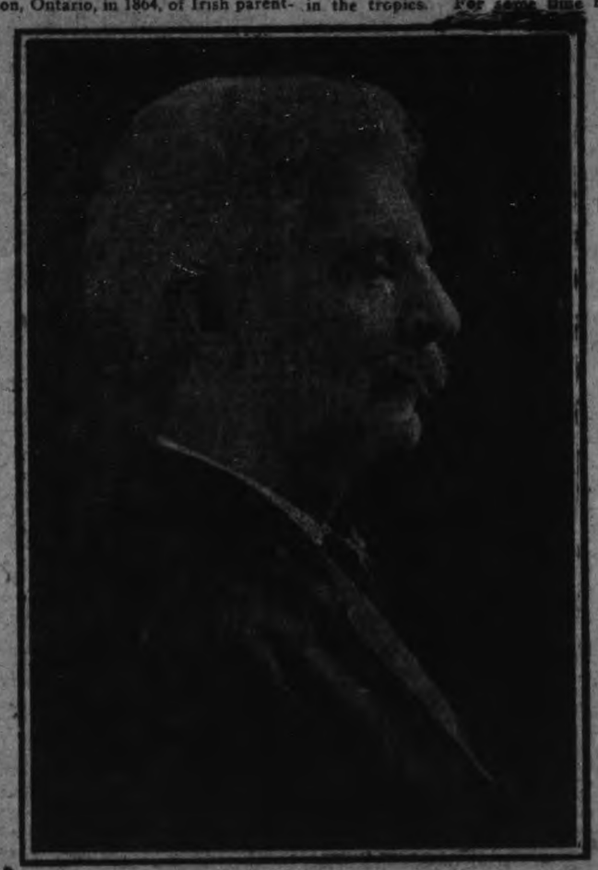
His Life.

Senator Kenedy was born in Hamilton, Ontario, in 1864, of Irish parentage and when a young man became a writer on a Canadian newspaper. At 20 years of age he became managing editor of the Canada School Journal and educational publication in Toronto. For six years he owned and edited newspapers, some of them devoted to Home Rule for Ireland. His zeal for the liberty of Ireland early precipitated him into conflict, but he persisted. At the age of 21 he crossed to Detroit and became a citizen of the United States. At the age of 24 he came to Montana and his first stopping place in the state in which he was to play so conspicuous a part for 32 years, was Helena. He continued his newspaper work and while a resident of Anaconda, published the first labor paper in Montana.

In 1895 he purchased and edited the New Northwest at Deer Lodge, and the following year he made his first advent in Montana politics, being elected to the Fifth Legislative Assembly from Deer Lodge county. He was elected speaker of the House in the organization of that body, being chosen by the Democratic members over a Republican and a Populist. It was said of him that he was one of the ablest parliamentarians who ever presided in a Montana Legislature.

Fought the Filipinos.

When the Spanish-American war broke out, Mr. Kennedy was appointed to a second lieutenancy by Governor Smith and went to the Philipines with the First Montana regiment. He was first in Company M, but was transferred to Company K, with which he served actively in the fighting against Aguinaldo. Before the war ended he was invalided home, because of sickness contracted in the hard campaigning in the tropics. For some time his life was despaired of but he recovered and returned to Anaconda, where he won a notable political contest.



Late Senator J. M. Kennedy

Appointed by Governor.

In 1908 Mr. Kennedy was appointed by Governor Norris as secretary of the state bureau of child and animal protection and in 1913 was appointed commissioner of agriculture and publicity by Governor S. V. Stewart. He resigned this office later to engage in ranchinng and newspaper work at Libby, where he conducted the Western News up to last fall. He owned a fine ranch with orchards on the Kootenai river and was secretary of the Kootenai Land company.

Prominent in War Work.

During his residence in Libby, Senator Kennedy was at the head of all war activities. He conducted Liberty Loan, Red Cross and other campaigns in connection with the war and made many patriotic addresses, paying especial attention at times to the seditionist and "the agitator seeking to hamstring the government. His patriotic work received the highest praise from the government, federal and state. Later he was secretary of the Roosevelt Memorial Fund which he successfully raised. At the time of his death, Mr. Kennedy was engaged in work for the Near East Relief movement.

Large Funeral.

The funeral, which was one of the largest ever held in the State of Montana, was conducted under the Elks auspices, which organization detailed a guard of honor at the chapel, in which the body rested pending interment.

WHY THE BRITISH HELD ON TO YPRES

LONDON.—The right way to approach Ypres is from the sout hover the Lys and along the road from Menin, says the Times in an article headed "The Story of Ypres." The road runs straight through a desolation that grows with each of the six miles of its length, between stumps and twisted limbs of the trees that were once leafy avenues and past fields pitted with shell-holes that two years ago were filled with noisome water, but are now mercifully covered over with grasses.

To go along this road in an afternoon of Armistice November, with the dead hand of war still tight on the land, was to feel the benumbing awe of entering into a vast and gloomy temple. The Menin road was the nave, the Cloth Hall at the end its altar piece, and the transept was the road that runs under the ramparts where the staq officers lived in timber-buttreseed caves. Away to the east is the low line of the Passchendaele ridge, and between it and the city the battle front sweeps past Hooge, crossing the Menin road obliquely, and so to the great indent in the neighbourhood of St. Eloi and Messines that was made by the first battle of Ypres.

The battlefields of Ypres have few natural features, and at the end of the war, when the whole fo the thin crust of solid earth had been shot away, such as remained seemed about to be submerged in the mud. Of villages like Gheluvelt literally nothing remained except a sign post to show where they had been. The army had swept forward, no one had come back, and the signs of life were like ghosts in a churchyard, more startling than the deadness of everything else.

THE FIRST BATTLE.

Ypres was a continuous battleground for four years, but the fires, burning all the time, became vast conflagrations four times during the war, and each occasion marked a distinct phase of the great struggle on the west.

The first of these conflagrations was in the autumn of 1914. Ypres became a battlefield by accident. All the plans formed before the outbreak of war assumed that the Germans would invade Belgium, and when that happened it was Belgium that, in the minds of those who were thinking about these things, offered the best opportunity for the effective employment of our army. These plans were baffled by the fall of Namur and by the rapidity of the German advance, and within a week of the first collision at Mons it was decided that our duty was by the side of the French armies, even though that meant the temporary abandonment of Belgium. The victory of the Marne and the chance that it offered, with the Belgian army still intact, of turning the German flank made Belgium once more the supreme strategical issue of the war.

GERMAN BLUNDER.

A race, thereupon, began between the Germans, who realized what a frightful blunder they had made in not occupying the Belgian coast and the Channel ports, and the British army under Lord French. The race ended in a dead heat. Antwerp and most of the Belgian coast were lost, but the Channel ports were saved; thanks to the strategic presence of Lord French, with the few fields of Belgium that were protected by the Belgian army, the floods, and by the position of Ypres.

This was the subject of the First Battle of Ypres, or of the Battle of Calais as the Germans called it. It was a battle between what was left of the old regular army and a German army consisting in great part of new troops — the best of Young Germany, many of them volunteers, but hastily trained. It was a victory of rifle fire over artillery and massed tactics of a small army, in which every soldier was by this time as skilful as a non-commissioned officer, over numbers and enthusiasm.

The German complaint of our overwhelming mass of machine guns in this battle was perhaps the highest compliment ever paid to the old British army. They mistook our rifle fire for that of machine guns. There was in this battle a freedom and elasticity of tactics only possible in an army of long training, and the great flank attack of the Worcesters near Gheluvelt is one of many examples of this freedom.

On the other hand, the German tactics were bad, but the only tactics possible to an army composed largely of ill-trained, hastily formed troops. The battle is rightly accounted the most decisive victory in the history of the British army, but it made Ypres a salient. The battlefield was the accidental point of collision between two armies, both racing for a position on each other's flank, but the result, though it saved the ports and determined the whole future course of our campaign in the west, made Ypres the most dangerous point in the British lines.

WOULD ABANDON CONTRACT SYSTEM

ONTARIO RURAL MAIL CONTRACTORS ASK CHANGE TO EMPLOYMENT ON SALARY.

OTTAWA, June 25. — Garfield McKinnon, secretary treasurer of the Ontario Rural Mail Contractors Association, waited upon the members of the cabinet yesterday with a request for a change in the method of meeting the cost of carrying the mails in rural districts. He urged the abandonment of the contract system and asked that rural mail contractors be employed on a permanent yearly salary basis. Rates of remuneration he suggested should be computed at $60 per mile per year. He contended that mail contractors during the past three years because of the enormous increase in costs, had been compelled to borrow in many cases as much as $200 a year, in order to carry out their contracts. For this reason he urged that the proposed new salary arrangement be made retroactive until January 1, 1917. Furthermore he asked that the mail contractors on rural routes be granted the statutory holidays with pay and that salaries be paid monthly.

Mr. McKinnon was promised, on behalf of the government very careful consideration of his proposals.

CHARGED WITH STEALING CLOTHING FROM LAUNDRY.

TORONTO, June 25.—Bertha Danbraske was taken into custody here by Detectives Black and Donaldson, on a charge of theft from the New Method Laundry, Queen Street East, where she was employed as laundress. Complaint was made some time ago that things were being stolen from the laundry, and yesterday the forelady, noticing the bulk of the prisoner, who is a slim woman, became suspicious and called the police.

Examination of the woman showed that she had a table cloth wrapped around her waist. Subsequent search of her room, the police say, revealed about $100 worth of soap chips and linen, all alleged to have been stolen.

In one corner of an old table cloth in a trunk the police discovered the woman's savings.

BABY GOLDBERG.

Thought she would not live.

The New Commercial Hotel,
Hamilton, Canada.
Gentlemen, July 27th, 1916.

I am enclosing you a photograph of my little girl Helen. Her life was undoubtedly saved by Virol. She weighed eight pounds at birth, but she did not thrive and when five months old her weight was seven pounds. She was in Grant Avenue Hospital in this city, suffering from a complication of meningitis and pneumonia and we had simply given up hope that she would live. The doctor then put her on Virol and the immediate improvement was so remarkable that the Virol feeding was continued and I am perfectly satisfied that she owes her present condition of splendid health to your wonderful food.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE GOLDBERG.

Virol increases the power of resistance to the germs of disease, and replaces wasted tissue, it is therefore a valuable food in Measles, Whooping cough, Infantile Diarrhoea, Influenza, etc.

TOO MUCH SPEED.

In connection with several articles that have appeared in these columns recently in regard to infractions of the speed limit and traffic regulations by many local motorists, a number of citizens have corroborated the assertion that on some of the outlying sections of the paved streets there is a nightly carnival of high speed. The complaints in this connection are becoming more frequent, and in the opinion of many citizens the police would be doing a good service to the community generally if some of the most persistent offenders were to be given a chance to explain to the magistrate their reasons for tearing around local streets at a speed that makes them a menace to the safety of the public. There is no desire on the part of the Examiner to repeatedly call the attention of the authorities to the disregard of the speed limit, but at the same time the present condition of affairs make it necessary to sound the warning frequently. The legal speed limit is too high, and when motorists exceed it by five miles an hour or better on a city street, there is every opening for a tragedy. There have been some narrow escapes and the matter is serious enough to attract the full attention of the police department.

LARGER INDEMNITIES.

The members of the Dominion Parliament are hopelessly out of touch with public opinion if they imagine that anywhere in the country is there any measure of approval of their plea for increased sessional indemnities. The simple truth is that so many constituencies the electors are awaiting an opportunity of getting rid of the present members. They would bitterly resent a body of men who will be swept out of office as soon as the people have a chance with their ballots, having the audacity to vote themselves larger allowances. Many of the members would have difficulty in proving that they are really earning the present indemnity, for their record in the House is anything but good, even in the matter of attendance. And the demand for more money for the members is in sad discord with the economy chorus that is continually being heard from the Government. The returned soldiers who were refused larger gratuities because the financial condition of the country would not permit of their being granted, will be the first to resent the agitation for increased allowances for the members of Parliament. And they will be quite justified in their resentment.

The question of larger indemnities should be left over for the present and made an issue in the next general election. While waiting for that expression of public opinion the members of Parliament will be able to get a very accurate survey of what the people think of their demands by reading the editorial columns of the Canadian newspapers, most of which severely condemn the salary-grabbing attempt of the members.

A CANOEING SERMON.

With the boating season in full swing the annual sermon to those who like to indulge in an hour or two on the Otonabee on these glorious summer evening may be in order. Peterborough as the home of the famous canoe of that name naturally contains many expert paddlers, who need no advice as to the proper method of handling the graceful albeit somewhat cranky craft. They know the capabilities of the canoe and know just what liberties they may in safety take with it, and as a rule get along without trouble and without accidents. But unfortunately there are many other people who venture abroad in a canoe who are much in the same position as the man who did not know that the gun was loaded. They have not realized that the frail boat, while comparatively innocous when handled by an expert, is capable of many queer pranks if the rules are not observed. Watching some of the amateur paddlers who take chances on the Otonabee every evening, those who know something about the art of managing a canoe are convinced that only the intervention of Providence has averted accidents. The man who sits in the stern of the canoe with the bow swinging clear of the water and inviting disaster whenever a launch or a steamer passes, the bolder individual who imagines that he can with safety stand up and paddle, the misguided pair who consider it an easy matter to change places in a canoe, the careless paddler who does not take the trouble to swing the bow of his craft into the swells of a passing steamer or motor boat, are all to be found on the river just now. Most of them do these foolish things out of sheer ignorance of the danger that is involved and the peril of their carelessness is augmented by the fact that many of the canoeist who take these chances do not know how to swim.

The canoe is a delightful craft, comfortable, easy running and safe in the hands of an expert. But it is a menace to those who ignore the safety limits and should be avoided by anyone who cannot swim.

LET THE LIGHT IN.

The sensational disclosures made by Commissioner James Murdock, the Labour member of the Board of Commerce, in tendering his resignation from that body, have served to reveal to the people of Canada reasons why the Board has not been able to carry out the work for which it was created. Mr. Murdock declares in bold and frank terms that the majority of the members of the Cabinet have never been in sympathy with the purposes of the Act creating the Board of Commerce or with the provisions of the Combines and Fair Prices Act and that these measures were only put on the statute books as camouflage legislation to check the unrest in the country. Mr. Murdock believes that the Government never intended that these measures should be given full effect and adds that the Cabinet will devise some means to prevent the Board of Commerce from functioning even should the decision of the Privy Council as to the constitutionality of the legislation prove favourable.

The Labour Commissioner gives it as his opinion based on his connection with the Board, that there is much work that could be done by that body if it were provided with the proper staff and had the sympathetic co-operation of the Government. That co-operation it has never had and Mr. Murdock declares that under the circumstances it would be improper for him to continue to draw his salary, knowing that he would be unable to accomplish any of the objects for which the Board of Commerce was supposed to have been formed.

"The light should be let in," declares the Commissioner in his letter to the Premier, and the people of Canada will agree with him. There are many missing chapters in the story of the Board of Commerce and the time has now come when all the facts should be made public. No more serious charge bas been made against the Union government— and there have been many serious charges—than the declaration of the retiring Commissioner that members of the Cabinet have persistently interfered with the work of the Board of Commerce and have endeavoured at all times to protect the "big interests." This legislation, supposedly passed to save the people of Canada from being preyed upon by profiteers, has been rendered a joke by this interference. The members of the Board have been helpless from the start and the people are entitled to know the whole story.

WHEAT ON THE TOBOGGAN SLIDE.

If the actual wheat crop for the season just now opening turns out to be as good as the Department of Agriculutre forecasts, which are based upon the present acreage under cultivation, the condition of the grain and the prospects of the harvest, we shall have some 504,000,000 bushels of new winter wheat and some 276,000,000 bushels of new spring wheat. This total of 780,000,00 bushels will not be so high as last year by 160,000,000 bushels and not so high as the year before by 140,000,000 bushels.

But if the present forecasts make good or anywhere near good our harvest will be 144,000,000 bushels more than in both 1917 and 1918, when the war was in full swing and Europe was bidding and begging for American wheat.

Furthermore, with the present carryover from last year of 150,000,000 bushels we shall have altogether, of new wheat and old wheat, 930,000,000 bushels. This will be more by 330,000,000 bushels than our own country ever has consumed even at normal prices. And the 330,000,000 bushels of surplus will be more than we ever have been able to sell abroad in peace times or in war times.

With the Grain Administration of the United States Government no longer jacking up the price of our wheat, feast or famine, what is going to be the price of American bread? This is a matter of big national importance, for when wheat goes down other grains will follow—the grains that feed and fatten live stock and thus determine the price of beef and mutton, pork and poultry, eggs, milk, butter and cheese. When this fundamental food, which is nothing but condensed grain, hits the toboggan the cost of living cannot stay up.—New York Sun-Herald.

FAMOUS BANDS BRITISH ISLANDS

GREAT REVIVAL OF MUSIC IN ENGLAND SINCE GREAT WAR.

There is just now a great revival taking place, probably due to the demobbling and the national desire for music and dancing everywhere, with respect to the formation of new brass bands, says Answers.

Especially is this the case along the whole Thames Valley, where already there, are certain fine bands, whose fame has become more than local during the past few years.

The fame of such southern brass bands as Ham and Petersham, Teddington, Kingston and Staines, is sufficient to show what immense strides this district has made in recent years with regard to this kind of music. The deep interest now being taken in forming similar bands at other places along the Thames, such as Richmond and Twickenham, indicates a still wider and more earnest desire on the part of southern England to take its place beside the north, which has for decades held a big supremacy with respect to its renowned brass bands.

Magic in Names.

What magic there is in the very names of some of these? How well we remember those tremendous all-Saturday contests which used to take place — annual fights for the brass band championship—each September at the Crystal Palace, when tens of thousands of enthusiasts used to come along by excursions from Yorkshrie, Lancashire and Northumberland to storm London for the day.

And what roars, what applause, what enthusiasm at the Palace when the celebrated Besses o' th' Barn ("fra Lancasheer"); or Wyke Temperance ("froo Bradford way") took the platform against such wondrous rivals as Meltham Mills ("along Huddersfield way"), the popular Black Dyke or Linthwaite for the championship.

Shall we see these contests again? Certainly; we are looking forward to them next year with renewed zest and eagerness.

For it is Yorkshire and Lancashire together with Durham and Northumberland, which supply the bulk of these marvellously clever brass bands, with their hosts of fine executants.

One has only to recall the names of Irwell, Hebburn, Horbury and Bramley to grasp this at once. There is hardly a little village in the suburbs of the great cotton and woollen ceitres but owns its brass band, with anything from a dozen to two score performers, men who can play all sorts of instruments, and play them extremely well, too.

For long years the much-coveted championship has gone north, won by one or other of the bands mentioned above, and very keen has been the rivalry for it, too.

Their successes have made the names of such bands as Besses o' th' Barn, Black Dyke, Wyke and Meltham Mills known all over the British Empire. Before to-day some of these have made world tours by special requests, and delighted millions of our kinsmen in the far dominions, where the lads from Lancashire, Yorkshire or Northumberland have received an uproarious welcome from men and women who left the same counties long decades back to try fortune in other lands, but who have never forgotten the places from which they came in the Motherland.

Why, famous poems have been written about more than one of these grand Northern bands. There is scarcely any dialect-poem better known throughout Yorkshire than that which tells of the lively doings of the Bramlia's Band.

All over the West Riding the tremendous rivalry for supremacy between Huddersfield, Bradford and Wakefield districts for their brass bands is something remarkable and the subject of perennial disputes.

If in the future, therefore, the south of England can even draw perceptibly near to the north in this rivalry, there is in store for music-lovers a real treat. The contests for the championship are likely to prove still more exciting than of yore. But a long way to go before this happens.

For, be it remembered, practically every miner, every weaver, every warehouseman around Huddersfield can play some instrument well. And there are brass bands galore in Yorkshire and Lancashire, which could render the "Messiah," the "Elijah," or any of the Sullivan operas for you and from memory in a way of which the Royal Artillery Band, or the Grenadiers' Band itself might well be proud.

FOREWORD.

New York is a city always on the march. It grows as no other city has grown, devouring its past. The great capitals of the world—London, Paris, Rome—present the phenomenon of a stone dropped into a surface of water. The expanding circles of population, widening and receding, leave a central calm—the calm of history, of traditions, of cherished memories, the solidifying calm of monumented generations. But New York is like an upturned bottle, constantly charged with champagne through its narrow neck, and this restless, increasing pressure, driving from the Battery to Central Park, has not only in one generation consumed its ancient residential area and dispersed its once conservative landmarks but created a new and feverish society.

As late as 1884, when Delmonico's, on Madison Square, was the northern advance of public restaurants, and Wallack's at Thirtieth Street, suffered from its isolation in the theatrical district, New York, from Washington Square to the Grand Central Station, between the iron limits of the elevated railways, was one unvexed stretch of brownstone fronts with high descending steps, which gave to the vistas of its streets the aspect of two brown-clad regiments marching into each other. Each brownstone front was a home. A few apartment houses (called at that time "flats") had made a timid entry, but were associated in the popular mind with that symbol of the slums, the tenement. The millionaires could be counted on the fingers, and most of them were still waiting their entrance into a rigid society that quoted Emerson, served cold suppers for Sunday, packed the churches, knew no divorce, and brought up its children at home. Thirty years ago, a woman who appeared on the streets rouged and powdered attracted as much attention as a Zulu princess in native costume would today.

Toward the end of this decade, the tide of emigration surged in. The first skyscrapers began to multiply. The front offices of the nation were transferred to the lower city, and, from the Battery upward, three great invading columns began their march. Greenwich Village was overrun, Stuyvesant Square isolated, Washington Square invested, and Fifth Avenue began to fall. New York society became a society in retreat, driven toward the park, while historic homes, if they were not leveled to permit the sudden rise of citadels of industry, passed down the inevitable ladder of degradation—from boarding house to furnished rooms, to modified flats, their lowest stories finally converted into laundries, groceries, and cellars for small produce.

There is something grandiose in this spectacle of a city constantly on the march, a spectacle unique in history. In the center, the main attack—the heavy battalions of industry—leveling great areas with its puissant artillery, fortifying each acre conquered with immense redoubts, strikes straight through the heart of a crumbling resistance toward its main objective, the Park, leaving to its covering battalions the task of subjugating those last strongholds of resistance where the enemy clings to its homes in Washington Square and embattled Murray Hill.

On the West Side, the spreading invasion has been without discipline or directing force—that horde of guerillas, free-booters, and scavengers, which rolls up in the wake of an invasion; a vast, contaminating, pestilential torrent, engulfing the last vestiges of the old Dutch and Colonial life with the greed of a tidal wave. The West Side contains the true slums of the city—slums of little sweatshops and ramshackle factories, slums of stagnant existences where all filth and all degradation, all bleakness and all suffocation, all races, intermingle in the mediocrity of arrested development. It is a region without clear racial definition, except in the upper reaches, where the negro has established himself like a spreading shadow cast by the advancing line of skyscrapers. If this western invasion seems at first formless and without intent, it still flows upward, a soiling barrier from which society recoils as from a pest.

On the East Side, like the cohorts of imperial Rome, an immense army of immigration marches toward the future, nation upon nation treading each other down. What spectacle in history is comparable to this sublime procession of races up the East Side, healing in a generation the ills and outrages of old injustices as flowing water purifies itself, its face to the future, marching toward destiny for its children?

Brawling, quick-witted, gay, the Irish landed first. They formed their clans, fighting for the love of combat, hard drinkers, loyal friends, predestined politicians, establishing themselves in the old Bowery and the now forgotten Five Points, until forced upward by a new wave of refugees from Prussian militarism. The great disciplined solidarity of Germany arrived, bringing their theaters, their restaurants, their newspapers, their Turnwereins, their choral societies—organizers and architects of industry. The Italian immigration and the Russian-Hebrew inflow followed, each in defined waves, washing its precursor further up the island and further up the social scale, founding, in the tenacity of the national instinct, "Little Italy" and the great Yiddish Ghetto. Other waves have rolled in. The first colonies of Italians and Hebrews, always driven upward, have seized possession of the outskirts of the Bronx and overflowed across rapidly multiplying bridges into Williamsburg and into Queens, while below, on the lower East Side, the swarming immigrants still land by the hundreds of thousands, their fortunes on their backs, occupying the lately relinquished tenements in that great cellar to opportunity which lies below Grand Street. This stupendous march of four nations completes the investiture of old New York by piercing its left flank, cutting it off from the river, and crowding it more and more against the eastern boundaries of the park.

What has happened? Just as the discovery of gunpowder destroyed the social state of feudalism, and the invention of the printing press, by the democratic dissemination of knowledge, made possible Cromwell and the French Revolution, so the configuration of New York, which has made the skyscraper a necessity, has determined an unrelenting conflict between the Past and the Present, a war visualized to the minutest military comparison which goes on day by day before our eyes. Below this material destruction and reconstruction, a profound change has been wrought in the soul of the society in flight. In 1890, New York was a city of homes; to-day, it is a wilderness of transient hotels.

When man had achieved the right to live and had conquered political liberty, there still remained ahead that ultimate human goal toward which all his efforts throughout history have tended, in search of which he has tried every form of government and attempted every code of morality—the pursuit of happiness, the final realization of which lies in ethical and spiritual domains. It is his final judgment on society, by which it stands or falls, for which it has created its forms and established its traditions. Man does not seek to live under a republic, a liberal kingdom, or a beneficent despotism. Instinctively he seeks his undividual happiness, but as his soul is not the soul of an ox, to acquire complete sciousness of freedom to think, to speak, and to act. The conquests of these rights (which we call hist are visible and material. There mains the future of human spe tion, that pursuit of happiness w is the inner life of the man himse in quest of which he has created the symbol of the home and attempted to perfect the convention of marriage.

The most terrifying emotion which he can feel is the sense of detachment which oppresses him when he finds himself unrelated to the progress of the multitude, either by marriage, by the ties of a home ,or by intimate association with his fellows. Man is not a solitary creature. His instinct is to associate himself with others in the partnership of his joys and his sorrows. His sanity and morality depend on some responsibility toward others. To him, home is not merely four walls and a roof. It is a symbol. To supply the need of his imagination, it must have the permanence of a continuing tradition. The two profoundest instincts of which he is capable, which direct him in all his course through life, are the instincts of acquisition and possession. To acquire, to add, is to progress. To possess a home is to give permanence to this progress. For there is a certain immortality about property which extends its consoling significance to its possessor, consoling significance to its But to have that sentiment of permanence which is attached to the symbol of the home, he must have his feet planted in the soil. Man does not possess one hundred cubic feet of air sixty feet above the ground.

Three additional developments in New York have been insidiously corrupting the old institution of the home—the telephone, which has leveled its walls; the apartment hotel, which has torn it from the soil, and the automobile, which has finally transferred it to breathless wheels. The modern wife finds the privacy of her bedroom invaded by a swarm of acquaintances who call her up at all moments of the day and night, interrupt her conversations, disturb her sleep, summon her from her table. Her automobile rushes her forty miles away for dinner in a popular restaurant, and she changes her apartment every three years without a memory or a regret.

A new and restless cormopolitan society has formed, always in motion, without relation to the past or attachment to the present, without definite object ahead except the exigencies of pleasure. In this society, maternity consists in delegating to governesses and boarding schools the education of the children, while matrimony is little more than a legalized method of circulating in society in couples.

When one realizes in the shifting, tireless city of New York the disappearance of the old-fashioned home, the slight authority of the parent generation, the confusion of social standards, the relaxing of religious discipline, one can see that each marriage is to its participants a fact apart, wherein two bewildered mortals are suddenly compelled to establish for themselves, in their search for happiness and mutual respect, some code of standards, responsibilities, and concessions, as though they were themselves creating the institution of marriage.

The one patent social fact to-day is man's injustice to woman in the sentimentalization of her education. As a child, she is taught an excessive value of her own preciousness. As a debutante, she is displayed with barbaric luxury in the marts of society, and the crowded years of servitude to pleasure leave her tired, disillusioned, and restless. She marries, and the acquired thirst for sensations tends naturally, after the accident of motherhood, to send her back to the freedom from responsibilities and the need of admiration which was her life as a young girl. In place of a consecrating ideal of duty, which alone can satisfy her spiritual longing for happiness, she is taught at every step to conceive of her privileged existence as the pursuit of pleasure.

In this parvenu society (which finds its reflections in certain social sets throughout the country), the women have created a society of sensations never deep or lasting—sensations which must rapidly succeed one another and be constantly intensified. Man to them is a multiple animal; the flattery of the crowd replaces the adoration of the individual. They are capable neither of great passions nor great wickedness, and therefore easily convince themselves that, despite luxury and pleasure, they are the most virtuous of wives. It is a transitory society, for it is a society profoundly discontented and tragically inconsequential, which will disappear as humanity continues to move restlessly onward, re-establishing its discipline and harking back to old landmarks in its eternal pursuit of happiness.

.... PART I. ....

It lacked a few minutes to seven by the gilded clock in the brilliant yellow salon of the Forresters' apartment on the tenth floor of one of those great stone bastions which a society in retreat has erected to stem the march of the invader. At the first stroke of the hour, Gregory, who had been waiting, entered the red bedroom of his master, and closed the heavy windows, through which, on the crisp September sunshine, the whistled cries of the awakening city were already penetrating. By the time he had arranged the massive lace curtains of the third window, with its slaten sweep of chimneyed roofs and the flowing green of Central Park, Mr. Forrester, who had sprung from his bed at the first knock, was already in his riding breeches and drawing on his boots.

"Well, Gregory, what's the weather?" he cried, with the vigor of a man of strong health who wakes with alacrity to the enthusiasms of the day.

"It's a lovely morning ,sir."

"First rate! Tell Morley Mrs. Forrester is not to be disturbed—unless she rings."

"Not to be disturbed—yes, sir," said Gregory, with the impassiveness of forty years of unemotional service.

His recent marriage had changed little in the routine of Andrew Forreste's day. The instinct toward order which dominated his life had made each step so mechanical that Gregory himself had acquired the precision of an automaton. He knew the second the precise moment ou, shaved and refreshed, the ter would hobble from the bathroom dy for the tendered shirt and cra- at, and when, capped and clothed, he had seen him swallowed up in the voluminous green ulster and conducted him to the waiting elevator, he could have glanced at his watch and pronounced with certitude, "Twenty-two after the hour."

But on the present morning, to his growing astonishment, when he had offered the gray woolen riding shirt, instead of the customary snap and celerity, he perceived a look of abstraction on the still young face of his master—a face which, despite its first impression of agreeable ugliness, had a contagious radiance of success, confidence, and decision. Instead of extending his hand for the stock which Gregory held tenderly poised, Mr. Forrester wandered over to the window and stood staring out on the golden city, hands pocketed, whistling windily the soldiers' chorus from "Faust." He came back frowning, his glance in the distance, and extended his arms for his jacket.

"Beg pardon, sir—your stock."

"What? Oh, yes."

He took the stock, tied it hastily, and, slipping into his riding coat, started for the door.

"Beg pardon, sir; you've forgotten your watch and wallet."

"Hullo, so I have—that's queer!"

"It is queer," said Gregory to himself, when Mr. Forrester had disappeared by the elevator. "Something is on his mind, that's flat." And returning to the servants' dining room, where Morley, the lady's maid, was breakfasting luxuriously on a grapefruit with the addition of a pot of cream which Quito, the Japanese cook, had offered in respectful admiration, he inquired,

"Bit of a tiff last night between the master and the missis?"

"Bit of a what?" said Morley, with a frigid stare, for she resented the condescension of his attitude.

"Bit of a tif."

"Go on now," said Morley, shrugging her shoulders; "can't you see beyond your old polished nose? Why, they are like turtle doves together, stupid."

"The missis is not to be waked," said Gregory, surveying the evidences of petty peculations on the table. "Master's orders."

"As though she intended to get up at such an hour the pretty dear!" said Morley, shrugging her shoulders, with instinctive hostility toward the husband's pretensions.

"It's a pity she doesn't. She might find something to interest her if she would take the pains to look," said the butler, with a scornful glance. "Pity you wouldn't breakfast on champagne and humming-bird's wing!"

He was of the old order and, if he availed himself of an occasional glass or a cigar, he never stole beyond the traditions of his position, while the extravagance, the disorder, and the waste which reigned in the kitchen profoundly shocked his sense of loyalty toward the master, whom, as a bachelor, he had protected from other transgressors.

Meanwhile Forrester, out in the open, swinging powerfully toward his riding club through the sleepy mobilization of the army of labor, which, soiled, and dusty, crowding surface cars, disgorging from the subway, streamed toward the river, the docks, the excavations, and the waiting furnaces, was saying to himself,

"Shall I take it or not?"

The Peterboro Automobile Association have received some very good essays from school children on how to avoid motor accidents. They intend awarding some prizes for the best efforts in this direction about the 15th of July, at which time the contest will close. This is open to all school children, free of charge, provided they state age and give address.

KEEP IT CIRCULATING

Consider the power of a ten dollar bill when it is spent at home. It is like magic. It circulates. It pays off hundreds of obligations. It creates business and puts people to work in your community. But the ten-dollar bill that is sent away to the out-of-town house does nothing for your town. It becomes dead to you. It is out of commission forever as far as your town is concerned. You never se it again. Give power, therefore, to the money you spend. Remeber your best investment is that power—money that is spent at home. —Nokomis Times.

Many United Empire Loyalists went to New Brunswick and settled along the St. John River. At the mouth of the river a settlement grew up called Parrtown. Later the name was changed to St. John, and the place is now one of Canada's wPbhe place is now the commercial metropolis of the Province, and one of Canada's winter Atlantic ports.

Wash Day and Backache

WASH day is the least welcome day of the week in most homes, though sweeping day is not much better. Both days are most trying on the back.

The strain of washing, ironing and sweeping frequently deranges the kidneys. The system is poisoned and backaches, rheumatism, pains in the limbs result.

Kidney action must be aroused—the liver awakened to action and the bowels regulated by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This favorite prescription of the well-known Receipt Book author will not fail you in the hour of need.

HAREMS OF THE EAST

Enquiries have reached us from Montana, and also from Canadian points about the position of women in harems in Mohammedan, and other eastern lands. These have been referred to a member of our staff, of eastern birth and education, who has prepared for our readers the following original and interesting information upon the subject:

Ignorance and prejudice have combined to spread abroad highly colored and usually entirely false ideas of the harem of the Mohammedan or the zenana of the Hindu households.

In the present condition of men and women in Egypt, Turkey, Arabia and similar countries the harem is an essential part of the household economy and the veil is absolutely necessary. Even an English woman dreads passing the outdoor cafes in Cairo where the men turn in their seats, to stare rudely or exchange unseemly remarks as she passes by. Now is this custom entirely confined to the East, as many a Canadian woman could testify.

The harem is simply the women's quarters of the house. In a hot country where passions run swiftly, and moral forces are woefully weak, it would be extremely dangerous to a woman to allow her to live in a room near to where her father entertained his visitors or guests. And so the harem was devised. All the women of the household live together in the harem-lik, all the men in the selam-lik; between the two, and commanding the only possible means of access to the women's quarters, is the mabein, the private apartments of the householder.

This practice of secluding the women folks in separate apartments has existed in Oriental countries from time immemorial. It was in vogue in ancient Babylon and was also pratised by the Jews.

Harem Not Slave-House.

But the inmates of the harem are not slaves in any sense of the term. A man's wife, his sisters, his wife's sisters, his servants, in fact any woman who for any reason whatever happens to be staying in his house lives in the harem. It is the natural and recognized home of the females.

Of course polygamy is practised in the Orient. In those countries where woman is considered the chattel of man the idea of faithfulness to one wife, making her one's partner, would be scoffed at. Nor, to be just, does the general mentality of women make such an idea practical at present.

Mohamet is held responsible for the polygamy. The Koran being quoted against him. It is true that Mohamet taught that a man may have four wives, but he made the contingent conditions so severe that nowadays monogamy is almost universal throughout the east. Only one man in fifty has two wives, while the number with more than two is exceedingly small. And it will be found generally, that a man has taken the second wife because his first has borne him no male children.

But even four wives is a very great advance over condition as Mohamet found them.

The main with only one wife still maintains a harem, and the house will be as strictly and as respectively conducted as even the most stern moralist could require.

It is in the case of the Sultan's and wealthy pasha's harems that abuses have become rampant, and the stories of these, spread abroad and colored and exaggerated in the re-telling, probably account for the curious ideas prevalent in the West.

The Sultan of Turkey is allowed seven wives and an unlimited number of concubines. The woman who first gives birth to a male child—who is the heir to the throne—is freed if she be a slave, and given a high position in the harem. The women enteriag the Sultan's harem know the conditions and usually strike for the honor.

There can be no doubt but that there have been abuses, but it is extremely questionable whether these are as numerous as is pretended in some of the films put out by enterprising directors across the line, many of whom have never been further east than California.

Veiled Women.

When in the harem—that is to say their own quarters, where no man may or can see them—the women do not wear a veil. But when they go abroad, shopping, or visiting, or to the baths, Mohammedan women always wear a veil. Among them it is considered immodest to allow the head and face to be seen uncovered, while a kind of straight cape is worn which effectually conceals the lines of the woman's figure. What an Eastern woman would think of our women's modern fashions it would be difficult to say.

Indian Mohammedan women wear a rupata or dopatta. This is a veil made of various materials and colors according to the wearer's wealth and station. It is three yards long and one and one half wide. Worn over the head it is thrown over the left shoulder. Married women usually wear brighter colors than do unmarried women.

Other Mohammedan women wear a burka, a long loose white garment, which covers the entire figure from head to foot, with two holes for the eyes. The brass nose ring often seen in pictures is a sign of marriage and takes the place of our modern wedding ring.

While there is a strong agitation on foot to abolish the harem by reformers eager to imitate western customs, weighty and authoritative opinions have been expressed that such a move would be detrimental to the Oriental woman herself. In judging these matters the Canadian must not allow himself to be led away by tales he has heard or read, nor should he judge by conditions which obtain in his own home town. Any person who has not actually lived in the East will find this is a very difficult question upon which to form an opinion.

In India and other countries under the rule or protection of Great Britain the matter is being approached in an extremely wise and sensible manner. Native women are being trained in law, medicine, and other subjects and these, entering the harems, are teaching and influencing the women.

The only way in which the problem can ever be solved is along these lines the education of the women.

Meanwhile do not waste too much pity upon these women whom you conceive to be slaves, and don't believe all you see in the picture shows.

Makes Wrinkles Go "As If By Magic"

Want to banish every wrinkle from face, neck, hands—easily, quickly, completely? Try the famous saxolite formula. Nothing else so nearly meets every requirement. Why? Because it is correct in principle and really, truly assists nature. Possessing remarkable astringent and tonic properties, it both tightens the skin, thus naturally smoothing out the lines, and improves capillary circulation and nerve tone—tending to strengthen loose tissue and bring about a healthy condition. Yet powerful as the saxolite lotion is it won't harm your skin in the least. And it is so easy to get the simple ingredients at the druggists, and so easy to mix them.

Just dissolve one ounce of pure powdered saxolite in one half pint of witch hazel—that's all. Bathe your face in this—immediately every wrinkle and crease are affected, even the deepest. You are perfectly astonished and delighted with the result. You look like you have lost years from your age.

BOLSHEVIKI ARE CLAIMING VICTORY OVER THE POLES.

LONDON, June 25. — Bolshevik forces are continuing to drive back the Poles along the Zhmerinka-Proskuroff Railway, south-west of Kiev, says Wednesday's official communique issued at Moscow, and received here by wireless.

The start of "a fierce battle" west of Rechitsa is also reported. The Poles are said to be supported here by two armoured trains.

DEADLOCK IS LOOKED FOR AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Putting aside the Wilson coup and taking McAdoo at his word that he is not in the field, indications are piling up that the Democratic convention will become deadlocked. For the first half a dozen ballots it is expected that Attorney-General Palmer and Governor Cox, of Ohio, will lead the field, the other candidates carrying along their individual strength.

Then when it becomes evident that neither Palmer nor Cox can get the required 728 votes for the nomination, the "break" to some one who can "go over" is expected to come.

In political discussion here, Champ Clark is looming up as the men who can swing the "break" his way. He is the one aspirant now in the field who has no active opposition, with the possible exception of William Jennings Bryan, who prevented his nomination in Baltimore in 1912 after he had received a majority of the votes.

The prediction of Palmer's secretary in San Franciso that he will be nominated on the third ballot is looked upon here as "whistling to keep up courage." It is known that influential members of the Democratic national committee believe Palmer has not a chance to get a two-thirds vote.

The open warfare declared on Cox by the Anti-Saloon League is declared to have put him out of the running. Veteran politicians recognize the futility of nominating a candidates as vigorously opposed by such a strong element as the "drys" as Cox now is being fought.

None of the other "favorite son" candidates is expected to poll more than a few votes in excess of those now pledged to him.

Secretary of Agriculture Meredith may show surprising strength because of his popularity with the farmers, it is said, but it is hardly believed he will in any event land higher than second place on the ticket, if that should go to him.

The situation, therefore, works around to former Speaker Champ Clark again. One political observer remarked here to-day that if the Clark backers can imbue the delegates with the idea that he could win, the rest would be easy.

BIG STORE OF GOLD REACHES DOMINION

SEVERAL MILLIONS MORE DUE TO ARRIVE NEXT WEEK—AFFECTS MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 26.—The gold import movement for British Government account is again in active progress. A New York paper says that not only have millions of dollars of yellow metal been transferred from Great Britain to Canada for shipment here at a propitous moment, and in the meantime serving as reserve of the Bank of England, but positive information has been obtained to the effect that several million dollars of gold is due to arrive at a port of the United States in less than a week.

Whether gold will be landed at an Atlantic or Pacific port could not be ascertained, but it was considered probable that the first arrival would consist of gold forwarded from Hong Kong. Should the yellow metal come from Hong Kong sources, it would leave about $12,000,000 to arrive out of the $40,000,000 received from the Omsk Russian Government in satisfaction of the loan extended by American and British bankers.

Thus far, there has been received $22,000,000 in gold, which is applicable for the retirement of $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan, which matures in October. With the proceeds of sales of securities and the yellow metal close to $200,000,000 of that loan has been retired, but in view of the understanding that France has arranged for England to pay her half of that loan, it is obvious that the direct gold movement from England to New York must be accelerated or that the British Government is constantly shipping gold from England to a Canadian domicile. Information which has been obtained from authorative sources, and cannot be disclosed, indicates that there is a big store of gold in Canada for British account.

Appreciable Effect on Sterling

The effect of the improved position of the Bank of England, so far as its gold holdings are concerned, and of the belief in important circles that gold shipments to the United States will be resumed shortly, was reflected in the market for sterling, which gained nearly 3 cents on the day and at the opening of business yesterday was 3¾ cents more than it was at Wednesday's close, demand opening at $3.08½ to the pound and cables at $3.99¼ to the pound.

The gold holdings of the Bank of England, according to its weekly statement issued yesterday, were about five million more than for the previous week and showed a gain for three weeks, ended yesterday of about $25,000,000. The present bullion reserve of the equivalent of approximately $575,000,000 is almost identical with the amount of gold holdings on March 18, when the $50,000,000 gold movement from London to the United States began to arrive on this side. The gold received from that movement, however, was used to care for the Argentine loan maturity, which England paid because of a credit extended to Argentina.

The peculiar circumstance of the culminating dates of accumulation of yellow metal holdings and the noteworthy rise in sterling in this market to a level close to $4 to the pound was significant, and renewed gold import arrivals at this time would cause no surprise.

PALE AND WEAK WIVES AND MOTHERS

Can Regain Health and Strength Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Many women who had a good color in their girlhood grow pale and colorless when they become wives and mothers. When the fading color in the cheeks and lips is accompanied by a loss of brightness in the eyes and an increasing heaviness in the step, the cause will be found in the state of the blood.

Many causes contribute to the condition of the blood known as anaemia. Overwork in the home, a lack of outdoor exercise, insufficient rest and sleep, improper diet—these are a few of them. The important thing is to restore the blood to normal, to build it us so that the color will return to cheeks and lips, brightness to the eyes and lightness to the step. Dr. Williams Pink Pills are the great blood builder and nerve strengthener. They begin with the very first dose, and through a fair use make health to every part of the body. The appetite increases, digestion becomes more perfect and energy and ambition return. The case of Mrs. Wm. McNish, Abbott street, Brockville, proves the value of Dr. Williams Pink Pills in cases of this kind. Mrs. McNish says: "I was quite young when I married, and in raising my family I became all run down and a nervous wreck. I became so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without sitting down to get my breath. I slept poorly and at times my nerves would twitch so that I could not keep still, and I was in constant misery. I tried many medicines but they did not help me; indeed my condition was growing worse, until one day a friend told me that she had been in a somewhat similar condition and had been cured by Dr. Williams Pink Pills, so I decided to try this medicine. After the use of a couple of boxes I felt they were helping me. My appetite was better and I slept better. By the time I had used half a dozen boxes I felt like a new woman, my health had fully returned and I could do my housework with ease. In view of what Dr. Williams Pink Pills have done for me I cannot recommend them too highly."

The best time to begin taking Dr. Williams Pink Pills is the moment you feel the least bit out of sorts. The sooner you do so the sooner you will regain your old time energy. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Pink Pills Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE MOTOR TRUCK.

By P. L. Griffin.

I am the Motor Truck—of damaged highways,
Ruts and holes, the cursed beginning,
I'm far more sinned against than sinning.

I plod neglected, time worn roads,
Until my parts all ache with strain,
I haul freight cheaper, quicker, better,
I slave, I sweat—all for the nation's gain.

I am a public servant—patient,
Drudging utility of trade.
Yet they would stint me rather than
To build good roads to give me aid.

My railroad brother once outgrew
His rails by hauling increased freight;
He wasn't held down to the rails—
They built the rails to hold his weight.

Unbar the gates that hold me back
If you would have me haul your loads,
I'll do my part if you'll do yours—
Just give me more and better roads.

Reed Furniture Has More Uses Than Any Other Kind We Know Of

It has a look of homely comfortableness in the living-room, which it retains when it is drawn out to the verandah and at the cottage by the waterside it is thoroughly at home.

We purchased a huge shipment of it a year ago last spring, and should have received it last fall. However, it did not reach us until recently, and so it comes about that we are in a position to offer many good values.

Two fireside chairs—a rocker and arm chair—are made inviting by the addition of high wing backs. They are closely woven of fine rattan and the back and Marshall spring cushions are upholstered with an English chintz in Japanese bird and floral pattern on a black ground. In addition to the spring cushion there is a spring seat. Price $65 each.

There are various qualities and various weaves in reed furniture, and this set of chairs represents one of the most desirable models that one could procure. The reed is fumed and the back is square and the arms are wide and flat. An attractive green coloured Italian tapestry is used for the Marshall spring cushions and the upholstered backs. Arm rocker and arm chair priced at $45 each.

People vary and so must chairs, and that is the reason we find this set built on somewhat broader lines, with a medium back and a broad braided arm. The upholstered back and spring seat are covered with English chintz in Japanese pattern that features the pagoda and bird design. Arm chair and arm rocker priced at $32.50.

A three-piece set—divan, arm rocker and arm chair. Clever sinuous fingers must have woven these handsome pieces, for they are expertly done. All three pieces are the comfortable, artistic wing pattern, and the arms are broad and finished with tightly twisted braids on the edges. The Marshall spring cushions and upholstered backs are done with gorgeously patterned English tapestry in variegated shades of green. The chairs are priced at $35, and the divan at $60.

SHEESLEY SHOWS IN PETERBORO FOR ONE WHOLE WEEK

THE SHOW WAS WELL RECEIVED IN ST. THOMAS.

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

t took a little freckle-faced boy to best describe the wonders of the Greater Sheesley Shows which opened a week's engagement at the Armory Park, Monday evening, under the auspices of the St. Thomas Great War Veterans' Association. That little boy merely said: "Hully Gee! Ain't it great?" But it was the way he expressed his sentiments that counted. His exclamation was full of the unconcealed astonishment, joy and care-free ebullience of happy boyhood. The little boy affirmed the convictions of the five thousand or more other persons who thronged the alluring midway with its thousands of scintiliating rainbow lights; its captivating music; its noise and bustle; its lusty-lunged ballyho men and its ruby-lipped dancing girls.

A Canvas Town.

Entering the entrance to the Armory grounds, one is immediately astounded by the immensity of the scene that meet the eye. Before one stretches a vast canvas town with well regulated streets and a daylight glare everywhere. The foreground is taken up by dozens of concession men who travel with the Sheesley Shows. There are baby doll and hoopla stands and many new attractions. Pink lemonade vendors and hot-dog experts vie side by side. Fortune-tellers with that over prevalent air of mystery and native artizans from many climes, exploiting the products of their ingenuity. It seems as if all the concessionairies in America must have suddenly resolved to pay a speci al visit to St. Thomas.

And then in the centre of this great tented city, like on a public square, are the dozen or more frolicsome rides. A lofty ferris wheel swings high up into the night air with its cars of giggling couples; a mammoth merry-go-around, blazing with lights, comes next; then the whip—a whirlpool of laughter. On beyond are the splendid aero swings and tango swings—novelties never before seen in St. Thomas. Interspersed among these main rides

The Animal Show

The largest tent, occupying the extreme end of the street and having a seating capacity of nearly one thousand, houses the animal show, unquestionably the chief attraction and certainly one of the finest exhibitions of its kind on the road. Of paramount interest in this show is the remarkable work of Harry Hilton, reputed to be the youngest animal trained in the United States, and Princess Tessie, supreme in her class. Mr. Hilton performs in a cage of five huge African lions, putting them through a number of hair-raising acts. His daring posing on the back of "Nero," a veritable monster lion, is exceptionally good. Princess Tessie works a cage of treacherous leopards and panthers with coolness and daring. She is an engaging little person to meet and delights in relating incidents of her thrilling experiences, which are many.

Another act that raises the goose pimples and makes one grip his seat is that of "Oakley," the youthful trainer who enters the ring with "Sheeba," a fierce lioness that has defied tamers for seven years. Armed with only a kitchen chair, "Oakley" battles this unmanageable brute.

A splendid bear act and a bucking mule farce in which "Dynamite," described as the orniest thing on four legs, makes life miserable for two perspiring colored boys from Alabama, completes the animal show.

The Other Thrillers

The biggest thrill of the Sheesley Shows is to be found in the Autodrome, where Miss Olive Hager, aptly described at "The Mile-a-Minute-Girls," and Captain Halty defy death on flying motorcycles that climb up and down the steep sides of the drome like great fleet-winged flies. The fancy riding of Miss Hager is breath-taking, the race between her and Captain Halty, spectacular.

This show will be in Peterboro for one week, commencing July 12th.

MR. HOWARD KELLEY

Mr. Howard Kelley, who has been been President of the Grand Trunk system since 1917, has, in addition to splendid scientific and practical training, the qualities of mind that make for the successful handling of big tasks. He is a man, his associates say, who inspires the loyalty and the affection that lead to efficiency and accomplishment. His capacity for work, in a business where hard and exating labours are demanded of all, is widely recognised. Work, it is said, is his only hobby. He finds in the daily crop of problems relative to railway administration all the exhilaration that he needs. His first railway battles were fought and won in the wilderness. As a young engineer fresh from the university, he took part, from 1881 to 1884, in the location and construction of western railways, slept in the open and knew the hardships of the pioneer railway builder's life. Mining lured him away from railway construction, but did not hold him long, and his engineering ability led to his holding positions of steadily increasing responsibility, with the railroads. In 1907 Mr. Kelley was appointed chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Railway system. Four years later he was promoted to the position of vice-president in charge of operation, maintenance, and construction, an office which he held to the date of Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways.

The presidency of the Grand Trunk has been considered one of the most arduous positions in the railway world. His jurisdiction extended over lines which stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific in Canada, dipped down through five states in the Middle West, and traversed practically the whole of New England.

Scores of subsidiary enterprises associated with the railroad — steamships, ar ferries, elevators, hotels, etc. —demanded attention. Mr. Kelley, in the opinion of those best fitted to judge, is one of the ablest men who have been associated with our Canadian railways. He is a Canadian citizen.

VANCOUVER GAVE CZECHS WELCOME

VANCOUVER, June 26.—Czecho-Slovaks troops, of whom seven thousand have reached Vancouver from Vladivostock, were given a great reception yesterday as they marched through the city streets.

They were a magnificent appearing aggregation.

A tame Siberian bear was the sensation of the parade, it being hitched up like a pony. He drew a cart bearin the drum. He kept perfect time with his front feet, but shuffled a jazz with his hind legs at every drum beat.

"Any Czechi-Slovaks who may have been impregnated with Bolshevist ideas before they went to Russia and Siberia, have got over them," declared Lieut. Roubik of the Czecho-Slovaks troops before he left yesterday for St. John. "Bolshevism as we saw it was so utterly impossible that our men are returning home determined to keep as far away from it as possible. Nothing could have influenced our men more in their present views on Bolshevism than the close-up view we have had of it during the past two or three years."

HEALTHY CHILDREN ARE HAPPY CHILDREN

The well child is always a happy child — it is baby's nature to be happy and contented. Mothers, if your little ones are cross and peevish and cry a great deal they are not well —they are in need of medicine—something that will set their bowels and stomach in order, for nine-tenths of all childhood ailments arise from a disordered state of the bowels and stomach. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. They are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, and thus drive out constipation, colic, indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the baby healthy and happy. Concerning them, Mrs. Albert Hamel, Pierreville, Que., writes: — "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I know of for little ones. They relieved my little girl from constipation when nothing else would and I can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STRANGE USES FOR OLD WAR MATERIAL

Strange uses are being found for some of the hundreds of thousands of tons of surplus material the British army found on its hands at the close of the war.

The Ministry of Munitions is trying to encourage traders to convert the material into goods suitable for commerce. Many traders are showing remarkable ingenuity.

Few would have supposed, for instance, that there was money in the lining of a steel helmet, or that flanged wheels for toy locomotives could be made out of an anti-gas apparatus. An official tells of one ingenious trader who bought up thousands of rubber rings taken from the lining of steel helmets and was selling them as parlor quoits.

Anti-gas rattles are being bought and used by farmers as bird scarers, rifle clips as supporters for curtain rods, and old gas cylinders have been converted into stoves suitable for the conservatory. Even copper wire carriers with leather have been converted into handles for women's bags of the heavier kind. These triumphs of conversion of recent date.

Identification discs have become card counters and from nine foot dog chains have been made anchor chains for punts and light river craft. Glass of old x-ray negatives has been cut up for photo frames, diamond panes, lids for dolls' houses, lantern slides, and stable lamp glasses. Empty cartridge cases now serve as dice boxes and from wooden blocks many toys have been made.

Rum jars, of which there were 3,000,000 for disposal, are being made into ink, varnish and disinfectant containers, while signalling shutters are bei gconverted into advertising signs. Tin boxes and bases make suitable artists' brush, tea and money boxes.

Thousands of wooden tooth brushes were made for the Indian army. Tooth brushes sometimes are made from the bones of the bull, but as the Mohammedan religion regards this animal as sacred, the War Office had to manufacture tooth brushes of wood. Thousands of these are for sale and they are converted into excellent varnish and metal brushes.

79-YEAR-OLD HEROINE GAVE LIFE FOR HUSBAND.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, June 25.—Grasping an enraged cow by the horns in an effort to save her husband from death, Mrs. Andrew Tiddell, 79 years of age, was herself attacked, and she suffered injuries that resulted in her death. Physicians said the husband's condition was serious.

WONDERFUL CHILD SWIMMER Y.W.CA.

SIX YEAR OLD PEGGY WOOD WILL GIVE EXHIBITION ON MONDAY NIGHT.

An unique feature in connection with the garden party at the Y.W.C.A. on Monday evening will be the exhibition of swimming to be given in the Y.W.C.A. pool by little Miss Peggy Wood and Miss Olive Bettle, of Toronto. Peggy Wood is the most wonderful child swimmer in Canada, if not on the continent. Only six years old, this little tot performs in the water all the feats that the most expert adult swimmer can execute. Her performance will be a revelation to those who will see her for the first time on Monday. Her repertoire of "stunts" includes all the varied diving and swimming features used by professional exponents of the higher art of swimming. No feat is too difficult for this little mite and the ease with which she performs her many varied tricks in the water will prove astounding. Older people who have always longed to learn to swim and have hesitated to attempt to learn because of the imagined difficulty of the art will find fresh hope in the exhibition by little Miss Wood, for when they realize that all these stunts are being done by a girl who has yet to celebrate her seventh birthday they will perhaps be inspired with a fresh resolve to learn the science of swimming themselves.

Miss Olive Bettle, who will also be seen in an exhibition of fancy and trick swimming, is to succeed Miss Margaret Pickard as swimming instructor at the Toronto Y.W.C.A. and is one of Canada's best known lady swimmers. Her performance in conjunction with that of little Peggy Wood will make this feature of the garden party programme most instructive and interesting.

In addition to the exhibition of swimming, tea will be served on the lawn. There will also be a booth of home-made cooking and candy. An excellent programme has been arranged.

FROM A CHILD WAS CONSTIPATED

According to the best medical authorities, fully three fourths of the people of the civilized world suffer in some form from costiveness or irregular action of the bowels. There is no doubt that many distressing diseases are caused by constipation. It gives rise to sick and bilious headaches, jaundice, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, catarrh of the stomach, biliousness and the painful, troublesome piles. Therefore it is of supreme importance to health that the bowels be kept regular. Simple food, fruit, etc., should be used and rich food and stimulants of all kinds avoided. This with the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills to regulate and establish healthy action of the bowels cannot fail to give permanent relief in the most obstinate cases.

Mrs. Letitia Wainman, Orillia, Ont., writes: "From a child I was always very badly constipated and I can well remember when quite young my mother giving me senna tea nearly every morning and I got to dread it. After taking Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for a while I am not troubled with constipation any more."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Miss Coon left Belleville four years ago, for Ottawa, where she was appointed to the Public school teaching staff.

Early this year Miss Coon was notified that she would be accepted if able to fulfil the requirements of the W. M. S. and in this she was quite successful.

In Ottawa Miss Coon was one of the predominating figures in church work among the young people of Dominion Methodist church, the largest Methodist congregation in that city.

Last week the different organizations of the church united to pay tribute to Miss Coon's worth and presented her with a purse of $200. A shower of personal equipment, which she was required to take with her, was given by Mrs. E. Campbell and Mrs. T. C. Lapp, formerly of Belleville, and other friends, after securing the list of requirements from the W. M. S., surprised Miss Coon by completing the list.

Miss Coon is a daughter of Rev. C. H. and Mrs. Coon of Lindsay. Mr. Coon is the newly elected president of the Bay of Quinte conference.

FESTIVITIES AT DOWNER'S CORNERS

RETURNED HEROES WELCOMED HOME BY ORANGE LODGE.

The first official welcome home to the returned heroes of District No. 1, L. O. L., was given last night at L. O. L. 326 Hall, Downer's Corners, when the returned men of L. O. L. 457, 321, 2440 and Keene Lodge were banquetted by their brothers. The banquet was prepared by the ladies in a most creditable manner, and the Orangemen, their wives, families and friends sat down at 6 o'clock to tables heaped with good things, bearing material testimony to the ladies' culinary ability.

Roman Bradfield, Past Master of L.O.L. 457, occupied the chair. After the inner man had been satisfied, he spoke, expressing the thankfulness of the Lodge that many of the boys had come back safely, and their mingled feelings of loss and pride in those who paid the supreme sacrifice. Col. T. G. Johnston also spoke, followed by Rev. G. E. Ross, of Mark Street Methodist Church, Col. J. W. Miller, Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, of Knox Presbyterian Church.

Numerous instrumental and vocal solos were given and greatly enjoyed, and at a late hour the programme was concluded.

PROTEST SENATOR'S REFUSAL OF BOARD

THE EDWARDS WOODWORKING CO. WOULDN'T ARBITRATE WITH MEN.

A resolution of protest against the action of Senator W. C. Edwards of Ottawa was passed at the Friday afternoon session of the Carpenters' convention. It refers to the fact that the Labour Department of the Government urges the reference of Labour disputes to board of arbitration, but Senator Edwards it was stated, flatly refused to meet his employees at a Board and the men are now on strike. Attention is called to the opposition of the Senator's action to the advices of the Government of which he is a member in the Upper House, and as such should set an example to the rest of the public.

SCHOOL PICNIC AT FRASERVILLE

A PRESENTATION TO MISS CROOKSHANKS.

Yesterday a picnic was held at Fraserville public school, which a large number of the people attended for the purpose of saying farewell to the teacher, Miss Crookshanks. A social afternoon was spent which was made up of games, races and the following programme, Mr. Fairbairn acting as chairman:

Chorus by school.
Recitation—Raymond Atchison.
Recitation—Jean Fairbairn.
Recitation—Edna Williams.
Song by junior pupils.
Address by Rev. M. W. Leigh.
Recitation—Ruby Cunningham.
Recitation—Mr. S. Fairbairn.
Address— Rev. S. Crookshanks.
Chorus by school.

After the programme Miss Crookshanks was presented with the following address, accompanied by a fountain pen and Bible:

Miss Crookshanks,—

Dear Teache .—We believe it is always right for children and youths to be learners, for thereby they are able to grasp the meaning of life, and that those who are content to be ignorant in this world where the stores of knowledge are within the reach of all, are those who fail to get near to even a partial understanding of life's meaning. It has been our good fortnue to have been under your guidance and instruction during the past three years and we feel that the facts imparted in your teaching and the inspiration given by your cheerful and loving ways and helpful example have been working together to give to us a broader and deeper vision of life and of one's power of usefulness therein.

You have always been as willing to help us, so considerate of our different natures, so loving in your counsels, and so friendly in your associations with us that we feel unable now to express our regret at the thought o our departure from our school, but we feel also that we cannot let your leave us without some assurance of our appreciation of your faithful and kindly service as our teacher.

We ask you, therefore, to receive, not only these our verbal expressions of gratitude for the privileges that have been ours during the past three years, but also this Bible and fountain pen as slight tokens of our good will and our earnest hopes for a very bright and happy future.

We shall always be pleased to hear from you and learn of your continued success in your chosen profession.

Signed on behalf of the pupils of S. S. No. 9, Cavan and North Monaghon:

Myrtle Latimer,
Frank Kidd,
Jean Fairbairn,
Earl Carl.

Fraserville, Ont., June 25th, 1920.

THE C.G.E. AWARD

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY CONCILIATION BOARD.

In the matter of the dispute between the Canadian General Electric Co. and their striking machinists and electrical workers, the following is the gist of the award made by Minister of Labor Senator Robertson, and handed into the Examiner by His Worship Mayor McIntyre, at 11.45 this morning.

This award is based on the report of the Board of Conciliation, which concluded its inquiries at the Court House Friday.

A copy has also been furnished both contesting parties affected by the strike, now in its sixth week.

1. That when and so often as the circumstances arise calling for the application for a Board of Coniliation and Investigation by a municipal corporation that the most beneficial results will more effectually be reached if the application precedes a strike or lock-out.

2. That in the circumstances here established and hereinbefore set out the Board was prevented and hindered in effecting any satisfactory result by conciliation owing to the conditions reated prior to their institution.

3. That the rates reommended by the report of the former Board bearing date 5th March, 1920, as increased as aforesaid by the company to the armature workers-electrical employees are fair and reasonable.

4. That the increase rates offered by the company to the electrical workers (other than the armature winders), with 45c per hour lowest hourly wage paid, being in all an increase of from 32½c to 49½c per hour in 1918, to 45c to 68c per hour in 1920, are fair and reasonable.

We shave considered the schedule presented on behalf of the machinists seeking classification or work and increased rates of pay and the undersigned submit the reommendation following:

We would recommend that no more improvers be employe! on machinist work in tool room.

When through slackness of work men are employed on a lower grade of work they shall not receive reduction in wages.

Where men empoleyd in any of the above grades were receiving the minimum rate as recommended by this Board, they shall receive an increase of 5c an hour.

We further recommend for machinists the rates following:

For all class specialists, 55c per hour.

MEAFORD FSHERMAN

MEAFORD, Ont., June 25.—Mr. S. D. McInnes, a well-known fisherman of this town, has made a record for landing big fish this season. He and a couple of assistants while out trailing at Point-au-Baril with his tug (Elsie M) caught thirteen fish which weighed 219 1-4 pounds, the largest one weighing 31 1-2 pounds. The entire catch was made within one hour.

APPLICANTS FOR LOCAL LABOUR

OVER FORTY-THREE AT LABOUR BUREAU THIS WEEK.

The Labor Bureau experienced a fairly busy week in spite of the fact that they were a little disrupted by the removal of the Soldiers' Department; 43 applications in the male department and 3 in the female were received; 50 men were referred to positions, and 46 were placed. Six laborers were sent to the cement works at Point Anne, near Belleville. Three females were placed, one going to a summer resort at Stoney Lake and two placed locally.

There is still plenty of work for laborers who can do a heavy day's work it was stated, but clerical positions are exceeded by the applicants for them. Female workers can be placed in the local factories, and domestics, cooks, and women for the summer hotels are in demand and in this case the demand far exceeds the supply.

Farm hands can be placed at $40 to $60 a month but no great rush countrywards is seen, and yet the demand will grow as the season advances.

Collegiate boys are seeking light factory work or clerical work for the summer months. Several have been placed on farms.

A RECITAL AT THE CONSERVATORY

Pupils of Miss Bessie Elcome were heard in an interesting recital last evening in the Conservatory of Music and a large number of persons were delighted with the work of the girls and boys. Miss Hazel Davidson, Miss Elcome, Frances Moore, Anna Grant, Adrienne Mathews, Margaret Walker, Muriel Wilson, May Johnston Agnes Graham, Arthur Robinson, George Rishor, Helen Jopling, Gwenyth Peters, Gladys Walker, Jean Burrell, Alda Bartlett, Marguerite Mason, Blanche Abbott, Eva Dallin, Isabel Carter, Dorothy White, Cleo Fowler, Beatrice McGregor, Marguerite Tewsley, Donald Jordan, Gertrude Comstock, Amy Fairbrother, Jean McCannon, Leonard Rambo, Frances McFadden, George Huffman, Dorothy Stilson, Hazel Blewett, Jean Kelly, Helen Lamb, Jean Kidd.

OTONABEE MAN LOST HIS CAR

A daring robbery took place in Otonabee on Thursday night or Friday morning. Mr. Alan Wilson, the well-known Otonabee farmer, was the unfortunate victim, and his new 5-passenger car the booty. Mr. Wilson was in the city that night. He returned home about 10 o'clock, and at 11 the car was in its shed, tucked away for the night. In the morning it was gone. He notified the police at once, but so far no clue to the car thief or thieves has been found. Why Mr. Wilson's car should be picked on when there are plenty of cars easier to steal in the city, how the car was taken out and down the long lane to the road without some of his family hearing it, puzzled Mr. Wilson, and, needless to say, causes him no little worry, for the car was a brand new one. Its number is 139479.

MANITOBA HAS JOINT COUNCIL TO PREVENT STRIKES

REPORT ON CONDITIONS AND IN. FORM PUBLIC OPINION ON REAL CAUSES—RESULT OF WINNIPEG STRIKE.

INVESTIGATE PROFITEERING

WINNIPEG.—The Industrial Conditions Act passed by the Manitoba Legislature last March, and which has been in effect for the past three weeks, is the outgrowth of the Winnipeg strike and sets up a joint council, the first organization of its kind on the American continent, to investigate labor disputes and to present the facts to the public. Manitoba believes that prevention is better than cure, and that public opinion is the best means to end unrest.

The council is composed of five members and one ex-officio judge. Two members represent the employers, two labor, and one, appointed by the Government, represents the people. The council has all the power to conduct inquiries. It has power to make a complete investigation of any industrial dispute and make a report thereon. In many cases this report will avert a strike ,and in all cases the public will have the knowledge of the matters in dispute. For the purpose of investigations, the council has the right to call witnesses and examine them on oath. It can require the production of documents and has the right of imposing penalties on persons guilty of contempt.

Members of the council are allowed to investigate and report on the cost of living from time to time. This, it is thought, will aid the public in judging whether demands for increased wages are justifiable or not. If any commodity is selling for more than the council considers reasonable it can require reduced prices or hold a special invesetigation to disclose profiteering. It will allay unrest. It is held, by demonstrating to the people that the authorities are alert and vigilant in the public interest.

Can Investigate Unemployment.

Unemployment can be investigated by a clause in the act, which says that "the Council shall investigate as to the number of persons actually out of employment," and can recommend steps to provide employment or to check unemployment. The council may also investigate housing conditions, and it may determine to what extent the prevailing rates of wages enable employes to care for themselves and their families and to make provision for the future.

As a safeguard against sweat-shop conditions and "Bourbonism" it may investigate unfair profits made by any employer through payment of unfair wages. It can take up the case of any employe who has been unfairly treated and assist him in obtaining justice through the higher courts. It can recommend to the Legislature measures to improve conditions of employment.

Through amendments passed at the last session the right of employers and employes to organize and to bargain with one another through their organizations is recognized by law.

The Rev. Donald McKillop Solandt of Winnipeg, is the fifth man on the board. The Rev. Dr. Gordon, better known as Ralph Connor, the author, is the ex-officio Chairman. Mr. Solandt is a well-known character in the Canadian Northwest. For many years he was a missionary, and for the past ten minister of many labor organizations near Winnipeg. For the last four years he has also been at the head of the Manitoba Patriotic Fund, which has cared for the families of Manitoba's 60,000 war heroes.

Demands Sacredness of Contracts.

"We believe in unions which honor contracts," said Dr. Solandt today. "The sacredness of contract is the basis of all promises. A country, or a State or even a municipality usually has as good a government as it deserves. The Joint Council of Industry is really formed to give the people a better understanding of each other. We do not anticipate a recurrence of our strike last spring, because we feel that as soon as there is danger of trouble we shall nip it in the bud. The whole idea is that through a wide gathering of knowledge we shall keep the public informed through the press of all that is happening. Thereby no group of people can make an unfair strike possible. We hope to remove the clouds as they gather.

"The board meets only on request. We call both sides separately. Sometimes we bring them together. They may have slandered one another outside of court; with us they are more calm. Our conferences are held in private, but before we make a final decision we hold a public meeting, and ask all interested persons to give their views.

"The act is based on the common sense of every man. We believe that public opinion will do the trick. We have practically no powers to enforce a decision, we depend on the public to do that. Every man is a little afraid of what his neighbors will say about him.

"In the last three weeks we have had seven cases. One has been adjudicated. Six others are in the process and there seems every possibility of a speedy settlement. We are surprised by the willingness of the men to talk.

"We deal with both men and women. We hope we will not have to deal with the later for obvious reasons. The Minimum Wage Board controls most of the female employment in Canada, though.

"The powers of this act are quite startling when you really think about them and we will probably never have to use them, but if we have to they are there. I believe that just the knowledge that such a court exists will mean that the unions will from now on honor their contracts."

CASTING EXPERT GIVES ADVICE TO FISHERMEN

George E. Case, the casting expert, writes as follows to the Montreal Gazette: Hold the rod lightly but firmly with the thumb pointing in line with the rod and keep your elbow in close to your side. Strip a little line from the reel and begin casting easily, stripping a little more line from the reel at each cast. Don't work too fast and thrash. Use only the wrist and forearm, bearing in mind the rod should and will do the work and not the arm. When you make the back cast, that is bring the line behind, bring the rod straight back over the shoulder, not out to one side. At the completion of this back cast the rod should be slightly back of perpendicular. It is a common fault of a large number of casters to bring the rod too far back. To acquire the proper form, and to prevent oneself from failing into this bad habit, it is well to adopt the rule of bringing the rod up directly in the face, thereby preventing the rod from going back too far and driving the line into the water behind.

In making the forward cast the rod and forearm should be in the same line, making the forward cast with an easy sweeping motion of the rod and finishing it with a smart forward turn of the wrist only, letting the rod go forward or follow through until it is nearly parallel with the water. You will get the correct motion quicker if you practise casting with the elbow held tight to the side ,the forearm vertical, and use the wrist above.

To make the back cast ,hold the rod parallel with the water and pull it any slack line with the left hand. Begin the backward motion of the rod slowly, but accelerate the movement until it ends with a sharp backward flip of the rod, nearly a jerk made by the wrist only.

Do not let the rod go very far back. Behind you a little to the rear of vertical is correct. Hold it in this position, allowing the line to straighten out behind. If you start the forward cast too soon or too sharply, you will snap the flies off. Remember that the line must go as far behind as it does in front. A little practice will teach you the proper turning of the forward cast. A good way to begin is to wait until you feel the pull of the line, then cast forward.

A beginner should not attempt to cast a long line at first; it is a bad and common fault. To be able to handle a long line right you must first master the short line, and this can only be done with much practice and then some more practice. Remember, too, that most actual fishing is done with a fairly short line, not often over 30 or 40 feet. It is best to start practising with a fairly heavy line, as it works easier, but the best for fishing is the lighter line. It is absolutely necessary that the line should be of a size to fit the weight of the rod and will not snap out your line properly, and your casting will be greatly impaired. A double tapered line is by all odds the best to use for good work.

HIS FIANCEE FOUND SHE LOVED ANOTHER

Capt. Kitchen, Whom She Came to Wed, Pays Returns Passage.

HALIFAX, N.S.—When Capt. R. Kitchen, of Sydney, C.B., and late of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, arrived on board the Caronia at her dock here on Saturday, to greet Miss A. Butler of 12 Marly Road, Levershome, Manchester, England, who had come out to marry him, he found that during the voyage she had transferred her affections to Captain T. Mellor, late of "The Guards," and said to be the son of Sir John Mellor, Bart., of London, and that no inducement was sufficiently strong to compel her to stick to her oriental intention. Immigration officials intervened, and after numerous conferences decided that the only solution was to order the deportation of Miss Butler. This did not suit Capt. Kitchen, who thereupon paid the return passage of his former fiancee, and the boat proceeded to New York, where it is understood Capt. Mellor proposes to stage another attempt to wed the lady, with the aid, he intimates, of the British Ambassador.

MAY END FIGHTING.

LONDONDERRY, June 25. — A conciliation committee, representing all classes is being appointed to end the fighting. This action was taken as the result of a conference between the military and the Irish government officials to-day.

"I ended corns forever in this scientific way"

Millions have said that about Blue-jay.

Others tried it and told others the same story. So the use has spread, until corn troubles have largely disappeared.

If you have a corn you can settle it tonight. And find the way to end every corn.

Apply liquid Blue-jay or a Blue-jay plaster. The pain will stop.

Soon the whole corn will loosen and come out.

Think what folly it is to keep corns, to pare or pad them, or to use the old harsh treatments.

Here is the new-day way, gentle, sure and scientific. It was created by a noted chemist in this world-famed laboratory.

It is ending millions of corns by a touch. The relief is quick, and it ends them completely.

Try it tonight. Corns are utterly needless, and this is the time to prove it.

THISTLES LOST FIRST GAME IN THE SECOND SECTION OF THE RACE

YEOTES CREW, WITH HEAVY ARTILLERY MISSING, BEATEN BY CANADIAN WOOLENS—FINAL SCORE WAS 10 TO 5, WITH WOOLENS LEADING ALL THE WAY.

Louis Yeotes was out of town last night, and while he was away his Thistle outfit, winners of the first section of the City League, suffered their first defeat of the season in the opening game of the second section of the League race. Manager Jack Mulhall's Canadian Woollens team tucked the Thistles away to the tune of 10 to 5, and are off to a flying start in the second half of the pennant chase.

The Thistles turned up minus Swanston, Harrison, and Adams, and the absence of these three players gave the Yeotes crew a makeshift look. Howard Kirn(whom the fans have seen in almost every other position, donned the mask and pad, and did the catching, while Stan Lowe came in from the outfield to play first base.

All four of the Woollens pitchers were missing when the game started, and it was a lucky thing for the Mulhall crew that they were, for "Honey" Heenan was called upon to do the heaving, and he made a better job of it than the Woollens regular box artists, allowing the Thistles only seven hits and retiring eleven of them by the strike out route.

Scates was on the rubber for the losers, and the Woollens got to him for eleven hits in the five innings he worked, while the errors made behind him helped to pile up the runs. Young Jack Turner finished the game for the Thistles, allowing two hits and one run during his term on the hill.

The fielding stunt of the night was Jack Russell's catch at Holyman's screaming liner to third that had all the earmarks of a double. Odd features of the game were the facts that the Woollens only had four assists to their credit and that first baseman Legros went through the seven innings with only one put out.

Woollens got two in the first on hits by Lawrence and Bergoine, a bad throw to second by Kirn, and Lowe's miss of Heenan's grounder.

In the second, the first four men up for the Woollens—Coughlin, Russell, Kennedy, and Lawrence—all singled, and with Bergoine's infield out, Holyman to Lowe, and Turner's miss of Heenan's fly to right, four runs came over.

Thistles got two back in their half on Holyman's single, a dead ball to Scott, a wild pitch, and Bergoine's bad toss to third.

There was no further scoring until the fifth, when the Woollens bagged three. Mulhall and Thirnbeck opened with singles, and after Legros had fanned, Coughlin was hit, filling the bases. Russell's single past second scored Mulhall and Thirnbeck, and Coughlin counted on Kennedy's rags. Lawsence's fly to Shaughnessy resulted in Kennedy being doubled off second.

In their half the Thistles counted once. Sheehy singled through third and stole second and third. Lowe walked and stole second. Sheehy was out at the plate trying to steal home. Coursey fanned. Murray singled to right, scoring Lowe. Shaughnessy fanned, ending the innings.

The last run of the game was scored by the Woollens in the seventh, singles by Legros and Russell and an infield out doing the trick. The scores:

BARRIES COME FROM BEHIND TO BEAT THE LOCK WORKS AGGREGATION

AS A RESULT OF THEIR VICTORY LAST NIGHT THERE IS A TRIPLE TIE FOR SECOND PLACE IN THE MERCANTILE LEAGUE RACE.

Barries came from behind and hit out a win over the Lock Worsk in a Commercial League game at the Oval last evening, the score being 7 to 5. The big innings that usually falls to one team in the twilight games went to the fur trimmers, and five runners crossed the plate in the fifth.

The Barrie crowd nit hard in this frame, Scotty Galbraith getting a double and amongst this swatfest the Lock Makers distributed costly errors.

Barries have now left the cellar leadership behind and are tied with Westclox and the Lock Works for second position, Cressmans showing up in front with four wins and a loss.

Doughty and Connors pitched nice ball, neither twirler issuing a pass. Galbraith performing at first base for Barries, had a big night, accepting 13 chances and making only one slip. His good work around the bag was a great help to his team in keeping th Lock Works back, and a two-base clout in the fifth was a nifty contribution. Smart fielding plays were made at short and second.

Game Opened Fast.

Lock Works went out in order in their first. Hill and Huffman being retired on grounders, and Black fanning.

After Dugan had been thrown out by Connors, Nicholls hit safely but Kelly fanned and Connors got Stabler's roller.

Both sides went out in one-two-three style in the second. In the third, Lock Works got two through battery errors and Hill came along with a long single that scored both runners. Huffman was nailed at first. Hill made the plate on Black's infield out. Quigley to Galbraith. Guerin grounded out.

Nicholls Drives in Run.

Barries got one back in their half which Smith started on a hard drive on which he should have made two bases. Walton fanned, and Dugan flew out to Hill. Nicholls drove in Smith. Kelly fanned.

In the fourth, after Burke had been thrown out. Liddell hit and made second. He took third when Jobbitt lined out to Galbraith, and scored on a wild pitch.

Singles by Stabler and Quigley gave Barries another run in their fourth, and Hill added one for Lock Works in the fifth, when after singling and stealing second he beat the throwing of Black's hit to right.

Barries Cinch Game.

Five hits, one a doube by Galbraith, and three errors, one a wild peg to third by the catcher, gave Barries five runs in the fifth and practically cinched the game for them.

The sixth saw some grand fielding plays by both teams, Liddell and Black combining for a double play that stopped Barries from getting away for another bunch of runs.

Hill started the last innings for the Lock Works with a fly to Galbraith. Hugman sent another like it to Quigley. Black was safe when Quigley erred on the grounder. Guerin lined down first, but Galbraith grabbed the ball, making the out that ended the game.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON IS CONFIDENT HIS LATEST CRAFT WILL LIFT AMERICA CUP

FAMOUS ENGLISH SPORTSMAN STILL UNDAUNTED AND THINKS SHAMROCK IV. WILL TURN THE TRICK.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Sir. Thos. Lipton, famous sportsman, has engaged a suite of rooms at New York's best hotel, the Biltmore, but he spends the major part of his time aboard a yacht. During the day he is generally to be seen on the Shamrock IV. On the trials he sometimes watches the performance of the challenger from his vantage point aboard the 23-metre Shamrock. His nights he spends aboard the Victoria, an aristocratic craft which he chartered from an American owner for use while he remains in the United States.

Public interest in the thirteenth series of races for the America's Cup, which will be sailed off Sandy Hook next month, has as its stimulus something vastly more poignant than the mere sporting aspects involved. The event has roots which are sunk in the sub-soil of national pride; in this and in other respects it carries cannotations which define it as unique among international relations, sporting o. otherwise. The romance of the sea enters. Great races have been sailed and have become part of a glowing tradition, Stirring events have been directly or indirectly associated with it.

First Appearance.

Sir Thomas Lipton with his challenger Shamrock I. appeared on the scene first in 1899. The sloop Columbia disposed of her in straight races. Nothing daunted, Sir Thomas came back with the Shamrock II. in 1901. Herresoff designed and built a new sloop to meet the second Shamrock. She was named Constitution. Chiefly, as it appears, through poor sails, she failed to establish her right to defend the cup, the former defender Columbia, sailed by the wily Charles Barr, winning that honor. Columbia won the series by a small margin, being obliged to accept one victory on the basis of the time which Shamrock II. had to allow. Sir Thomas returned in 1903 with Shamrock III. and Reliance was built to meet her. The American sloop was easily the superior boat, and the series resulted in clearly won victories for the Reliance. Which brings us up to date, so far as racing is concerned.

Race Was Cancelled.

In 1914 Sir Thomas again challenged for the cup and the challenge was accepted. The races were to be held in September of that year, but, as we all know, the Euronean War broke out in August. Shamrock IV. was already on the ocean when England entered the conflict. German submarines were about, of course, and her destruction or canture was feared. Conveyed by Sir Thomas Lipton's big steam yacht Erin, the sloop went 1,000 miles out of the direct route to New York, finally reaching Bermuda, whence eventually the sloop sailed to this port and was hauled out at the Erie Basin, where she remained under a hermetically sealed enclosure until this spring—nearly five years. (It should be noted that all challengers for the cup are compelled to cross the Atlantic on their own bottom and under their own sail.)

In the meantime the New York Yacht Club members had built three sloops as candidates to defend the trophy. They were Resolute, designed and built by Herreshoff for a syndicate composed of the flag officers of the club; Vanite, designed by William Gardner and built by Jacobs, of City Island, for Alexander Smith Cochran, and finally Defiance, designed by George Owen and built at Lawleys' in Boston for a syndicate headed by Geo. M. Pynchon. In the trial races held in 1914, Defiance proved her inferiority to her two sister sloops and eventually was withdrawn. Resolute defeated Vanite in a great majority of the races held, and in 1915 also won a majority of races against the Gardner creation. But there are many, none the less, who believed that Vanite suffered from a few remediable flaws in design and construction and that her handling had been inept. So selection of a defender to sail against Shamrock IV. was deferred until the outcome of the trial races which are now in progress.

Shamrock IV. the Best.

In the meantime Shamrock IV. grooming up on Sandy Hook in tests against a 23 metre sloop, called Shamrock, which Sir Thomas built for English racing after the failure of Shamrock III. to win the cup. So in reality the present challenger is the fifth Shamrock.

While Captain Turner of an ancient line of yacht racing skippers will be the professional aboard Shamrock, the sailing will be done by W. P. Burton, one of the great amateur skippers of the world. Mr. Burton sailed his first race in 1889 at the wheel of Violet, a three-ton cutter. Between 1892 and 1914 he sailed in some 600 races, of which he won 257 and finished second in 145 others. He may be regarded as by far the most dangerous skipper who has opposed American cup defenders. Although Shamrock is an Irish yacht there will not be an Irishman aboard her. Her crew will be entirely English. It should be noted, too, that the craft was designed and built in England. Capt. Albert Turner and all but two of the crew are from Essex. The two exceptions are Cornishmen.

Resolute is being sailed by Charles Francis Adams, of Boston, and his assistants, like himself, are amateurs, with the one exception of Capt. Chris. Christiansen.

$10,000 DAMAGE ACTION.

Alleged Doctors did not Set Fracture Properly.

COBOURG, June 25. — In a non-jury assizes before Mr. Justice Logie here, intense local interest prevailed in connection with the action of $10,000 damages brought by Mr. A. D. Leonard, the C. N. R. agent at Cobourg, against Drs. T. C. Lapp and W. E. Wilkins, on behalf of the plaintiff's son, Borden Earl Leonard. About a year ago the boy fell and sustained a broken arm, which was set by the defendants.

It was claimed by the plaintiff that the fracture was not properly set, resulting in a withering of the boy's hand which rendered it useless and caused it to be deformed.

Judgment was given for the defence without costs.

Porter, Buckler and Payne of Belleville appeared for the plaintiff, and Kerr and Kerr of Cobourg, for the defence.

TIP M'TIGHT TALKS ON TURF CONDITIONS

EXPLAINS HOW HE GETS A TIP AND WORKS A TOUCH.

Tip McTight sage of the turf slipped into the proffered seat, speared one of our Vafiadis with an elegant twist of his nicotine smeared finger, and proceeded to unload his mind on horses in general, and that fickle jade called racing form in particular.

"How is the going Tip" we inquired deferentially. "Things were on the up and up till today" answered the king of the hedges scowlingly.

"Here I go right out, and just as I pops in the gate in steps the Duke and somebody goes up and gives the Duchess a bouquet."

"Yes, yes, you interest us hugely" we break in, not wishing to appear uninterested but at the same time holding a grip on our watch.

"There's my hunch a Royal Visitor gets a Sweet Bouquet can you beat it" pursues Tip mournfully.

"Well I glip the elastic off the roll, and drop two tens into the weskit pocket for these birds and sally forth.

Everybody is crushing each other's life out trying to bet Plantoon, and after the race they would have liked to take a wallop at Simpson or whoever rides him. Anyway, my Royal Visitor only comes third so I lie in wait for the next.

Fearing a touch we started a general conversation along the lines of the weather. "Then along comes the jump and somebody says Mickey O'Connor has a sleeper that he is going to ride," continued McTight. "Mickey has only told a thousand or so and nobody appears to know anything about it, and you wouldn't know it was in the race except for the money that goes into the mutuels on it.

"Mickey gave alovely display, going to the post, but Jay Bird certainly was a sleeper if ever there was one. Anyone that bets a jumper anway ought to get his head examined."

"Of course you bet Woodbine after your favorite cigarette," we opined smartly, taking the pole in the conversation.

"No I slung a few iron monsters on Crown of Gold, after me favorite tooth," answered our hero blushing at his pretty wit.

"Then I gets a brainstorm and digs down into the programme and fishes up a bird that I clocked over the course at dawn the other day. This was Le Bleuet and he certainly blew it."

"Then along came Sweet Bouquet and you cleaned up," we cut in, trying to hasten the story. "No, that bird was scratched, so me luck being out I went in and had a jolt of buttermilk which filled me with manly courage and a devil-may-care spirit of do or be dome."

"And you did," said we.

"I did not. I passed up Dr. Joe and fastened on Who Cares to win. I didn't after the race, because he came second so I tried a dash of ginger ale to bolster up my system.

"Perhaps you had Frank Munroe," we suggested hopefully, thinking of the touches that Tip had made in the past, and hoping for reimbursement.

"No: this was me big three X diamond special right from the oat bin. Lord Herbert was the bird, and Jim Butwell was going to ride him home all by himself, so Wad McManus said That guy Buhwell is heading for the half miles the way he's riding now. Say, he couldn't bring Man O'War home racing against lead ponies.

Well, anyway, in the last race I saw "Red" Walker looking mysterious like as though he was going to slip over something, and I says to myself I'll bet he's up to one of his dodges; but the only one he was up to was Don Dodge, and he took me last two sinkers."

Reaching for our coat, we tried to make a getaway, but a husky whisper detained me. "Slip me a V, mate, and don't forget to get in on Woodthrush, tomorrow. That bird will shake dust in their face along the route today," and extracting a derby this time from our well-laden packet, he disappeared into the night to inhabit a friendly hedge.

SECOND HALF OF THE EAST PETERBORO SCHEDULE

The second half of the East Peterborough Ball League schedule, which has been drafted, brings the games into the first week in August. Because of the fact that most of the players work on farms and will be busy next month, the teams have the right to change the date of one or more games, and also the time of commencing play. But any change that is found to be necessary must be satisfactory to both teams after notice of twenty-four hours has been given. It is likely that several of the league fixtures will be played on Saturday evenings, commencing at 5.30, and Douro may decide to play their games at Lakefield.

The schedule follows:

Wednesday, 7th July—Nassau at Norwood.
Thursday, 8th July—Keene at Lakefield.
Wednesday, 14th July—Douro at Keene.
Thursday, 15th July—Nassau at Lakefield.
Wednesday, 21st July—Lakefield at Norwood.
Thursday, 22nd July—Keene at Douro.
Wednesday, 28th July—Norwood at Nassau.
Thursday, 29th July—Lakefield at Douro.
Wednesday, 4th August—Norwood at Keene.
Thursday, 5th August—Douro at Nassau.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Most of our aches aren't any better for the telling; in fact, it probably makes them worse. And there is nothing quite so boring to most people as to listen to a long string of ailments. Everyone of us has to suffer enough trouble and sorrow and pain sometime in our life without adopting the ailments of someone else.

* * *

A sense of humor is a dangerous thing to be without. But if you have it it will picture amusing things where there are none, like a magic lantern. It will focus your view point on a pleasurable understanding of the humorous that is broad enough even to include yourself. A good laugh at your own expense will take the edge off the sting of the worst hurt. Such a laugh attracts the good-fellowship of others. "Laugh and the world laughs with you; weep, and you weep alone."

* * *

Borrowing trouble is about as profitable as borrowing money. There are some people that a person can't meet without subjecting his ears to a string of calamities as yet unborn, but fervently prophesied. They would always be avoided if they weren't so amusing. Consequently, such a person is always spoken of with a pitying smile and shrug. And when the real sorrow comes to him, it's as hard for you to believe it as for him to realize it. This is very much like the case of the small boy who hollers, "Fire, Fire!" when there is none. It will receive about as much consideration, too. If such trouble makers would exert their genius for manufacturing along some useful line, they might make good. But the trouble market is already overcrowded.

* * *

Oh, how cruel it is to be so misjudged and misunderstood by the hard world! Of course fortune has singled you out, alone, for this unique favor. No one else is, has been, or ever will be blamed unjustly. Nor is anyone else ever disappointed even in a little thing. All mankind is twice as faulty as you are, and gets twice as much without asking. But there is one cross—greater than all of yours—which the more fortunate must bear always; that is the sight of your constant petting at the hands of self-pity.

* * *

Many illustrious men, widely traveled, have returned to write books of their excursions. That doesn't signify that you have only to travel to become a famous author. It does mean that instructive travelling will give you an appreciation of gifted men, if you have not their power of expression. Incidentally, it will write a whole book for you on the value of the things that you have already, and the desirability of those which you thought you wanted hitherto.

* * *

How long would any child play with a toy dog without any stuffing? Just that long will normal, fun-loving children play with the exceedingly good little boy, and perhaps not so long, if he is dressed up pretty, wearing curls, like a girl. Don't make your little boy's childhood a horror by trying to incorporate in him all the desirable virtues that you see in other children. A young child can not be controlled by the logic of cause and effect. Their instincts demand expression, although the misplaced energy so called forth often results in much seeming naughtiness. For these same instincts will become strong forces of character later on, and must be developed carefully, not repelled. The child who is repressed into such exceptional goodness almost never fails to come a cropper sooner or later.

Every small boy develops the longing to be a big man very young, and, if he is average, he resents coddling especially. The best way to manage him is to hold before him the responsibilities of the "hero man" as his own. Then give him freedom in which to experiment and afterwards bring out the good points in his mistakes, for there are bound to be such. Did you ever think that the more you emphasize the bad, the more prominent it becomes in the very receptive mind of the child? Above all, if you want to keep the respect and confidence of your young son, don't tell him that he is the worst child you ever saw, and on top of that urge him to be more like the detested "Percy" of his young friends. It's just child psychology, that's all.

So many old couples who began life in comparative poverty, approach old age with a comfortable competence which they are powerless to enjoy. It keeps the wolf from the door, that is all, because they have never known how to stop and take a little pleasure now and then throughout life. The result is the narrowing of their interests until they must live on memories alone, often rather bitter ones. Even a more pitiful sight is such a person growing old. You see them with faces so pinched that you wince to look at them. There is no audience to appraise such martyrdom in thi sage. Nor is there anyone who can't afford some pleasure occasionally, if he really wants it. This doesn't make him out a spendthrift, or unprincipled. Such people should give the old adage, "Sufficient unto itself is the day," a good deal of thought, lest the remaining days become mere time in the pasing for them.

LOCAL MARKETS

The fruit market is attracting more attention than any other. Anxious housewives are worrying over the strawberry situation. Some of them are buying now for fear they will be no cheaper while others are prepared to stand pat and wait for a drop in prices. Prices to-day centre around 25c but by buying them in larger quantities a saving of several cents could be effected.

New fruit of all kind is coming in almost daily and although the prices are high the dealers find a ready sale.

Green peas have reappeared and are selling at 15c a quart. Imported green peppers sell at 2 for 25c.

The grain market is steady this week and there was no change in meats, hides or wool.

YOUTHFUL REGISTRAR

Gets Post in Renfrew —Enlisted at Seventeen.

TORONTO, June 25.—Hon. W. E. Raney has appointed a local Registrar of the Supreme Court, County Court Clerk and Surrogate Registrar for Renfrew County, probably the youngest man who ever held these offices. The appointee is John McLaren Beatty, a returned soldier, who is barely 23 years old. Beatty, a Renfrew boy, was a student at the University of Toronto when war broke out. Although but 17 years old, he enlisted and went overseas with the first draft from the University of Toronto, O.T.C., for the British army. He was wounded twice, the last wound being a severe injury to his arm, which kept him in the hospital for nearly two years.

The young man was awarded a pension as a 50 per cent. disability, his condition making it impossible for him to return to the University to complete his education or to engage in ordinary employment. He succeeds H. W. Perrett, who resigned.

TO COMBAT DISEASE IN FARM ANIMALS

CO-ORDINATED EFFORT BY GOVERNMENTS, FARMERS AND PACKERS.

Wide-extended usefulness in preventing disease on its human side is closely allied with the movement, just started, to control and eventually to uproot disease in Canadian farm stock. Indeed it may turn out to be the most beneficial part of the plan now under way to combat disease in live stock by the co-ordinated efforts of the Dominion and Provincial Governments, farmers and packers.

The public has, within the last few years, been awakened to the enormous loss of human life, shown to be a greater mortality than that of war, resulting from tubercular disease. Yet, the transmission of tuberculosis from farm products to human has never received from the public a thousandth part of the attention it demands. Physicians have fought the disease in every thinkable way except one. Clinics have been opened in large centres throughout the world; expensive sanitoria have been built; preventive treatment has been widely taught through nursing institutes and even the Public schools. None of these, however, has struck so radically at the root cause of the human disease—the presence of tuberculosis in domestic live stock—as the new movement to eradicate disease from among farm animals. If for this feature of national health and the preservation of human life alone the movement claims the wholehearted support of all who have a better, wider and more humanitarian hope for the mass of the Canadian people.

An encouraging beginning has been made. A definite plan of work has been framed to co-ordinate the effort to combat disease in animals. It will be plain to farmers and stockmen that better prices will follow the raising of better stock—better because healthier, more robust animals which will feed well and make heavier weights in return for the expenditure of feed and labor.

Much could be done through direct aid by farmers and stockmen themselves. Everyone knows that the "Government can't do it all." In South Dakota, where a similar campaign is under way, it was recognized that one health officer could not inspect a large number of animals in many townships. A committee was therefore appointed by stockmen and farmers from among themselves. Each committee-man became a deputy health officer. Community meetings were held. People generally began to talk of better, disease-free cattle, and there was a spirit of general improvement. Good results are being reported and the work is going vigorously and continuously forward.

Our fight is especially against tuberculosis in cattle. A farmer often wonders why his steers and heifers, in spite of good heavy feeding, do not thrive. A tuberculin test would probably reveal the cause. The Dominion Minister of Agriculture, Dr. S. F. Tolmie, in the House of Commons on May 14th, stated that the intention was to establish small centres of accredited, disease-free herds. By this means, the Health of Animals Branch hopes to eliminate tuberculosis from Dominion pure-breds. But the work would not be confined to pure-bred stock if present proposals are carried out.

Hog cholera seems to have been more effectively restricted here than in the United States. Latest returns shows that only one half of one per cent. of our hogs are touched with this disease. The cleansing of our live stock also includes the radication of other diseases. Contagious abortion and sterility have to be overcome, matters of health in animals which will have far-reaching results. When it is remembered that over one billion dollars are invested in Dominion live stock, it will be plain that, if a saving of only 1 per cent. can be effected by prevention of disease, it represents a value of $10,000,000 to our farmers.

The Committee recently appointed, including representatives of the Government Departments, live stock producers and packing firms, is beginning to cope with the problem. Its members will need the sympathetic support of every enlightened farmer and producer of live stock, if real success is to be registered. It should not be impossible to have, throughout the Dominion, the selfsame spirit shown as in South Dakota. Farmers and breeders especially by helping in this campaign would only be working directly for their own benefit.

GEORGIA AND AZERBAIJAN SIGN TREATY OF PEACE

PARIS, June 25.— Georgie and Azerbaijan have signed a treaty of peace, according to Constantinople advices. The former will continue to occupy the region of Zakently, the future status of which will be determined by a mixed commission.

THAT MAN IS HAPPY WHO LIVES HIS WORK

Some one has called that man happy who has found his work. Stevenson put it better in an immortal sentence: "If a man love the labor of any trade apart from any question of success or fame, the gods have called him."

It is the same vision that Kipling had of the home of the soul where

Only the master shall praise us and only the master shall blame,
And no one shall work for money and no one shall work for fame,
But each for the joy of working.

Perhaps one of the homelier, more everyday tragedies of life is the square man in the round hole. He does the best he can under the impulsion of necessity, and wears out his life in unfriendly work. For over a quarter of a century Charles Lamb sat at "the desk's dull wood," forever casting up figures in a mercantile house in London. When he was finally retired on a substantial pension by this generous house he wrote an essay to celebrate his freedom. "The Superannuated Man," which is one that generations of tired and workbound readers have turned to with ever-renewed delight and thankfulness.

The difficulty a person feels in finding his logical work, the work he can do for love of it and not so much for money or fame, is a similiar one. Most of us, perhaps, find our work laid out for us by birth, parents, or place of residence, and we have little choice in the matter. But in America, perhaps, man is less bound by these factors than in any other country on the globe. This is why it has been said that "America spells opportunity." The chances of having some choice in this matter here are obvious.

With opportunity so happily given, a man's great instincts usually tell him what he is best fitted for. Mind, body, and soul are too great to be botched by birth or place. A man should, when humanly possible, break these "invidious bars," and trust to his intuitions or instincts upon the matter of occupation. In this way he is likely to find himself engaged in the thing he really loves to do. So may he more nearly than otherwise approach the ideal of laboring at a trade apart from "the question of success or fame" for the pure love of the work.

But a man is never entirely bound even by unfriendly work. It may hamper and wear, but if he recognizes his real work as elsewhere, there is always opportunity for achieving it or for working toward it — even though under difficulty. Charles Lamb was always writing his immortal essays, poems, and tales, even while engaged in India House. Possibly he did even better for the obstacle for "from foiled light leaps color's flame." He was all the time accumulatin gcapital, though not in money expressed, despite his handicap. All progress is in the accumulation of capital. Any man's capital is what has been laid up for him, by others or by himself. We usually think of capital as in money, but it is as often in learning, ability, experience, reputation, and what not. A man who has learned to run a locomotive has that much stored up skill capital. Charles Lamb's ability to write and his knowledge of the old masters of literature became his skill-capital. There lay his real work—the work which he loved "apart from any question of success or fame." All his life he moved toward it, and the release finally came that enabled him to devote his time and labor to the thing that he most loved. So one the whole, and despite the quarter of a century of slavery to the desk, he wrought out his liberty to do the thing he loved to do, and, as Stevenson put it, he was called of the gods.

Any man can do this if he will.—Minneapolis Journal.

Offered for Recovery of Loot from a Toronto Store.

TORONTO, June 25.—Circulars offering $5,000 reward for the recovery of the $50,000 worth of diamonds and jewellery stolen from the Rosenthal store on 18th June last, are being distributed all over the American continent by the local police. There is contained in the document the numbers of the various articles and their description, also the description of the robbers, as seen by Mr. Rosenthal. The three bandits are described as follows:

No. 1—Aged 32, 5 feet 6 or 7 inches tall, 150 pounds, fair hair, slim build, thin face, may have gold teeth, dressed in United States Salvation Army uniform. This man may have some fresh cuts and scratches about the mouth.

PRINTING Done Here

COMPARED WITH ELSEWHERE

You'd startle your tailor if, when you wanted a suit of clothes, you asked him to submit a bid in competition with a dozen other tailors.

"Why," he would say, "this is ridiculous. This man knows what kind of a suit of clothes I give him. He knows he can depend on the quality of the material, the make, the fit. He knows me, and has proved my work. Some fellow around the corner may underbid me—but what will he deliver?"

You don't buy tailoring that way. No man does. You know your tailor you rely on him, you trust him, you give him your work just as long as he turns out good work at prices that are fair.

Do you buy your printing as intelligently? Do you make it your business TO FIND A GOOD PRINTER as you do a good tailor, and then rely on his experience, his ability and his judgment?

Men who do, get good printing. Men who buy printing here and there, wherever the price is shaved closest, are the ones who have printing worries

GIRL HEROIC, AMID HER MISFORTUNES

Zasu Pitts Has Role of an Undiscouraged Optimist in "Seeing It Through."

Zasu Pitts, an appealing little motion picture actress, who has created on the screen a particular place for herself, will be seen at the Regent Theatre for three days, starting next Monday in "Seeing It Through," her new Brentwood picture, which was made for Robertson-Cole. Her role of Betty Lawrence in this production fits very closely the type of part she made distinctive in such pictures as "Poor Relations," "Better Times" and "The Other Half."

Miss Pitts is at her best in the role of a girl who meets the hard knocks of adversity with an optimism which makes her refuse to be conquered. In "Seeing It Through" she is a girl who is put out of her own home because of the illness of her mother, forced to live with a skin-flint of an old money lender, and in addition see her own home terribly treated by a tenement family to which it has been leased.

THE QUESTION OF HEALING.

At the evening service at Murray Street Baptist Church to-morrow, the pastor proposes giving a brief discourse on the above subject. Mr. Webb was noticed in the sympathetic audience attending one of the impressive "healing services" this week. This matter is of necessity very much in the minds of the people at the present time, and a consideration of the position of the Scriptures on the subject should be both interesting and profitable.

NEW YORK, June 26.—It is reported that the Soviet Government of Russia may have a bureau in Canada in the near future, if the trade negotiations now in progress are continued. Ludwig C. A. K. It would have no poilitical significance, and would be merely a commercial office to look after purchases which he hopes to make in Canada on behalf of his Government. The opening of the office will depend on the attitude of the Canadian Government.

Council Praised

REPORT OF CONCILIATION BOARD COMMENDS THEIR EFFORTS TO SETTLE THE C.G.E. STRIKE.

BOARD'S SUMMARY

The recommendations of the Board of Conciliation in the C.G.E. strike were published on Saturday, but owing to the late hour at which the report was received, the prefatory comments had to be withheld. The following is quoted from the summary:

"The Board immediately after appointment desired the employees to offer to return to work pending its investigation and report upon the dispute and again upon opening up the matter in the presence of the parties and again after hearing the evidence and representations the Board urged that course be adopted, but without avail, and the efforts sometimes hopeful, ultimately were entirely in vain owing to the attitude of the parties, though, as before stated, some employees had gone back to work, other had found employment in other places, and there are a number in or about 160 still on strike.

A Peculiar Feature.

"The strikingly peculiar feature of the unfortunate situation above fairly outlined is that the material differences are not on rates of pay, but insofar as the machinists employees are effected fall under the head of classification of work and minimum rate and overtime. It being the present and past system of the employers long established that the premium system prevails in their shop, that being a system by which say 10 hours is allotted for the production of a piece of work and if accomplished in eight hours the employee gets one hour's pay as a bonus, or in other words is allowed nine hours' pay—this system obviously has its advantages, but is strongly opposed by the employees who ask their wages to be measured and paid for by hours, and for over-time at the usual over-time rates and the proper classification of the machinists' work with a minimum rate for each class.

"It does appear that the electrical workers by their proposed schedules had asked increases in rates and overtime rates, but were agreeable to accept the increased rates recommended by last Board, whose report you have for the armature winders plus 5 cents an hour offered by the company and submitted their claims for increases for the other electrical workers and working rules to the judgment of the Board, and were willing to abide thereby.

An Established System.

"The company employers are unalterably opposed to any change being made in their long established premium system and any additional pay for overtime on premium work, as they contend that there is no overtime worked (except on great emergency) and the system is fair, reasonable and equitable as it rewards the efficient and skillful and does not penalize any other employee, and, it would, if changed, be very disastrous to their business in the lines to which it applies.

Company's Notice.

"The company employers took the ground that the notice to the electrical workers posted on the works dated 8th day of June, 1920, advising the electrical workers who continued on strike after the date set therein would be considered as out of the employment of the company, and withdrawing all offers of increases, effectually disposed of the striking electrical workers.

"It will be found upon a fair examination of the terms of the report of the Board dated 6th August, A.D. 1918, that the working rules proposed in the machinists' proposed schedule provide very little ground for difference of opinion and offered no excuse for the present serious troubles.

Established For Years.

"The company employers have about 1400 or more employees They have been established in business for a great many years in Peterborough, enjoy a fixed assessment on their plant, expend a large and increasing pay roll every month in that city and contemplate large expenditures in new buildings and plants. Conditions are fairly well established and the interest of the City Corporation is manifest and the steps taken by the Council are deserving of commendation in every respet.

To Discuss Report.

Mr. H. W Harper, the machinists' representative, said Saturday afternoon that some of the recommendations were not altogether satisfactory. Further than that he would not commit himself He is to discuss the report with the machinists to-night.

Although last Thursday Judge Gunn held out but little hope for the Board agreeing on the question of machinists' classification, they have after all classified the machinists and specialists into two classes, and designated what men shall be considered helpers

Excepting in one instance the Board seems to have studiously avoided using the term "minimum" in their recommendations, specifying at what rate wages paid for the general classes of work should be "not less" than, as follows: First class machinists not less than 75c. per hour, second class machinists not less than 70c., specialists not less than 60c., second class specialists 55c. and helpers 50c. the hour.

But there is a significant clause following the grading of men in the machine shops which has an important bearing on the report. It reads: "Where men employed in any of the above grades were receiving the 'minimum' rate recommended by this Board they shall receive an increase of 5c. an hour. This may in the case of some machinists bring their wages up to the minimum rate of 80c. an hour, for which they went on strike, and seems to aim at assuring consideration for all concerned in the award.

GREEK WAR DEVELOPING

HAVE LANDED TROOPS TO OPERATE AGAINST TURK NATIONALISTS NORTH OF SMYRNA.

GUERILLA WARFARE

(Canadian Press)

LONDON, June 28.—Greeks have landed forces at Panderma on the south coast of the Sea of Marmora, according to a dispatch from Constantinople. This force is intended to operate southward against Nationalist forces of Mustapha, Kemal Pasha, northeast of Smyrna.

TURKS FLED IN DISORDER.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 27. — Depression prevails in Turkish circles over the news that the Nationalists fled in disorder in the first attack against them. The Turkish newspapers do not conceal their fear that the situation is becoming grave owing to the reported heavy losses of the Nationalist bands in the Ismid region, where they are retiring.

Ali Fuad Pasha, former commander of the 20th Turkish Army Corps, and one of the Nationalist commanders, is abandoning Kandra, near the Black Sea coast, north-east of Ismid.

There is great rejoicing among the Greeks in Constantinople over the advance of the Greek army west of Ala-Shehr, a walled town in the vilayet of Aidin, the ancient name of which was Philadelphia. The Greeks report the Turkish losses in the capture of Ala-Shehr as 8,000 men killed, wounded or made prisoner. All the Greeks of military age in the city are being recruited to reinforce the army. The recruits are marching through the streets shouting and singing.

Greek officials here say that the troops of Kemal Pasha are undisciplined and poorly equipped with artillery to offer resistance against the Greeks.

One thousand British troops disembarked at Mudania, on the Sea of Marmora, Friday morning, and occupied the town for four hours. They then evacuated. The Nationalists resisted and six Turks were killed. Two British were wounded.

TO DEAL WITH ANY FUEL SHORTAGE

(Canadian Press).

OTTAWA, June 28.—Sir Robert Borden will move in the House a resolution, the purpose of which is to give the Board of Railway Commissioners power to deal with any threatened coal or fuel shortage. It is understood that an agreement is likely to be reached which may have the effect of bringing about a withdrawal of the Government resolution giving the Governor-in-Council power to control the export of foodstuffs or necessaries from Canada. The measure was referred to a special committee of the House, and an announcement to the above effect is expected to be made before the session ends.

CASH FOR EMPLOYEES

Cressman Company Gives Twenty Per Cent of Saturday Receipts.

Saturday was the third annual 'Employees' Day 'at the Cressman stores —a day which is unique, in that 20 per cent. of the gross sales goes directly to the employees.

The management, when interviewed, expressed their appreciation of the public's generous co-operation in making 'Employees' Day' a success, the day's sales being the largest in the history of the store and giving a large discount for distribution among the ninety-three employees.

The extra 'Employees' Day' envelopes were distributed this morning.

Dominion Refers Conventions to the Provincial Governments

International Questions of Eight Hour Day and Other Working Conditions Involved.

OTTAWA, June 28. — The main international conventions to which the Dominion government representatives assented at Washington in November last, are to be referred for action to the Provincial governments. The decision to follow this course has been reached following a ruling by the Department of Justice.

Principals among the conventions to be referred are the eight hour day, children's charter (limiting age of employment of children in industrial establishments to 14 years), and prohibition of employment of women under 18 years of age on night work.

PETERBORO EXPRESSMEN AND CARTERS SEEK PERMISSION TO INCREASE RATES

QUESTION LEFT IN ABEYANCE—GERALD DUNFORD GRANTED LICENSE ON SIX MONTHS' PROBATION.

A petition from the express men of the city, signed by White Bros., Ed. Cooney, S. Wedlock, L. Anthony, A. Barbeau, J. B. Parrington, and F. Drake, was received by the Board of Police Commissioners that met on Saturday afternoon, asking them to consider the following new schedule for cartage:

For small freight, 35c.
Team, $1.50 per hour.
Single horse rig, $1.00 per hour.
Lorry, $2.00 per hour for 1 man, $2.50 per hour for 2 men.
Van with 2 men, $8.00 per hour for ground floor.
For moving a piano—$3.00 from ground floor; $5.00 from first floor; $10.00 from second floor. The latter requires four or five men, it is said. If people want a gin roll, an extra charge will be made.

This petition was laid over for further consideration.

The members present were: Chairman, Judge Huycke, D. W. Dumble, and Mayor A. A. McIntyre.

Another Plea.

From Gerald Dunford, who has been refused a motor truck or taxicab license by Chief Thompson, came another plea for licences, accompanied by a petition endorsing his claim and signed by many business and professional men of the city, who have done busness with him in the past.

He asked for an express license and also for a taxicab license, the latter to date from 1st July.

"I have been in the cartage business in the city of Peterborough for upwards of seven years," said Dunford, and during the last year have held one taxicab and three express licenses. One express license expired in May, and I desire same to be renewed. Being a married man, with four children depending upon me for support, I would be obliged if this matter could receive your immediate attention, as I am each day sustaining financial loss I can ill afford."

The following are the names attached to Dunford's petition: J. D. Craig, Thos. Johnston, V.S., J. D. Legros, J. E. Micks, W. D. Rogers, J. D. Deyell, V.S., Fred E. Jones, W. R. Turner, Duffus Motor Sales, W. J. Merrell, James Sutherland, Sr., R. J. G. Sutherland, M. L. Huston, Robert Fair & Co., Ltd., R. J. Soden, H. Zacks, A. Swartz, D. Zacks, A. B. Moore, S. Whatley, F. Hourigan, A. W. B. Warne, E. H. Bartlett, G. N. Cowan, Jos. Knox, Thos. Franks, Alex. McLeod.

Gerald Dunford was granted his license for six months on probation, at the proportionate rates for a half-year. This was the motion of the Police Magistrate, seconded by the Mayor.

Judge Huycke voted in the negative.

Police to Report.

On the motion of the chairman, seconded by Mayor McIntyre, a by-law will be prepared by the secretary, providing that all licenses under the by-laws of the Board be issued only upon a report from the Chief Constable or other officer of the Police Force in charge during his absence, that the applicant complies with the provisions of the by-law under which he applies for a license, and that in cases where a license is refused there shall be a right of appeal to this Board.

LONG TERMS FOR TRAIN ROBBERS

QUEBEC, June 28. — Justice Desy passed the following sentence this morning at the trial of men charged in connection with the Harlaka train robbery: George Topping, the alleged leader, gets a life term at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, while his confederates, Proteau and Levasseur, were sentenced to twenty-five and fifteen years respectively.

FLOWER SUNDAY AT TRINITY CHURCH

Yesterday was flower Sunday at Trinity church and a large flower covered cross on the altar in a bed of flowers was a beautiful sight. The church was sweetly scented with the lovely bloom of all descriptions that were brought by the Sunday school children who marched in a body to the church.

Rev. J. R. Patterson of Toronto, was the minister and his short sermon concluded with a simple but appropriate story for the children, which created a deep impression on the audience. Rev. Patterson pointed out the symbolism of the cross that was formerly despised now wreathd in glory. He took as a subject, "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Us," the first line of the beautiful hymn sung at the service. He told the story of David watching over his sheep, how he defended them and guided them from harm; how he knew and loved each one just as the Father watches over us, His children and guarded us from all wrong. It was a simple story, simply told for the children, but to the older people it carried a message also.

Special music by the combined Sunday school orchestra and the Conservatory orchestra added to the music of the combined choir of children, was a feature of the service, and never has Trinity church heard music surpassing that of yesterday' sservice. Mrs. Maurice Park rendered a solo and in the evening a duet by Mrs. King and Mrs. Park, and a solo by Mrs. King, were special musical numbers.

NO TRACE OF STOLEN CAR

The Ford car stolen from Mr. Allan Wilson of Otonabee, on Thursday night, it is learned to-day, was bought from the Duffus Motor Sales here, and paid for in full on Monday last. Mr. Wilson paid $987 for the car, and on Tuesday drove it home.

A neighboring boy who was out late on Thursday night, it is said saw a car standing in front of Wilson's lane early on Friday morning. No one was near the car but in the tonneau was a five gallon can of gas or oil.

At the time the position of the car struck the boy as suspicious looking at that hour of the night. There is no trace yet of Wilson's stolen car.

BEN SHORTLY WILL RETIRE

THE OLDEST BUSINESS HOUSE IN PETERBORO TO CLOSE ITS DOORS WEDNESDAY.

ESTABLISHED 52 YEARS

Wednesday will mark the closing of Peterboro's oldest business firm that of Benjamin Shortly, dealer in harness and leather goods, established 52 years ago. The business is being taken over by W. H. Roberts, for 25 years an employee of Mr. Shortly's who will open a store at 182 Simcoe street.

Mr. Shortly was born near St. John's, Quebec, and served his apprenticeship to the leather business with Robert Irwin of Montreal. He served with the Montreal Garrison Artillery during the Fenian Raids and came to Peterboro 53 years ago to enter the employ of Thomas Donnelly, leather dealer. Mr. Shortly soon formed a partnership with Mr. Donnelly, thus establishing the present business. Upon the retirement of Mr. Donnelly Mr. Shortly became sole owner of the business.

The firm has always occupied the same store at 373 George street.

Mr. Shortly when interviewed this morning expressed his appreciation of the public's patronage and hoped that this patronage would be continued with Mr. Roberts. All accounts are payable to Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Shortly is retiring from active business life. He has been very successful and has acquired a reputation for trying to serve the public to the best advantage.

CHURCH OF SACRED HEART DECORATED

Although there has been no interruption to the daily masses at the Church of the Sacred Heart in the period of its renovation during the last six weeks, the completion of the work and in a sense the re-opening of the church, was marked yesterday by the beginning of the forty hours' devotion, which will continue until Tuesday night. At the early mass the children of the parish received their first communion. The class was not as large as expected on account of the illness of quite a number of the children.

Painted for the first time since it was built, the interior of the church presents a new and pleasing effect. The colours blend in light shades of cream and white, with gold lines in some of the panels. The congregation was delighted with the appearance of the church and the results of the work which had been in progress from early in May. Appreciation of the good taste of Rev. J. J. O'Brien, the pastor, who in its first stages gave the preparations his close attention, was also expressed.

Serious Disorder In Italian City

2,000 PRISONERS BELIEVED DROWNED

Repatriates From Russia on Bolshevik Steamer on Neva River.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, June 28. — Two thousand British, Austrian, German, and Finnish prisoners of war were drowned when a Bolshevik steamer was sunk recently in the Neva River, according to a Helsingfors despatch to the Central News.

A Reuter report from Stockholm would seem to confirm this despatch, saying that the ship was sunk on 6th June, with two thousand repatriated prisoners of war on board. It does not mention any loss of life, however.

MORE RIOTING AND WINDOW SMASHING

BUT ATTEMPTS TO BURN HOUSES IN COUNTY CORK FRUSTRATED.

(Canadian Press).

FERMOY, County Cork, June 28.—Damage amounting to hundreds of pounds was caused by rioters and window smashers here last night.

The inhabitants attribute the demonstration to soldiers, who left their barracks on hearing of the kidnapping of Briggen Lucas on Saturday night.

Attempts to burn houses were frustrated.

INCREASED INTEREST IN SALVATION ARMY SERVICES.

Notwithstanding the hot weather yesterday, the services at the S. A. Temple were well attended, and the interest of the audiences seemed to increase rather than wane.

At the night service the music rendered by the Songsters and Band was of a high order. A feature of the meeting was a beautiful solo, entitled "Guilty," rendered by Mrs. Mendell Braund, in her usual excellent style. Adjutant Bunton took for his text, "Behold the Man," and presented Jesus Christ to his audience, showing many beautiful traits of the Man Divine as He lived on earth.

The Corps is progressing along many lines, and anyone who is interested in spiritual things is reminded that both at the week-day and Sabbath services they are cordially welcome.

ANARCHIST DEMONSTRATION IN ANCONA RESULTS IN NUMBER OF DEATHS—SUSPECTED AS PART OF SCHEME TO OVERTURN SOCIETY.

TRAIN ATTACKED

ROME, June 28.—Quiet was restored to-day in the centre of Ancona, according to despatches from that city, anarchists who have been creating serious disorders there, retiring to the suburbs. The central part of the city was cleared when a detachment of carabineers, protected by artillery, marched through that quarter, where anarchist forces had been in possession.

(Canadian Press)

ROME, June 28.—Further disturbances in and around Ancona are reported in despatches from that city to-day. Anarchists are concentrating around the Labor bureau in Ancona and despatches indicate they have machine guns. Three have been killed in encounters with policemen.

An attack was made upon the Carabineers' barracks, and a number of hand grenades were thrown, but the anarchists were unable to enter.

Reinforcements rushed to the scene were met with shots from neighbouring houses, and it is said that women participated in the fighting.

Two trains were attacked near Borgaccio. On one train eight passengers were wounded and five subsequently died. The other train was carrying police, of whom four were wounded and one killed.

The impression prevails here that that these disorders are part of a deep scheme to overturn the social order throughout the country. Unemployment is the alleged reason for the strikes and for the rioting.

ROME, June 27.—The Chamber of Deputies was twice suspended Saturday during the discussion of the Ancona situation and the Government's policy with regard to Albania. Signor Bonomi, Minister of War, assured the House that the mutiny of the Bersaglieri at Ancona had terminated, and that the officers had resumed command of the troops.

He added, however, that certain Anarchist elements had taken advantage of the situation to perform acts of violence. When the Socialists insisted that Signor Bonomi tell the Chamber where the troops were being sent from Ancona, there was a great tumult in the Chamber, and the President suspended the sitting.

When the sitting was resumed, Premier Giolitti was challenged on the subject of Avlona. To the challenge he replied that the Italian troops in the Albanian town were attacked by the enemy and had to defend themselves. This provoked another uproar, and again the sitting was suspended.

Serious trouble has developed among certain elements of the 11th Bersaglieri Regiment, which has been ordered to leave Ancona, on the Adriatic Sea.

The Giornale d'Italia reports that the mutinous Bersaglieri surrendered, but that disorders at Ancona are continuing. One carabineer was killed and others injured in an engagement in which the mutineers used machine guns.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

OUR NEIGHBOURS, THE AMERICANS

Everything which is done to strengthen a feeling of good will between nations, especially between neighbouring nations, ought to be encouraged. A distinguished Canadian and scholar who has been residing in the United Stated for a number of years, the Rev. Prof. Edward A. Wichen, D. D., is to visit the place of his birth—Warsaw—this week, and will preach in our city twice next Sabbath. He is particularly anxious to do all in his power to promote good feeling between the peoples of the United States and Canada during his visit. He was appointed by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the States to convey the fraternal greeting of that great church to the Canadian General Assembly which met recently in Ottawa.

He will preach in St. Paul's church in the morning to the United congregations of St. Paul's and George St. Methodist, and to the same united audience in the evening in the George street church.

His evening subject will be "International Relations in the Light of the Gospel of Christ."

A special invitation is hereby given to our city council, to the Board of Trade, and to representative citizens who, because of their position in the community, can promote a feeling of good will as between the two countries, to attend the evening service.

Prof. Wichen served as a chaplain of the United States' forces in France and was also with General Allenby when he entered Jerusalem. He is a delightful personality and a pleasing speaker. Though he is now serving the Presbyterian church, he was born in a Methodist parsonage in Warsaw and attended school in Peterboro.

LOOSE FAN BELTS.

Sometimes an engine will overheat for no apparent reason. We knew of a man who fussed with his power paltn for a week trying to find out why he couldnt take a moderately long run without having the engine excessively hot. Finally he dscovered that the fan belt was loose and was not being driven at the right speed, due to the slipping. If you can't do a good job of tightening the belt, better take it to a harness man and get him to shorten it slightly so as to give you an efficient fan drive.

ONTARIO CARPENTERS WERE HIGHLY PLEASED WITH CITY'S HOSPITALITY

RESOLUTIONS OF APPRECIATION PASSED AT CONCLUDING SESSION —FRED HAWES, OF HAMILLON, ELECTED PRESIDENT.

ST. CATHARINES NEXT YEAR

Fred Hawes of Hamilton, was elected president of the Ontario Provincial Council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters at the closing session of their convention here on Saturday afternoon. Pat Green of Ottawa, the retiring president, declined nomination, and Mr. Hawes was promoted from the first vice-presidency, which he held last year.

The other officers elected were as follows:

First Vice-Pres. — Tom Clancy, Stratford.

Second Vice-Pres.—Barney Alden, Windsor.

Third Vice-Pres.— Arthur Exton, Kitchener.

Sec.-Treas.—Tom Jackson, Toronto, by acclamation.

Resolution of Thanks.

The delegates were delighted with their reception and treatment in Peterborough and expressed their appreciation by votes of thanks to the local Union, No. 219, for their thoughtful and kind attentions to the delegates and for the entertainment and facilities provided; also to all the Union men of the city for their share in making the convention a success and pleasant memory; to Mayor McIntyre for the manner in which he welcomed and received the delegates and to the City Council for their co-operation with the local Union in the preparations for the convention.

Another resolution conveyed the convention's gratitude to Rev. Father Phelan for placing St. Alphonsus' Lyceum at the use of the delegates and for the public meeting on Friday night.

Resolution of Protest.

The convention unanimously carried a resolution of protest to the Government, that whereas the commission appointed by the Government to investigate the Hydro-Electric strike at Niagara Falls had gone on record as favouring the continuance of the eight-hour day in that work, Sir Adam Beck and the Hydro-Electric Commissioners wanted to act on the minority report and to attempt to enforce the ten-hour day.

Favour Proportional Vote.

The delegates approved the Proportional Representation system of voting and recommended that it be adopted for all elections in Canada. They also expressed their appreciation of the services of Mr. Odam of the Proportional Representation Society of Canada in conducting the voting for the six delegates to the International convention.

Next year's convention will be held in St. Catharines. The choice was made on the first ballot. Invitations were also received from Hamilton and Meaford.

U.S. TRADE BALANCE AGAINST THE WORLD

WASHINGTON, June 26.— Since the beginning of the war in 1914, the United States has rolled up a trade balance of approximately seventeen billion dollars against the world. This exceeds by several billions of dollars the total balance in favor of the United States from 1875 to 1914.

United States Department of Commerce figures show that the trade balance made in favor of the United States in the fiscal year ending in 1914, one month before the war began, was only $479,000,000. During the first year of the war it was $1,094,419,600 and in the next year ending June 30, 1916 it was $2,135,599,375. During the succeeding year the total was $3,530,693,209.

Meantime the United States had entered the struggle and in the year ending June 30, 1918 —the first full fiscal year of her participation —the balance was only $2,974,055,973. In the next year ending last June 30, however, it was $4,136,562,618.

During the first eleven months of this fiscal year the balance was only $-,788,451,602, but exports were larger in those eleven months than in any other fiscal year in the nation's history, totalling $7,474,193,349 as agains tthe previous twelve months record of $7,232,282,686 made during the last fiscal year.

At same the time that American export trade began to advance by leaps and bounds, the import trade also showed an enormous increase, totalling $2,917,883,510 in the year ending June 30, 1916, and advancing steadily each year to a new high record of $4,685,741,747 during the eleven months of the present fiscal year. The previous high record was $3,095,720,068 last year.

Mos tof the favorable trade balance of the United States has been against the Allied and neutral countries of Europe. Many of the South American and North American countries and some of those in the Far East have a balance against the United States.

LATEST REVOLT IN MEXICO IS EXTRAORDINARY

MEXICO CITY.—This is an extraordinary revolution. That is, it seems at first glance an extraordinary revolution. No one seems to pay any more attention to it than they do up our way when the Democrats go out and the Republicans come in. President Carranza was murdered, every responsible head of the Government changed, the consular offices shifted, and yet everything seems to be functioning about as usual. It is true that the railroad men did miss their pay for one period of ten days. But it will come to them in due time. There was no looting, the revolutionary army paid its bill in cash, hardly any blood at all was shed, and it has been announced that the few political prisoners held in the penitentiary here are not to be shot.

By and by one begins to think he understands. The people of Mexico are tired out. They do not want to fight or be robbed any more. There are 15,000,000 people in this republic, and hardly 100,000 are under arms. The rest are passive. They go about their business as best they may. On my way in I met an American travelling man who is trying to buy up the product of various Mexican factories. He told of one cotton mill which, to quote him, was "the most up-to-date mill I ever saw," and of a beer-bottlery in active operation which is, he says, the largest in the world outside of Germany. Maybe he is wrong. But it is an immense plant. The beer bottlery and the cotton mills and the plant in which "over-allings" are made have all been held up from time to time by bandits posing as patriots. No wonder the men who own these and other plants and the men and women who work in them are sick of the process. Any sort of a government will do for them if only banditism is stopped.

A Rich Country.

On the way to Mexico City the railroad passes through a land which is, in spots at least at rich as any land in the world. Peons were irritating the surface of the land by means of wooden ploughs drawn by oxen. The same plough is in use today in Palestine. It was in use there 2,000 years ago. Only here and there did one see animals of the beef sort. Never were there more than two or three at a time. Horses seemed not to exist. The few people visible along the railroad line sheltered in miserable hovels made up of sods and bits of dobe and stone and wood. Smoke leaked out impartially from the crevices. Begging chidlren besieged the passenger cars. They were clad in mere tags and flutters of torn cloth. At one station a girl, perhaps 12 years old, sat in a doorway. From her attitude she might have been sick. As I watched she shifted the filthy remnant of cloth she wore about her shoulders. Then we saw that underneath it she was absolutely naked.

There were at intervals along the road the remnants of settlements that had at one time been prosperous. The houses had been large, well built, comfortable affairs of stone. Now they are roofless and their walls have been battered through. They would fit very well in the devastated part of France. On the side tracks were the steel skeletons of railroad cars which had been burned. At one station the bones of a dozen or so locomotives were heaped upon a side track. The life limit of a railroad tie is supposed to be four years. The ties on the road from Laredo to Mexico City have not been replaced for 10 years. The train rattles to the tune of loose rail ends.

Mexico City Stagnant.

Nothing, apparently, has been done in Mexico City since Diaz's time. In the centre of town is what will be, eventually, an opera house second only to that of Paris. But the steel of the naked dome juts stiffly into the air. Diaz began it and no one has finished it. The steel frame of what will be the House of Congress is rusting in mid-air. Diaz began it and no one finished it. Ten years of constant internal warfare put a bar to Mexican progress. The Mexican people have lived as best they could, thanks to their possession of a wonderfully fertile land. But they have not been able to go ahead. The least suspicion that a Mexican had money was sufficient to bring down upon him a horde of hungry patriots.

Everywhere there are fire arms. I have seen boys who did not seem a day more than twelve years old carrying six-shooters in their belts. Some youngsters have two guns belted on. Prosperous men who at home might be doctors or lawyers —they are of that type—wear silver-studded belts to support their automatics. But men who look like aldermen wear large pearl handled six-shooters. If one asks one is assured that they belong to the army. But there is no other visible sign. A Mexican soldier need not necessarily wear a uniform. The leader of a squad in today's parade was clad in a pearl-gray "nobby suiting" with a sassy little belt about his middle. A captain wore a mackinaw coat. One of the generals had a pepper-salt mixture, a Stetson hat and two guns. Yet there is no disorder. Smiles and good humor greet one everywhere.

The explanation seems to be that the country was heartily sick of the Carranza regime and is hoping for the best from the De la Huerta administration. Carranza was honest, in the sense that he did not personally take graft. But he gave his followers carte blanche to graft everywhere. He rewarded friends by choice bits from the carcass. One hears stories everywhere. Young General Juan Barragan—the "General Johnny" of Carranza's staff—was a law student without money enough to buy books a few years ago. When Carranza fell Barragan had houses all over town, and all large houses, and each house quite adequately equipped as to personnel. Carranza wished to favor a woman for a reason that is not stated.

"I will not put you on the payroll," said he. "But you may have the revenue from two freight cars."

Revenue From Freight Cars.

It was a part of the method in Mexico. Merchants who wished to export or import good were obliged to deal with the grafters who had freight cars at their command. The rental for the use of the cars was fixed by the needs and pocketbook of the merchant. Then he had to pay someone to see that the cars got through. Under the circumstances the marvel is not that prices are hig hin Mexico, but that they are as low as they are. Stuffs produced in Mexico can be bought at prices ridiculously low as compared with those prevailing in the United States. Bowls heaped high with sugar are on the restaurant tables. One pays with gold, silver or copper because no other money is in circulation. The First Chief and his assistants and the independent banditti emitted paper money until it had absolutely no value. Here in the City of Mexico is a paper money which is accepted by certain of the larger establishments, but which is refused by every cab driver or shoe-black. The hotel at which I live is issuing its own currency. Yet at the bank one is given gold without question for American money.

"I want one hundred dollars in gold," I told the cashier of a bank on the American side before I entered Mexico.

"You cannot have it," said he. "The Government does not want the gold to leave the United States."

"Why not?" I asked.

"It is needed for export," said the banker, without a smile.

Stripped of Silver.

In spite of the ten years' war, Mexico would be well supplied today with silver currency if it had not been for the war-price on the metal. A few months ago, when silver was at its highest, brokers stripped Mexico of silver coins and exported them to the "States." Millions of dollars' worth were sent out. Not the least of the goods hoped for from the new regime is the emission of a respectable currency based on gold or silver. The arrival of a New York banker is expected every day. It is confidently believed that in return for concessions he will be able to engineer a loan to Mexico to a maximum of half a billion dollars.

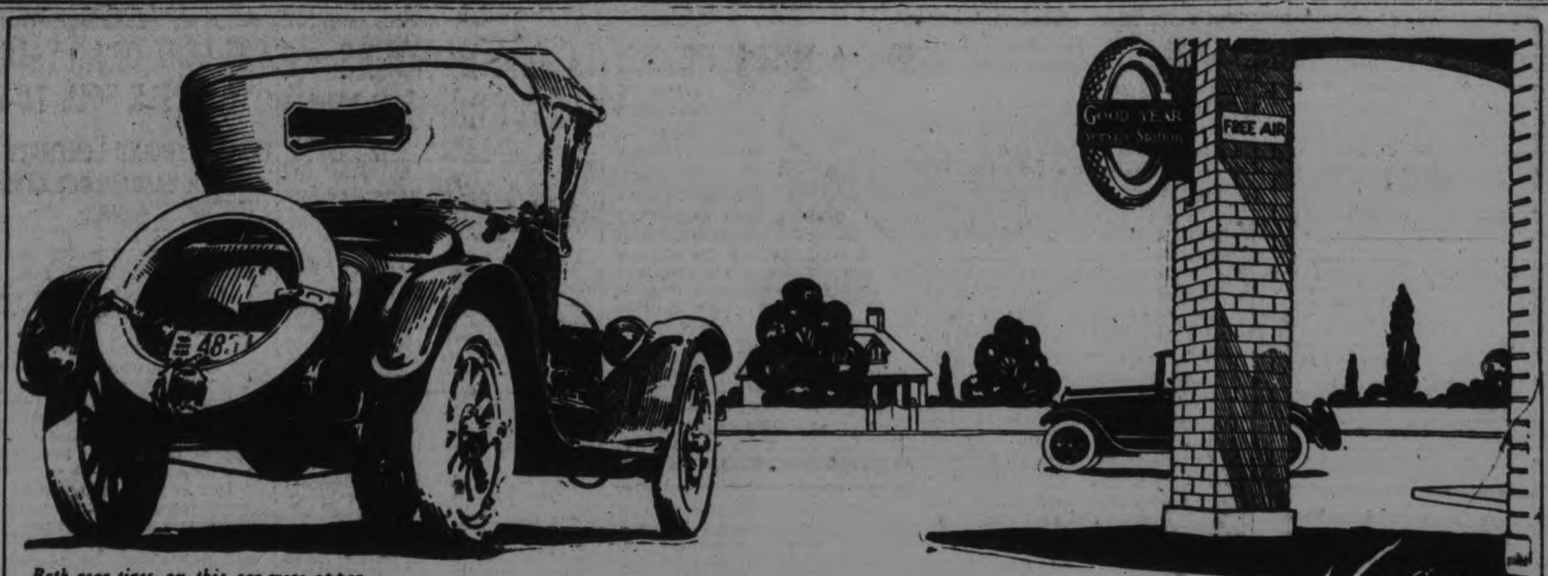
"It is to be guaranteed," I was told. "Then we will have real money again."

"But who will guarantee it?" All the other issues of currency were likewise guaranteed by the current Government."

"We hope," I was told, "that the American Government will guatantee it. Why not? You would do as much for a European country."

Rainbows of this sort are keeping up hope. From all parts of the country reports are coming in that the people are returning to work. Only in Chihuahua, where Villa is operating, is there any considerable unrest, and the present administration is pledged to get Villa "dead or alive."

If De la Huerta can eliminate the robber bands and build up transportation, Mexico's prosperity will take care of itself. With all the abominable graft and theft and loose administration and refusal to spend a dollar constructively that marked the Carranza administration the revenues of the country were actually increased during his term of office. All that is needed today is a little enterprise and some honesty.



Both rear tires on this car were apparently good for many more miles of service. Yet both had been injured by hard driving. One was repaired with a Goodyear Adjustable Blowout Patch, and gave 1,000 miles more service than the tire which was not repaired.

This Takes Miles Out of Tires

Every road offers enemies to tire life. But the greatest enemy of all is neglect, or lack of knowledge on the part of the tire user.

To enable the motorist to get the last possible mile out of his tires, we have established over 1,500 Goodyear Service Stations in Canada. To supplement their work we have produced Goodyear Tire Savers.

Inside breaks may be accidentally caused by hitting stones, ruts or bumps while driving at high speed. If such breaks be neglected a blowout may result.

Watch for such inside breaks when you change your tires. Cement over them a Goodyear Adjustable Blowout Patch to prevent them growing. If they are already large, see your Goodyear Service Station Dealer about a Goodyear Reliner or a vulcanized repair.

This is the Goodyear Cure

And when you talk to the Goodyear Service Station Dealer about fabric breaks, let him tell you of the other Goodyear Tire Savers and of the other things he will gladly do to help you cut down tire-cost-per-mile.

His basis of doing business with us is a basis of winning friends by giving service.

He, and the thousands of other Goodyear Service Stations, have helped in this way to build up the largest tire business in the world.

RHYME OF A SCHOOLMASTER.

Through streets of mire and crowds who seem
The mire disguised as living stuff,
I went my way towards the school
To teach the children, coarse and rough.

They sit in lines like marionettes,
With heads upraised and hands behind,
And there repeat what they have learnt
By heart, in heartless way and blind.

The children say, not knowing what,
"The Lord my Shepherd is, and I Shall never want." But teacher knows
That of great want some soon may die.

They know not what green pastures are;
Of tree and sky, of flower and grass;
In rooms of mire and streets of mire,
Some children yet reach Man, alas!

MR. MORRISON'S PLAN.

Mr. J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, and generally regarded as the brains of the Farmers' Movement in this province, advances the theory that any legislation of a contentious nature should not be passed at the same session of the Legislature as it is introduced; that it should be brought down at one session and passed or thrown out at the next. This plan, Mr. Morrison points out, would give the people a chance to study the details of the proposed legislation and enable the members to acquaint themselves with the opinions of their constituents as to the merits of the partjcular measures under consideration. There is much to be said in favour of this suggestion, although what Mr. Morrison has in the back of his mind when he is advancing the idea is that a between session delay in the progress of legislation of this kind would give the Farmers' Clubs in Ontario an opportunity to lay down instructions for their representatives in the House. In other words, the members are not supposed to have any brains of their own and are not to be trusted with the responsibility of deciding whether or not a particular bill is in the interests of the province. "Let them bring in the legislation at one session," Mr. Morrison in effect says, 'and before the next session we'll get the boys together in the U.F.O. Clubs and decide whether or not the measure should pass."

If Mr. Morrison's plan were to be carried out to its logical conclusion, much of the province's business would be carried on by the Farmers' Clubs, and members of the Legislature would be merely rubber stamps for the use of the U.F.O.

THE MURDOCK CHARGES.

If Commissioner Murdock's charges in connection with the Board of Commerce, are substantially correct, and certainly the inability of the Board to achieve the purposes for which it was supposed to have been created would seem to bear out his statement, the Union Government stands convicted of a very serious charge, the most serious that has been preferred against the present administration. An official explanation from the government is in order. The long-withheld correspondence between the former head of the Board of Commerce, Judge Robson, and the acting Premier, Sir George Foster, has been brought down in the House as a result of the furore caused by the resignation of Commissioner Murdock. But the mere publication of these letters desirable as it was that they should be published, is not a sufficient answer to Mr. Murdock's charges. He, in language that is frank and unequivocal, declares that members of the Cabinet did everything that they could to interfere with the work of the Board of Commerce and to protect the big interests. That is a direct and unhesitating indictment to which the government must answer. Was the Board of Commerce created as a mere subterfuge in the hope of quieting the unrest that existed in Canada, and with no intention of ever being seriously active in the interests of the people? Was it the desire of the Cabinet that the Commissioners should merely draw their salaries and make a pretence of dealing with the problems that were supposed to come under their jurisdiction? These are the inferences to be drawn from the Murdock charges. What does the government say? The people are waiting for the answer.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

The government that could not provide any further cash gratuities for the soldiers because the financial conditions of the country did not justify the expenditure, the government that has preached governmental, municipal and individual economy as absolutely necessary for the salvation of of Canada, has found it possible to do for members of Parliament what could not be done for war veterans. A general increase of indemnities is to be put into effect. The private members of the House of Commons and the Senate will get $4000 per session, an increase of $1500, and the salaries of the Cabinet Ministers are increased to $10,000 a year, which with the sessional allowances, will bring their remuneration up to a total of $14,-000. The head of the government is naturally not overlooked, and the Premier is to receive a total of $19,000 a year.

Sir Robert Borden has lost an opportunity of retaing some of the prestige that is rapidly slipping away from him. Had he taken the same firm stand against increased indemnities as Premier Drury took in the Ontario House, Canada's Premier would have gained for himself a large measure of popular approval, for undoubtedly the people as a whole are opposed to the increases. Newspapers published in all sections of Canada have condemned the proposal to boost the allowances of members of Parliament, and in yielding to the demands of his followers, Sir Robert has again demonstrated that he is out of touch with the sentiments of the country. As for the members themselves, the majority of them are not entertaining any illusions as to their chances of being returned to ofice in the event of an election and they are perhaps acting on the principle that it is wisdom to take advantage of the last opportunity they will have of enjoying the privileges that go with membership in the Parliament of Canada.

SUNDAY CARS.

Many citizens read with a good deal of pleasure on Saturday the announcement that the people are to be given an opportunity next month to vote on the question of the Sunday operation of street cars in Peterborough. At the initiative of the local City Council, legislation was passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature, giving cities of over 20,000 population the opportunity to decide whether or not they want Sunday street cars. Hitherto only cities of 50,000 population and over have had this privilege, and it has long been felt that the smaller centres which possessed car service were entitled to have Sunday service.

An event like yesterday's Decoration Day ceremony emphasizes the need of better transportation facilities on Sundays for those who are not fortiunate enough to own motor cars. Thousands of citizens trudged the many weary blocks to the cemetery from the outlying sections of the city and after the ceremony was concluded had to face another long, hot dusty walk home. The majority of those who had that experience will be unanimous in supporting the movement for Sunday cars, and although there will undoubtedly be a certain amount of opposition it will not prove convincing unless Sunday motoring is condemned as well as Sunday street cars. The average citizen who, under the present conditions, has to depend upon his own feet for transportation, is not very likely to accept opposition to the Sunday car scheme in a humble mood, as long as the people who own automobiles are allowed to spend the greater part of the Sabbath in travelling around in their cars. He cannot be blamed for feeling that if it is not wrong for the rich to motor it cannot be much of a moral lapse for the poor to ride in street cars.

The measure will undoubtedly carry when it is submitted to the people.

THE DETERMINING FACTOR.

Speaking before the American Chamber of Commerce, Mr. J. R. Howard, of the Farm Bureau Federation, declared that the forty-four hour week would not feed nor clothe the world. If that statement be true, it will eventually put a stop to agitation for shorter hours of work.

Agriculture is a basic industry, and the hours of labor required in that industry exercise a determining factor upon industrial conditions in general, because it supplies the universal market. If the industries other than agriculture are made more attractive to labor than farming, the result will be a process of equalization due to increasingly dearer food prices.

BELLEVILLE - CANADA 19

The trouble must be adjusted at its source. The best-laid schemes of profit-sharing will not provide a permanent remedy, excellent as they are in some particulars. As soon as labor in the cities finds that shorter hours mean dearer loaves, a reaction may be expected, with a wholesome realization that the only way to bring the cost of living down is to increase production. It may take some hard experience to pound home this truth, if all the people are not willing to accept it as a matter of common sense.

The great "price-cutting wave" of recent times has not been followed by a lowering of the cost of living. On the contrary, official reports in the United States and Canada again indicate an uward trend. The "price-cutting wave" is beginning to be viewed as it was—an unhealthy symptom of congestion in the market. The relief to the consumer was excellent while it lasted, but it had no permanence. The "peak of high prices" is not yet.

The pre-war maximum rate of production has not been reached, and it may never be reached again, because industrial conditions have been made easier for those who work under strains of various kinds. Before the war, industry was speeded up to a high degree, and the new idea of better treatment for labor has lowered the sum total of output. Industry pays in production for its humanitarian improvement, and the price is not too much in very many cases. At the same time, natural laws cannot be flouted with impunity. There is a minimum level to which production must rise, and no evidence exists to prove that the level is reached as yet.—Montreal Star.

CHEESE PRICES MONTREAL MARKET

PRICES HIGHER THAN THE PETERBORO CHEESE BOARD.

Reports received in Peterboro on Saturday by the United Dairymen Co operative Company, Limited, concerning their sale of cheese in Montreal, Friday, show that 73 colored "Specials" sold for 29 1-8 cents, and 320 white "Specials" for 29 cents. 878 colored "Firsts" sold for 29 1-8 cents, and 622 colored whites for 28 3-4 cents. These prices are much higher than were paid on any cheese board last week, and beat the Peterboro Cheese Board prices by 11-16 of a cent a pound. This is enough to cover the handling and selling charges in Montreal, and leaves 3-16 of a cent a pound to the good. As Mr. Cook, of Belleville, offered to pay the salesmen on the Peterboro Board, last Wednesday, within 1-4 cents of a cent a pound of the best price realized at the Montreal sale this week, it has been pointed out that it is up to him to pay the Peterboro factories 7-16 of a cent a pound more than he did.

Local farmers who are interested in the new dairy company, were pleased to find that the sales this week were 2,063 boxes. Last week they were 1,622 boxes, the week before 1,410, and the first week 691 boxes. It will thus be seen that within three weeks the quantity of cheese being sold by the farmers at Montreal, has increased over 300 per cent. The farmers say they are not worrying over this new system of selling cheese which they have introduced, even although the buyers may be.

As the cheese sold at the Montreal sale last week, is the cheese that under the old conditions would have been sold on the cheese boards the previous week, it seems that those factories which sold cheese in Montreal last week, in some cases have made as much as a cent a pound more by selling in Montreal, owing to the fact that the cheese prices have advanced considerably during the last week. Of course, on a falling market the Montreal prices would be affected adversably It is expected that at the next sale the quantity of cheest offered will show another considerable increase.

ONE CENT OF NO VALUE TO LITTLE FOLK TO-DAY

PARENTS SHOULD REMEMBER THIS WHEN HANDING OUT CANDY MONEY.

Peterborough little folk are bewailing, with their elders, the shrinking of money's purchasing power. No longer will an occasional copper supply modern boys and girls with candy aplenty; the homely old cent piece to-day is only good for war tax and postage stamps. And the small boy knows it, so don't insult his dignity and disappoint his craving for sweets by offering him a copper with which to cater to an inherent love for toothsome confections.

A tour of local candy stores which cater to the tastes of the youngsters will convince anyone that this is true. If one has forgotten because of long years that tickets which now read one, two and three for a cent, once read four and up to ten for the same amount of money, they need only to listen to the sad lament of the storekeepers to know that times have changed in the candy business.

Those "All-Day Suckers".

The long cases filled with paper boxes of hard, soft and mutti-colored candy look just as they did ten years ago. The candy has changed little in appearance except that a few familiar lines have disappeared and the licorice pipes and "all-day suckers" are much smaller. The youth still stand long before the cases, carefully choosing the kind which will give them most value for their money, but they no longer can be satisfied with one cent's worth. The two caramels which they receive or the two paper-wrapped kisses only create a taste for more.

Following in the steps of the dollar the copper has depreciated in the candy game fully 50 per cent. The cream candies which always were four and five for a cent, are now two and three. The stick of black licorice are no longer two for a cent. Marsh mallows are one and two, instead of two and three, and the size has also decreased. The familiar licorice and butter balls can no longer be bought at the rate of eight for a cent. The size of the teddy-bears, the squares of taffy and other lines selling at one for a cent are now but half size. The chocolate drops have either disappeared entirely from the case, or they are out of sight at two cents for one.

Can't Understand.

"The worst part of it all," said one storekeeper. "The kiddies cannot understand why their money doesn't buy as much as before the war. It keeps us busy explaining and then they feel convinced that we are profiteers. We do not make a cent of money out of the business, but then we cannot stop selling the candy, for that would completely take the joy out of he youngser's lives. Perhaps it would help some if the fathers and motheds would understand and give the kiddies two or five cents to spend intead of one cent of olden times.

The grievance, however, has not stopped with candy, for now "pop" the popular beverage of the street corner gangs, can no longer be bought rfor five cents, but now cost ten cents straight or two for fifteen with extra for the bottles.

VIRTUOUS WIVES

By OWEN JOHNSON

He had placed the question fifty times since yesterday, and had come no nearer to an answer. This, in itself, was unusual, for he prided himself on his power of instant decision. There was no hesitancy in his soaring nature, and he tolerated none in his subordinates of the Cambridge Structural Steel Works, of which, at the age of thirty-five, he was already the general manager.

"A year ago, I would have jumped at the chance," he said to himself in surprise—a year ago he had had no thought of marriage. "It's big!"

He entered the riding club, still absorbed in his perplexity. From the urchin in buttons to the stable boy who held his horse, everyone greeted him with extra eagerness. He was a favorite with all the servants, not only for the sense of health and good humor which he communicated but for an exact discipline, tempered with a prodigal generosity. He was well served, and served with respect. He had the best horse, the finest equipment, and the most expert groom. Wildfire, a coal-black Kentucky thoroughbred, was capering in the sawdust. Forrester examined the bit with care, ordered the girth tightened, and, swinging into the saddle, went clattering into the park, where the horse broke into a headlong gallop. The mounted policeman smiled tolerantly at his lawless passage, flattered to be distinguished by name by one who had the intimacy of such rulers of destiny as magistrates and commissioners.

The sun was yet young in the sky, the air delicious, and a little dew hung in the dark-green shadows. Forrester snatched off his cap and stuffed it in his pocket and, reveling in the cut of the wind, which made his body tingle with a consciousness of his youth and strength, drove Wildfire into a frenzied rush. Though he rode without the elegance of the classic style—he used a Mexican saddle with box stirrups in loyalty to early training on the Western plains—he had that spirit of mastery which a horse instantly recognizes, and held his seat where many a more graceful rider might have wavered.

He rode at life as though he were riding at a high hurdle. Each salient feature seemed fashioned by the action of tempestuous elements, like the sharpened figurehead of a ship worked by wind and wave—the keen, vulturelike nose under the open flight of the eyebrows, the lean, starting cheek bones, the worn maxillary muscles of the jaw, the set, crooked tenacity of the lips, while the black abundant hair, slightly shot with silver, rippled back from the thin forehead, past the large ears, which adhered to the skull as though blown against it by the rapidity of his progress through life. The first impression was of gauntness, of primitive force, of crude vitality, but, with this, there was such naturalness, such boyish zest in the lighted gray of his glance, such resonant friendliness in the deep bass of his voice, such a swing of success and power in his bearing that this overflowing quality of good humor, confidence, and decision exerted a distinct physical exhilaration upon all persons with whom he came in contact. At the upper end of the reservoir, he reined in abruptly for a bantering discussion of the approaching baseball championship with Corcoran, the officer on duty, and bolted away on his return trip.

"I'll put it over until to-morrow," he said, thinking of the momentous decision he would be called upon to make.

Other problems were clamoring for immediate adjustment. This violent racing half hour was indeed not a relaxation but the beginning of his working day. The sensation of speed gave him the sensation of power. Under this stimulus, his mind experienced an extraordinary clarity. He was of that new electric business temperament, which is given to the masters of New York, who ride the shock and fury of its combat as the aeroplane soars above the shock and fury of the storm—a type which has a marked resemblance to those abnormal masters of the air, whose nerves, far from breaking under the shriek and roar of motors, the giddy rise or sickening drop on treacherous air currents, or faltering at the inhuman spectacle of swimming earth and unstable skies, derive, on the contrary, an intense emotion of freedom and power, a superhuman delight in combat, a joy in returning to life, where normal imaginations would collapse. The clamor and shock of the city, the shattering iron beating against the ear of train, trolley, truck, and steam riveter, of all the hideous uplifted scream of the day, which fatigues the ears of the New Yorker and leaves its straining lines across his eyes and lips, was to Forrester a nervous, combustible chemistry. It awoke every mental faculty. It surrounded his intellect with a protecting wall of noise and permitted it a steady concentration.

"Peters is not the man for the operating department," he said to himself rapidly. "Ideas but no order. No economy. Fromme's my man. The overhead expenses can be cut another hundred thousand. By the way, Dickson can dispense with a third stenographer," he added, his mind leaping from big to trivial details. "I must shave down my bid on that Argentine contract. Wonder if Argules is straight. I must have that contract."

The great neglected field of South America stirred his imagination, and he sought a means of making sure of the contract without offense to his conscience, which was built on the letter of the law. At the same time, he did not intend to overlook the possibility of another competitor acting with less scruple. He decided to employ that classic method of conversion, by which great industries assimilate the fearless Federal inquisitor. He decided to digest Argules.

"I need a representative for that field, a very comfortable commission he can make of it, too," he said, smiling. Instead of handling Argules at this end, which was repugnant to him, it should be a straight transaction—a retaining-fee and a liberal commission. What was done at the other end was not his affair. By the time he had returned to the club, he had passed upon a dozen bids which he would be called upon to offer or accept, appropriated twenty-five thousand dollars for a test of a new Swedish separating process, and planned a personal visit to the Pennsylvania foundries, where a knotty question with a labor union had to be met with tact.

Back in his apartment, he passed under the old sting of the shower and, glowing from a vigorous friction, dressed rapidly while giving his orders for the day.

"The blue suit, Gregory. Pack up my things for over Sunday. Tell Bingham the car at four. Better slip in my riding togs; I might want them." As this visit, the first of his married life, represented to him a social departure, he went to his bureau and carefully selected a handful of cravats in dark, solid colors. "A couple of silk shirts and, instead of my riding cloths, put in my golf suit and a brown cutaway—that ought to do." He went into the hall and returned to add, "And, Gregory, a pair of pumps, also."

This week-end invitation to the Dellabarres, at Chilton, was an event of such troubling importance that he felt the need of superior counsel. He passed into the great tiled bathroom which separated his room from his young wife's, and, tiptoeing to the door, listened hopefully. He had given orders that she should not be wakened—and yet he had hoped that just this one morning she might be up, radiant and girlish in her pink panne-velvet morning gown, giving a glow of fragility and gentleness to the breakfast table, to which for such long years he had come with the feeling of a lunch counter. He listened, and then, concealing his disappointment, went into the green dining room, where his eggs, which had boiled three and a half minutes, were waiting at his place, with three newspapers and the morning mail. He deviated again from his military schedule and, approaching the white marble fireplace, in which a gas fire was licking imitation logs, turned to survey with a feeling of still new possession the heavy rococo walnut furnishings, the massive candelabra, the stout silver service, and the flagrant red-and-white sporting prints—an assemblage which pleased him enormously with its substantial elegance. Standing thus, confident, successful, and alone, before an imitation hearth in an imitation home, he might have served as a symbol of modern individualism.

Shock-Absorbers For False Teeth

CLEVELAND, March 8. — Non-Skid Shock Absorbers for false teeth are the latest thing. Heretofore the principle of shock absorbers has been limited in application but now a Cleveland chemical concern advertises a powder which sprinkled upon "store teeth," forms a smooth cushion, holds them firmly in place, and gives a "non-skid" effect while they romp over the toughest ears of corn and chew the stickiest candy.

One who has lost his natural teeth can supply himself with this antiseptic, adhesive comfort powder—Corega—at a drug store, and proceed to laugh and sneeze, chack nuts and do other hazardous things without the risk of shaking his prized false teeth from their upper and lower berths. 50c at druggists.—Adv.

HARVESTING OF CROPS IN THE LAW COURTS

TORONTO, June 25.—That a man under certain conditions can harvest his crops in the courts as well as he can harvest them in the hot sun was the opinion expressed at Osgoode Hall, by Chief Justice R. M. Meredith. His Lordship was dealing with an application on behalf of Mose Gilbee, for an order protecting his crops at Sandwich West, which he claims were coming along nicely until men turned up with teams, broke down the fences, and prepared to grade streets through the property. The Chief Justice failed to see why Gilbee had not sued for damages and he enlarged the application for their appearance of those stated to be doing the actual damage to the crops.

THEORY SAYS THAT FAT MEN ARE APT TO BE FATHEADS

"Let me have men about me that are fat,
Sleek-headed men, and such as sleep o' nights:
Yond Cassius has a lean and hungry look;
He thinks too much: such men are dangerous."

Thus spake Caesar, and Caesar was no fat man. And now comes also Dr. B. W. de Busk, a psychologist of the University of Oregon, also a thin man, and says that fat men, unless they have great lung capacity, are likely to be fat-heads as well.

Is it true? What warrant has this Oregon savant for his assertion that avoirdupois means adipose brains? A slight excursion into history turns up not a few famous men who possessed obvious weight and undoubted intellect.

Caesar was thin, but, according to Plutarch, he had disciplined himself to a penitential absetemiousness and a hard simplicity of life. Plutarch does not say so, but it may well be that Julius actually tended to fatness and was forced to his severe regimen to keep in condition before his soldiers. In other words, perhaps Caesar was forced to bant.

Napoleon is generally credited with considerable intellect, but none of his portraits show his clothes flapping on his person. Bismarck, whatever we may think of his principles, must be allowed to have had a considerable quantity of very able brain matter ensconced in the huge bulk he carried about with him. Li Hung Chang was no clothespole. Chaucer described himself as "no popet to embrace." Oliver Cromwell was distinctly inclined to stoutness, and so, too, was Henry VIII. Alexander Dumas and Victor Hugo carried considerable poundage. None of these men were exactly witlings.

To come down to the present and to men whose figures are well known to all of us: Charles M. Schwab cannot be described as skinny, Marshal Joffre is certainly corpulent, Clemenceau is hefty, physically as well as mentally; Hindenburg is built, like Wouter Van Twiller, on the lines of a beer barrel on skids. And what shall we say of William Howard Taft—300 pounds of him? Whatever the Bull Moose may have thought of him once, no one would have the hardihood now to say that our only living ex-President is a zany.

It is true that history forgot to record in cubic centimeters the lung capacity of the corpulent great of former ages. This is one of the factors by which Dr. de Busk calculates the brain power of the fat man. Nor are we advised how much atmosphere is regularly drawn in and forced out by the rotund ones of today's Hall of Fame. But we do know, because we have heard it, that William Howard Taft puffs audibly as he waddles along.

On the other hand, many intellectual thin men come to mind whose chest measurements were near enough to zero to count for nothing in de Busk's formula—Robert Louis Stevenson, for example; Savonarola, Dante.

Braving the sneers of our Oregon savant, we hazard the opinion that it is the overhang of the brow that counts, not the overhang of the waistline; the capacity of the brain, not the volume of breath. From long observation we have learned that there is no connection between wind and intelelct. One visit to a meeting of the Board of Supervisors is enough to prove that.

Intellect cares not where it is housed. It is equally at home in a substantial Napoleon or a shadowless Savonarola; in a godlike Raphael or a crooked Louis XI. And how shall we believe that the glow of its ethereal fires depends on the strength of a material bellows adventitiously situated near it?—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Witness Testifies
SHE WAS WEAK AND NERVOUS

Brampton, Ont.:—"About five years ago I began suffering with woman's trouble. I became all run-down weak and nervous. I was so completely down and out that I could not do anything, could scarcely dress myself. I had the doctor and took other medicine but without getting better until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his Golden Medical Discovery. It was only necessary for me to take about three bottles when I was completely restored to health and strength and I have been in better health than I ever was before. I have had no use for medicine since, but should I need it I would take these same remedies, knowing them to be excellent."—MRS. HARRY KNIGHT, Jessie St.

OWES HER LIFE

Ft. Saskatchewan, Alta.:—"It is with great pleasure that I write the following and I hope it will help the many sufferers who do not know the good Dr. Pierce's medicines would do them if they would try them.

"In regard to my condition, I will say that I suffered from childhood from a very weak back; I had the misfortune of having spinal meningitis when I was one year old and until I was 13 I did not see a well day, but a very kind lady told my mother about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and she got a bottle to try it. It did me so much good that mother got me 6 bottles. Recently I happened with a car accident and hurt my back badly. My doctor gave me up and said I would not live, but I still stick to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and to my surprise in three weeks I was out of bed and better. I owe my life to it and nothing else, and shall never be without it.

"If any sufferer wishes to write I will answer with pleasure."—MRS. NOEL BARTHOLOMEW.

R. C. BRAUND'S BUSINESS CAREER WAS BEGUN 27 YEARS AGO TO-DAY

LAUNCHED HIS SMALL VENTURE AS GROCER AT THE CORNER OF ALBERT AND PARK STREETS—HAS DEVELOPED MANY SUCCESSES IN THAT TIME, AND IS STILL WORKING.

To-day R. C. Braund, who owns one of the largest retail establishments in Peterboro as well as being connected with several other businesses, celebrates his 27th year in business in this city. Mr. Braund has met with success in his business. His business has experienced no mushroom growth. It has been a steady upward pull ever since Ralph Braund entered into business and while today he is a man of wealth and position he has worked for it all. All the credit for his success should not be given entirely to him he states, but to his wife who carried on the enterprise at first while he worked up town to ensure a steady income, who encouraged him when he was discouraged, who planned and saved with her husband that his store might go ahead and become a factor in the business life of the city.

Humble Beginning.

From a humble clerk Mr. Braund has risen to a place of prominence in the business and social life of Peterboro'. From sales of $1 a day his turnover has grown to $50,000 a year. In June, 1893, R. C. Braund opened his store on the site of the present store, but with only one room about 20 x 15 feet. His stock was valued at $50—not paid for at that! Previous to this he had gained considerable experience clerking in several stores in the city, and was called "first rate" by his successive employers. Previous to opening his store he took until himself a wife on the munificent salary of $1.10 a day. This he calls his master stroke in business, for he attributes a great share of his success to the fact that he has a good wife. He opened his small store on June 28, 1893, and his young wife ran the business while he held down his job clerking for another merchant. He hesitated to give up a sure thing for a chance, and decided to hold his position until he saw how his venture turned out.

Imagine with what feelings of elation when he returned home that night to find that his loyal partner had taken in $1.61.

Mr. and Mrs. Braund planned and figured that evening, building up their hopes for the future—hopes that have materialized beyond their fondest expectations. On the second day their sales dropped to only 43c. but on the third day went up to $1.03. At the end of the first week the day book showed sales of $14.13 The second week sales totaled $25.23 Gradually their business grew. The stock was paid for and increased.

"My wife would say: 'They asked for some tacks or something else and I would get some next day—maybe only a dozen packages. To some extent it is the same to-day, and when people ask for things I try to get them. By co-operation we built up our business."

Interesting Comparisons.

As time went on their sales expanded. It is interesting to compare prices they first charged with those ruling now. Butter sold from 18c to 21c a lb.; eggs, 12c, and as low as 10c dozen; bread, 5c; tea, 25c; raisins, 10c; soda biscuits, 3 lbs for 25c.

"We had to be satisfied with a smaller profit then," said Mr. Braund "One cent was our commission on a pound of lard; now it is 7c. That is why there are more opportunities for the beginner now."

In September, 1893, Ralph Braund left W. H. Moher's store, where he was working, and devoted his whole time to the business. He was then perhaps the highest paid clerk in Peterboro.' He received $1.35 a day.

At that time the store was at the edge of the town, but in the next decade houses sprang up like mushrooms to the west and south. Streets grew and the store of Mr. Braund was soon the centre of the community. In later years the street car line was extended to his door, and then beyond it. By honest merchandising his business grew, and as his means afforded it his stock and premises were epanded. At first he had a man delivering the goods by basket, then a small express waggon, and later horse deliveries.

This space was enlarged by building a second storey at the rear of the store in 1905, after the downstairs was taxed to capacity. The upstairs then was used as storerooms and for displaying furniture and linoleum. This necessitated building a residence, and he erected a laige and comfortable house south of the store connected to it.

"Our growth has been steady. There has been nothing phenomenal about it," Mr. Braund stated, adding that the other stores which have since been started in that district have not affected his sales noticeably. His service has always been the best and the proprietor told of several customers who had dealt with him during the entire twenty-seven years.

"I was willing to start on a small scale, a thing which is abhorred and shuddered at by the young men today," said Mr. Braund. "They want to start out on a big scale and have a car and go the pace. You can't do it and make a success. You must be willing to start where I started, and live and expand according to your means. If you can't save money no matter what you make you aren't a success, and can never hope to be. There are boundless opportunities today if you are determined, willing to work and willing to start at the bottom."

TO POLLYANNA'S FRIENDS

Loving Pollyanna, you have always had a warm spot in your heart for Pollyanna's creator, Eleanor H. Porter. Loving Pollyanna, you counted it a personal loss when you heard the news of Mrs. Porter's sudden death.

Often, I am sure, you have wondered what Mrs. Porter was like. Picturing her to yourself, you have no doubt fancied that she must have been "a glad woman," even as her Pollyanna was "the glad girl."

In imagination you have seen her joyous in her home, joyous among a wide circle of friends, and helping all who came in contact with her to see the good and the bright in life. You have felt sure that she was sunshine incarnate.

From long acquaintance I can bear witness that in thus picturing her you were not in the least astray.

To smile was as natural to Mrs. Porter as to frown or look glum seems to be natural to many people. Nor was hers ever a forced smile. It came from a heart radiant always.

It was, indeed, the artless, innocent, happy smile of a child. And Mrs. Porter, for all she had passed fifty when death struck her down, retained to her last day a childlike freshness of nature, even a childlike winsomeness of expression and youthfulness of appearance.

Many who knew her personally must have been startled when they found her age given as fifty-one in the notice announcing her death. She looked nearer thirty than fifty. She had a vivacity and buoyancy of bearing too seldom seen in middle life.

She was, that is to say, a remarkable example of the truth of the psychologist's doctrine that the practice of optimism counts for much in keeping one young and well. Until attacked by the virulent germs that so quickly caused her death, Mrs. Porter had know scarcely a day of illness.

Yet she had known trials and crosses. Her optimism was not that of a woman who might well be optimistic because of a life quite devoid of cares.

Most happily married, she, nevertheless, had a grievous domestic affliction in the prolonged invalidism of her mother. But, "I just had to be glad then, for mother's sake," is the way she once expressed it to a group of her friends in the Boston Authors' Club. And her insistent gladness under difficulties worked for her own good as well as for her mother's.

Even in death her optimism did not desert Eleanor Porter. There was a smile of tender recognition and farewell for her husband, a smile of confidence in the Great Tomorrow, as she breathed her last.

I write these lines a few hours after her burial in beautiful Mount Auburn Cemetery, in the historic New England Cambridge where for many years she made her home. Her grave, I doubt not, will be a Mecca of pilgrimage by many who, knowing her not at all in life, love and revere her for the message of her books.

And I would have them come to that grave with the full assurance that the woman who gave to the world Pollyanna was herself as much an inspiration to other as her brain child whose fame is world-wide. She wrote "Pollyanna" because she was Pollyanna. That we know who knew her well.—Adding-

HEART SO BAD
WAS NOT SAFE TO LEAVE HER ALONE

Miss Eva P[illegible]aten, Krugersdorf, Ont., writes: "I feel that I must write and tell you of the great benefit I have received from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. About four years ago I was taken terribly bad with my heart, nerves and fainting spells, and was down in bed for about six months. I doctored with two different doctors and seemed to get better although the fainting spells would not leave me. I would take such terrible falls wherever I was, that it was not safe to leave me alone at any time. At last I decided to resort to proprietary medicines, and took several different kinds but seemed to receive but little benefit from them. One day noticing the advertisement of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I decided to try them. Before I had taken more than two boxes I could see that they were helping me. I have taken about ten boxes and am almost cured of those terrible spells. I sincerely feel that your medicine has proved a blessing to me and I advise anyone troubled with their heart to try them as I am confident they will find relief."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TWENTIETH CENTURY STUFF

A writer gives the following under the heading of "Twentieth Century Stuff." "Mules work like the duece for a handful of oats. But mules haven't brains and mules haven't votes. The worker has votes and the worker has brains, and he does not use either—just kicks and complains. So it's hard to make out as a genreal rule where the worker has much on a stupid old mule." — Indian Herald News.

GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM.

There is some amusement, if no edification, in noting that at Red Deer, ther is a warm argument being conducted in the newspaper columns there over the hell question. Others doubt it ,and as none of them know anything whatever about it, the argument, consequently, is all the more heated.

This reminds the Observer of a pious brother who expressed himself thus:

"It doesn't matter what they preach
Of high or low degree.
The old hell of the Bible
Is hell enough for me!
I don't know its location—
Cant' say just where 'twill be,
But the old hel of the Bible
Is hell enough for me!
'Twas preached by Paul and Peter,
They spread it wide and free;
'Twas hell for old John Bunyan,
And it's hell enough for me!

A Public Utility is A Public Necessity

If you believe in the future of Canada you cannot fail to have confidence in the bonds of her public utility corporations, for whose services and products there is a steady and growing demand.

The fact that many of these securities now yield returns that are possible only because of unusual conditions should prompt decisive action.

Among our offerings we recommend the 6% first mortgage bonds of a Public Utility corporation, whose standing and character meet all requirements of the most conservative investor.

Transforming the Wilderness to Fertile Fields Was the Task of Our Forefathers and what a colossal task it must have been. Every day must have brought fresh obstacles that called for new methods, and set-backs must have been numerous and discouragement unknown.

There are still trees to be felled, stumps to be uprooted and land to be ploughed and stoned, and there are still new problems that demand new methods.

The old-fashioned store with its huge stove and group of hangers-on was unsatisfactory and has passed away, and the departmental store has taken its place.

We are doing our part to fulfill the mission with which the departmental store is entrusted.

REV. ROSS SCORES SUNDAY PLEASURE

NAMES BRIDGE, PICNICS, EUCHRE PARTIES AS UNHOLY ON LORD'S DAY.

The congregation at Mark Street yesterday morning was very large, but owing to Sabbath being Decoration Day was not up to the usual number at night. The choir did excellent work, and Miss Jones' rendering of "A Dream of Paradise" in the the evening was greatly appreciated.

The pastor, Rev. G. E. Ross, occupied the pulpit both morning and evening, taking for his morning subject "The Matchless Power of a Holy Purpose," the text being "But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat." (Daniel 1, 8.) In brief, the reverend gentleman said: Just as Belgium has been one of the great battlefields of modern Europe, so was Palestine the great battlefield of Asia. In one of the great wars, Jerusalem had been besieged, and Daniel, a Hebrew prince, had been carried away captive to Babylon. As a distinguished prisoner Daniel enjoys princely favours, and sits at the king's table. But Daniel has been taught by his Hebrew mother, in his dear old home in Jerusalem, that food offered to idols is defiling to a Hebrew; and though at the table of a foreign king, he has a purpose firm as his native hills, and that purpose is to be true to his principles at any cost; so he throttles the temptation. Daniel was actuated by a heart purpose. Memory, conscience, emotion, judgment, and will all play their parts in this sublime purpose, and the result is a magnificent individuality.

But was it not a breach of courtesy on the part of Daniel to refuse the king's meat? Not at all. It was a greater breach of courtesy to ask Daniel to sacrifice his principles. But does it not seem narrow on the part of a man or woman in these days to stand out against the harmless little pleasures, such as Sunday afternoon outings, joy-riding, a little bridge, euchre, or poker party, harmless piece of amusement? I answer your question right off the bat, I have no right to ask you to sacrifice any principle to gratify my whim. You could not possible offer a true Methodist a greater insult than to invite him to enter into your dancing, Sunday picnics, bridge and euchre parties, and all the rest of the cursed things offered to idols. And I thank God for your loyal stand by me while in the name of God and purity of morals, I score these unholy things. But Daniel's purpose was costly, but his reward was mighty. The chain of gold, the peace of conscience, and the favor of his God.

City in the Night.

The evening subject was "The City in the Night," and was based on Matt. XXV., 6: "Behold the bridegroom means the Second Coming of Christ, or the summons of death to you. All these virgins had lamps. All had oil vessels. All were called to meet the bridegroom. Only five had the oil of the love of God. Think of the alarm at midnight. Lights were out, all dark, and the bridegroom coming, and oil was exhausted. One cannot borrow oil or grace, there is no time to go to the source of all grace. I may help you to sin, but I cannot help you to die. If the cry comes tonight, are you ready? If Christ came to Peterboro tonight, what? An alarm at midnight is always wierd and thrilling. Death at any time is solemn, but more so at midnight. Death is always a surprise. Is your lamp in shape? Is it trimmed and burning? If he comes tonight can you say: "Even so, come Lord Jesus." You have the invitation, the lamp, the vessel, and God is ready to furnish the oil of His grace.

A DANGER SIGNAL—TENDER AND BLEEDING GUMS

Healthy teeth cannot live in diseased tissue. Gums tainted with Pyorrhea are dangerously diseased. For not only the teeth are affected, but Pyorrhea germs seep into the body, lower its vitality and cause many ills.

Pyorrhea begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisonous germs that breed in pockets about them.

Four out of five people over forty have this disease. But you need not have it. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection. And keep Pyorrhea away by using Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For The Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy, the teeth white and clean. If you have tender or bleeding gums, start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

"IT'S THE GREATEST EVER DISCOVERED"

MRS. NAPOLEON LONG DECLARES TANLAC HAS NO EQUAL—IS NOW ENJOYING SPLENDID HEALTH.

"After my experience with Tanlac I am ready to believe that it is the greatest medicine ever discovered," said Mrs. Napoleon Long of 1305 De Montigny Street, Montreal, recently.

"I was a terrible sufferer from indigestion," continued Mrs. Long. "After every meal my food would feel like a heavy stone in the pit of my stomach, and for about an hour I would have a persistent nervous cough. I was bilious, too, and my mouth was sore and my tongue was white, had scarcely any appetite and for more than a month lived chiefly on milk and water. I used to get very constipated, and had most frightful headaches that felt just as though someone was striking me on the temple with a hammer. I lost weight and got so weak that I had to spend entire days on a sofa.

"But I am so different now after taking four bottles of Tanlac. My appetite is remarkable and my digestion excellent. I no longer have that heavy feeling after meals, and the nervous coughing has ceased. I am not troubled with constipation any more and the headaches are a thing of the past. I enjoy restful sleep and get up in the morning feeling fine and dandy. I have recommended Tanlac to many of my neighbors and they too have taken it with splendid results."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

FAREWELL MESSAGE OF REV. A. J. THOMAS TO HIS CONGREGATION

BE TRUE TO CHRIST AND THEN TO THE CHURCH WAS HIS PARTING WORD AT GEORGE ST. CHURCH —MADE NEARLY 4,000 PASTORAL VISITS IN THREE YEARS.

SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED

Large congregations both morning and evening marked the farewell services of the pastor, Rev. A. J. Thomas at George Street Methodist Church yesterday. Mr. Thomas, who goes to St. James' Methodist Church, Montreal, will be greatly missed by the members and friends of George Street Church. For three years he has given unstintingly of his best, and the church has grown both in numbers and spirituality.

The Life of a Christian.

Mr. Thomas preached at both services. In the morning he discoursed on the theme, The Life of a Christian, taking his text from Hebrews 12, 1, 2: "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us." The life of a Christian is variously described in the Bible as warfare, sometimes as a pilgrimage. Here it is spoken of as a race, and is based on the historic facts of the Greek games, with which the writer knew his audience was familiar. Physical contests, races, jumping, etc., were popular, and the people came from all parts to witness them. The contestants, who trained hard for long periods, when winners were crowned with wreaths of laurel or olive leaves and public ovations given them. There is a ready appeal here for the Christian to run the race of life and win the prize of Jesus Christ.

The Christian Should Help.

The analogy should not be pressed too far. The aim of the Christian should not be to defeat an opponent or compete, but rather to help others. There is need of an intense struggle to win the prize offered by God, for it is not easy to be a Christian.

The Cloud of Witnesses.

The Grecian arenas were filled from the whole country, watching and criticising the games. The Christian is continually observed by his fellow men, some watching with sympathy and prayer and others with criticism. The text, however, does not refer to earthly people. "I am not by any means a spiritualist," said Mr. Thomas, "but I do believe that the loved ones who have passed before to glory look upon us, hoping we will win out."

Jesus, the Judge.

In the games there was one man who was the judge, who sanctioned the race, approved rules and regulations, and handed out prizes. There is one central figure in our Christian experience—Jesus Christ, the author of our faith, who has called us into the race and watches the struggle. Jesus is more than the judge in the Grecian games. He himself entered the lists, was enrolled as a runner, was disciplined, and carried off the prize. Jesus is a helper as well as a judge. The Grecian judge could not help; Jesus does.

The End of the Race.

Think of the finish of the race. As the wiry young Greeks crossed the line, there rose from thousands of spectators a mighty cheer. "Methinks," said Mr. Thomas, "as we finish our course and pass over the line, the hosts of heaven join in one chorus of praise."

At the evening service Mr. Thomas based his remarks on the first chapter of St. John's gospel, verse 29: "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." John the Baptist was a great man. He recognised the mission upon which he had been sent as the forerunner of Jesus Christ. He also saw the superiority of this matchless one of whom he was speaking. The centuries that have followed have been deeply indebted to John the Baptist for the wonderful statement contained in the text. "I believe," continued Mr. Thomas, "that we have in this text, in as clear and definite a way as it can be stated, the mission of the Christian Church. If the Church is not pointing to the Lamb of God, it is failing in the mission on which God has sent it. There is only one thing which saddens my heart is I leave this congregation, and that is that there are men and women with whom I have spoken, pleaded, and prayed who have not come to the Lamb of God. Why is it that some people are still under the power of sin? It is because their wills have resisted the offers of salvation. May God save you and save me from sin."

A Farewell Message.

In his farewell words to the congregation, Mr. Thomas stated that he wanted to thank everybody for their kindness—the officiary of the church, all the organisations, the choir, and especially Mr. Renwick. In speaking of the choir, Mr. Thomas said he could not wish for better co-operation, and that he had appreciated their willingness of spirit to the full. Mr. Thomas also expressed his thanks to all the members of the congregation for their loyal support. Between 3,000 and 4,000 pastoral calls were made by him during the past three years, yet he felt that he had not done all that he might have in his pastoral work. To his audience Mr. Thomas gave this parting message: "Whether a member of this church or any other, as a representative of the Gospel, I beseech you to be true to Christ first then to the Church. The Church is the greatest institution in the world to-day, and the world needs the influence of the Christian Church. The best investment you can make in your life is in connection with the work of God and the kingdom of your Lord."

VISIONS OF HUMAN STRATA IN AN AGRICULTURAL COMMUNITY

WHAT WAS SEEN IN AN AFTERNOON'S RUN THROUGH THE COUNTRYSIDE BEYOND "THE CITY," OUT WHERE THE BACKWASH COMES FROM THE FLOOD OF TRAFFIC TO AND FROM THE METROPOLIS.

Human life, with all its varying strata, is to be found in the countryside surrounding any great city. Through it one may travel and run the whole gamut from the shacks of workers crowded out from the central, high-priced land (out to the backwashes just beyond the great highways that lead into the centres of activity), to the fancy farms and country estates of the "plutes" for whom the workers grind away their days.

But it requires a local knowledge to unveil the scene, and see behind the exteriors (the part that is presented to the public view), and hides from vulgar eyes the genuine heart-throb of life.

In a brief run of some 30 miles not long ago, the stratified layers of rural society were visioned by the writer, and the veil was drawn from a pleasant countryside. Through it the uninitiated might have travelled and seen ordinary farm houses, a few shacks, a collection of bleak looking buildings set atop a bald slope—but he would never, never have found the lonely spot of beauty to which the hermit financier retires in loneliness. That could only be found by those who know the spot—and was not supposed to be found, one gathered.

* * *

The Youthful Heart.

Perhaps the starting point was the best point of all from which to start on any visioning trip—and a visioning trip this was! It was the comfortable home of a retired "farmer" (hopelessly futile term) crouched on the brow of a hill overlooking a beautiful rolling panorama of valley, and rill, and wood, and hills beyond. Shrubbery, and trees and flowers, and cheery home, all bespoke the fact that though the years had been long before retirement from active labors, the youthful heart had retained its sense of beauty, and the dull turning of the furrow had not buried the visions of a true man.

In fact, he was the pilot of the trip, and to him was due much of the "drawing of the veil" of the day.

* * *

Invisible Barriers.

Invisible barriers surrounded the first place of interest, and the jovial keepers inquired as to the length of sentence that had been meted out, and timid enquiries for bail drew the response that by that time hope for bail was left behind. The men were coming off work, but it was only to go to the bright, but confining rooms of the industrial farm, which was itself the fruits of a vision of a man zealous in prison reform. They were still in jail.

In one wing of the bleak building atop the bald hill was a group of indigents, too refractory for ordinary refuges of age and penury, who totter their declining days around, cared for, unable to leave, and content to remain. At the opposite end of the building were the young lads who had become confused in the journey, and early in their trip had taken a wrong turning, landing up in the south section of the building to undergo State correction.

Disgrace sat heavily upon them, and one young lad hung his head as he turned away from the curious visitors, and the guard explained that he had just been spanked for added misdemeanors. Such a spanking! A sort of shingle, administered before the appraising eye of the judge who gave the sentence and under the professional scrutiny of the institutional physician to see that no injurious effects to the lad's body followed.

The spiritual, too, has its attention there, and the whole lot gather for their Sunday services and their seasonal "festivities." Over the way another building shelters the hardened criminals and "dope fiends" who are not be trusted to the restraints of only the invisible barriers which surround the farm.

The fine kitchen, the luxurious barn, with a tile ceiling for the stable, and, steel equipment for the stock was on a substantial scale, as though the builders of the institution did not reckon on any millenium that would junk it within a decade or so.

A Bit of Altruism

A visit nearby to the thrifty farm woodlot of the pilot showed a crop of hardwood coming on where huge pines once had whistled in the breeze. Undergrowth now comes up among the trees, and the young saplings reach up to fill out gaps in the woodlot, untroubled by the cropping of young animals.

The rest of the farm has its immediate uses, but this section is devoted to coming generations, when the crop will be marketable. That is a forward-looking policy, which goes beyond the beams of to-day's sun.

And the owner is a man who has travelled far down the western slope of a useful life.

* * *

The "Joy Farmer."

"That was once the gold medal farm of this country," recalled the pilot, as we turned in the lane, and ran back to where some buildings were clustered in among full-grown trees. "And last year it produced 2,000 bushels of wheat, running 50 bushels to the acre."

Of course it did; but the buildings were rather run down, and even in the midst of remodelling, the house did not look any to charming or prosperous. Paint! The only color that was visible was the green of the trees, or the blue of the sky overhead.

Doubtless that will be altered, for, instead of dedication to agriculture and production, the farm has become the scene of "joy farming," and will produce polo ponies. Three breeds of cows, two dairy and one beef, were to be seen in the lane. But the "society man" from the great city will (possibly) get the place settled away into real productive lines in time, even if he is more at home behind the wheel of a speeding auto motor than the handles of the plodding plow. At any rate he is one of the great army of back-to-the-landers, who have visioned farming from the outside.

Small fruits and chickens! Back again from the great highway, the chicken farm has sprung up amid a sea of small fruits. In one of the buildings a huge artificial hen which will hatch well over 2,000 eggs in her steam-heated vitals! And cement floored chicken houses, with wire netting runs.

Another case of applied mathematics applied to poultry production. A hen eats so much feed, and lays so many eggs in a year. Eggs sell at so much a dozen—totale so and so—profits so much!

But it does not always run according to the rules of the game. Every day a lot of the chickens are thrown out in the refuse heap.

It is the scene of trying, faithful, detailed work, and which only yields success to the skilful and wise and industrious . .

* * *

The Daily Leader.

The road led on past fertile farms wrestled generations ago from the silent forest by a hardy race of men. And over the way are the substantial buildings of a leader in te dairy world. His cattle dot the hills with a pastoral harmony that is pleasing to see. And he trips in to town to participate in the milk producers' meetings, a solid man of the community. But driving past the door, one only sees a well-kept farm, and would never see in it the home of a man who walks away and is a man among men, whose opinion is valued, and whose influence is not confined to his line fences by any means.

One cannot see in field and fence the thoughts which drive the owner to heights of leadership and confidence—or leave him "common clay."

* * *

And the Hermitage of Wealth.

And finally back in on a quiet sideline one finds nestled in among the unpretentious hills a charming spot which resembles the dream of a poet, but reeks in the mathematical precision of the landscape gardner, and the sleek grooming of unlimited financial resources.

A dream of a place, a bit of heaven let down :one looks for children playing about in its beauty or young people drinking in the fresh air of God's out-of-doors. But there is not the footprints of a child in the gravelled walks, nor the flash of a maiden's dress in the shrubbery. In the shrine-like seats atop the bowing hills on either side of the man-made lagoon is nothing save perhaps a memory.

Before the door of the bungalow is a dusty motor car and inside the house a lonely man beset by dollars—but alone!

Forbidding signs shut out the wayward observer, and one gathers that within the fences is holy ground, on which the visitor must at least bare his head, if not remove his boots—and the god is Mammon; the gate posts are stately $—$. But the back platform of the house, made of lasting cement is cracked, just as it might be if it were your house or mine. And with a start one realizes that natural laws operate on the possessor of unconntable wealth, just as inexorably as on those who worry about their next meal.

The possession of great wealth will not arrest the great laws of nature.

* * *

And home again! There was the retired farmer; the prison with its humanitarian experiment; the joy farmer with his polo ponies. The chicken farmer with his theories and a bit of experience; there was the hard-working dairy farmer; there was the gilded cage whch somehow looked so lonely—and then best of all, the joy of coming home again.

And round and through it all was just the life of a comfortable, prosperous rural section, where hard work abounds, and where everyday things are common, everyday.

FIRST LACROSSE AT RIVERSIDE OSHAWA LOST AGAIN BY 3-2

PETERBORO TEAM PLAYED WELL AGAINST THE LAKE TOWN'S IN TERMEDIATES—DEFENSE WORK ON BOTH SIDES WAS A FEATURE

Good defence work by both teams accounted for the small score in Saturday's exhibition lacrosse match at Riverside, which Peterborough won from Oshawa's O.A.L.A. intermediates in the last few minutes of play by three goals to two. It was a fast, gruelling game, scrappy in spots, with flashes of splendid form reminiscent of the old days of the stalwarts. There were also intervals of looseness, partly due to the fact that both teams wore blue jerseys, and without distinguishing colours, the players occasionally passed to the opposing side. The crowd wasn't so large that the treasury was overloaded, but it was encouraging.

The teams were as follows:

Oshawa—Goal Nixon; point Curtin, cover-point Donald, 1st defence Tilton, 2nd defence Norman Irwin, centre Dick Irwin, 1st home Orville Banton, 2nd home Dan McDonald, outside home A. Ganton, inside home B. Cummings. Subs, Doherty, Robinson and Gilson.

Peterborough—Goal Scriver, point Dillon, cover-point Goodfellow, 1st defence Mein, 2nd defence Dunsford, centre Creighton, 1st home Tudhope, 2nd home L. McCoy, outside Todd, inside Lowes. Subs, H. Donovan, Browning, Lazure, Lawson.

Referee—Frank Larone.

Time-keepers— W.A. Coad, Oshawa, and Joe McCoy.

Penalty time-keeper—Dr. F. L. Henry, Oshawa.

Peterborough scored first, with Todd on the firing end of a combination started by Tudhope and McCoy.

Cummings made it even and before Tilton notched Oshawa's second with a ground shot from outside the defence, the Sutherland clan wasted three or four raids in succession, Lowes losing several chances after the ball had reached him at inside.

There were no goals in the second period. Creighton and Lowes, Harry Donovan and "Browning" taking their places. Browning got in several times but Nixon stopped his shots cleverly. An Oshawa attack gave Scriver a lively session and two hard shots.

"Lazure" and Creighton were the changes in the line at the opening of the second half, with Oshawa still leading by 2 to 1. Creighton got one fast shot away, but Nixon was getting them all. Tilton tried another grounder, but Scriver handled it easily. Lowes tied the score with an easy lob at close quarters that redeemed his previous attempts. The goal followed a pretty combination by Browning, McCoy and Todd.

Lazure took a high pass in front of the goal and flipped the ball into the nets apparently before his feet were back on the ground. It was a brilliant effort, but the goal was disallowed because some youngster had blown a whistle when the pass was made.

In checking Donald, Creighton was cut on the head and took the count. Dr. Sutton gave him first aid, but he was out for the rest of the game. It was an accidental blow, but the same Donald was credited with jolting a tooth out of Lowe's jaw in the first quarter. He also gave Todd a lively time throughout the game. Holding with his stick was so frequent that Referee Larone cautioned him, but Donald replied: "If you see me doing anything wrong why put me off," and he got away with it.

In the fourth quarter Doherty replaced Donald for Oshawa and Lawson took Browning's place. Lawson and Tudhope, two of the local youngsters, combined for the winning goal, which Tudhope scored after a fine play on a fast run through the defence. Oshawa rallied but Scriver shot dead on the nets, and Dillon blocked the last one.

CENTRAL LEAGUERS PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

A NINTH INNING WIN FOR PETES BEAT COBOURG 6 TO 5 SATURDAY

LOST THE EARLY LEAD BUT SQUEEZED OUT A VICTORY IN THE LAST SESSION AFTER A SCRAPPY GAME—MANAGER SOLOMON CHASED TO THE BENCH.

ON BELLEVILLE'S HEELS

The Petes placed themselves in a position to draw up on even terms with Belleville in the Central League race, and hung up their fourth straight victory on Saturday afternoon when they beat Cobourg in the Lakeshore town by 6 runs to 5, getting the winning counter in the ninth innings. As the score shows, the Petes had to fight every inch of the way to secure the decision, in spite of the fact that they set up an early lead of four runs, Cobourg, aided by mistakes on the part of the Solomon gang, both on the defence and on the attack, whittled down the lead until in the eighth innings the team were tied with five runs each. A pass to Adams, his theft of second, and Butler's miss of Harrison's grass cutter gave the Packers a ninth inning victory.

Howard Kirn drew the pitching assignment for the Peterborough outfit, and although his arm bothered him from the start, he got by in great style until the fifth, allowing Cobourg only three hits and an unearned run in the first four sessions. Drumm opened the fifth for Cobourg with a double to right, and although the next two were easy, Gordon came through with a double to left, scoring Drumm. When Kirn walked the next man, Manager Solomon decided to take no further chances, and sent Hap Harrison to the rescue. Ross going to first base. Harrison went in "cold," and had difficulty in locating the plate. Butler the first batter to face him, drew a pass, filling the bases, and the Cobourg crowd went wild, the cheering being redoubled when Phum slipped a single down the third base line, scoring Gordon. Fortunately for the Petes, Skitch got caught between third and home, and was tagged out, winding up the innings.

Harrison went along in good style for the balance of the game, and should not have been scored upon errors in the sixth and eighth, giving Cobourg an unearned counter in each of these sessions. The Petes' errors were unusually costly in Saturday's fixture, for each one of the four fielding misplays was responsible for a Cobourg counter, the run scored off Kirn in the fifth being the only earned tally registered by the losers. Harrison wound up the game in great style, fanning two out of the three batters who faced him in the ninth.

It was a scrappy battle, and every Peterborough player and fan was glad when it was all over. To tell the truth, the Petes played some far from smart baseball, making "bonehead" plays on the bases and in the field that came near being disastrous. All ball teams make errors—they are part of the game—but most of the Peterborough team have had enough experience in baseball, it would be imagined, to eliminate plays resembling the stuff of which piano keys are made. There were too many of these in Saturday's fixture, and they might have cost the ball game and the Central League race.

Harrison's roller went through Butler's legs in the ninth and the winning run came home.

Cobourg started McIntosh on the rubber, and he was as wild as the scenery in New Ontario in the two innings he worked, giving three bases on balls and slipping in a couple of wild pitches that were costly. Phum an individual who appeared to be as unknown in Cobourg as his name is strange, went to the slab in the third, and although he did not seem to have much stuff, the Petes did not fatten their batting averages much off his slants. The gentleman with the strange cognomen had a delivery of the hop, step, and jump variety, and Manager Solomon kicked strenuously at his being allowed to take two steps. So strenuously that he kicked himself out of the game in the seventh, Umpire Thomas, of Belleville, chasing him to the bench.

Both teams did some nice fielding, the feature play being Cherrett's grab of Butler's apparently safe hit over second. Skitch, the Cobourg second baseman, handled himself nicely, and Phum proved a star fielding pitcher, accepting nine chances in great style.

Umpire Thomas, of Belleville, who worked behind the plate, is impartial and fair in his work, but like many other arbitrators, he is a hard man on the pitchers. There are no corners on the plate when he is working, and the only way to get a called strike is to start the ball right down the groove.

Dick Turpin is still catching for Cobourg.

First Innings.

Peterborough—Cherrett singled to first and stole second. Adams flied to left. Cherrett went to third on a wild pitch. Harrison walked and stole second. Turpin missed one of McIntosh's slants and Cherrett scored, Harrison going to third. Swanston drew a pass and stole second. A wild pitch scored Harrison and moved Swanston to third. Murray flied to Burge in centre. Lowe rolled to Skitch. Two runs, one hit.

Cobourg—Skitch singled to centre. Butler lifted a fly to Holyman, who dropped it purposely in a try for a double play. Skitch, who held first, was out on the play, but Butler was safe. Butler was out stealing, Swanston to Holyman, a bad throw nicely handled by the second baseman. Phum hoisted one to Murray. One hit.

Second Innings.

Cobourg — Higginbotham flied to Lowe. Turpin lifted one to Holyman. Drumm died, Kirn to Harrison.

Third Innings.

Peterborough—With Phum pitching for Cobourg, Adams walked and stole second. Harrison rolled to Butler, Adams going to third. Phum threw Swanston out at first and Murray fanned.

Cobourg—Burge lined to Cherrett. Irwin singled to centre. Gordon fanned. Murphy got Skitch on his roller to third. One hit.

Fourth Innings.

Peterborough—Lowe beat out a hit to short and stole second, Corrin rolled to Phum. Holyman doubled down the third base line, scoring Lowe. Kirn rolled to Irwin, who threw high to first, Holyman scoring and Kirn going to second. Cherrett sacrificed the pitcher along to third. Adams was tossed out by Phum. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Cobourg—Butler singled to centre, and reached second, when Cherrett dropped Swanston's perfect throw to ston him stealing. Phum rolled to Holyman, who threw low to first. Butler scored on the play, sliding around Swanston at the plate. Higginbotham cracked a liner to Cherrett, who doubled Phum off first. Kirn tossed Turpin out. One run, one hit, two errors.

Fifth Innings.

Peterborough—Harrison singled to centre. Swanston beat out a hit to short. Harrison scored on a wild pitch. Murray beat out a bunt, Lowe also bunted safely, but Swanston was caught between third and home on the play. Corrin rolled to Skitch, who tagged Lowe on the line and doubled Corrin at first. One run, four hits.

Cobourg—Drumm doubled into the crowd in right field. Burge grounded to Harrison. Drumm going to third. Irwin fanned. Gordon doubled to left, scoring Drumm. Skitch walked. Harrison replaced Kirn on the rubber at this stage. Ross going to first base. Harrison passed Butler, the first man to face him. Phum singled past third, scoring Gordon. Skitch was caught between third and home, and tagged out by Harrison. Two runs, three hits.

Sixth Innings.

Peterborough—Holyman rolled to Irwin. Phum threw Ross out. Cherrett was safe on Skitch's bad throw, and stole second. Adams lifted a fly to to Turpin in trying to bunt. One error.

Cobourg — Higginbotham fanned. Turpin reached second when Adams dropped his high fly to left centre, colliding with Corrin. Sherry, running for Turpin, stole third. Drumm rolled to Ross, who threw to the plate instead of tagging first, and everybody was safe. Drumm stole second. Burge hit to Holyman and was out at first, Turpin, or rather his runner, scoring. Murray tossed out Irwin. One run, one hit, one error.

Seventh Innings.

Peterborough—Harrison hoisted to Butler. Phum grabbed Swanston's roller and got him at first. Murray's liner was captured by Gordon.

Cobourg—Gordon fanned. Skitch hoisted to Corrin. Cherrett went over behind second and grabbed Butler's grounder, cutting him out of a hit.

Eighth Innings.

Peterborough—Lowe lifted one to Butler. Corrin singled to centre. Holyman rolled to Phum. Ross drew a pass. Cherrett flied to Irwin. One hit.

Cobourg—Phum flied to Holyman. Higginbotham singled to right. Turpin hit safely to the same field, Lowe misjudging his high fly. Drumm beat out a bunt, filling the bases. McCarney replaced Lowe in right. Burge hit to Harrison, who got Higginbotham at the plate, but Ross dropped Swanston's throw to first that should have completed a double play, Turpin scoring. Irwin rolled to Ross and was out at first, Harrison covering. One run, three hits, one error.

Ninth Innings.

Peterborough—Adams walked and stole second. Harrison hit a grounder to Butler, who let it roll through, and Adams came home with what proved to be the winning run. Swanston lifted a fly to Skitch and Harrison was doubled off first, a raw decision, as Higginbotham was off the bag when he took the throw. Phum got Murray at first. One run, one error.

Cobourg—Gordon fanned. Murray got Skitch on a roller to third. Butler missed three.

TWO GREAT BALL GAMES FOR DOMINION DAY HAVE LOCAL FANS IN A FRENZY

The stage is all set for the biggest day's baseball happenings Peterborough has experienced since the palmy days of the Canadian League. And there is perhaps more excitement among the fans over the visit of the Belleville and Hillcrest teams on Thursday, July 1st, than there ever was in the professional article. With two games scheduled for one day, the baseball enthusiasts are in their glory and there will be two record crowds at Riverside on the holiday.

In the morning the most important game of the season will be staged, when the so far undefeated Belleville G.T.R. team, League leaders and champions of Ontario last year, will meet the Petes at 10.30 o'clock. A Peterborough victory will tie the teams for first place; on the other hand, a loss for the home crew will practically put them out of the race unless Belleville drop two games to some other Central League outfits, which is not very likely. Freddy Goyer, the crack Belleville southpaw will, of course, do the twirling for the G.T.R., while Manager Solomon has given no intimation of which one of his three twirlers, Harrison, Rose or Kirn, he will use. All three should be in good shape for Thursday's fixture. The game promises to be the battle of the season.

In the afternoon the famous Hillcrests, with Cannonball Ed. Scott and Duke Hennessy as their battery, will meet the Petes. Although only an exhibition affair it will be a real fight for Scott, chagrined at his defeats at the hands of the Petes in the Central League last year, is aching for a chance to show what he can do with the Hillcrests behind him and Henneasy doing the receiving. The Hillcrests expect to win the Ontario honors again this year and Thursday afternoon's game will give a good line on their chances.

Peterborough will be the mecca for baseball fans from all over Eastern Ontario on Thursday.

MACHINE GUNNERS FAILED TO APPEAR

AFTER WAITING HALF-AN-HOUR REFEREE DAY STARTED GAME—FROST SCORED ACCORDING TO RULE—TWO SCRUB TEAMS.

A very gratifying attendance of spectators turned up at the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday afternoon to witness the Caledonians and Machine Gunners in a Football League fixture. The Scotsmen were all ready for the game, but the Machine Gunners never made an appearance. Referee A. Day was the official referee, and after waiting a half an hour he started the game. Frost and James Shaw went down the field together, and each one telling the other to score, eventually the ball went to Frost who hit the cross bar with a hard shot, to get the rebound to give the Caledonians the points according to the football rules.

Two Scrub Teams.

Immediately thereafter two scrub teams were picked representing the Heavy Weights against the Average Weight. Alex. Dick and B. Hartshorn along with T. McArthur, put up a great defence against the lanky forwards. On one accasion James Shaw broke throuhg the defence, the great six footer jumped on the midget as he was about through the goal. Dick touched it to the side to go past and Jimmy Shaw bouncing off Dick like a small ball.

The Heavy Weights retaliated with T. McArthur leading the attack; he passed forward to Frost who carried the ball into goal to lift it high into the air. A brilliant run on the left by McDowall outwitted Dick; the full back tried to use his weight but the lanky fellow beat McFadden for first goal as Hartshorn arrived to check him. Linesman McKinley informed Referee P. D. Ryan it was over the cross bar (there was no cross bar on the posts) but the decision was final. Just before half-time the Average Weights added another. Bert Mason took Dick's position on resuming, and Alex. McArthur gave way to Fletcher from Havelock, who had come down to assist the Machine Gunners for the day. On a raid by the Average Weights, Frank McKinley got his on the poisoned eye with the ball, and this knocked him hors de combat.

The game was fast and furious during the second half, with Referee Ryan making a creditable debut but his offside decision did not please the players.

The teams:

CHINAMAN HOLDS BEAUTIFUL WHITE GIRL UNDER STRANGE SPELL

Weird Story of Oriental Mysticism and Treachery Revealed in "The River's End" by James Oliver Curwood.

There is a strange tale of Oriental mysticism in "The River's End," that will both startle and fascinate. This picture, from the book by James Oliver Curwood, author of „Back to God's Country," will be shown at the Allen Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Shan Tung, the Chinese, is a prince in disguise. Driven from his own country by political factions, he settles in Northwest Canada on the edge of civilization, where he keeps an opium den and traffics in vice.

And Shan Tung, because of his wealth is a power in the community. He falls in love with a beautiful white girl and demands that she marry him. She loaths him and is horrified. Yet he holds a strange spell over her and she apparently is powerless to cope with his will.

She appeals to an officer of the Royal Mounted to help her free herself from his influence, but she withholds some secret from him, evidently fearing to reveal it.

The Chinese is getting more and more of a hold on her when the officer of the police visits the den on Shan Tung's command. And Shan Tung openly demands that he be a party to the deliverance of the white girl to him.

But the officer is not the craven Shan Tung thought. There is a terrible battle in the opium den, which is finally set afire and burned. What happens to this officer and the white girl is something you will want to see.

A NINTH INNING WIN FOR PETES BEAT COBOURG 6 TO 5 SATURDAY

LOST THE EARLY LEAD BUT SQUEEZED OUT A VICTORY IN THE LAST SESSION AFTER A SCRAPPY GAME—MANAGER SOLOMON CHASED TO THE BENCH.

ON BELLEVILLE'S HEELS

The Petes placed themselves in a position to draw up on even terms with Belleville in the Central League race, and hung up their fourth straight victory on Saturday afternoon when they beat Cobourg in the Lakeshore town by 6 runs to 5, getting the winning counter in the ninth innings. As the score shows, the Petes had to fight every inch of the way to secure the decision, in spite of the fact that they set up an early lead of four runs. Cobourg, aided by mistakes on the part of the Solomon gang, both on the defence and on the attack, whittled down the lead until in the eighth innings the team were tied with five runs each. A pass to Adams, his theft of second, and Butler's miss of Harrison's grass cutter gave the Packers a ninth inning victory.

Howard Kirn drew the pitching assignment for the Peterborough outfit, and although his arm bothered him from the start, he got by in great style until the fifth, allowing Cobourg only three hits and an unearned run in the first four sessions. Drumm opened the fifth for Cobourg with a double to right, and although the next two were easy, Gordon came through with a double to left, scoring Drumm. When Kirn walked the next man, Manager Solomon decided to take no further chances, and sent Hap Harrison to the rescue, Ross going to first base. Harrison went in "cold," and had difficulty in locating the plate. Butler, the best batter to face him, drew a pass, filling the bases, and the Cobourg crowd went wild, the cheering being redoubled when Phum slipped a single down the third base line, scoring Gordon. Fortunately for the Petes, Skitch got caught between third and home, and was tagged out, winding up the innings.

Harrison went along in good style for the balance of the game, and should not have been scored upon errors in the sixth and eighth, giving Cobourg an unearned counter in each of these sessions. The Petes' errors were unusually costly in Saturday's fixture, for each one of the four fielding misplays was responsible for a Cobourg counter, the run scored off Kirn in the fifth being the only earned tally registered by the losers. Harrison wound up the game in great style, fanning two out of the three batters who faced him in the ninth.

It was a scrappy battle, and every Peterborough player and fan was glad when it was all over. To tell the truth, the Petes played some far from smart baseball, making "bonehead" plays on the bases and in the field that came near being disastrous. All ball teams make errors—they are part of the game—but most of the Peterborough team have had enough experience in baseball, it would be imagined, to eliminate plays resembling the stuff of which piano keys are made. There were too many of these in Saturday's fixture, and they might have cost the ball game and the Central League race.

Cobourg started McIntosh on the rubber, and he was as wild as the scenery in New Ontario in the two innings he worked, giving three bases on balls and slipping in a couple of wild pitches that were costly. Phum an individual who appeared to be as unknown in Cobourg as his name is strange, went to the slab in the third, and although he did not seem to have much stuff, the Petes did not fatten their batting averages much off his slants. The gentleman with the strange cognomen had a delivery of the hop, step, and jump variety, and Manager Solomon kicked strenuously at his being allowed to take two steps. So strenuously that he kicked himself out of the game in the seventh, Umpire Thomas, of Belleville, chasing him to the bench.

Both teams did some nice fielding, the feature play being Cherrett's grab of Butler's apparently safe hit over second. Skitch, the Cobourg second baseman, handled himself nicely, and Phum proved a star fielding pitcher, accepting nine chances in great style.

Umpire Thomas, of Belleville, who worked behind the plate, is impartial and fair in his work, but like many other arbitrators, he is a hard man on the pitchers. There are no corners on the plate when he is working, and the only way to get a called strike is to start the ball right down the groove.

First Innings.

Peterborough—Cherrett singled to first and stole second. Adams flied to left. Cherrett went to third on a wild pitch. Harrison walked and stole second. Turpin missed one of McIntosh's slants and Cherrett scored, Harrison going to third. Swanston drew a pass and stole second. A wild pitch scored Harrison and moved Swanston to third. Murray flied to Burge in centre. Lowe rolled to Skitch. Two runs, one hit.

Cobourg—Skitch singled to centre. Butler lifted a fly to Holyman, who dropped it purposely in a try for a double play. Skitch, who held first, was out on the play, but Butler was safe. Butler was out stealing, Swanston to Holyman, a bad throw nicely handled by the second baseman. Phum hoisted one to Murray. One hit.

Second Innings.

Cobourg — Higginbotham flied to Lowe. Turpin lifted one to Holyman. Drumm died, Kirn to Harrison.

Third Innings.

Peterborough—With Phum pitching for Cobourg, Adams walked and stole second. Harrison rolled to Butler, Adams going to third. Phum threw Swanston out at first and Murray fanned.

Cobourg—Burge lined to Cherrett. Irwin singled to centre. Gordon fanned. Murphy got Skitch on his roller to third. One hit.

Fourth Innings.

Peterboroug—Lowe beat out a hit to short and stole second. Corrin rolled to Phum. Holyman doubled down the third base line, scoring Lowe. Kirn rolled to Irwin, who threw high to first, Holyman scoring and Kirn going to second. Cherrett sacrificed the pitcher along to third. Adams was tossed out by Phum. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Cobourg—Butler singled to centre, and reached second, when Cherrett dropped Swanston's perfect throw to stop him stealing. Phum rolled to Holyman, who threw low to first. Butler scored on the play, sliding around Swanston at the plate. Higginbotham cracked a liner to Cherrett, who doubled Phum off first. Kirn tossed Turpin out. One run, one hit, two errors.

Fifth Innings.

Peterborough—Harrison singled to centre. Swanston beat out a hit to short. Harrison scored on a wild pitch. Murray beat out a bunt, Lowe also bunted safely, but Swanston was caught between third and home on the play. Corrin rolled to Skitch, who tagged Lowe on the line and doubled Corrin at first. One run, four hits.

Cobourg—Drumm doubled into the crowd in right field. Burge grounded to Harrison, Drumm going to third. Irwin fanned. Gordon doubled to left, scoring Drumm. Skitch walked. Harrison replaced Kirn on the rubber at this stage, Ross going to first base. Harrison passed Butler, the first man to face him. Phum singled past third, scoring Gordon. Skitch was caught between third and home, and tagged out by Harrison. Two runs, three hits.

Sixth Innings.

Peterborough—Holyman rolled to Irwin. Phum threw Ross out. Cherrett was safe on Skitch's bad throw, and stole second. Adams lifted a fly to to Turpin in trying to bunt. One error.

Cobourg — Higginbotham fanned. Turpin reached second when Adams dropped his high fly to left centre, colliding with Corrin. Sherry, running for Turpin, stole third. Drumm rolled to Ross, who threw to the plate instead of tagging first, and everybody was safe. Drumm stole second. Burge hit to Holyman and was out at first, Turpin, or rather his runner, scoring. Murray tossed out Irwin. One run, one hit, one error.

Seventh Innings.

Peterborough—Harrison hoisted to Butler. Phum grabbed Swanston's roller and got him at first. Murray's liner was captured by Gordon.

Cobourg—Gordon fanned. Skitch hoisted to Corrin. Cherrett went over behind second and grabbed Butler's grounder, cutting him out of a hit.

Eighth Innings.

Peterborough—Lowe lifted one to Butler. Corrin singled to centre. Holyman rolled to Phum. Ross drew a pass. Cherrett flied to Irwin. One hit.

Cobourg—Phum flied to Holyman. Higginbotham singled to right. Turpin hit safely to the same field, Lowe misjudging his high fly. Drumm beat out a bunt, filling the bases. McCarney replaced Lowe in right. Burge hit to Harrison, who got Higginbotham at the plate, but Ross dropped Swanston's throw to first that should have completed a double play, Turpin scoring. Irwin rolled to Ross and was out at first, Harrison covering. One run, three hits, one error.

Ninth Innings.

Peterborough—Adams walked and stole second. Harrison hit a grounder to Butler, who let it roll through, and Adams came home with what proved to be the winning run. Swanston lifted a fly to Skitch and Harrison was doubled off first, a raw decision, as Higginbotham was off the bag when he took the throw. Phum got Murray at first. One run, one error.

Cobourg—Gordon fanned. Murray got Skitch on a roller to third. Butler missed three.

TWO GREAT BALL GAMES FOR DOMINION DAY HAVE LOCAL FANS IN A FRENZY

The stage is all set for the biggest day's baseball happenings Peterborough has experienced since the palmy days of the Canadian League. And there is perhaps more excitement among the fans over the visit of the Belleville and Hillcrest teams on Thursday, July 1st than there ever was in the professional article. With two games scheduled for one day, the baseball enthusiasts are in their glory and there will be two record crowds at Riverside on the holiday.

In the morning the most important game of the season will be staged, when the so far undefeated Belleville G.T.R. team, League leaders and champions of Ontario last year, will meet the Petes at 10.30 o'clock. A Peterborough victory will tie the teams for first place; on the other hand, a loss for the home crew will practically put them out of the race unless Belleville drop two games to some other Central League outfits, which is not very likely. Freddy Goyer, the crack Belleville southpaw will, of course, do the twirling for the G.T.R., while Manager Solomon has given no intimation of which one of his three twirlers, Harrison, Rose or Kirn, he will use. All three should be in good shape for Thursday's fixture. The game promises to be the battle of the season.

In the afternoon the famous Hillcrests, with Cannonball Ed. Scott and Duke Hennessy as their battery, will meet the Petes. Although only an exhibition affair it will be a real fight for Scott, chagrined at his defeats at the hands of the Petes in the Central League last year, is aching for a chance to show what he can do with the Hillcrests behind him and Hennessy doing the receiving. The Hillcrests expect to win the Ontario honors again this year and Thursday afternoon's game will give a good line on their chances.

Peterborough will be the mecca for baseball fans from all over Eastern Ontario on Thursday.

REAL HEROINE NOT YET TEN YEAR'S OLD

PARIS.—In a little wooden shanty outside the old walls of Paris there lives a real heroine, not yet ten years old. This is her story: In 1918 her mother, the wife of a stone breaker, died from the effects of the explosion of a Big Bertha shell near their home and left the unfortunate husband with six children to bring up. The eldest was eight years old and the youngest seven months.

With so many little mouths to feed the man could not engage help, and there seemed no alternative but to send the children to a public orphanage. It was then that the heroic strain in the family showed itself. Having no dolls to play with, the eldest child—Louise Depuis is her name—took charge of the household. Night and morning she washed, dressed and cooked for her little brothers and sisters. Not only that, but she saw to it that the toddlers went regularly to school, where she went herself and took prizes.

For nearly two years she has brought up in perfect health and humble comfort her family of five. Her only anxiety has been to obtain a better house to live in, but houses when there are children in a family are difficult to find in Paris.

In it all she had no thought of reward, but reward has come. Some years ago Henri Fortin left money to found an annual prize for some act of heroism or devotion, and by unanimous consent that prize has this year been awarded to Louise. At the Trocadero yesterday with tears and laughter, she received it—for her the immense fortune of 500 francs—at the hands of the august and solemn members of the committee. She seemed scarcely to understand what all the fuss was about, but this morning she washed and dressed her family and took them to school with a lighter heart, for she had been able to give each of them an egg for breakfast.

California housewives are discussing the abolition of Sunday motor rides in order to conserve fuel for tractors, irrigation pumps and trucks.
